One note of regret was struck at the celebration of the third anniversary of the opening of the Chelsea Palace, and that was at the unfortunate absence, through illness, of the veteran manager, Mr. Edward Swanborough. In the latter's place Mr. J. Norman Berlin, the acting-manager, looked after the interests of the house and the audience with conspicuous ability. A distinct feature of the programme was provided by Mr. Angelo Asher, the talented musical director of the Chelsea Palace. Mr. Asher himself appeared on the stage, and played in excellent style a violin solo consisting of a fantasia on Irish melodies arranged by him. A pleasing performance was that of little Ray Phillips, a girl of fourteen, who gave an exquisite rendering of an Irish lyric, "Nora." Miss Phillips, who, by the way, is a protégé of Mr. Swanborough, also delighted the house with her step-dancing. Mr. Will Evans was as comical as ever with his 1910 Invasion, and Lieut. Albini appeared in his agreeable conjuring and illusion act. A youngster who made her début on the stage on this occasion was Little Alice, whose dancing spoke of considerable latent ability. Mr. Adderley Howard and his company presented the first scene of the sketch Nana, Miss Dolly Elsworthy's impersonation of the title-rôle being given with her accustomed vigour. Lytton and Bland treated the house to a lesson in love, in which the male woos his fair lady in a series of characterisations. Mr. Malcolm Scott came on as "the woman who knows," and everyone voted him a most ludicrously fantastic female. Miss Winifred Hare interpreted in her exquisite fashion some dainty English songs, and Mr. G. H. Elliott submitted an entertaining coon ditty. Miss Amba Austa was seen and admired in songs and dances, in which she had the assistance of a clever little coon; and the Bros. Brooks were extremely happy in their burlesque duets. Mr. Edward E. Ford caused much merriment by his facial contortionism, and Miss Daisy Jerome rendered in charming manner a character song. Mr. Gus Garrick provided some of his latest laughter-making business, and May Moore Duprez was heard to advantage in "Coax me" and her patter. Others who assisted were Tennyson and Wallis, Baby Betty, Terry and Bentley, Alix Lukos, Mabel Sinclair, MacGovan and MacGovan, Rose Hamilton, Spencer and Marks, Agnes Hanson, Frazer and Haley, and My Fancy.

THE LATE JOHN DEE HUMPHREYS.

The letter from Mr. Arthur Reeve, published in our columns recently, draws attention to the necessity for helping Mrs. Humphreys and her family. We strongly commend this most deserving case to the generosity of the showman world.

The many friends of the deceased, who was one of the founders of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, will, we are confident, now that they know the uregent necessity of the case, respond with readiness to this appeal.

During the whole course of a laborious and honourable career John Dee Humphreys was ever ready to assist his brother showmen. His open-handed generosity and unfailing kindness endeared him to a wide circle of friends and comrades in the circus and show world.

The object of the fund is to enable the widow and family to maintain their home until such time as the children are able to earn an income sufficient for that purpose.

MISS LELIA ROZE IN BRISTOL.

PRESENTATION AT THE EMPIRE.
SPEECH BY MISS LELIA ROZE.

It is some years since Miss Lelia Roze won signal popularity in successive Bristol pantomimes. Far too rarely has she appeared on the music hall stage in this city, and on those occasions the enthusiastic reception accorded her by crowded houses marked her as one of Bristol's favourite musical artists. It is not surprising, therefore, that an announcement made as late as yesterday afternoon by the enterprising management of the Empire Music Hall that Miss Roze would appear at the evening performances attracted large attendances.

In the course of the first performance last evening Mr. Fred Leighton, the resident-manager, went on the stage, and, after introducing Miss Roze, addressed the audience. He said he felt sure they would agree with him that for a lady to go to great personal inconvenience to come to Bristol that day and assist in the Charity Sports as Miss Roze had done deserved some recognition at their hands, as well as at his. (Hear, hear, and applause.) She was too well known in Bristol for him to say much about her, but as an old friend he might say how they looked upon her as the embodiment of success, of the progress of the profession, and as one who was upholding things bright and good. (Applause.) He asked Miss Roze to accept the gift of a bouquet of roses and his best thanks for the services she had rendered that day in the cause of charity. (Applause.)

The bouquet, which was exquisite in design and appearance, contained the word "Empire" displayed in roses of varied colours. The recipient, after thanking Mr. Leighton for the gift, plucked a rose and presented it to him. Addressing the audience, Miss Roze said she had not been among them there for a good many years, and since she was there last she might say she had travelled a good part of the world over. Although it was so long ago, she must say that she had never forgotten her old Bristolian friends. (Cheers.) She had been now in some of our largest cities—and hoped she had not appeared without the smallest success anywhere—but she had never met with a heartier reception in her life than she had from them. She had appeared on the old Empire stage before, and now it was very much improved, and indeed charming. She hoped to come back among them again. (Applause.)

Mr. Leighton said he would like to say that Miss Roze was expected to come there in about three weeks' time, when she would appear on that stage in her new scena. (Applause.)

Miss Lelia Roze was also present at the second performance.—Bristol Daily Mercury, May 10, 1906.

MISS VIOLET WILTON (Mrs. Frank Coyne), at one time a favourite comedienne on the variety stage, is running a successful millinery and costume business at Burlington House, Leeds, and at present she is very busy executing orders for the latest models from Paris and Berlin.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

Mr. Geo. White's spring holiday carnival is now in its fourth week at the show grounds, Torry, Aberdeen. The attractions include Mr. White's new electric racing motors and his touring empire of cinématography and vaudeville company, among which are the Royal Magical Jester, Mr. J. C. Oliver; Miss Minnie Leslie, the Scottish contralto; the Freeman Family; little Miss Fanny Newsome, international dancer; and Jolly Lewis (son of the famous Little Levite)). The side shows are Mlle. Jeanetta, queen of handcuffs; Mme. Herculine, strong woman; and Faulkner's modern exhibition. Mr. James White has the Venetian gondolas and tunnel railway; also on the grounds are Kay's galloping horses, Howard's steam swings, and the usual shooting galleries, swings, Emmas, Alpine railway, and a hundred and one minor attractions. Altogether the carnival can be pronounced a financial success.

The fairs ahead for next week are:—Felling and Kirkhampton on the 22nd; Bristol and Standish on the 23rd; Beverley, Bildesden, Blyth, Dorking, Kirkby Lonsdale, Loughborough, Mirfield Feast, Newbury, North Walsham, Orpington, Skipton Fair, and Wigan on the 24th; Cowes and Littlehampton on the 26th. In Scotland we have Berwick-on-Tweed and Inverness on the 25th, and, in Wales, Llanelly.

Birstall, near Leeds, keeps its Feast in the middle of May, and is always well supported by the best concerns on the Yorkshire Round, being within easy access of large towns like Leeds and Bradford. Good business rewards the efforts of Yorkshire showmen. The principal shows were—Harry Ashington's theatre of animated photography and marionettes, Testo's living pictures, and Kelso's variety empire. The machine list—always a big one at this feast—included Goldthorpe Marshall's motor-cars, T. Harniess' motors and swings, Corrigan's steam swings, and similar concerns by Blake, Bentley, and Rodney.

The minor novelties included throwing games, variety stalls, and all the fun of the fair by Houldsworth, Mitchell, Bassett, Slater, Corrigan, Jameson, Bentley, and Blake. Blake, the novelty king, introduced his new game "The Lairs." We are told that this machine is a variation of the old punching-machine, and that when the player strikes successfully he receives a novelty package. Birstall is the centre of a thriving industrial population, and has upwards of 7,000 inhabitants, is situated on the London and North-Western Railway, and is within two miles of the city of Leeds, whose busy workers throng the fairground by road and rail.

The great fair at Hereford brought in crowds of eager sightseers by the three great trunk lines serving this cathedral city—the North-Western Great Western, and the Midland. The fair itself has for its entertainment Baker's well-known circus and three high-class cinematograph theatres, Wadbrooke's electrograph, Jacob Studt's coliseum of varieties, and Mander's animated photography. The side shows included Prince Samouda with temple of magic, Reader with freak exhibits, and Professor Taylor's school of boxers. Jacob Studt exhibited two large machines—a motor-car set and the galloping-horse set; Henry Studt and Son exhibited their new motor-car machine, and Hill, steam horses and swings. The other fairground caterers with side shows and throwing games were Graham, North, Stanley, Stephens, and Butler.

Our Leicester correspondent writes:—Leicester May pleasure fair, which opened on Thursday, the 10th, and terminated on Tuesday, the 15th, has proved a source of enjoyment to thousands of pleasure-seekers. The standard of the exhibitions has been well maintained, and altogether the removal from the centre of the town to the Belgrave-road site on the Ross's-walk has not proved the disastrous affair that was at one time predicted by the busybodies, who used every endeavour to secure its abolishment. The lease has several more years to run, and Mr. Collins, of Walsall, is to be heartily congratulated on the enterprise he has displayed in securing so admirable a site.

Among the numerous attractions present were Sedgwick's wild-beast show, an excellent exhibition, in which the fearless tamer Lorenzo puts his lions through a smart performance in a perfectly cool and graceful manner, at the termination of which he is deservedly awarded rounds of applause. Other animal trainers who also elicit hearty appreciation are Mlle. Rosina (who does a serpentine dance in the den), Alfonzo, and Olga. The cinematograph exhibition of Mr. Kemp (a gentleman well known in Leicester, of which town he is a native), the front of whose show is a masterpiece of workmanship, was also well patronised. Other leading shows were Arthur Twigdon's cinematograph, a first visit of Hastings' prodigies, Professor Cullis's boxing exhibition, Williams's Continental exhibition, White's living novelty exhibition, and numerous others. The concerns of Messrs. J. and P. Collins provided endless amusement, and combined with the innumerable stalls, &c., the fair presented a most animated appearance, which bodes well for its future success.

Lord John Sanger and Sons, Ltd., paid a one-day visit to Shrewsbury on the 14th inst, and their fine shows afternoon and evening were attended by a vast concourse of people. The midday procession was interesting, and a notable feature was the excellent appearance of the wild beasts and well-cared-for horses. The performances were clever, and the tenting arrangements particularly smart. The chief items included "British Tars at Practice," a capital turn; the Fondants, musical and eccentric wire turn; scenes from the Boer War, by some finely-trained elephants; the jockey acts of M. Roberts; Pimpo's dogs; the Flying Airlees; Hoffmann's intelligent pony; a fine spectacle, entitled "Nero; or the Sports of Ancient Rome"; Miss Lina's riding on a beautiful horse; the Maro Troupe of acrobatic equestrians; and the clever driving of four horses by the "Courier of St. Petersburg." The efficient band was conducted by Mr. Clem. A. Lawrence.

Newark Fair, on May 14 and 15, was, as usual, crowded by the vast throng of visitors from this great agricultural district.

The shows were of the usual high-class order taking this Round, and included Farrer's electric coliseum, Proctor's up-to-date filmograph, Chrichton's animated photography, Harry Hughes with military tournament, athletes, and boxers, and the No. 2 concern, the novelty booth. Amongst the machines were Aspland's motor-cars, Holland's whirling the whirl, Baker's steam yachts, Richard's ships in the air, and Price's swings. Throwing games and novelty stalls in excellent variety were provided by Messrs. Young, James, Smith, Farrer, Price, Bishop, and local caterers.

Continuing our record of Shropshire Fairs, we have Much Wenlock, a town of under 3,000 inhabitants, with a station on the Great Western line, and in the heart of an agricultural district. The fair appears to be mainly in the hands of local showmen, the principal machine being Shepherd's gondolas, and its only show Wright's fine art gallery. Norry's juvenile horses and throwing games; Wright's Winchester range, rifle saloons, and cokernut sheets; and Reynolds' and Shepherd's park swings complete the story of the amusements of Much Wenlock Fair.

South country showmen will remember the vigorous defence of the old fair at Wooburn, and the great part taken in the defence of the fair by Mr. Councillor Williams. We have received from Mr. Williams a notice of the fair to the effect that the pleasure part of the fair was very large, the fair-green being entirely covered with vans and shows, which were well patronised on both days of the fair. The new fairground charges arranged by the Parish Council came into operation for the first time this year, and all seems to have gone off with the utmost satisfaction.

Hillingdon Fair, one of the few remaining old Charter fairs in Middlesex, was held on the 16th, and well patronised by large crowds of visitors from Uxbridge, Southall Green, and the adjacent villages. The principal attractions were William Beach's well-known aggregation of novelties, headed by his composite set—motors and galloping horses. Mr. Beach also provided swings, shooting gallery, and throwing games; and with him was associated Holloway, with miniature horses and other varieties.

Chertsey Fair attracted a great crowd of London showmen. The roundabouts were those of Manning, Gale, Andrews, and Thomas. The rifle saloons and bottle-smashers were provided by Messrs. Hewitt, Gilham, and Andrews. The big show was Purchase's menagerie, and the No. 2 concern the cinematograph; and with them was Professor Gilham, with boxing booth.

The fair at Clun was entirely in the hands of the local caterer, Farrell, of Chester, who provided galloping horses, flying ostriches, and high-fliers and swings. The shooting concerns were by Turner.

Showmen will do well to make a note of R. W. Paul's new cinematograph film, "The Visions of an Opium Smoker," a novel trick and mystic subject depicting the fantastic dreams of an European in a Chinese jaunt. As the European sinks into semi-consciousness under the influence of the drug the vision of an Indian girl appears, changing as he approaches her into a cigarette. Other ladies appear, and also change their form.

A Moorish palace is then revealed, a lady being seen at the window smoking a cigarette and throwing kisses to him. She lowers a rope-ladder, and the dreamer runs up it, appearing among the clouds surrounded by all kinds of cigarettes, cigars, and so forth which float in the air. He jumps on a large pipe which floats away with him, and as he flies through the air he encounters a large tobacco-jar bearing a grotesque face; the mouth slowly opens, and man and pipe disappear inside.

His next adventure is in the land of poppies, where the poppy queen presents him with great wealth. Taking the box of gold, he mounts the pipe and rides away, but loses his balance and falls through immense space in the air, landing in the bowl of the pipe. The concluding scene shows the ashes being knocked out on the tray, and the original opium den, in which the Chinaman is rousing the dreamer.

The textile trades at Rawtenstall have mutually agreed upon a change in the annual summer holidays. In place of the third week in August they will start on the fourth Saturday in July, and continue the whole of the following week.

Our readers will remember the big fight made by the organised showmen to save the old charter fair of Leicester town. The struggle was long and severe, but in the end the fair was saved, very largely owing to the persistence of the Brothers Collins, A. Twigdon, and other local showmen. The impossibility of retaining the old site of the fair in the Humberstone Gate was recognised, and by mutual arrangement between the Corporation and the showmen a new fairground away from the heart of the town was provided.

Our correspondent at the fair tells us that this year there has been a record attendance, the new ground being visited by more people than ever attended the old fairground in Humberstone Gate. At the head of the show list was Sedgewick's menagerie, and the cinematograph concerns were Kemp's palace and Twigdon's varieties, both of whom did record business. The minor concerns included Hasting's two ground booths and Harry Cullis with schoool of boxers.

The Collins' machines were, as usual, in great force and number, and included Patrick Collins with three large sets—the gondolas, the motors, and cockerells, John Collins with four abreast gallopers, and P. Collins, jun., with steam yachts. The other machines were Twigdon's switchback, Wilson's big wheel, and gem horses by Chaplain and Neal. A big array of shooting concerns, including Neal, Dobson, and others, with Winchester ranges, and Harris and Whyatt with rifle saloons. The throwing games and variety stalls were mainly provided by Powell Bros., Gran, Houldsworth, and Whyatt Bros.

We have an interesting note of Glossop Fair and its show novelties; these included Captain Tom Payne's bioscope, George Green's cinematograph, Walter Shaw's fine art gallery, Green's motor-cars, steam yachts and galloping horses by John Collins, Shaw's steam swings, J. Hibbert's Newmarket riders, and Leskie's big wheel. The minor novelties were swings by Hibbert, shooting concerns by Cornwell, and throwing games by Whatmore, Sutherland, and others.

Church Stretton kept its annual fair on the 14th, and large crowds of eager sightseers patronised the shows and other fairground novelties. Chipperfield's cinematograph and Wright's fine art exhibition were the principal shows; Marshall Hill's gondola set, Herbert's steam horses and highfliers, Gottheimer's galloping horses and park swings, Hill's steam yachts, Marshall's steam swings, and Turner's big boats; the Winchester ranges by Herbert, Turner, and Wright, who also exhibited rifle saloons, bottle batteries by Woolcroft and Kemp, throwing games by Cartwright, Taylor, Jameson, Humphries, Hopkins, and Herbert.

Cardick, the handcuff king, created a great sensation at this fair by the marvellous way in which he extricated himself from various manacles. After being secured by twenty-four pairs of handcuffs and two pairs of leg-irons, he was tied up in a sack and the cords sealed; it was from this extraordinary confinement that the handcuff king liberated himself.

Guild subscriptions: Per Mr. Mitchell, J. Dearden 5s., Mrs. Henshaw 5s.; per Mr. Ashington, H. Testo 5s., J. Joy 5s.

At Inkerrow are Messrs. C. Herbert and Son's roundabouts, park swings, shooting saloons, bottle battery, cokernut sheets, &c., and Sorrell's toy bazaars.

At Jennings' Alexandra Theatre, Evesham, this week the following plays have been performed, viz., The Gipsy Heir, Evesham Abbey in Ye Olden Times, Jealousy, The Colleen Bawn, The Steam Forge Hammer, and The Octoroon.

Coming events include a Foresters' fête at Flyford, Worcester on May 21; a fête at Offenham, Evesham on May 29; Evesham Regatta, Kidderminster sports, fête at Campden, sports at Studley, Foresters' fête at Worcester on June 4; a fête at Redditch on June 5; a flower show at Badsey, near Evesham, on July 26; Evesham sports on Aug. 6.

Mr. Gustave Roselle's Merry Zingaras have been giving some excellent performances at Alcester and Studley.

CONGLETON NEW FAIR GROUND.

Amongst the many hindrances to the development of the fair ground business, it is exceedingly pleasant to notice from time to time the development of a progressive and sound business policy on the part of corporations and public bodies. An instance of this is to hand this week, in the account forwarded to us by Mr. Hurst (the secretary of the Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union and the Showmen's Guild) of the new fair ground, Congleton, Cheshire.

The ancient fair rights of Congleton are contained in a charter granted by Henry VI. The charter reads as follows:—"By charter dated at Gloucester, 1430, the King concedes, and gives his licence that there shall be an annual fair in the town of Congleton, namely, in the vigil and feast of the Apostles Philip and James, and on the morrow of the feast, besides the one other fair held there at the feast of St. Martin in the winter. These being witnesses:—The Venerable Fathers John, Archbishop of Canterbury, &c., Chancellor H. Winton, our Brother, and H. Sarum, our treasurer, Edward Duke of York, John Earl of Somerset, and others."

The first-named fair, now held on May 12, for the sale of horses and cattle, is the principal one of the year, and the only one recognised as a pleasure fair, which is kept up for three or four days. For many years the pleasure fair had been held in West Field, behind St. James's Church, the ground being taken by one showman, and then sublet to many others. The horse and cattle fair has been held on Swan Bank and in West Street also for many years, and still continues to be held there, but a change is to be made this year in the pleasure fair, which will be transferred to a new ground off Market Street.

The land has been purchased from the Lord of the Manor (Sir Walter Shakerley) for £550, and is three acres in extent. In order to make it a suitable fair ground it has been taken in hand by the town authorities, and thoroughly drained and levelled. It is admirably situated for its purpose, and has easy access from the High-street, Market-street, Norton-street, and other converging thoroughfares.

The land being slightly on the incline, the borough surveyor has arranged a series of terraces for the use of the roundabouts, so that they will be made absolutely safe, every convenience and arrangement for the comfort of the van-dwellers has been provided, and, although the closing of the old fair ground in Westfield will occasion loss of business to the tradesmen in that locality, it is confidently expected that the town itself will greatly benefit by the up-to-date enterprise of the authorities, and the greater facilities that the new ground affords for the amusements of the people.

The order and arrangement of the fair is entirely in the hands of Mr. Bursiam, borough surveyor. The chief entrance from Market-street will be kept quite clear, no stalls being allowed in the street proper. "Cheap jacks" will not be allowed on the new ground and its approaches, but must confine their energies to the horse and cattle fair. The pleasure fair will form a square, the main entrance to which will be on the right of Market-street, the first space being reserved for agricultural implements and photographic booths, the left side, with its back to Market-street, and the Drill Hall, will be allocated to throwing games and varieties. At the bottom of the ground will be the principal exhibitions, consisting of Relph and Pedley's cinématograph, Clark's coliseum, Proctor's circus, and Style's and Gould's home of mystery.

Continuing round the ground on the side nearest to Eaton Bank, there will be cokernut sheets, Harrington's football game, minor attractions, and the children's corner—a special feature of this fair, where, removed from the crowding of the larger machines, will be found gem or miniature hobby-horses, gem swings, overboats, and revolving wheel, with toy stalls and other children's delights. In the centre of the ground, four large roundabout machines will be erected on the terraces, Mr. Edmund Holland (an old native of the town), with set of flying horses: Mr. John Whiting, so well-known at Congleton Fair for years past, with Venetian gondolas; Mr. T. Hurst, with racing cockerels; and Relph and Pedley's whirling the whirl.

Amongst the caterers of fair-ground novelties, stall-holders, &c., well known at this fair, we must name Mr. Robert Dixon, Mrs. Mulherne, and Messrs. Rowley, Norman, Marsden, Harrington, Massey, Barker, Sedgewick, Jewell, and Dillon.

The United States of America Life Motion Pictures and Variety Confederation are paying a visit to the Public Hall, Redditch, this week.

An invention of an invaluable kind has been perfected by Mr. George R. Beaumont, late manager of the Alhambra, Sheffield, and now of Bournemouth. It is called the Solar Kinematographe, and is an instrument which allows sufficient daylight to pass through its optical system and the photographic ribbon to display a moving scene clearly on a screen placed in the shade in broad daylight. The machine can also be used indoors at night with an artificial illuminant. Patents have been applied for.

Maidstone Fair was visited by thousands of people during the annual May Fair. The principal concerns on the ground were Sir James Pettigrove and Sons' switchback, and galloping horses, with a host of fair novelties, the American Bioscope and Theatre of Varieties, Nicholas, the strong man, Mlle. Estelle's Troupe of Lady Wrestlers, Adam's Assault-at-Arms and Athletic Exhibition, and Mlle. Amelia, Barnum's Beauty. The grounds were under the management of the sole lessee for many years, Sir James Pettigrove.

PARAGON ANNIVERSARY.

The Paragon Theatre of Varieties has attained its majority, and to celebrate this coming of age a special programme was arranged on Thursday night. Flags, bunting, electric, and other decorations, inside and outside the theatre, made it apparent that something unusual was happening, and it seems hardly necessary to say that the house was packed from floor to ceiling. Among well-known professional people present were Mr. George Adney Payne, Mr. Fred Miller, Mr. Frank Weeks, Mr. C. Meggy, Mr. H. H. Wells, Mr. Horace Marriott, Mr. Walter Gibbons, Mr. Charles Beecham, Mr. Worland S. Wheeler, Mr. Tom Pacey, Mr. Fred Higham, Mr. Fred Reeves, Mr. A. A. Simmons, and Mr. Edgar Granville.

Later in the evening Mr. Fred Miller appeared on the stage and made a short speech. "I trust," he said, "that many of you will still rally round the old place, and support it in the way you have done in the past. I only regret that our managing-director, Mr. George Adney Payne, has been called away rather hastily to-night, otherwise he would have appeared before you and thanked you for your presence here this evening. I am quite sure by the souvenir that has been issued that you will be able to gain all the information you would like to know concerning the Paragon's history from its inception. Of course, very great things are happening all around us in the variety world at the present moment, and I assure you that it is only by the strenuous efforts of Mr. Payne and his directors that we are able to cope with the tremendous competition. But I may tell you that, in spite of the opposition, the Paragon has gained prestige against all comers in the variety world. I thank you for your kind indulgence to-night, and for the appreciation you have shown towards the artists, on whose behalf let me express gratitude."

Probably the principal feature in the programme was item No. 23, described as "George Robey (of Millwall and elsewhere) v. Yukio Tani (the famous Japanese wrestler), on this occasion only, in a great wrestling match." For once Yukio Tani was beaten, and George Robey is now the "champion" after a stiff contest lasting, the timekeeper told us, five hours thirty-six minutes. The match can be better imagined than described. The audience simply shrieked with laughter the whole time. Then we had Mr. Robey again as the comical, talkative beadle, and very comical he was, too. King and Benson gave their amusing singing and dancing act; Miss Arabella Allen interested the house with her Dickens impersonations; Mr. G. H. Elliott provided a delightful entertainment with his coon business; Yukio Tani again appeared in a—this time serious—wrestling match, and came out victorious; A Bo-Kou showed what a smart juggler he was; Mr. W. Poluski, jun., had an amusing parody on "My Irish Molly"; Miss Rose Pareezer was heard to advantage in "Dear Heart"; and others who assisted in the general merry-making were Margaret Ashton, Clark and Hamilton, Nat Clifford, Doyle and Nasse, Duncan's collies, James Fawn, the Gotham Quartette, Winifred Hare, Chas. King, the Korries, Lily Lena, Victoria Monks, The Battle of the Belles by Moule and Nicholl's company, Pete and Juno, Poluski Bros., Ruffell's bioscope, Bijou Russell, the Sandwinas, Sanford and Lyons, Spry and Austin, Harry Tate's company in Motoring, Tennyson and Wallis, Terry and Bentley, and Charles Vincent.

The pleasing floral display was arranged by Mr. Samuel Joseph, of Charing Cross Station, and Mr. A. T. Earnshaw attended in his capable manner to the special electric light effects. Every member of the audience was presented with an artistically got-up souvenir, dealing with the history of the Paragon, and containing portraits of well-known gentlemen who have been and who now are associated with the house.

VESTA TILLEY IN NEW YORK.

Vesta Tilley's salary during her present American engagement—the fourth of a series—has "astonished the natives," which is saying a good deal in a land where salaries run high as well as skyscrapers. The bills on which the announcement is made that Vesta Tilley is to receive "ten dollars a minute" are appropriately large, and they strike the eye very frequently in the neighbourhood of the Colonial Music Hall, which, be it remarked, is "up-town" in New York, and is very far from being thinly populated. Those who stood in the lobby of this popular theatre on the opening night of Vesta Tilley's engagement and saw the crowd of people that were unable to obtain admission had this fact brought home to them in a forcible manner, and the wonderful results achieved by the triple combination of a big attraction, a big salary, and a big poster were sufficiently demonstrated. What with the carriages, the flowers, the handsome gowns, and the blaze of diamonds, and other evidences of wealth and luxury that marked this for a different audience from those usually seen at the vaudeville houses, one was almost tempted to rub one's eyes and wonder if this were not the first night of the season at the Metropolitan Opera House.

It is safe to say that there were a great many people in that brilliant audience who had come to see Vesta Tilley, and were not particularly interested in the other features of an excellent programme. When their patience was rewarded, and the "London Idol" stood before them, they uncorked their enthusiasm and gave her a reception that she will long remember. Then everyone settled down to hear those delightful songs and study the inimitable expression and grace of movement of this wonderful artist. A leading newspaper says that "Vesta Tilley wears men's clothes more gracefully than most men," and that sums it up exactly. Some of the songs were new and some of them were old, and, as usual, the latter were the more popular, those old favourites, "The Seaside Sultan" and "Following in Father's Footsteps" being applauded as heartily as ever. To say that Vesta Tilley sang "Algy" is an entirely superfluous piece of information. If she retired without singing it I believe that half the audience would want its money back. Moreover, this audience was mindful of its responsibilities. It was distinctly stated in the bills that the amount which Vesta Tilley would receive as her weekly salary, being calculated according to the length of time she occupied the stage, "would depend on the number of encores she received." Perhaps this was a little misleading, and buoyed up the audience with false hopes, for if Vesta Tilley had responded to all the encores that she would have undoubtedly "received" if the would-be donors had been given the opportunity, she would have sung herself hoarse and ruined the management. Suffice it to say, then, that the audience did its best for her and its worst for the treasury, and doubtless everyone was satisfied.

THE PALACE.

Mr. Alfred Butt has been to America, and has secured for the Palace Theatre entertainments Miss Rose Stahl. This engagement by itself was worth the voyage, for Miss Stahl should certainly be the sensation of the London season, and we shall be much surprised if Society does not crowd the fine house in Shaftesbury-avenue more than ever to see her in The Chorus Lady, a one-act comedy of stage-life that has served as a vehicle to display her rare gifts in every vaudeville theatre of importance in the States. She is what the old playgoer would term Robsonian in her methods—that is, she is comic and tragic by turns. Miss Stahl is the heroine of the playlet mentioned, by name Patricia O'Brien, with the accent on the last syllable, but familiarly known as "Pat" in the Royal English Opera House—why English Opera House, Mr. Butt, when the piece is Yankee in its "atmosphere," every line of it? To Pat's dressing-room comes the Hon. Mrs. Frederick Montague, who, in her infatuation for the leading tenor, De Lara, has even gone so far as to secure the good offices of a friendly property man in order to go on as one of the chorus, so that she may be near the object of her adoration. Pat is introduced to her unlooked-for visitor, and not only entertains her during the process of make-up with stories of wonderful bargains in coiffures, blouses, hats, and skirts, but rouses her curiosity by retailing some of the tattle of the theatre. Mrs. Montague learns that her passion is flouted and sneered at by De Lara, who is "kinder stuck" on Pat, and sends her the flowers that are lavished on him by his inamorata. Suddenly the voice of De Lara is heard at the door of the dressing-room. He has brought a bouquet for Mlle. O'Brien; and Pat in triumph throws into Mrs. Montague's lap the very roses that an hour before she herself had sent to the tenor. The conscience-stricken woman, inflamed with jealousy, breaks out into an exclamation that reveals the whole situation to Pat. The warm-hearted girl is unreproachful and sympathetic. Kneeling to her, she urges the wife and mother to go back to husband and child. The advice is taken; and Mrs. Montague returns to love and duty.

Miss Stahl is a positive genius, and acts throughout with surprising freshness and unconventionality. Her vehemenco—accentuated by unnecessarily strident tones in her opening speech before entrance—is her only concession to the conventions of the theatre; but it strikes a false note, in a double sense, and this is quite a mistake in a "chorus lady." After this opening outburst, however, we begin to enjoy Miss Stahl's acting. She prattles humorously, engagingly, and without the slightest striving after effect, of Pat's ambitions and disappointments; and she makes us readily understand that the unfortunate person who offended Miss O'Brien, the "dead straight chorus girl," would experience a very warm time indeed. But Pat has her softer moods, and when in gentle tremulous tones the painted and powdered chorus girl points out the path of duty to the frivolous and fashionable society women, and pleads for husband and child, Miss Stahl's triumph is complete. Mr. Jack Denton gives excellent support as Tommy Noonan, and Miss Elma Morris is highly capable as the Hon. Mrs. Frederick Montague. Miss Stahl was very heartily received on the night of our visit, and at the conclusion of the playlet the curtain was raised several times.

Another new American turn making a first appearance on Monday was "Eltinge," who, it was anticipated, would create a sensation. Though preliminary puffs surrounded his turn with an air of mystery, there is really nothing mysterious about him. With an effeminate face and an adaptable figure, he wears the short skirts and evening bodice of the soubrette of musical comedy with considerable grace, and without a trace of vulgarity. He is decidedly clever, and has quite an air of dainty coquetry both in song and dance. Female impersonators in this country scarcely ever reach the first rank as artists, but Eltinge is certainly entitled to do so. Will Rogers, the cowboy lassoist, brings something of the wild, breezy life of the prairies across the footlights in his act, which is quite unique in its way. He loops his mounted quarry—another Texan, apparently—quite easily, and then leashes both horse and rider with a double throw. He whirls the cord round himself with such wonderful regularity that it has the appearance of the framework of a crinoline. It is a remarkable show, and is not likely to have imitators.

Les Trombettas, Italian artists, who are on a return visit to Shaftesbury-avenue, present a series of most amusing impersonations; and it says much for the comicality of these creations that they are heartily laughed at, even though the language used is understood by only a few among the audience. The lady is chic and attractive, and the gentleman has a fund of business that is essentially droll. Miss Nina Gordon, who plays her own accompaniments at a grand piano, gives impersonations that make a more direct appeal to the Cockney mind, as she mostly chooses the stars of the variety stage for her subjects, an exception being, however, made in favour of Miss Connie Ediss, who is represented singing a well-known number from The Spring Chicken. Mr. Gus Elen, Miss Vesta Victoria, and Mr. Harry Lauder are other popular people of whom Miss Gordon gives imitations, the peculiarities of the last-mentioned Scotch comedian being so successfully delineated on the night of our visit that the lady at the piano added Lauder's famous song "Stop yer ticklin', Jock." Miss Daisy Jerome has developed considerably her gift of comedy since we last saw her, but must beware of grimacing. She strikes the pathetic note in her recitation as a wastrel who is watching a rich crowd dining in Park-lane. Mr. Frank Lynne, who has just returned from America, has a quaint "history" song that already possesses some most amusing verses, and that should work up into a positive triumph for the comedian. Fräulein Hansl Schön, an accomplished and brilliant vocalist, sings with considerable charm of style "Maria, Mari," by Di Capua, and also shows rare command of technique in a vocal mazurka. Miss Jennie Johns has an attractive number in the story of the maiden and the curate; and Miss Ethel Negretti, comedienne, is fascinating. Mr. Louis Bradfield could not make much of the song "The lady chauffeur," even with a winsome chorus of lady chauffeuses. Other turns include Fred Frampton, burlesque entertainer; Carola Jordan, an accomplished trapeze artist; De Gracia's elephants, who play cricket with pachydermatous pertinacity; and the Bioscope. Mr. Herman Finck ably conducts selections of music, which are always an attraction at the Palace. Mr. Alfred Butt, who is looking very fit after his trip across the "pond," may be congratulated on an excellent bill.

Ever studying the convenience of their patrons, the Charles Urban Trading Co., Ltd., have opened a branch office, with a full stock of their latest films and instruments in Manchester-chambers, 46, Market-street, Manchester. The establishment of this branch will enable many showmen operating in the Northern counties to personally select the latest film productions by seeing them exhibited on the Bioscope in the rooms of this enterprising firm. Mr. John G. Avery, who has been associated with Mr. Urban for many years, has charge of the Manchester branch, and will take delight in showing the many latest urban wonders, which can be thus secured with much saving of time and expense.

Mr. Arthur Whittaker has been engaged by Mrs. Patrick Campbell as her general-manager during her season at the Criterion.

CARL HERTZ IN SAN FRANCISCO.

SIR,—Having received a cable informing me of my father's severe illness in San Francisco, accompanied by my wife I sailed on April 7 on the ss. St. Paul for New York, where I arrived on April 15, after a very stormy passage. We stopped in New York till Tuesday afternoon, April 17, and then took the train for San Francisco viâ Chicago, where we arrived at 4 p.m. the next day, and had a few hours to wait. Going into the town, the news of the earthquake at 'Frisco first reached us, the newsboys shouting the terrible news. You can imagine my feelings, as all my sisters and relations live there as well as my father. The first report said that nearly the whole town was destroyed by earthquake, and what was not destroyed by earthquake was destroyed by fire. I sent telegram after telegram, but could get no reply from my people, so at last we took the train and started for San Francisco.

All along the line the reports of the calamity grew more serious, and the anxiety and suspense of those four days in the train from Chicago to San Francisco I shall never forget. At last we arrived in Oakland on the Saturday. That was as far as the authorities would allow passengers to go. Oakland is across the bay, from 'Frisco about seven miles. We tried to get a room in Oakland, but this was impossible, as every hotel and house in the place was full; even the churches, halls, shops, and every conceivable place were fixed up with cots to accommodate the refugees from the doomed city, as 150,000 flocked over to Oakland to save themselves when the fire broke out. People were sleeping in tents, on the grass, in tram cars, and the get-ups of some were so comical you could not help but laugh, even under the sad circumstances. Imagine women walking about with overcoats and top hats, or anything they could get hold of! As the earthquake and fire happened at five in the morning, when everybody was asleep, people had no time to dress, but took the first thing they could and rushed out of their houses to save themselves.

I obtained a special pass from the Chief of Police to go over to San Francisco, which I reached on Sunday morning (April 22), and commenced the search for my people. I shall never forget the sight I gazed on when I got in San Francisco as long as I live—the fire still blazing, and not a building standing for ten square miles. I walked over acres of bricks and stones to try and get to the district where I knew my people had lived. All along the route I took were brick walls cracked and fallen. I passed the collapsed Majestic Theatre, the finest San Francisco had. The streets strewn with masonry, the lips of the cable car slot jammed together, and the billows in the pavement, showing where the ground had lifted and fallen, told the story of destruction. I had to pick my way, avoiding the dangerous proximity of the buildings, which intensified the sense of strangeness and calamity. At last I reached that portion of the city that had been saved. All the people here were huddled in the front of their houses afraid and chattering, their nerves unstrung. Men started at the mere rumble of a wagon, and showed in haggard faces what they had gone through. When the earthquake and fire occurred thousands were in a panic to get somewhere—anywhere! Some carried blankets, others pillows. Women with bird cages, dogs, parrots, and bundles slung over their backs; some were dragging trunks after them; some pulled sewing machines. Hatless and scantily dressed, they watched with burning eyes the blazing mass that was once a great city. Husbands became separated from wives; mothers from their children; old people were left to take care of themselves. The Militia, police, and troops issued orders, and every man was compelled to help and assist, and anyone who refused was shot on the spot.

The loss is something terrible. Men who were millionaires the day before were penniless to-day; the poor man with a roof over his head was rich. After walking six hours I reached the house where my people lived and found them all safe, thank God! They had a terrible time, having only returned to the house after being out on the hills for three nights in the open, the police having ordered them to leave on account of the close proximity of the fire, which stopped within two streets of their house. When the danger was over they returned. Luckily they lost nothing by the fire, but the walls and plastering and every bit of glass and china ware in the house were broken by the earthquake. My father, who was so ill, had to be put on a stretcher and carried from one street to another as the fire got nearer. At last he was taken out of the city limits for safety and put under a tent for three nights, and then brought back home, where he now lies in a precarious condition. Altogether this has been an experience that I never want to see again, and one I shall never forget.—Yours faithfully,

CARL HERTZ.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR.

Your book will, I am sure, be a valuable aid to all managers and actors.—SIR HENRY IRVING.

Mr. Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News

Should be found very useful.—Pelican.

Should prove perfectly invaluable.—Weekly Sun.

Contains in a handy compass and in a clear style the law relating to theatres and music halls. The book is well up to date.—Law Times.

Furnishes useful information.—Daily News.

The work succeeds in making plain the thorny legal path that every manager and artist must tread, and by a timely consultation of its pages they may avoid much misapprehension and trouble.—Star.

TO-DAY (Saturday) will witness the initial performance in the grounds of the Alexandra Palace, of the troupe of al fresco entertainers known as Dave Hall's Geisha Boys, and the octet—which includes Mr. J. W. Ellison, Mr. Dick Sutherd, and Mr. Will Powell, the well-known dancer, who narrowly escaped winning the championship at Bow—will specially feature, in common with very many other troupes, Mr. Tom Leo's comic song "Too lazy to live," just published in music form by Mr. David Day. The song will be issued as a "Sixpenny Pop" on June 1. Mr. Dave Hall will also run a similar entertainment at Ramsgate during the season.

MRS. PHILLIPS, a dressmaker, sued John Patterson, whose stage name is Professor Duncan, at the Bow County Court last week for £100 damages on the ground that when she visited defendant's house one of his performing dogs, a Scotch collie, bit her hand. The defence was that the dog, which rescues a baby on the stage, was of a most docile description. It had appeared at Buckingham Palace, where the Queen patted it and the young Princes made a great fuss of it. Judge Smyly, K.C., ordered a non-suit, but granted leave to appeal.

JESSE BRADBURN and his wife, Mary Jane, of Claremont-street, Salford, sued the Regent Theatre and Assembly Rooms, Ltd., at the Salford County Court, on Tuesday, for £75 damages for a broken ankle, sustained by the female plaintiff. Judge Parry said he thought the mishap was due to Mrs. Bradburn's carelessness. It seemed to him she ought to have waited for the lights being turned up in the gallery. If she moved about in the darkness she did so at her own risk. He accordingly found for the defendants, who made no application for costs.

WANTED, Known, that Mr. J. Wentworth, of London, Managing-Director in England for Messrs. Ch. Marenghi et Cie., Organ Builders, of Paris, has just completed the erection of another splendid Ideal Orchestra, specially built for Messrs. Anderton and Rowland, of the West.

The noble Work of Art was opened for the first time at Exeter for the Easter Holidays on a large field belonging to General Buller, and of course the concern was well patronised by the better class of the West of England.

Once again this proved that with a good tool easy and good work can be done.

Mr. Wentworth will also erect another additional carved front to the concern of Messrs. Wm. Haggai and Son, of South Wales. The future lot is to be completed within a few days, and it will certainly bear the inspection and criticism of all the public in general, as this will be the only uniform concern in England at present.

Mr. Wentworth also wishes to inform his customers that on account of rapid success of his firm he has been obliged to secure another building, adjoining the Agricultural Hall. The second place is now undergoing alterations, and will most likely be open in a month, where Messrs. Ch. Marenghi et Cie's. capable men will be able to do anything in the way of organ repairing, &c.

Remember, Mr. J. Wentworth's address is always 29, Gibson-square, Islington, London, N. He has come to stay.

Mr. ALBERT HENGLER, writing from the HIPPODROME, GLASGOW, says:—
MY ADVERTISEMENT IN THE LAST ISSUE OF YOUR PAPER BROUGHT ME CLOSE ON 500 REPLIES.

AN EXCELLENT RESULT.

Particulars of THE PUBLISHER,
"THE ERA" BUILDINGS,
5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C
(Two Doors off Wellington-street).

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906. "The Era" Almanack and Annual ("Era" Office, 1s.), a copy of which lies before me, is an invaluable publication for those who wish to have stage records by them. It contains a dramatic and musical calendar, lists of new plays and important revivals produced at the London and suburban theatres during 1905, and also of plays produced in the provinces. Further, we have lists of the new plays and revivals produced at the principal Paris and Berlin theatres. "The Era" Almanack has been regularly issued since 1868, when is was compiled by Edward Laman Blanchard, a comedian whose fascinating life was recorded by Clement Scott. The Almanack closes with an illustrated list of those members of the profession who died during the course of last year, headed, naturally, by Henry Irving. Amongst the other names are those of William Rignold, Frank Celli, Ada Neilson, and Minnie Mario. There is an added pathos in the deaths of those who were so long bodily before the public, and the ringing down of the last curtain seems to have added significance.—T. P.'s Weekly, Jan. 25.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows :—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALAN W. YOUNG,
Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. W. LEA,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS,
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

SAN FRANCISCO DISASTER. TAKEN ON THE SPOT.

Almost ready, a splendid film of incidents in this unequalled catastrophe. Order early.

APARTMENTS TO LET.

Lady and gentleman in search of apartments. The rival landladies. The right house at last. Viewing the rooms. Gentleman has the tail of his coat torn off by the door of Room No. 1. His wife will not listen to his tale of woe, but rushes him on, as she seems charmed with the apartments. A lovely outlook from the second room, but quite spoilt by a rug and flower-pot falling on old gentleman's silk hat. Examining the chimneys. A fall of soot. Encounter with the paperhanger. A seat in the paste. An involuntary shower-bath. Old gentleman, taking a last look out, falls out of window, but is luckily saved by a cart which is standing underneath. The couple are not so pleased with the rooms as they were, and walk off without further word to the landlady. About 230ft. The Subject, £5 15s. 0d.

THE TARGET.

The boy and the rifle. A shot at the candle. The willing helper. Breaking an egg with disastrous results to the boy underneath. A paper target is now made and pasted, and laid on a seat while the pot of paste is put away. Old gentleman sits on seat, and the target sticks to the seat of his trousers. Bending down to do a bit of gardening, he gives a full view of the target, and a boy scores a bull's-eye on it. Capture and punishment of the wrong scorer. About 164ft.
The Subject, £4 2s. 0d.

THE FIANCE'S BOUQUET.

A porter is hired to carry a bouquet, but on the way to his destination he Wondering what he can do, his eye lights on a leg of pork, which strikes him as being the same shape as the bouquet. He steals this, with the assistance of a unfortunately drops the bouquet in the road, where it is is run over and quite spoilt. friend, and together they cover the pork with a few flowers, tie it up in paper, and duly present it at the lady's house. The pleasure of the lady and her father quickly changes to anger when they discover the make-up of the bouquet, and the poor lover has an unpleasant time. About 200ft.
The Subject, £5.

MADAME WEARS THE BREECHES. Code Word "BRASERO"

While hubby performs the household duties his "better half" takes herself off for a day's outing. The film shows the husband cleaning the boots, washing the dishes, knitting the socks, and cleaning up generally, and the wife elsewhere drinking, smoking, and card-playing. One day is quite enough for the poor man, and on the arrival home of his wife, he forcibly asserts his proper position, and, later, they can be seen walking out together, and while the wife is looking after the numerous children, hubby is enjoying a quiet smoke. Very amusing. About 372ft.
The Subject, £9 6s. 0d.

EPHEMERAL WEALTH. Code Word "BRASSAGE."

An American's visit to Paris. He changes his money. Loss of the banknotes. A tramp's lucky find. Transformation of the tramp into an open-handed man about town. Motoring to the races. The race. (The horses can be seen galloping down the course.) Card-playing. Caught cheating. The gay ladies. Loss of his wealth. Drunk and incapable. He is brought into the police-court just as the owner of the notes is reporting his loss. A hasty exit. About 480ft.
The Subject, £12 6s. 0d.

UNFORTUNATE HUSBAND. Code Word "BRANDON."

The lady and her lover. Arrival of the husband. A taking disguise. Discovery. Chase by the husband, his friends, and servants. At bay. The husband wounded. Further flight. Help for the lover. Another fight. The poor husband again suffers, falling into a stream, from which he is dragged by his servants. About 215ft.
The Subject, £5 7s. 6d.

We have ready for delivery a Series of Films showing the Sections of the City devastated.

The Views are as follows:—

PANORAMA OF 4th AND MARKET STREETS.

PANORAMA, from Motor Car, DOWN MARKET STREET, ending at Palace Hotel and Call Building.

PANORAMA NEAR PALACE HOTEL, showing President Roosevelt in a carriage.

PANORAMA OF UNION SQUARE, showing thousands of people in this spot. Were it not for the flags this would readily pass for an actual scene showing confusion incidental to the earthquake.

PANORAMA OF CLIFF HOUSE.

Total Length 500ft. Price £12 10s.

All of the Sections shown have been destroyed either by the Earthquake or by the Fire.

ACTUAL SCENES OF THE RUIN AND DEVASTATION IN THIS BEAUTIFUL CITY, AS IT APPEARS TO-DAY, HAVE BEEN TAKEN FOR US BY OUR AMERICAN AGENTS, AND ARE NOW ON THE WAY TO ENGLAND.

419 WELDING A GIANT ARMATURE IN THE PITTSBURG STEEL WORKS.

This picture shows the process of a giant ring being welded. It is hoisted up by a huge crane and placed into the furnace, from which it is withdrawn when white hot. The men immediately set to work with sledge-hammers. It is also placed under a steam-hammer, the process throughout being extremely interesting. Tinted red. The ring is about 12ft. in diameter. Superb quality.
Length 250ft., Price £6 5s.

427 THE TRAITOROUS GUEST.

The crooks' rendezvous. Hatching the plot. The Silver Wedding. Admiring the presents. The crooks work their scheme successfully. Gathering the booty. Escape. The alarm. The crooks' rendezvous: displaying the booty. Police on the track. Crooks escape into a sewer. Police arrive and soon come to grips with the crooks. Battle-royal in the sewer; exciting struggle; police triumphant. Novel situations. Striking scenes. Grand quality.

DICK TURPIN'S RIDE TO YORK.

No. 1026.

This film closely follows the historical tale, and has been carried out with a reckless daring almost equal to that dare-devil ride. The photographic quality is of the very best, and we can with pleasure present to all our patrons once again a phenomenal success.

The scene opens with Dick and Tom King taking a glass outside the "Jack Falstaff" Inn, and as soon as they disappear inside to settle the account, the landlord is seen to betray them, anxious to share the reward of £300 offered. Dick, with the assistance of his confederate and a pretty barmaid, however, after a desperate struggle, manages to escape on his favourite horse, Black Bess. He is followed by the attorney, chief constable, and doctor on horseback, and a hot chase commences, numbers of people joining in the running; one rather eager man who endeavours to bar the way of the outlaw meets his death from Dick's pistol. The chase proceeds at high speed through country and village, the highwayman exacting whenever he can tribute from the lips of the fair sex. In one village he unfastens the latticed window of a house by standing on his horse, enters a bedroom, and demands toll from the lips of a young lady; while, with his pistol, he subdues the irate mother, who gladly seeks protection beneath the bed-clothes. Dick is able at one inn, by the aid of a friendly ostler, to obtain refreshment for himself and his horse, whom he rubs down in great haste. The chase gets hotter and hotter, as his pursuers ride up to change horses, and Dick escapes from the back while the man is parleying with his enemies.

Dick, meeting an old woman, just past the gallows, where her son hangs (and which he has saluted), is requested by her to bear a package to Sir Luke, to which he consents. Turpin proceeds on his way as fast as his steed can take him. He rides out and stops the York Coach, which is passing along the road, and demands to know where he can find Sir Luke. After obtaining the desired information, he rides on. The coach is again stopped, this time by the pursuers, and they add another to their number. They press on with the chase. Dick's way is seen to be apparently stopped by a five-barred gate, but master and horse treat the matter lightly, and clear the gate in fine manner, riding on for dear life. The "hounds" not being quite up to the "fox" in skill, have to dismount, and, after some delay, follow on. Dick Turpin and horse are seen at the end of their journey to struggle on, both hard spent, the poor animal almost dropping as Dick delivers his precious packet to Sir Luke.

Thus, Dick's kind mission is accomplished, but at great cost, the death of his best friend, Black Bess, with which the picture closes.

Length, 1,000 ft. Price, £25.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Cavanah, C.A.—The play this week is The New Magdalen, a melodrama of the good old-fashioned type, which is founded on Wilkie Collins's novel of the same name. Miss Jessie Winter plays powerfully as Grace Rosebery and Miss Lucy Wilson is successful throughout in the part of Mercy Merrick; Miss Mary Morison acts with the necessary dignity as Lady Janet Roy; Julian Gray, the curate, is well represented by Mr. E. Stanton Sharp; and Mr. Austin Melford, jun., is highly capable as Horace Holmcraft. Other characters that receive justice are Captain Arnault, a French officer, by Mr. K. P. Symons; M. Surville, an Army surgeon, by Mr. E. Stidwell; a German military surgeon, by Mr. W. Graham; Max, the latter's servant, by Mr. Morton; a detective, by Mr. Ledits; and a domestic servant, by Mr. W. Marsden. The scenery and other accessories of the drama are specially good.

Palace Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—A remarkable exhibition of wrestling is given this week by Strenge, "the Berlin Hercules," who pits himself against all comers; Sinclair and Parr, who are warm favourites here, appear with great success in a medley act, Keeping an Appointment; Mr. Fred Howard is clever as a ventriloquist; Lorne and Renee are good as vocalists; and Ewart and Bryan are seen to advantage in An Interlude of Hebrew Humour. Among the other favourites are Miss Kate Gourley, Miss Amy Bell, and Mr. Bob Stephenson, while a number of Bioscope pictures illustrative of the recent Olympic Games are viewed with much interest.

Cooke's Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. John Henry Cooke.—The principal item in the programme this week is an elaborate representation of Dick Turpin's Ride to York, which is received with the utmost enthusiasm. Mr. Leicester Alfred Cooke takes the part of Dick; Miss Ernestine Rosa Cooke appears in a series of statuary classical poses so skilfully as almost to defy criticism; Messrs. Hinton and Wooton contribute a remarkably smart turn as expert cyclists; Mr. Frank Anderson and others add greatly to the gaiety of the audiences; and all the other parts of the business are keenly relished.

ABERTILLERY.—Theatre Metropole.—Lessees, Messrs. Arthur Carlton and Sam Duckworth; General and Resident Manager, Mr. Geo. W. Ventom; Stage-Manager, Mr. Fred Thomas.—Mr. Chas. W. Poole's No. 1 Colossal Hyper-Myriorama provides the attraction here this week, and, as usual, is up-to-date in every detail. The pictures are very pleasing, and the variety turns are all that can be desired. Woolford's wrestling ponies and clever dogs and donkey furnish a most amusing turn; Daw's Marionettes are up-to-date; Coma, the clever ambidexteriologist, evokes rounds of applause; and Mr. Harry Raymond, in his Mexican coon creation, gives much pleasure. Mr. John R. Poole, who is general manager, is a very capable guide. The Three Rochesters, marvellous musical children, are exceptionally clever. Mr. T. Furniss is the director of the band.

ALDERSHOT.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. George E. Williams.—The Ruby Ring—a drama of a peculiarly interesting type—is well played by Mr. J. D. Hunter's company. Miss Alice Farleigh is clever as Helen. One of the best personations of the performance is Mr. A. B. Tapping's Alphonse Leloir. Mr. Fred Sargent gives a talented representation of Cuthbert Vaughan; Mr. George Mudie, jun., is excellent as Lynton; and some capital comic business is introduced by Mr. George Thorne, jun., and Mr. Harry Collier as Jenkins and Tagg, and Miss Blanche Bayley (Mary). Miss Edith Watt is good as Mother Hicks, and Miss Clarissa Selwynne, as Jane, does well. Mr. Horace Pollock in the thankless rôle of Reginald is capable, and Mr. George C. Murray's Colonel Clethorpe is ably played.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Fairbairn.—Mr. Harry Starr is here again with his two stirring musical plays, Carl the Clockmaker and Otto the Outcast. He opened with his well-selected company on Monday with Carl the Clockmaker, the author again amusing the audience with his delineation of the singing and whistling Dutchman. His company includes Mr. Fred W. Graham, a smart comedian, who is good in the character of Arthur Attwood. The villain, Helmore, is well played by Mr. Edwin Firth. Mr. Geo. Cooke and Mr. W. Miller are suitably cast as Hans Conrad and Narky Nabbs. Miss Madge Blundell as the persecuted victim of the villain plays with force and feeling. Miss Katie Norris is full of vivacity as Lena Harrigan; and the part of Jerusha Jane Picklefinch is safe with Miss Ella Crossley.

Empire Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The principal features of this week's "bill of fare" are two comic sketches, McKenna in Love and The Toreadors. The former piece is presented by Mr. Edwin Garth and a first-class company of comedians. The "Dolly Quartette" give a clever representation of dolls; Phedona, a pretty young lady, is applauded for her musical act; Charles Bignall, comedian, is well received; the Brothers Sheppard are smart young comedians; the Toreadors appear in a funny sketch; Great Hughes presents a burlesque of the well-known mesmeric entertainments; and the Bioscope drama, A Prodigal Son, concludes a good programme.

ATTERCLIFFE.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. H. Beagle.—A hearty welcome from a large audience on Monday evening greeted Mr. T. Morton Powell's company in a return visit with the emotional drama, Honour thy Father. The exacting part of Gabriel Garth is skilfully played by Mr. Walter M. Cameron; Mr. Clavering Craig renders good service as Sir Duncan Bly; Mr. Douglas B. Watson is excellent as Jack Halyard; Mr. Claude Merton in the dual rôles of Job Merry and George Bloggs is well placed; Miss Mabel Coleman is good as Lilian Garth; Mrs. Clavering Craig a distinct success as Gertrude Garth; and Miss Lizzie Morley pleasing as Poppy Cornleigh. Other parts are well undertaken by Mr. W. H. Melrose as Ned Pennycomquick; Mr. Sinclair Holden as Mike Copplestone; Mr. Frank Eden as Dr. Sleak; Miss Maud Grey as Violet Wilfred; and Miss Winnie Donovan as Mercy Merry. Mr. Frank Eden is the general business manager of the company.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Gibbons.—A strong and varied "bill," evidently to the public taste, is presented here this week. The Daunton-Shaw Troupe give a cycling act which for skill and daring is positively unique; the "Woelhaffs" are well received in a pleasing comedy turn, in which singing, dancing, and acrobatic work is pleasingly blended; Mlle. Haydee's Mannikins are a capital feature, and the stage setting is of a novel character; the Palace "Attergraph" is still an attractive item under the direction of Mr. E. C. Clayton; the Sisters Pool are smart entertainers and dancers; Marlow and Manton (lady and gentleman) provide a laughable sketch entitled Other People's Babies; Mr. Jimmy James is excellent as a banjoist and bone soloist; and Mr. Charles Ray is a good comedian.

BACUP.—New Court Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Richard Nightingale.—There is an excellent combination of variety talent here this week. The programme is headed by Prof. Hocking, who gives a clever and amusing entertainment as a hypnotist; Fred Granville is a master in the art of ventriloquism; Nellie Norale plays the mandoline with taste; the "Empress," as a manipulator of handcuffs, gives a startling exhibition, and completely mystifies her audience; and others who meet with a favourable reception are Brine Brookes (comedian) and Mark Lee (characteristic vocalist.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's company is appearing this week in Sapho. Mr. John Davidson give considerable distinction to the part of Jean Gaussin; Dechelette is well drawn by Mr. Ivan Gore; Mr. V. Widdicombe hits off the humours of Uncle Césaire admirably; and Miss Ada Abbott distinguishes herself by a picturesque portrayal of Sapho. Miss Annie Stone gives a clever impersonation of Lucy.

His Majesty's Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—A Sister's Devotion, musical comedy-drama, is occupying the boards here this week. Mr. Barney Doreen as Larry O'Malley gives a clever character study; Mr. Wallace Muirhead sings himself into favour; Mr. Erksholme E. Clive, as Captain Dornton, makes a plausible villain; Miss Fanny Harvey, as Edith Saunderson, is humorous; and Miss Florence Toomy is sweet as the heroine.

Tivoli.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr. Tom Whiting.—Miss Sable Fern, who tops the bill here, is sustaining her well-earned reputation; The Little Colonel, a capital sketch, is well presented by Ernest Montefiore and company; Little Lilian Rose is an actress and vocalist of much promise; Harry Bickley, comedian, has a style of his own; Frances Haskoll gives a good vocal turn; Williams and Williams are clever banjoists; Winona and King expert rifle shots; and the Sisters Edwards, pleasing dancers and drummers.

BATH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—A revival of East Lynne has once again proved a strong managerial card. It is given by Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company. Miss Julian Kennard submits an admirable study of Lady Isabel; Mr. Eric Mayne could hardly be excelled as Francis Levison in his stage rascality; Mr. Alfred Beaumont is excellent as Archibald Carlyle; and Mr. C. C. Gratton as the excitable Justice Hare, and Mr. Cyril Hayward as Lawyer Dill are both amusing. Perhaps the most popular personage is Mr. Paul Belmore as P.C. Bullock, laughter being heard whenever he is on the stage; Miss Ethel Hardacre makes much of the character of Cornelia Carlyle.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schubert.—For race week the management has been fortunate enough to secure Miss Florrie Forde as the leading attraction, and that popular lady has been honoured with double encores; the Four Burnells supply a hilarious time in On the Links; Happy Tom Parker, eccentric, in response to a recall, gives a smart clog dance; Theresa and May, singing protean artist, received cordial approval; Les Laurens present a statuary act of no little merit; Kit Keen is on a return visit with new songs and dances, and Harry Zetter, comedian and dancer, is appearing with his usual success. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux unfold some interesting films.

BEDFORD.—Royal County Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—This week the boards are occupied by Miss Bonwin Carlton's company in the comedy drama, The Plucky Nipper. Mr. Fred Rivers cleverly depicts the villain, Richard Vanbrugh; and Mr. George D. Knight satisfactorily represents the character of Colonel Fenwick; Mr. Claud Kingston as Henry Paget is quite a success; and Captain Frank Leslie finds a capable exponent in Mr. Edward Stream; Mr. E. Surrey makes an excellent Bill Burgess; Mr. Douglas Campbell as Tommy Atkins proves to be the life of the piece; Miss Bonwin Carlton impersonates with vigour the rôle of Polly Hithard, the Plucky Nipper. The Idler is billed for the last three nights of the week.

BELFAST.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, which we noticed last week, is still being played at this theatre with much success, Mr. Milton Rosmer and Miss Haidee Gunn appearing as the young lovers.

Palace Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Freece; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Harris.—The chief attraction here is provided by Mr. John Lawson, who, supported by his capital company (including Miss Lilian Herries), produced on Monday The Monkey's Paw, in which Mr. Lawson's acting as the father met with unqualified success. The Indos troupe (Happy Little Japs) surprise all with their acrobatic juggling; and Curtis and Vanity appear to the utmost advantage in their marvellous dancing act; the Willfords are aptly described as marvellous herculean equilibrists; and "Mr. C." furnishes a good entertainment, his imitations being excellent. Also appearing are Wisper, the smart comedy juggler; Mr. Arthur Boyne, comedian; and Miss Beattie Bloom, comedienne.

Empire Theatre of Varieties, Limited.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John S. Walker.—The star here this week is the popular Scotch comedian, Mr. W. F. Frame, who has been as usual most successful. A capital reception has been extended to Miss Maud Courtney, the American girl; Mr. Walter Munroe, an old favourite here, evokes unbounded enthusiasm by his capital Irish songs; and Frank Bertram and company appear to advantage in their refined and humorous sketch The Chaperon. Also appearing are Marco, the marvellous manipulator of cards and coins; the New Macs, comedians and dancers; and the Dorrells, duettists and dancers.

New Alhambra Theatre of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The star here this week is Miss Dorothy L. Clark, who has been successful with her delightful rendering of several songs. Stanley and Greenop are clever banjo performers; and the fine voice of Mlle. de Rose has been heard with pleasure in several songs. The gymnastic feats of Phinas and Aida have caused quite a sensation; and the new pictures exhibited by the Alhambra Bioscope are a big attraction. Mr. Harry Carmen is a droll comedian with good songs; and others appearing are Miss Daisy Lane, comedienne; the Harlem Brothers, speciality acrobats; and Mr. Will Montgomery, the local comedian, who is always successful here.

BILSTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby; Manageress, Miss Grace Battersby.—That interesting drama The Silver Cross is being presented here by a good average company. Mr. Frederick A. Marston in the character of old Ben Adams deserves to be complimented on his powerful acting. He is ably supported by Miss Lillian Rignold as Little Sunshine. Mr. J. Hennessy plays the Rev. Nicholas Frewin effectively; Mr. Harry Danson depicts well the heartless scoundrel Philip Frewin; Mr. Hal Lowe as Tomkyns is amusing, and is capitally assisted by Miss Cissy Cleveland.

BIRKENHEAD.—New Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—The interesting play Two Little Vagabonds, ably represented by Hardie and Von Leer's company, is the attraction here. The production is creditably staged, and much interest centres in the troubles and trials of Marion Thornton, a character admirably depicted by Miss Valerie Crespin. The two little vagabonds are effectively represented by Miss D. Rosslyn Vayne and Miss Josie Beltram. Bill Mullins is capably played by Mr. John F. Traynor; and his confederates, Dido Bunce and the Cough Drop, are amusingly portrayed by Messrs. Frank Gordon and Fred Archer.. Mr. William Fazan is good as George Thornton; Mr. Sidney Vautier makes the most of his opportunities as Capt. Darville; Miss Marie Pritchard is worthy of special commendation as Biddy Mullins; and Miss F. Russell Spiers is an efficient Barbara Scarth.

Argyle Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—Miss Nellie Wallace, an accomplished and taking comedy artist, is a prominent attraction; as also are Brown and Robinson, the singing bricklayers. The Comic Arleys, bicycle comedians, have made a hit; and a strong programme is also supported by Mr. Bert Williams, a smart ventriloquist; Mr. Charles Pastor, the laughing philosopher; Miss Maud Mortimer, comedienne; Mr. Harry Rogerson, comedian; Miss Jenny Reeves, serio; and the bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The promenade concerts now in vogue here are proving a rare treat for "musical Birmingham," which shows its appreciation by its presence and applause. Mr. Landon Ronald receives ovations nightly for his graphic interpretations of the great masters. Mr. Philip Rodway's share in the good work is perceived in the conversion of the spacious pit into a flower decked promenade, wherein smoking is graciously permitted. The orchestra, which frequently has to rise to the applause, is composed of members of the London Symphony Orchestra, the Residentia Orchestra (Hague), the Queen's Hall Orchestra (London), the Hallé Orchestra, the Scottish Orchestra, and others.

Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—San Toy appears here in a new and up-to-date dressing, and the various members of Mr. John Hart's talented company are being regaled with the heartiest of receptions. Miss Fanny Dango presents a bewitching impersonation of the heroine, and the merry humours of the artful Li are accentuated to the nicest point of discretion by Mr. Frank Danby. Mr. John Humphreys increases the humour as Yen-How; Mr. W. J. Manning wins a high place as the choleric Sir Bingo; Mr. Alfred Clarke acts with benevolent unction as the Emperor; and Messrs. Dennis Drew, Frederick Hobbs, and G. Taylor act and sing the parts of Capt. Bobbie, Fo-Hop, and Tucker respectively with excellent energy. The Misses Maud Darling, Rhoda Gordon, and Louie Collier diffuse a dainty charm, and Miss May Gould is popular for her choice dancing.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Victor Turner.—A one-act piece, adapted by Miss Edith Turner from a story by R. Harding Davis, and entitled His Bad Angel, in which the adaptress and Mr. Arthur Soames sustain the rôles of a gay widow and bachelor respectively, has preceded popular representations here of East Lynne. Miss Irene Rooke limns the erring and anguished Lady Isabel with much art; Mr. Vincent Clive depicts the heartless villainy of Capt. Levison in convincing tones; Mr. Arthur Soames makes a well-favoured Archibald Carlyle; Miss Annie Hill scores as the assertive Cornelia; and Miss Lorna Laurence as Barbara Hare, acts with finish. Miss M. Treadaway is successful in the rôle of Joyce.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—Her Wedding Day is attracting excellent houses here, where Miss Ward's acting of the bride is accepted at the highest valuation, and applauded accordingly. The company, for which Mr. T. Edward Ward is responsible, is a capable one all round. Mr. S. Herbert Humber acts as Harold Saxby with commendable vigour and manliness; Mr. Augustine Knight reveals the villainous character of Weedon Kenyon with unerring ability; Mr. T. Edward Ward appears with marked success as Seth Mayson; Mr. Fred Yarnold strikes a rich vein of humour as the sexton; and Miss Ettie Spalding, Mr. Morris Maud, Miss Beatrice Sinclair, and Miss Eva Bertram enact rôles of much responsibility with the utmost success.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—What a Woman Did has been retailed here with every measure of success by Mr. W. A. Armour's company. Miss Dora Price as the woman, Elise de L'Orme, acts her part with power and pathos; Mr. Edward Rawlinson acquits himself as the husband to the audience's complete satisfaction; Mr. W. A. Armour contributes a well-thought-out exposition of the villain's rôle; Mr. Chas. Earle acts the part of Piton in a noteworthy manner; Miss Amy Ellam as La Papillon has irresistible charm; Mr. Jim Woods is favourably regarded for his effective acting as Fritz; Miss Tina Shaw scores as Fanchon; and much laughter and applause follow the efforts of Mr. Fred Rignold as Peter, and Miss Bertha Clifton as Nanette.

Carlton Theatre, Saltley.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Danites has been received with much heartiness on its visit here this week with Mr. Jas. P. Moore and company. Mr. George Gaisford has, with his careful acting as Sandy McGee, excited much interest and applause; Mr. James P. Moore acts a well-appreciated rôle in the parson; the Danites, otherwise Ezekiel Carter and Bill Hickman, are adequately represented by Messrs. Ernest Hartington and Robert Gilbert; and the heroine, Hulda Brown, is pleasingly personified by Miss Daisy Meynard; Miss Ethel Bracewell is signally successful in a dual rôle, and Messrs. Albert Parke, A. Langford, Sidney Dean, and Miss Muriel Humphreys are popular in the lighter parts.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—The Price of Her Soul has reached a high figure of popularity on its appearance this week with Messrs. Shinton and Greenwood's company. The large audiences have been specially pleased with Mr. John B. Shinton in his finely-acted part of Lord Rolfe Mandeville; Mr. Annesley Hely, as the plotting Ivan Shobaloff, proves of commanding interest; Miss Mona Gray exercises her fascinations effectively as Olga Lavonitz; Miss Ada M. Ryder inspires sympathy as the tried and true Countess Inez Steinmetz; and much clever humour is subscribed by Mr. Will Percy as Pat Murphy; Miss Tina Frank as Polly; Miss Ada Arnott as Lady Jemima; and Mr. Wilfred Compton as Algy Frazer.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Miss Lilian Dundas's company is here with East Lynne, in which Miss Ethel Royale ably impersonates Lady Isabel; Mr. George Mitchell gives a good account of Archibald Carlyle; and Mr. Hamilton Stewart faithfully presents Captain Levison.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—The Court comedy repertoire company is in possession here this week. The piece de resistance submitted on Monday was Caste, with Mr. Ernest Percy as Eccles; Mr. Stanley Harrison as George D'Alroy; Mr. Robert Whyte, jun., as Capt. Hawtree; Mr. Graham Herington as Sam Gerridge; Miss E. Nolan O'Connor as Polly Eccles; Miss Mabel Durrant as Esther Eccles; and Miss Mary Wymond as Marquise de St. Maur; all of whom took great pains with their work. The Little Intruder was played on Tuesday and Thursday, and The Ticket-of-Leave Man is billed for Saturday. The Prince and the Lady is the title of the curtain-raiser which has been played each night.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—By far and away the most popular item of the programme here this week is Bransby Williams, in monologue and mimicry. In grave or gay, lively or severe, he is equally at home and unrivalled. Other attractive turns are Sadie Simpson, comedienne and coon artist; Seven Wulfrunas, in a clever acrobatic sketch; E. I. Wilkes, with his wonderfully intelligent dog; Frank Harwood, actor-vocalist, in a dramatic scena; the Strolling Players, in song and dance; Cussac Talma, a clever illusionist; Ruby Dahl, with her merry mannikins; and Nell Richardson, a pleasing vocal comedienne. Vernon's Imperial Bioscope is here, and the pictures shown are of exceptional merit.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—The management here has provided a change in the class of entertainment by engaging a good variety company. Mr. T. C. Callaghan as a character comedian is responsible for a good turn; Miss Lily Currie in a choice selection of songs has a hearty reception; as cross talkers and dancers the Brothers Hayes provide an amusing interlude; the Five Casino Girls are really capital instrumentalists; Irish comedy has a droll exponent in Joe, the One Mac; wit and humour are furnished by Ray and Calden; Florrie St. Clair finds favour as a comedienne and dancer; and Mr. Claude Ginnett, assisted by several very good artistes, introduces his well-trained horses in Rejected Remounts. The Royal Animated Picture Company show some good and amusing films.

BOLTON.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston.—The domestic drama, The Streets of London, was presented here by Mr. Rade Montefiore's company on Monday evening. Mr. William Rokeby as Badger is the life and soul of the piece, and displays considerable humour; Mr. Joe Bracewell is good in his old character of Mr. Jonas Puffy; Miss Marion Armitage plays well the part of Dan Puffy; Miss Helena Rigby scores as Mrs. Puffy, and Miss Edyth Goodall is pathetic as Lucy Fairbrother. The Four Fiorellas appear in the drama in dance and song.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—A powerful company is engaged here, including Tom Grave in his sensational cycling feat, "Flying the Revolving wheel"; Will Driscoll, swell comedian and dancer; Agnes Kremsber, lady juggler; Tom Taylor, baritone vocalist; Gus Balsiger, vocalist and trick musician; Farley, Rennie and Farley, in their novelty comedy act, Fun at a Railway Station; Miss Frederica's marvellous terriers; Walter Stanley, comedian; Florence Wood, serio; the Eugene Family in their refined aerial gymnastic stage performance, and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

BOOTLE.—Muncaster Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Manager, Mr. H. Pennington; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert E. Wilson.—The Rich and Poor of London, played here this week by Mr. Sidney Dench and company, is full of interesting incidents. Mr. Robt. Hall is a capable Dr. Morton; Miss Dora Dench, a pleasing May Braithwaite; Miss Ethel Denville (Seadrift) and Mr. Bert Dench (Dixie) are well received; villainy has able exponents in Mr. Edward Avinal (Mark Standing), Miss Violet Lyton (Ruby Redgrave), and Mr. Templar Ellis (Mathew Grabbam), the comic element being well sustained throughout by Mr. Sidney Dench (Spider Jack) and Miss Mollie Hackett (Polly Philpot).

BOSCOMBE.—Hippodrome.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fred Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Ball.—Joe Elvin and company top the bill here this week. They get a great reception nightly, in their new sketch, Obedient Billy, which is genuinely funny. A delightful turn is that of Gold and Sterling in a refined musical comedy-scena, The Welsh Girl and the Artist. Ernie Williams, vocal comedian, gains much applause for his catchy songs; Mezzetti and Mora give a smart comedy triple-bar performance; the Sisters Redfern play the banjo and dance charmingly; Rosie Bartlett is a pleasing comedienne; and Frederic Neiman concludes a good programme with his original animated ventriloquial minstrels. The Hippodrome Pictures include Hackensmidt v. Madrali at Olympia.

BOURNEMOUTH.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—Uncle Tom's Cabin, presented by Mr. Charles Harrington's company, continues to maintain its hold upon the public. Mr. J. Carr's sympathetic rendering of Uncle Tom is good; and Mr. J. Renny makes a capital Phineas Fletcher; while Mr. John Gibson, as Legree, imparts the necessary brutality belonging to the part; Miss Zerlina Zerbini, as Cassy, gives a capable impersonation; and Miss Annie Watson, as Topsy, merits the applause she receives. Miss Mary Vincent, Ikey Jones, W. Langford, Ben Row, W. H. Nott, Shortley May, and Rowe and Holden are amongst the speciality items in a popular entertainment.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Mr. Edward Compton and his comedy company on Monday presented Davy Garrick, in which the famous comedian completely won the hearts of his audience by his fine impersonation of the title-rôle. The support was admirable. Miss Mackenzie impressed her audience greatly by the tenderness and earnestness of her acting as Violet Gresham; as Alderman Gresham Mr. H. Crocker was excellent; Tom Tallyhaut was an able and amusing effort on the part of Mr. A. B. Imeson; Rumbelow, Sowerberry, and Limkins were capital character studies by Messrs. Herbert Pigot, Arnold Lucy, and C. W. Johnson respectively; and Miss M. Hassell as Mrs. Rumbelow and Miss Muriel Meeke as Selina were diverting figures in the famous scene at the Alderman's house. A capital curtain-raiser, The Desperate Lover, preceded the comedy. On Tuesday evening Mr. Compton gave his finished performance of Charles Surface.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—On Monday Mr. Morton Powell's company appeared for the first time here in The Woman Who Gambles. The valiant Count Steinbach is well played by Mr. E. Ashby; Miss Gertrude Hunt evinces power in the part of the Countess; Baron Cratzlaw is a forcible effort on the part of Mr. Horatio Sinclair; the Lieutenant Ctzarteryski of Mr. Reginald Fox is full of conscientious work; Cora is represented with spirit by Miss Violet Sims; and good comedy relief is found in Mr. Chas. Calvert's Hon. Bertie Bray.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Resident Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—The Albert and Edmunds troupe, with A Trip to Boulogne, are responsible for much hearty laughter; Erine Mayne tickles the audience with some funny songs; a welcome return visit is made by Colby and May, "the ventriloquist and the dancing doll"; and Ray Wallace, the mimic, once again delights her admirers; Drew and Alders are screamingly funny with their acrobatic "bill sticking" sketch; Bert Byrne contributes an acceptable comedy turn; a bright interlude is contributed by the Three Cape Girls, expert long-boot dancers; the "all round" act on the rolling globes by the Jurgens Trio is distinctly clever; a spirited song and dance turn is presented by Daisy Mayer; and Gwennie Hasto charms with her expert dancing.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Arnold, jun.—Radford and Valentine are eliciting roars of laughter here this week in a screamingly funny juggling act; Will Van Allen, "the tramp musician," is responsible for some delightful solos on string instruments; some pretty posing is done by "A Ba Be" in a postcard album turn; Grant and Allen introduce novelties into their comedy turn; and there are some acceptable contributions to the programme by Edie Gray and her White Coons; Grace Merton, the original street singer; Rowland Hill, comedian; and Daisy Morell, comedienne. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux are also an attraction.

BRIDLINGTON.—Royal Prince's Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Miss Emily Waddington, whose well-trained, pure soprano voice has been heard to advantage at Herr S. Winternitz's promenade concerts, concluded a successful engagement on Sunday evening. This week Mr. Fred Rome, a humorist of ability, is the extra attraction at the concerts in the Floral Pavilion.

The Palace.—Manager, Mr. A. Hubner.—This popular place of entertainment was opened for the season on Monday, under the management of Mr. Hubner. The series of animated pictures are well up to date, and Miss Lola Vereker, whose songs are illustrated by the cinematograph, possesses a voice of good quality and power. Mr. Hubner is giving nightly a humorous magical turn, taking the audience into his confidence, and showing them "how it's done." The Monckton, in their comedy sketches, A Woman's Curiosity and Tithe Lady and the Burglar, give a clever rendering of these amusing sketches. Mr. Hubner is to be congratulated upon the success of the opening of his season at the Palace.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Peggy Machree is the attraction here this week. The opera is prettily staged, the chorus is strong and efficient, and the work of the augmented orchestra, under the direction of Mr. K. Ernest Irving, is well done. Miss Claudia Lasell scores a decided success in the title-rôle, her style is pleasing, and she sings her various songs artistically; Miss Blanche Astley makes a vivacious Molly, is successful with her songs, and dances cleverly; Miss Madge Avery makes a capital character part of Moira Cafforty; Mr. Vernon Davidson is an intelligent and dashing Barry Trevor; Mr. John Morley does well as Sergeant Bampton, his vocal abilities being far above the average; Mr. Ralph Lynn is entertaining as Sir Lawrence Borthwick; and the comic parts of Alexander McDougall and Michael are rendered in amusing style by Mr. Milroy Cooper and Mr. Edgar Ashwin. The remaining characters are carefully played by Miss Doris Kelvey, Miss Leila Gordon, Miss Flora Hayden, Mr. M. Macdermott, and Mr. Fred Charles.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe.—Miss Blanche St. Alban and Mr. J. Leicester Jackson's company is here with the military drama Dishonoured, the play being staged in excellent style. Both Mr. Percy Ballard and Miss Violet Crawford act cleverly in the leading parts of Captain Philip Cunningham and Leslie Maynard; Mr. Jackson Hayes displays considerable power as Captain Peyntland; Miss Jessie Merrick is pleasing as Sybil; Mr. W. T. Hybert is successful as Captain Cholmondly; and Mr. G. Broughton is sufficiently stately and impressive as Colonel Sir William Cunningham.

Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Bella and Bijou are here for the week, their clever specialities obtaining enthusiastic appreciation from all parts of the house; the Three Sisters Sprightly, comediennes and dancers, present a pleasing entertainment; Coram, ventriloquist, is decidedly clever in his line; Ada Whitton sings well and makes a smart male impersonator; the Three Delaries do good work on the trapeze, &c.; Mabel Hind is pleasing as a vocalist and dancer; E. R. Dainez's comedy circus is appreciated; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alaska do a neat comedy acrobatic turn; Marcus Boyle, patter comedian, obtains applause; and Vasey and Ramsey score in their eccentric comedy dancing act. The performance concludes with Vernon's animated pictures.

Empire.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Leighton.—Joe Elvin and company are here with the amusing production in two scenes, 'Appy 'Ampstead. The realistic sketch is staged remarkably well, and there are about 150 auxiliaries. Joe O'Gorman, Irish comedian, has some good songs and patter, and is popular with all parts of the house; Harry Mier, comedy juggler, does a good turn; the Sisters Belmont score as duettists and dancers; Jessica Grace, assisted by two step-dancers, presents a pleasing speciality; Selvini, a clever juvenile, plays the saxophone in good style; Walter Hast and Peggy Lennie have a smart vocal spectacle, The Sea Nymph; Parker and Parr, singing comedians, obtain applause; and Carrie Joy, comedienne, presents an acceptable turn. The performance concludes with a good display of animated pictures projected by Buffell's Bioscope.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria, Ltd.—Managing-Director and Licensee, Mr. James W. Haworth; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—A good house on Monday welcomed a return visit of the Elster-Grime Opera Company in Maritana. Don Cæsar de Bazan was well presented by Mr. Payne Clarke, and Miss Marie Elster did good work as Maritana; Miss Madge Sullivan sang sweetly as Lazarillo; Mr. Michael Kemble worked hard as Don Jose; and the King had an excellent exponent in Mr. Gilbert King; Mr. Charles Howitt was comical as the Marquis; and Miss Constance Russell fittingly presented the Marchioness. The Lily of Killarney, The Bohemian Girl, Les Cloches de Corneville, Carmen, and La Fille de Madame Angot are also in the répertoire.

BURNLEY.—Victoria Opera House.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—For the third week the New Empire Animated and Vandeville Company is entertaining excellent houses. Entirely new pictures are projected. Chief amongst them are "San Francisco after the earthquake," vividly showing the terrible devastation, and "Life and Scenes in India," a beautiful and interesting film. Barney Stuart, a mimic of exceptional ability, thoroughly amuses the audience; the Lugio Sextet of Serenaders, in their scena, sing delightfully; and Edward Ind is an acceptable vocal comedian.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The Three Braggs, neat and clever acrobats, are among the chief items here this week. The Villions display some exceedingly smart cycling feats; Speedwell, in "Art in a Hurry," produces some clever portraits of celebrities; Jas. Agustin and Annie Hartley in their barrel jumping receive loud applause; Bensley Evans and company ably present a smart sketch, Sally's Dilemma; Nash and Noel are good dancers; Ford Williams, Welsh basso, has a good voice; and the Urbanora pictures add much interest to the programme with "The Tragedy of Vesuvius," &c.

Gaiety Theatre.—Proprietress, Mrs. T. Culcen; General-Manager, Mr. Jas. E. Culcen.—Mr. Fred Granville's company is playing to good houses the dr

Rosie Rapid, singing and dancing with agreeable vivacity; and Mr. Michael Madden also scores with a smart parody.

THE PALACE.—Proprietors, The Palace Theatre, Carlisle, Limited; Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—The Keilinos, who top the bill here with their Risley act, A Fête in Venice, are recalled again and again; the Motramos have also made a big hit in their musical comedy act; Will McIvor sings with excellent effect; Jack Rae's eccentric juggling and comedy ring work meets with well-deserved success; and Ethel Dunford, comedienne; Madge Carlyle, a charming vocalist; the Sisters Lytton, in popular duets; Beaty and Blanche, vocalists and dancers; and the ever-popular pictures by Vernon's Bioscope complete a capital programme.

ALGIE'S HIPPODROME.—Mr. R. Sylvester's animated picture and variety company continues to draw large audiences, and a continual change of programme meets with well-merited appreciation.

CASTLEFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business Manager, Mr. Henry Masterman.—Mr. John H. Tomkinson's Royal Gipsy company opened here on Monday. Ferm makes a favourable impression as Frank Tyler; villainy is strongly portrayed by Mr. Richard Ferris as Colonel Foster; Mr. A. Hall-Menzies causes much amusement as John Gibbs (Hercules). The comedy parts are well filled by Mr. T. Taylor as Ebenezer Dunnem, and Miss Marie E. Robertson as Priscilla Jenkins; Miss Madge Devereux gives a good portrayal of Lottie Grey; Miss Violet Leader is commendable in the rôle of Dickie (a waif); and Miss Marie Manzies is seen to great advantage as Lady Maynard.

CHORLEY. — GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Sante.—At the head of the programme this week is Armino, the strong man, who gives some marvellous exhibitions. Miss Sheela McNeil is a pleasing comedienne; Le Wist is a favourite ventriloquist; Henry Remo performs some capital conjuring tricks. The other turns include Bros. Robinso, musician; Billy Renton, eccentric comedian, and the Ashleys, comedy entertainers.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—The attraction for this week is Mr. W. F. Jury's Bioscope, supported by an amusing vaudeville company, and on Monday the audience was delighted with the capital pictures given, and showed their appreciation in an unmistakable manner. The visit is under the management of Mr. G. Egerton Burnett.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Frederick Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Alen.—Lottie Stone's troupe, known as the "Six Hippodrome Girls," head this week's bill, and prove themselves an extremely popular sextet; Robb Gilmore secures an ovation on account of his drolleries; Geo. M. Schilling, the globe-trotter, gives a popular and brief illustrated lecture; Luis Hardt, the mighty atom, gives an exhibition à la Sandow; Edie Rivers and Dorothy Veld are two charming comediennes; Jomps and Wells are an amusing pair of musical eccentrics; and a series of exciting pictures on the Bioscope concludes the programme.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance. —Mr. Wm. J. Miller and his company are here this week with the French romantic play, The Throne of Terror. In the rôle of Robespierre Mr. Wm. J. Miller is exceptionally good, whilst Mr. Roy Milton is an able Eugenie de Lisle; Mr. Frank Fuller is acceptable as the Comte de Roqueforte; and the comedy element is well looked after by Mr. Bert Ellis as Joujou, with Miss Eva Norman as Peppletta; Miss Katherine Maud Davies infuses a deal of pathos into the part of Marguerite de Roqueforte; and Miss E. Lanyon Maude scores as Victorine D'Almonte.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. Percy Hutchison's company in the comedy Cousin Kate opened a week's engagement here on Monday. The title-rôle was admirably played by Miss Lillias Earle; Mrs. Amy Coleman was a capital Mrs. Spencer; Miss Margaret Marshall caused much laughter in the part of the servant Jane; Mr. Percy Hutchison, in the character of Heath Desmond, gave a capital interpretation; Mr. George Mallett played the Rev. James Bartlett admirably; and Mr. S. Irwin Barrett as Bobby Spencer was clever and painstaking. The play was preceded by a one-act piece entitled Two in a Trap.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—This is the closing week here for the season, and the programme is capital. The principal turn is given by Mendel, a blind musician, whose selections on the piano from the great masters are artistic, and his powers of memory and improvisation are remarkable. The Arthur Saxon trio of strong men are well developed; H. Jennings, comedian, is a success; Vandinoff, painter, is loudly applauded; Gilroy and Gross are well received in their comedy act; Fred Walker is a capital comedian; Martinengo pleases in his song and 'cello solo; and the Four Emilions are clever acrobats.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. William Bennett.—Mr. J. H. Clynde's company is here with A Royal Revenge. Mr. Clyndes shows considerable ability as an actor, and his portrayal of Pedro de Castro is excellent.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John H. Morton.—This week we are favoured with a visit from Dr. Seaton's Animated Photograph and Concert company. Dr. Seaton gives a good entertainment as illusionist, plate and dish manipulator, &c. He is followed by the Watson Society Entertainers, four accomplished instrumentalists, vocalists, dancers, &c. Another good turn is Miss Margaret Lisle, who possesses a powerful voice; as also does Mr. Tom Walton, whose songs are well received; Miss Enid Fane wins rounds of applause by her graceful dancing.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor.—Mr. E. Oswald Brooks' company in The Trail of the Serpent is the attraction here this week. Mr. Henry P. Kenn creates a favourable impression as Sir Gerald Kingston, and Mr. A. Campbell-Kelly gives a finished rendering of Gerald Kingston; Mr. Wilford Cheetham as the villainous Ralph Hammond acts with much dramatic power; Mr. Booth Conway is good as Gipsy Jake; and Mr. Vincent Kelway is responsible for the humorous part of William Higgins. Miss Marjorie May is particularly successful as Ethel Maynard; Miss Ethel Stuart makes an admirable Rachael; and Miss Gladys Newcombe is commendable as Rose Wilson.

CROYDON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—The boards here are occupied by Mr. Jerrard Grant Allen's company in Arthur Law's farce, The New Boy. Mr. Leon M. Talbot Homewood is quite up to the mark as Felix Roach; Mr. Harold Weston is just suited to the part of Theodore de Brizac; Mr. Stanley Logan makes the most of Bullock Major; and Mr. M. A. Scott is good as Stubber. Miss Maud Magrath is an enchanting Nancy Roach; Miss Margaret Fareleigh a neat Susan; and Miss Katherine Harrington deserves all praise for her excellent rendering of Mrs. Martha Rennick. The curtain raiser is The Borrowed Uncle, in which Mr. Leon M. Lion gives a fine character sketch of Timothy Filby; Mr. A. Corney Grain makes a suitable John Grimn; Mr. Harold Weston acts with sincerity as Arthur Wakefield; and Miss Margaret Fareleigh is a charming Lucy Winwood.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—Mr. H. H. Barrington's company is here this week in The Ticket o' Leave Man. Mr. C. F. Collings scores as Robert Brierly; Mr. H. H. Barrington is great as James Dalton; Mr. Leonard Booker is capital as Hawkshaw; Mr. Ashton Winslow is creditable as Mr. Gibson; Mr. H. W. Monte makes capital out of the rôle of Melter Moss; Mr. E. Harvey White causes keen enjoyment in the character of Green Jones; Miss Hettie Graham is praiseworthy as Sam Willoughby; Miss Nell Gillmore is well placed as Mrs. Willoughby; Miss Effie Bartlett wins approval as Emily St. Eyremonde; Miss Madge Morley is commendable as May Edwards; and Messrs. Ernest Tresaner, James Johnson, and Edward Green lend useful aid.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace H. Jay.—Visitors are delighted with the bill of fare provided here. The Darktown Entertainers are a comedy vocal quartette of ability; Rauschle is heartily received in his impersonations of great men, past and present; William Gourley is a clever comedian; the Columbia Trio submit an excellent humorous vocal turn; the Eight Sunrays, vocalists and dancers, are enjoyed; Bosanquet gives an exquisite performance on the violin and Bosanquephone; Thos. E. Finglas is clever in coon song and dance; the Phantos bring down the house in their comic novelty, The Phantom Ship; Fred Herbert, vocalist, gains applause; Nina Martino sings her way into favour; and the one act comedy, The Garter, is admirably enacted by Messrs. Ernest Leicester, William Garvey, Joseph Brandon, and Misses Sophy Shenton and Kate Walbran. Mr. Jay is being cordially congratulated upon his able management of this house.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—A variety company is again the attraction at the above house. Addie Dorina tops the bill in her original duologue, How it was Done, in which she impersonates six distinct characters; another good turn is the Karno Trio, in the funny sketch, The Traveller's Rest. The Dummy, by the Gregson Comedy Trio, goes well; the Two Whites are clever comedy artists; Oliver Conroy, character comedian, is pleasing; and other turns are the Lorrisons, eccentrics; Agnes Molteno, a charming vocalist; Arthur Croxton, mimic; and the Bellograph Pictures.

DEAL.—ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—A fantastic extravaganza, entitled A Trip to Nodland, was given here on Tuesday, under the direction of Miss Solley. Miss Ada Band played the part of Rupert the Jester nicely; Miss Annie Job as the dwarf was commendable; the success of the evening was Miss Dorothy Dixon, who took the part of the maid of all work.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Albert Orton.—Mr. P. Howard Sturgess's company is here this week with a melodrama called A Queen of Villainy. Miss Edith Blande as Cora Granville well sustains her artistic reputation; as Stephen Fancit, Mr. Edward Heanley submits a capable embodiment; and Mr. Ernest Carlton is successful as Sir John Desborough. Mr. E. G. Batley gives a manly depiction of Alec; and Mr. Lawrence Stevens is in every way commendable as Kit. Mr. Charles Sterling is very good as Dick Lemster; Miss Shirley Dalton makes an acceptable Rose Dalmayne; and Mr. Arthur E. Maskel as Reuben Hawk, and Miss Amy Rose Clyde as Sally Chimes, are both well deserving; whilst fun is provided by Mr. Chas. Rodgers as Timothy Kodac, and Miss Jessie Crammonde as Mollie Maggs.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Taylor. —The bill is headed this week by the Four Juggling Geraldos, who give a capital exhibition of their art. Russell Wallett, who poses as "The Woman in Black," creates plenty of amusement with his songs and patter. Other commendable turns are provided by Mabel La Blanche, a pleasing burlesque actress; Walter Adams, an entertaining comedian; Picitt and Lizitte, who figure accept ably in a mystifying sketch, The Demon Chief; Victor Newman, an actor mimic of exceptional ability; and the Four Lamberts, smart comedy acrobats. On Thursday Mr. Taylor, Mr. Edwardes's manager here, was to take a well-merited benefit.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—This week Miss Winifred Maude and company are delighting large houses by an admirable performance of The Stowaway. As Dicky Dials, Mr. Victor Du Cane has a strong part, which he renders full justice to. Miss Maude as Althea Dale, depicts this rôle with commendable power. Mr. Royce Carleton is well placed as Tom Inglis, and Mr. Austin Milroy could hardly be improved upon as Charles Etherington.

HIPPODROME AND VARIETIES. — General-Manager, Mr. G. Weldon.—The Olympian Quartette, with their excellent songs are a great draw here; Silly Billy Elliott, well known in this district, is a smart comedian; Oakdene, ventriloquist, is clever; and Bird and Arnold, song illustrators, are pleasing; Cara Magda, lady gymnast, and Louis Murray, actor vocalist, do well. TheHarriscope serves up an excellent variety of pictures.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—A clever company of variety artists is here this week, including Nipper Anten, the boy comedian and mimic; Elton and Elma, in their knockabout triple bar act; Evelyn Taylor, comedienne; the Walleys, comedy and expert jugglers; Ronald Bayne and Evelyn Hope, in their illustration of a scene in the life of Napoleon; J. H. McCann, acrobatic dancer on roller skates; the Mazondos, in a comedy act; and Mr. Joseph B. Montagu, with popular songs.

DUBLIN. — GAIETY THEATRE. — Sole Representative and Patentee, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—A large audience was present here on Monday to witness the performance of Are You a Mason? by Mr. Charles Macdona's company. Mr. E. Paterson as Amos Bloodgood, and Mr. H. Longdon Bruce as Frank Perry are both highly amusing in their respective parts; and George Fisher has a capable exponent in Mr. Allan Pollock. Miss Ploonsgains is decidedly good as Franchon Armitage; and the part of John Halton is in the able hands of Mr. Richard Purdon. Miss Adelaide Grace is creditable as Mrs. Caroline Bloodgood; and Mr. Percy Bell is well suited as Hamilton Travers. Miss Mabe Younge is an admirable Mrs. Perry; and Miss Alice Raynor plays the part of Lottie with much success. The drama in one act entitled A Bad Penny precedes.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Moullot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The second week of the grand Musical Festival was entered upon here on Monday night, when an excellent programme was presented to a full house. The place of Mr. Ben Davies, who was unable to appear, was creditably filled by Mr. Dever, whose vocal items were cordially received. Miss Grace O'Brien executed her pianoforte solos with much grace and finish; Mme. Blanche Marchesi, who sang an air from Trovatore and valse from Mireille, was loudly encored; and Miss Mabel Braine, a charming contralto, achieved a distinct success. Mr. R. J. Forbes accompanied, and the band of the Cameron Highlanders played several selections during the evening. On Tuesday evening Mr. Ben Davies appeared, and met with a flattering reception.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Whitbread; Acting-Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson.—Miss Kate Vincent's company is appearing here this week in Boucicault's drama The Streets of London. Mr. Edward Beverley gives a good representation of Gideon Crawley; and Miss Kate Vincent acts remarkably well as Alida Crawley. Mr. Robert Lawrence as Captain Fairweather is eminently successful; and the same may be said of Miss Bella Richardson as Lucy Fairweather. Mark Livingstone is ably sustained by Mr. Earle Clifton; and Miss D. Cameron is excellent as Mrs. Puffy.

PAVILION, KINGSTOWN.—Manager, Mr. C. Irvine Bacon.—At this popular resort we have the Harlquin's company of variety artists, whose varied programme of character songs, ventriloquism, and music is exceedingly interesting. The bioscope pictures are also amusing.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Tom Costello is the attraction here this week, and proves as big a favourite as ever; Mme. Sylvia's electric vocal tableaux receive well-merited applause; and Amy Russell is a pleasing ballad vocalist. Ivey Roze and Frank Calvert, the comedy couple, evoke much merriment; and Edwin Barwick is a clever character comedian. The Brothers Corcoran, musical shipbuilders, meet with success; as does also Forrest and King, in their comedy dancing act, and Dora Lyric, comedienne. The Empire pictures are up to date.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Mahomed Ben Mahomed's troupe top the bill here this week, and meet with a cordial reception; the Sarthaler troupe of Tyrolean vocalists and dancers make a welcome reappearance; and Harry Russell's company in the sketch Bink's Blunder is responsible for much laughter. Other turns which win approbation are Allsop and Beckwith, comedy artists; Ethel Doyle, comedienne; Nellie Gannon, descriptive vocalist; Percy Curry, comedian; Alberto, Australian magician; Peggy Fame, comedienne; and Harry Wright, a smart vocal comedian.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Mr. Brandon Thomas's No. 1 company in Charley's Aunt is paying another welcome visit here. Mr. John Beamish is successful as Colonel Sir Francis Chesney; Mr. Walter Beaumont is highly amusing as Spettigue; Mr. Hastings Lynn puts plenty of "go" into the part of Jack Chesney; Mr. Stanley Cooke keeps the house in a roar as the Aunt from Brazil. Miss Lena McNaughton acts with charm and ability as Donna Lucia; and Miss Marion Ripley and Miss Dorothy Deacon as Kitty Verdon and Amy Spettigue respectively are vivacious in their parts; Miss Gladys Storey's Ela Delahay is a prettily-played part.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Deputy Acting-Manager, Mr. Rhodes Wells.—Cliff Ryland, comedian and vocalist, and the Dunlops, in an acrobatic balance act, are the chief items in the programme this week. Both turns are much appreciated. Bert and Dora are lively and smart comedy artists; Leslie Murray, magician, introduces some new and entirely mystifying tricks; Marie Winsome is a male impersonator of ability; D. W. Watson, cornetist and coach-horn artist, is also well received; Alf Brookes, character comedian, has some good songs. The Empire Pictures still prove interesting.

DUNDEE.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Dickie Clare's comedians are here with Lucky 'Liza. Miss Gertie Douglas, in the title-rôle, has a bright, vivacious manner. Mr. Dickie Clare makes a successful appearance as Silas Slim, and Mr. Leonard Maitland creates hearty laughter as Paul Pettitoe; Miss Madge Locke sings "Remember me to mother dear" in good style; Mr. James Chippendale gives a capital impersonation of Peter Pettitoe; Mr. Willie Reid is quaint in the part of William Biffins; Miss Belle Russel is an excellent Marie Pettitoe, and specialities are introduced by The Astor Trio and Miss Madge Brownie.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe. —A London Actress is the title of the play produced here this week by Miss Emma Litchfield's company. Miss Litchfield gives a clever portraiture of Hilda Mannering; Miss Maud Steeple is well suited with the part of Phyllis Crawford; Miss Millie Hayward is seen to advantage in the part of Rosie Blyth, and Miss Nelly Fern is a quaint Biddy Maloney; Mr. Stuart Cleveland is a vigorous, manly Clive Crawford; Mr. Richard Vane an excellent Lieutenant Kingstone, Mr. John Worth an effective Captain Mannering, Mr. John Hitchine a humorous Pat Maloney, and Mr. George H. Doyle a capital Moses.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—Davis and Gledhill are very interetsing in road and track cycle racing; Belrose and De Velin please the audience with their duets; Harris, Scotch comedian, creates hilarity with his patter and comic songs; Doodey and Wright, Australian comedians, keep the house in good humour; Walter Anderson has a fine voice; and Jack Easy, comedian, is listened to with the greatest pleasure. Vernon's Animated Pictures are as attractive as ever.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—The British Empire Animated Photo Co. continue to attract crowds nightly. The pictures shown are greatly enjoyed. A strong attraction is the Troupe of Gipsies in a well-arranged performance of their national songs and dances. Miss La Clair and Little Doris are heard to advantage.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. Standen Triggs.—The Tarantula Amateur Dramatic company gave a performance here on Monday of The Brixton Burglary, which was preceded by an original comedietta, entitled Second Thoughts.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. Norman Macowan and his company are appearing here during the week in Monsieur Beaucaire and A Soldier of Fortune. The latter was staged on Tuesday evening, when as Rupert Clive Mr. Macowan attained considerable success. A strong, incisive, and clever performance was given by Mr. Murray Hathorn as the Earl of Annandale; Mr. Arthur Somers made a picturesque Sir Stephen; and Mr. Leonard Laurence was an efficient Dr. Thorn; Mr. A. Conybeare Gough proved to be an effective Phineas Sturge; and other parts were in good hands. Miss Marguerite Collier was a sweet and attractive Lady Phyllis; Miss Annie Windsor a satisfactory Grace; and Miss C. Howard Medley a good Mistress Cullen.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Smith.—A capital bill is being offered the patrons here this week. Miss Harriet Vernon is deservedly a great favourite and a sweet voice, beautiful dresses, and a pretty scene are aids to the artistic success that she attains. Mr. Frank Elliston, assisted by a lady and gentleman, appears in an extremely well-acted sketch, Aunt Matilda; Burnetti and Cowie are clever comedy jugglers; Cosgrove and Burns are a couple who sing, dance, and patter to the delight of the audience; the Raymond Trio are pleasing musicians and expert dancers; Miss Rose Archer is an attractive lady, whose mimicry is excellent; Mr. Russel Carr is highly amusing as a ventriloquist; and Mr. Charles Ashdown as a singer and dancer is well received.

ECCLES.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—This week we are having a change from the usual dramatic production by the appearance of a variety company. Messrs. Cullen and Carthy and Little Cluley occupy the star positions, and give an excellent account of themselves. The Dunlops supply a clever turn as comedy cyclists and skaters; Dolly Cullen and Elsie Jordison achieve a great success with their tricky songs and dances; Mr. Ronald Banks, a vocalist of considerable merit, sings some good songs; the New Hulines are successful in their comical musical act; the Sisters Volbecque are good as comedy duettists; Miss Emilene Dunscombe is a lady ventriloquist and pianist of considerable merit; Miss Lillian Savado is a graceful trapeze artist; and Martin Conway, the quaint comedian, keeps the house in a roar all the time he occupies the stage. The Bioscope concludes a good all-round show.

EDINBURGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—Mr. Sydney Bowkett's pleasant comedy Lucky Miss Dean is being presented here this week by Mrs. Eugene C. Stafford's company. Miss Dora Gray's impersonation of the title-part is full of good work; and that capable and entertaining comedian, Mr. William H. Ashcroft, in the character of Frederick Ware, distinctly adds to his reputation by his skilful, bright, and easy acting. A notably clever character-sketch is given by Mr. Cyril Price-Evans as the dyspeptic dude Wilfred Ashmole; and Mr. W. T. Elmworthy, Mr. Vivian Gilbert, and Miss Estelle Despa complete an efficient cast. The comedy is preceded by the farce My American Admirer, which mainly owes its success to a broad portrayal of a somewhat improbable Yankee millionaire by Mr. W. T. Elworthy, and to the droll acting of Miss Estelle Despa as Mary Ann Stubbs.

ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. George T. Minshull.—Mr. Thomas Thorne and company, under the direction of Mr. M. Russell Rosse, are appearing this week in Our Boys. Mr. Thorne, with whom the part has been identified for many years, is Perkin Middlewick, and it is sufficient at this time of day to say that his representation of the retired butterman has lost none of those qualities of ripe, rich comedy that have made the part a kind of modern theatrical classic. Mr. Norman Clark makes an excellent foil as the aristocratic Sir Geoffrey; and the two sons, Talbot and Charles, have capital representatives in Mr. Rex B. Foote and Mr. Randolph Reade. Mr. A. Harding, too, shows ability in the small part of Kempster. The ladies' parts are also well cast, Miss Elsie Howard Ross and Miss Eva Lonsdale being pretty and vivacious as Violet and Mary Melrose; Miss Bessie Harrison is sufficiently dignified as Miss Champneys; and Miss Edith Hesketh makes a typical lodging-house slavey of Belinda.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting - Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton.—The programme here is rich in variety this week. The Harmony Four are an unmistakable success, alike by reason of their clever fooling and admirable singing; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden, in a smart sketch, Two to One, act with finish and humour; and Florence and Lilian evoke vehement applause by their delightful playing and singing. Mr. Arthur Gill, in a turn descriptive of a countryman's experience at a concert, proves himself an able mimic of various kinds of voices; and Mr. Harry Carsdale is, as usual, excellent in his imitations. Miss Gladys Mavius, in two dashing male impersonations, is exhilarating; Mr. Tom Owen, Welsh comedian, raises the laughter of the audience by his drollery; and Belle Braham gives pleasure by her capital rendering of picture songs. Harding and Ah-Sid (American eccentrics), Mlle. Olive (juggler), Celeste (baton manipulator and tight and slack-wire artist), and Derenda and Green (juggling comedians) are all distinctly individual in their respective lines.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Miss Winifred Chalmer's company is appearing here this week in the drama, A Woman's Revenge. Mr. Henry L. Osmond plays the part of Frank Drummond, the hero, in a manner which evokes much applause; the acting of Miss Winifred Chalmers as Mary Lonsdale, the heroine, is all that could be desired; Mr. Alexander Haviland as Robert Overstone well portrays the villain; and Mr. Frith is good as Jeptha Grimwade; Miss Phyllis Vaughan ably sustains her part of Mabel Wentworth, an adventuress; Mr. Harry Cooke as Dick Chilton, and Miss Mabel Tremere, as Lottie Bromley, introduce the humorous element into the play. During the week The Master Criminal has also been successfully presented.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H.W. Rowland.—Messrs. Wm. Fraser-Brunner and Gilbert Heron's company is appearing here this week in The Superior Miss Pellender. Miss Jessie Danvers is full of life as Mrs. Pellender; Miss Alice Belmore in the title-rôle scores a great success; Miss Jessie Ramsey as Edith does the part full justice; Miss Alice Bowes is a dainty and girlish Nancy; Mr. George Belmore causes amusement as Noel; and Mr. Gilbert Heron's rendering of Mr. Lister leaves nothing to be desired. The comedy is preceded by a play, entitled Kit's Atonement, which meets with approval.

LEA'S PAVILION.—Mr. A. Litter.—Miss Dorothy Boselle is paying a return visit here this week, and sings in good style; Mr. Joseph Blashcheck, humorist, receives well merited applause; the Ladies Blue Salon Band plays at intervals, and the animated pictures are excellent.

GATESHEAD.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—The Branded Woman is being presented here with considerable success. Mr. James Stillwell displays fine histrionic powers in the dual rôles of Philip Maurice and Zarka; Mr. Edward Fryer is responsible for a clever impersonation of the villain, Baron Hauber; Mr. Beckett Bould is a big favourite as Dick Brown; Mr. Paul E. Teulon depicts Louis Duroc with considerable skill; Miss Zana St. George is highly successful as the villainess, Genevieve Larouche; Miss Katherine Barnett invests the part of Marie with the necessary amount of pathos; Miss Kitty McPherson shows much vivacity as Jacqueline; and Miss Hilda Townsend is deserving of special mention for her clever interpretation of the part of Rudolph.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. M. S. Hammond; General-Manager, Mr. Joe May.—A first-class entertainment is provided here this week. Capt. Max Gruber's elephant, horse, and pony form the star attraction, and they certainly reflect great credit upon their trainer; the Dumond Minstrels, a trio of clever instrumentalists, make the "hit" of the bill; Blanche and Powell, musical comedy artists, provide an excellent turn; the Three Romas, described as gladiatorial marvels, score a success; George Ripon is a comedian of merit; Miss May Belle May is a dainty comedienne; Lee Lung is a clever young Chinese magician; Gracie Lawn is a charming singer and dancer; Harry and May Kent are successful in a comedy act; and the King's pictures conclude the entertainment.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—"Starring" here is Dr. Carl Hermann, hypnotist, electrician, and scientist; Harry Nelson is a local comedian, who scores; Yorkshire Tom is a finished minnie; and also appearing are Wallau, juggler; Violet Ashcroft, ballad singer; the Three Bostonians in a musical act; and Downey's living pictures.

GLASGOW.—KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—The visit of Mr. Charles Cartwright's company in Dan'l Peggotty gives local playgoers an opportunity of again seeing some of Dickens' most famous characters in a very touching episode represented on the stage with a fidelity and care that deserves high praise. The Peggotty of Mr. Cartwright is a realisation of the character that must appeal strongly to all, and is an impersonation of outstanding merit. Mr. Humphrey Warden's Copperfield also comes very near the original, and is altogether a fine conception of the part. The gallant airs and easy bearing of Steerforth are depicted with considerable art by Mr. Arthur Royston; Mr. Chas. Collette hits off the grandiloquent manner of Micawber splendidly; the "umble eccentricities of Uriah Heep are cleverly portrayed by Mr. Ivan Berlyn; as the bashful young sailor Ham, Mr. Alfred Woods looks and acts the part well; Mr. H. Carter Bligh is good as Mr. Wickfield, and to the part of Littimer, Mr. Ernest Mozar gives character, and during an interlude sings one of Moore's songs with admirable effect. As Little Em'ly, Miss Molly Pearson's acting is graceful, and tender to a degree. Strong dramatic effect is given to the characters of Mrs. Steerforth and Rosa Darth by Miss Maud Williamson and Miss Edith Cartwright respectively; Miss Gordon Walker gives a charming idea of Agnes Wickfield; Miss Mary Smith makes a capital Mrs. Gummidge, and other parts are well filled by Miss Mabel Luxmore, Miss Scott-Lauder, and Miss Ruby Wyndham.

ROYALTY. — Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. M. Downie. —Mr. Henry Doughty's company are presenting here this week the farcical comedy The Barrister, which was very smartly played. Mr. Henry Doughty, as Arthur Maxwell, proves an able exponent of the part. Mr. E. W. Thomas, as Major Drayton, causes plenty of merriment. The Captain Arthur Walker of Mr. W. A. Dunlop is played in a forcible manner. A winning assumption of Mrs. Maxwell is submitted by Miss Vera Leslie. Mr. A. C. Thornhill, as Jack Rodderick, gives a character-sketch of merit. Miss Beryl Graham as Kitty Drayton and Miss Amy Lloyd-Desmond as Jane do good work, and Miss Cicely Hamilton as Miss Foster and Miss Edith Coleman as Mrs. Ellen Fayre do justice to their parts. The new one-act drama, The Traveller Returns, forms an admirable curtain-raiser.

ROYAL PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch. — A very enjoyable play is Current Cash, given here this week by Miss Gwennie Harcourt's company. Miss Harcourt acts with much humour and cleverness as Delia Challis. Mr. Charles Seguin makes a strongly dramatic hero, as Captain Milton. Mr. John Macfarlane makes a duly cynical villain as Major Chellis. Mr. Tom Conway as a talkative soldier, afterwards a moucher, keeps the fun going briskly. Miss Florence Brewster acts with distinction and pathos as Grace Milton, and her daughter Sybil, is well played in the first act by a tiny little girl, Baby Gwen, who speaks her lines in fine style; later, the part is taken with excellent effect by Miss Ducie Sanderson. Mr. W. Burgess-Barratt as a bashful curate, Mr. Richard Sullivan as a more energetic and up-to-date lover, and Mr. Rudolph Kloss and Mr. Norman Craigh in other parts, complete a well balanced caste. The play is finely staged.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Good houses are assembling here to welcome Mr. Charles March and his company in Zoo Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires and R. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Three of a Kind is one of the most amusing sketches ever presented to a Glasgow audience. It is in the hands of a highly capable company headed by Mr. George Able and Miss Ethel Arden; Brown and Le Clerq give their laughable turn entitled Black Justice, and are very well received; the Delevines are great favourites, and in their comedy sketch, Flipp and Flopp, provoke much laughter; another good turn is given by Eadie and Ramsden in their comedy and musical act; James Brady is highly successful with his funny songs; Chas. Ousley dances well; Leonie Dixon sings and dances in an acceptable manner; and the dancing of the Lunelle Sisters is much appreciated.

Pavilion, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Lottie Lennox is here once more, and her tuneful choruses catch on immensely, the audience joining in with a will; George Gilbey's eccentricities prove highly popular, and all his songs and impersonations have humour and freshness to recommend them; the Three Prestons appear in addition to the advertised programme, and their turn is one of the biggest hits of the evening; the Five Musical Palmers give a most enjoyable instrumental entertainment, including both classical and popular items; C. Emlyn Jones and company give a clever series of international songs; Grace Langler has some popular songs; the Lannons are a clever couple, their clog and slab dancing being wonderfully neat; Dave O'Toole gets a hearty reception; and Florence Watson gives a clever serio turn.

Palace.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—George D'Albert, who tops the bill here, is one of the special turns, and made a capital impression, his singing being greatly appreciated; Miss Lottie Lennox, comedienne, also shared the honours, singing in her best style; while the entertainment provided by the Donaldson Bros. and Ardel was responsible for much laughter; other notable turns include Tom Stuart, dramatic impersonator; Bishop and Vale, comedians and dancers; Vernon Troupe, Xylophone experts; Tiny Arnold, comedienne and dancer; Nora Emerald, serio comedienne; Maudie Vera, coon singer and dancer; and the Animatograph with a capital selection of pictures.

Colisæum.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan.—An exceptionally high-class variety company is booked here this week, the chief attraction being the engagement of Prinz's forest-bred lions. The lions go through all manner of tricks, and show the high perfection of training which is needed to keep them under control, the performance being much enjoyed; Horace Wheatley, comedian, is as great a favourite as ever; while the turn submitted by Bernar's Fantoches is marvellous. In the place of Oswald Williams the management secured the services of the Empire Comedy Four, and this well-known quartette had a rousing reception, their singing being a special feature of the evening's entertainment. A clever sketch entitled Wanted, a Divorce, is contributed by Stive and Evans; and the Sisters Jonghmann excel in harmonised songs. The other members of the company include Bros. Harrison, comedians; James H. Cullen, "The Man from Chicago"; Constance Bellamy, vocalist; and the American Bioscope in a new series of pictures.

Tivoli.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. M. Armstrong.—The Matweef Hugoston troupe of Russian singers, dancers, and acrobats are the leading turn at this popular house, and their well-known performance is deservedly well received. A clever juggling and club performance by Mlle. De Vena and a gymnastic display, including heavy ball manipulation, by Alec Aubrey are both worthy of special remark; while the balancing of the Three Aindows is remarkably daring and clever; Charles Mildare whistles as sweetly as ever, his imitations of birds securing him a recall; Ruth Lytton, Scotch comedienne, and Sam Thomson, in Scotch humorous songs, find favour, as do Dunlop and Gould, pattering comedians and dancers; "True till Death" is well sung by Clarice Raynor, who is prettily attired; Waldron's turn may be described as one of the funniest on the stage. On Monday evening a new piece by Mr. R. F. Morrison and Barney Armstrong, entitled Bertie's Birthday Party, was staged, which proved to be one of the most pleasing sketches seen for a good period. The juvenile element predominates, and Mr. Armstrong has discovered some clever talent in sweet voices, pretty children, who dance excellently, and two boys, as "street arabs," in several duets, had a good reception. In Farmer's Nursery Rhymes eight others, prettily dressed, made a big hit. Percival, as Bertie, is excellent, and his pianoforte playing artistic; Little Barney is humorous in many disguises, while Jack Chambers, as Horace and Badger secures a hearty recall for some eccentric singing and dancing. Miss Amy Percival, as Mrs. Badger, is quite successful as Bertie's mamma.

GLOSSOP.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Miss Sidney Crowe and Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company is here this week with The Way of the World. Mr. H. B. Lewis as Cecil Montague acts with sincerity and force; Mr. Pat Quinn as Silas Montague, and Mr. Frank Stanley as Ned Montague, achieve success; Mr. Herbert Skardon as Capt. Fred Slade displays ability; Mr. Clarence Temple is worthy of special mention as Matthew Ma'yon; Mr. Fred Mace is good as Sir John Slade; and Mr. Augustus Hammond gives a humorous interpretation of Horatio Bluff. Miss Sidney Crowe is most effective in the part of Adela de la Roche; Miss Cissie Bellamy gives a good delineation of Kate Montague; and Miss Violet Ingram acts particularly well as Marian Fanshaw. The comedy parts, Polly Bell and Joe Sparrow, are amusingly played by Miss Marie Fontaine and Mr. Dick Sedden.

GLOUCESTER. — Theatre Royal. — Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. Rea.—A capital company, headed by Mr. Chas. Otley, is this week playing Our Boys and Caste. On Monday the former was staged, Mr. Otley acting the part of Perkyn Middlewick in the drollest manner possible; Sir Geoffrey Champneys was rendered in dignified and clever style by Mr. Stephen T. Ewart; Miss Marie Jonquil as Belinda was thoroughly successful; Mr. W. Besley-Beltram as Talbot Champneys, and Mr. Herbert Robinson as Charles Middlewick, were each excellent in their respective rôles. Miss Olive Palmer was charming as Violet Melrose; and a similar compliment is deserved by Miss Edith Heron Brown for her acting as Mary Melrose. Mr. Fitzpatrick was good as Kempter; and Miss Phyllis Manners was decidedly effective as Clarissa Champneys.

GRAVESEND.—Grand Theatre of Varieties, Ltd. — General Manager, Mr. David Hart. — A capital programme has been provided for this week. Direct from the Palace Theatre, London, Messrs. Livesey and Roseberry present their new sketch Would-be Actors, meeting with considerable success. Marie Kean, comedienne, puts the audience on good terms with themselves; Charles Sloman, comedian, is highly amusing; Ellis and Watts provide a wholesale amount of fun, and the Sisters Ford as character and comedy duettists are voted admirable entertainers. In Bijou Russell, who is stated to be the lady champion buck dancer of America, we have a really clever artist.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—Royal Aquarium.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. T. Arthur Jones and company are here this week with Life's Sweetest Sins. Mr. Jones gives a manly rendering of the rôle of Capt. Harold Marston; Doctor Colbrooke and his confederates, Kimberley Coutts and the Rev. Edward Grey, are effectively portrayed by Mr. Oswald Douglas, Mr. Robert Sawin, and Mr. Clem Horlock. Mr. Edgar Morgan is capital as Bob Tanner; and Mr. Bertram Lee contributes a clever character sketch as Martin. Miss May Ainslie is excellent as Fay Colbrooke; Miss Sara Dudley is vivacious as Bess Grayson; and Miss Marie Daventry charming and sympathetic as Doreen Rivers.

GREENOCK. — Pavilion Theatre. — General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—A capital company is engaged here this week, including Ben Hur, athlete; Fox and Melville, American song illustrators; Twin Andersons, George Antill, Milsted and Bell, Charlie Williams, and the American Bioscope.

GRIMSBY.—Prince of Wales's Theatre.—Managing Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The dramatic version of Dumas' Monte Cristo, played by Mr. Junius Booth, has admirably realised the main features of this great novel. Mr. Booth himself has appeared as Edmund Dantes, and his conception of the various emotions which influence this wonderful man from time to time was most impressive. He was well supported by a numerous company. The conspirators Fernand and Danglars were suitably represented by Mr. Lawrence Grove and Mr. Alfred Terris; whilst the unscrupulous Villefort found a capable exponent in Mr. W. Uridge. Miss Joan Ellis was good as Mercédes; and Mr. A. T. Gullifer was equal to the part of Albert de Morcerf. Special mention may also be made of Mr. E. Howard Templeton for his work as Noirtier.

Curry's Tivoli.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Harry Roxbury's sketch, The Prince of Monte Carlo, which includes a burlesque duel scene, has proved extremely laughable. The company which presents it numbers over a dozen, and several capital musical items are introduced. Mack Olive's whistling dialogue is very smart; Astley's miniature circus is popular; the Westwoods give a daring cycling act; and others who contribute are Jack Pleasants, a comedian with a particularly droll style; John Ross, double-voiced vocalist; and Jessie Merrilees, comedienne. A capital Bioscope picture of the great wrestling match between Hackenschmidt and Madrali is shown.

The Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—Marie Lloyd, who paid her first visit to Grimsby this week, has attracted crowded audiences nightly. Unbounded delight has been expressed with Miss Lloyd's dainty style and vivacious songs. She was supported by a strong company, including the Tom Davies Trio, whose sensational feats of motor cycling on a suspended miniature track have occasioned much wonder. Smart gymnastics were displayed by the Itrams; Vosper exhibited facial impersonations of notabilities; and others appearing were Dawson Dewick, burlesque orator; Will Letters, comedian; Henry Morris, comedian; and Ella Lane, comedienne.

GUERNSEY.—St. Julian's Hall.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robt. Perkins.—Mr. Allan Wilkie and company reappeared here on the 18th inst, in The Orphan Girls. Mr. A. Wilkie again displayed ability as Pierre; Mr. R. S. Enner handled the Count de Liniers with conspicuous success; Mr. George Lambton was an ideal Jacques; the La Frochard of Mr. Clifford Rean deserves special mention; Mr. Malcolm Tearle (Marquis de Presles), and Mr. G. T. Greig (Picard), were both admirable; as was Mr. J. Willoughby, as the Doctor. The orphans were realistically and sympathetically portrayed by Miss Ene Cameron and Miss Laura Hansen; Miss F. Powell (Julie) and Miss L. Maddock (Countess de Liniers) complete an excellent cast.

HALIFAX.—Theatre Royal, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. Buchanan Rogerson's successful play, Darkness, founded on Guy Thorne's novel, "When It was Dark," occupies the stage here this week. Mr. Morton Powell's company has many capable artists. Mr. Bonhote Wilson is seen to advantage in the rôle of Constantine Schwabe; Mr. T. A. Shannon does well as the Rev. Basil Gomtne; a word of praise is due to Mr. Ed. Valentine, who plays effectively as Sir Robt. Llewellyn; and Miss V. St. Lawrence cannot be too highly commended for her portrayal of a Prying Poll.

Grand Theatre, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—This week The Midnight Mail is being presented by Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company twice nightly. As Billy Brewer Mr. Fred G. Evison makes an excellent impression; Mr. George Harvard makes a typical Hy. Steyne; and Miss Grace Lester as the much wronged wife, does well.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edward Harrison.—The top position here is held by the Six Bros. Luck in The Demon of the Cellar. The song "Has your Mother any More Like You?" sung by Miss Lily Black, is much enjoyed; Chas. Morton is clever and entertaining as a mimic; Joe Oliver meets with a good reception; Arthur Reece is quite successful; and some sweet singing is submitted by the Dolly, Agnes, and Maud Mill Girls.

HANLEY.—Royal, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Charles Howard.—Mr. Jack Haddon's company is paying a visit in the interesting drama, Under the Russian Flag. Miss Marie Rayner shows exceptional ability in the part of Luka; Miss Elaine Vanburgh is distinctly successful in her rôle; as also is Miss Agnes Howard as Ogarita; Mr. Jack Haddon makes a manly Captain Demetrius; Michael finds a capital representative in Mr. Bernard Mervyn; Mr. Cecil Mellon scores as Ivan; Poluski, in the hands of Mr. Hal Forde, is well placed; and Mr. Fred Haming's Alexis is a performance of merit.

Grand, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—Parks' Eton Boys head the bill this week, and score their usual success; Desmonti and Mora, in their triple bar turn, contribute a wonderful gymnastic display; Charles Serra, an equilibrist of much merit, has deputised for Phil Ray, who on Monday was unable to appear through indisposition; the Ferrares are capital dancers; Regan and Ryan are a most amusing pair, their patter and dancing being first-class; Bromley and Fontein are seen in a capital sketch, A Musical Birthday; Nellie Randall sings and dances admirably; and the Sisters Stratton, in their big boot dance, are well received.

HARROGATE.—Grand Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock.—The theatre reopened on Monday evening with a return visit from Mr. Henry Swinerd's company in Dare-Devil Dorothy. In the title-rôle Miss Dorothy Desmond is graceful and dainty, and her singing is no small feature; as Ruth Montrose, Miss Ethel M. Darsley is also seen to advantage; the comedy of Mr. Will Brereton as Silas Crump is smart and clever.

HARTLEPOOL. — Empress. — Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—The strong programme here is headed by the Riogoku Family of (seven) Japanese artists in a fine display of balancing and tumbling. Ike Scott and Sons are popular in the sketch, The Blind Coster; Mozetto is an artistic juggler; and local favourites are seen in J. C. Scatter, comedian and dancer; the Sisters Brenton, vocalists and dancers; Lilian, the acme of grace, in trick cycling; and Smiler Lee, with crisp patter. Interesting films depict incidents in the everyday routine of police duty.

HASTINGS.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland. Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt. On Monday the F. R. Benson company, in a Shakespearean répertoire, opened a week's visit here with an excellent production of Hamlet. Mr. Henry Herbert submitted a carefully studied impersonation of the Danish Prince, and achieved an artistic success. Great histrionic ability was also shown by Miss Dorothy Green, whose Ophelia was excellent. The garrulous Polonius had a capable exponent in Mr. Ross Shore, and Laertes a stalwart and acceptable representative in Mr. G. Ames, who at short notice was substituted for Mr. B. Limpus. Mr. Alfred A. Harris gave an adequate rendering of the King, as also did Miss K. Turner of the Queen. Twelfth Night, Macbeth, Taming of the Shrew, She Stoops to Conquer, and The Merry Wives of Windsor are also in the répertoire.

Hippodrome, Theatre of Varieties.—Resident and General Manager, Mr. Albert Mathams.—An interesting programme is opened by the charming soubrette, Miss Nellie Dunbar; the skating experiences of Mr. H. E. High are exceedingly quaint and funny; the Sisters Melba are excellent vocalists; Mr. Sid Bandon, comedian, is popular; the Singing Navvy, Mr. Harry Coates, is popular; an amusing sketch is given by Adams and Rouse; Miss Annie Purcell is much applauded for her cultured singing; and some up-to-date films are shown by the Hippodrome Bioscope.

Pier Pavilion.—Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—The Youngest of Three was successfully performed here the early part of the week by Mr. H. T. Maltby and company. Mr. H. F. Maltby gave a fine manly rendering of George Wendover; Gerald Wendover was equally well portrayed by Mr. W. H. Hargreaves; Mr. Wyn Weaver, as Philip Radford, presented a capital character study; Mr. Ralph Hutton was highly amusing as Samuel Johns; Mr. Ernest Noble, in the dual characters of Paul and Joshua Pynne, won favour; Mr. Reginald Favell was very good as Soke; and Hickey was well taken by Mr. George Mortimer. Miss Beatrice Marsdene made a charming representative of Lucy Dulley; Miss Mabel Mellor and Miss Mara Maltby were graceful exponents of Anne and Florence Dulley; and Jane was naturally taken by Miss Nancy York. For the last three nights of the week a one-act musical comedy entitled Fannikin was to be presented for the first time on any stage.

St. Leonard's Pier Pavilion.—Pier-Master and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—During the first part of the week the boards here were occupied by the musical comedy-drama entitled The Sporting Girl, of which Mr. T. Gilbert Perry is the author, and Mr. Alfred Sugden the composer. It is entirely a sporting piece in its characteristics, with some good songs and dances interspersed. Mr. Penton Hook, of Chicago, is capitally played by Mr. Harry Sinclair; Jack Garling has an admirable exponent in Mr. Horace Lionel; and Gerald Haynes is well represented by Mr. Charles Philips. There is a true clerical cut about the Rev. John Bunyan as given by Mr. Fred Hart; Mr. Hall Eldon acts cleverly as Marco; as the bogus money-lender, George Drewitt, Mr. Jas. H. Sterling presents an excellent character sketch. In the title-rôle Miss Maggie Sinclair is handsome and dashing; Miss Minnie Blackmore and Miss Nell Ascott do full justice to their respective parts; Miss Gladys St. Leger acts naturally as the cook. For the remainder of the week The Rajah of Ranjapore was announced.

HORWICH.—Prince's Theatre.—Lessees, The Provincial Theatres Co.; General-Manager, Mr. C. M. Neville; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ben Hawke.—The Western Canadian Cinématograph Company is providing the attraction here this week. Canada, as exhibited by the Bioscope, provides an instructive spectacle; the Musical Lindsays are an exceptionally smart turn; Miss Dora Leslie uses a remarkable voice to advantage; Burton and Trent, comedy duettists and dancers, are amusing; the London Pierrot Party provides plenty of fun; and the Comedy Four, in Matrimonial Bliss, add to the success of a good programme.

HUDDERSFIELD. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Andrews.—Messrs. Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod's company is playing what is described as a new and revised version of the play, entitled The Prodigal Parson. The principal parts are capably presented by Mr. W. V. Garrod as the Rev. Tom Godley; Mr. Alfred Northway as Enoch Jaggins; Mr. Frank Dallas as Ben Jaggins; Mr. Percy Dawsone as Phil Drive; Miss Gladys Conover as the distressed Myrtle Godley; and Mrs. May Grayce as the warm-hearted Gretchen von Craus. In the second act there is introduced a variety performance, in which the Radium Girls show skill as dancers.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—There is a good bill here, headed by Richard Sawade with his highly interesting exhibition of animal training. Other turns are contributed by Miss Dot Stephens, a dainty singer of good songs; Les Kyasyas, in a novel turn in weight-lifting by means of the teeth and hair; Mason and Bart, a couple of brilliant gymnasts and excellent comedians; Fred Horsfall, mimic; Walton and Lester in a screamingly funny burlesque of the modern illustionist; Miss Bonnie Goodwin and her troupe of real Piccaninnies, whose dancing is tip-top, and the Hippodrome pictures.

HULL.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Wm. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Mr. Charles Edwardes this week presents Mr. Alexander Loftus and company in the popular musical comedy The New Barmaid. Mr. Charles Adeson in the rôle of Bertie White scores a decided success; Mr. Loftus is prominent as William White; Mr. Leslie Austin sings well as Captain Lovebury; Mr. James Grant makes an excellent Colonel Claymore; Mr. W. E. Chewd proves an effective representative of Mons. Bonsor; and Mr. Frank Melroyd is smart and clever as Braddy. In the title-rôle Miss Maisie Ellinger is charming and graceful; Miss Violet Osmund, an attractive Dora Heather, contributes some clever dances; Brenda Louth is well played by Miss Maude Nicholls; and Miss Winifred Preston is a capable Lady Moulton. Speciality dances are introduced by the Star Trio, and a Scotch dance by Miss Queenie Bell is much applauded.

Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Life, a comedy drama, is being given here by Mr. Herbert Barrs's company. Jack Lockhart is well undertaken by Mr. Barrs, who gives a capital impersonation; Mr. A. Pringle portrays the villain, Sir Horace Lester, in a thoroughly convincing manner; Mr. Herbert Fuller's performance as Zac Krabbe deserves special praise; Mr. Willis Collins as Joe Pippett is good; and Mr. H. Edwin is a creditable representative of Peter Thorpe. Miss Maudie Vincent makes a big hit with her singing and dancing; Miss Dorothy Oswald acquits herself admirably as Ruth Thorpe; and Miss Agnes Collier as Beatrice Ferrars is well placed.

Alexandra Theatre.—Proprietors, Morton's, Ltd.; Resident-Director, Mr. George Morton.—When Woman Hates is being presented by Mr. Millar Anderson's company this week. Miss Mabel Mannering as Cora Daintry gives a powerful portrayal; Mr. Jerrold Heather is capital as Lieut. Rokeby; Mr. Millar Anderson shows ability as Godfrey Lawton; Miss Maud Townsend acts well as Marie Rokeby; and Miss Gladys Lloyd as Edith Rokeby is also successful. The humorous element is well sustained by Mr. Frank Litchfield as Police-constable O'Brien; Mr. Charles H. Hughes as Alphonso Picolet; Miss Eleanor Papera as Mrs. Potts; and Miss Bessie Franks as Sally Potts.

The Palace.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Jno. S. Barnett.—Johnson and Dean top the bill here, their singing and dancing being well received; Lily Langtry is as popular as ever, she having to respond to prolonged applause; the New York Nippers provide an entertainment unique of its kind, their efforts meeting with much approval; the McConnell Trio give a capital musical sketch; and the Klos Sisters shine in a smart athletic act; Howard and Collinson appear in a merry trifle, The Porter and the Parcel; Nellie Martell and Lily Adair are comediennes who are popular, and a good programme finishes with Clowa Barker's Circus.

The Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham.—Harry Tate's company is entertaining for a third week, and on Monday presented Fishing, in which there are many funny ideas; Les Carbiacs, French acrobats, perform some novel and daring tricks; Mlle Du Roche is a soprano vocalist with a cultured voice; the singing and dancing of the Sisters Hula make them big favourites; Dandy George makes a welcome return with his clever dog, Rosie; the Four Athos introduce some new acrobatic tricks, and Stanley and Tichbourne, vocal duettists and patter comedians, complete an excellent bill.

The Circus.—Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—The Globe Animated Picture company entertains with a series of films which are brimful of humour and pathetic interest.

HYDE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Feather.—Large and fashionable audiences have this week accorded a hearty welcome to Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company, appearing here in Lucky Durham. Mr. Edmund Kennedy portrays with artistic finish the rôle of John Durham; and a graceful and charming impersonation of Helen Vallerton is found in Miss Phillis Relph. Miss Louise Gourlay as Mrs. Durham gives a most intelligent interpretation to her lines; Miss Florence Dunhunty plays very prettily the part of the Hon. Margaret Steighton; and Miss Lilian Mason is all that can be desired as Lady Mountfallon. Lord Mountfallon finds a capable and painstaking exponent in Mr. Benson North; Mr. A. E. Walker does well in the rôle of Mr. Vallerton; and Mr. Arthur Lee extracts plenty of humour out of his part as the Hon. Reginald Steighton. A capital character-sketch is submitted by Mr. W. F. Clitheron as Ben Verstein.

ILKESTON. — Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—A company consisting of local ladies and gentlemen has appeared here in The Magistrate for three nights, in aid of the funds of the Ilkeston Ambulance Corps.

Queen's Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Knightall.—Mons. Henri Sardou presents a capital illusionist show, with the assistance of Mlle. Sardou. Heath and Heather impart pleasure as comedy and character duettists; Dan Leslie, Anglo-Dutch comedian and pedestal dancer, is smart at his work; Marie Riviers, songstress; Ethel Gale, blind comedienne; Fanny Robson, serio; and Harry Carter, comedian, also provide genuine amusement.

IPSWICH.—Lyceum Theatre.—Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Jennings.—Sweet and Twenty has been played here during the week by Messrs. Lionel Glenister and Wood-Ingram's company. Miss Ethel Weyburn portrayed the emotions of Joan Trevelyan with remarkable earnestness and pathos; Mr. Drelincourt Odlum was a dignified clergyman; the two brothers were ably impersonated by Mr. Stephen Wentworth and Mr. Lionel Glenister respectively; the blacksmith Trehearn found a capable representative in Mr. W. Wood Ingram; and others that gave excellent assistance were Mr. Walter Cranch, Mr. James Vincent, Miss Dorothy Carrington, and Miss Zeta Russell. The piece was capitally staged.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The enterprising management of this popular place of entertainment is being rewarded by good audiences. The current week's programme includes the names of Miss Lily Burnand and Mr. Arthur Rigby, both well-known stars of the metropolitan halls. The lady soon won the good opinion of the audience by her spirited and catchy songs. Mr. Rigby's contributions were varied. At one time he impersonated a female advocate of woman's rights, and an enjoyable feature of his entertainment was "The March of the Married Men." Another attractive item was the appearance of Abdy, who not only proved himself a marvellous imitator of various song birds, but also a clever trainer of dogs. Other turns included Mlle. Marvelle, with her docile and quaint parrots and cockatoos; Mr. J. Hamilton, who claims to be "Scotland's greatest tenor"; Nellie Chandos, a sprightly singer and dancer; the Henriques, a trio of clever acrobats; and Burley and Burley, a grotesque pair of contortionists.

JARROW.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jerrold E. Reed.—This week Mr. Kirk's company is here with the drama, Her Luck in London. Mr. Chas. A. Leicester makes a manly Hon. Gerald FitzGerald O'Connor; Mr. Alfred D. Adams plays forcibly as Richard Lenowen; to the part of the Rev. Lionel Strong full justice is done by Mr. Tremayne; and Mr. Tyrone Power is quite at home in the character of Stephen Harborne. Miss Mary Neil is a charming Nellie Harborne; Miss Frances Waring as Lillian Harborne is all that can be desired; and Miss Florrie Groves makes the most of her opportunities as Maud Gladys Shovepenny.

Royal Albert Hall.—Manager, Mr. L. F. Sanderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Wallace. — The Seven Savonas are here with their brilliant and finely-staged musical show—an immense attraction. Miss Cora Patey, the "singing tea girl"; Bros. Paulo, in a comedy bar act; J. A. Cassels, Scotch comedian; Senorita Elvina, in a wonderful aerial act; Martin Conner, the quaint comedian; Miss May Nevill, comedienne; Pulo, the man monkey; and the world-famous Elliotts, in a wonderful cycle act, are the other attractions in an interesting programme.

KEIGHLEY.—Queen's Theatre and Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall; General Manager, Mr. R. S. Kendall.—Mr. Lingford Carson's own company is here this week in The Heart of a Hero. Mr. Charles Draycott plays Jem Resdale in capital style; Mr. Ernest J. Fare gives an excellent performance of Wilfred Marl, an unscrupulous schemer; Mr. S. Cranston displays much ability as Jack Collinson; Mr. Arthur Byron revels in the part of Timothy Heighno; and Miss Daisy Norman renders good support as Susie Slack. Mr. Harry Scratchard, a local favourite, ably undertakes the part of George Winson, a miser; Mr. J. D. Clyde and Mr. Morley Carroll are good in their respective impersonations; Miss Laurie Pardy deserves much praise as Nell Resdale, and Miss Hettie Senior is a charming May Ryder.

LANCASTER. — Athenæum. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Henry Wilkinson.—Muir and Bartlett with a strong variety company are this week occupying the boards. Muir and Bartlett appear in the Collar Stud and A Clerical Complication with distinct success. Soros, illusionist, has a great reception; the Carney Bros., comedians, come in for applause; The Hangman's Daughter is well-played by Arthur Wallis and Co., and the Sisters Merridew (duettists), Little Don (comedian), and the Bioscope complete the bill.

LEEDS.—Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—An accomplished young actor new to Leeds, Mr. Harold V. Neilson, is presenting Ibsen's The Pillars of Society. Mr. Neilson's Consul Bernick is a sterling effort, convincing in its every phase, and it rivets the attention of his audience from start to finish. The breezy character of Lona Hessel is a most excellent delineation by Miss Mary Raby, whose associate (Mr. Lionel Atwill), the manly Johan, is equally effective. The artistocratic loafer Hilmar is cleverly conceived and presented by Mr. W. Lemmon Warde; the scholastic moralist Dr. Rorlund, by Mr. Halliwell Hobbs, is very satisfactory; Miss Amy Sangster evinces considerable histrionic ability in her portrayal of the wayward Dina Dort; and Mr. J. F. Fox as the shipyard foreman Aune depicts the part with fidelity. Miss Kitty Carew, Miss Katherine M. Romsey, Mr. C. M. Doyle, and Mr. Roy Lorraine are also effective.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—The Poor Must Live is attracting good patronage here, and the many thrilling incidents with which the piece abounds are received with acclamation. The powerful central figure of the piece, the Earl of Marswood, provides Mr. Charles O'Connor with many opportunities, of which he is not slow to avail himself. Mr. Harold C. Macartney makes a popular hero; and the unscrupulous scoundrel Clifton Manville is effectively interpreted by Mr. Walle Spinner. Miss Violet Hammersleigh's Dorothy is a creation of exceeding charm; and other parts are capably handled by Mr. Arthur Trail, Mr. Herbert Clifton, and Miss Marguerite Thorne.

Queen's Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Benton have a capital company here with the new society drama A Marriage of Vengeance, and the piece is being well received by full houses. Miss A. Harrison-Tait is playing the part of Stella Burgon, her original creation, and her work is warmly applauded. Mr. A. L. Baron acts the rich banker Earnscliffe with force and discrimination; Paul is effectively presented by Mr. Chas. E. Linney; Mr. Fred Benton employs his sterling abilities in a fine conception of Max Rheinhardt; and the villain Geoffrey Vannock is well exploited by Mr. Max Coutts. Of the ladies, Miss Alicia Wood, Miss Ruby Belasco, and Miss Cora Linda are amongst the most prominent; and Mr. Seymour Perry, Mr. Arthur Plummer, and Miss Lizzie Burgess also help the success.

Empire Palace.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—Hackenschmidt, the champion of champions among wrestlers, is the big attraction this week, and many strenuous bouts have been seen as a result of the challenges issued. The popular comedienne Alexandra Dagmar is entertaining her admirers with clever new items; Gracie Grahame is also a pleasing lady artist; Flo Deighton finds ready acceptance for some smart new numbers; the Warsaw Brothers are a source of much merriment in a musical extravaganza; Guy Rider whistles like a bird; Harry Weldon, a rising comedian, is enjoying success; Galetti's Monkeys give a remarkably intelligent entertainment; the Raies, with clever speciality dancing, are popular; the same remark applies to Mignonette Kokin, a pleasing comedy artist.

Tivoli.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Managers, Messrs. Chas. Weldon and Claude Shayler.—The Tivoli programme is a feast of fun this week, Alf Gibson leading the way in inimitable style. Willie Churchill is vastly amusing; and Billy Williams and Max Weldon also score successes. The Florodora Girls are seen in an up-to-date song and dance speciality; Fyne and Hurley are an amusing pair; more enjoyable comedy is subscribed by Herbert Madden; and F. Bernard and company, in a clever sketch, The Two Kays, with an excellent quick-change vocal act; and Ethel Loftus, comedienne, also add to the attractiveness of the bill.

City Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Atlas and Vulcana are again starring here, their fine athletic act arousing great interest and enthusiasm. Cline and Clark submit clever speciality dancing; Johnny Holland and company's comedy sketch arouses much merriment; Roxborough and Wright score a success in a comical farce; Hector and Paulus combine comedy and acrobatics in an entertaining manner; Fentoni has a novel speciality turn; Minnie Wren is a successful comedienne; and a pair of smart comedians, Herbert Rule and Dave McNeil, are also appearing.

LEICESTER.—Royal Opera House.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; General and Business Manager, Mr. Henry Dundas.—A return visit is being paid here this week by Mr. Cyril Maude's company in Beauty and the Barge. As Capt. James Barley Mr. Harry Ashford is mirth-provoking; Mr. Percival Knight is capital as Lieut. Seton Boyne, and also adds to the fun as the mate of the barge; Mr. Walter Pemberton is well suited to the part of Major Smedley; Mr. Charles Goold makes a good impression as Tom Codd; Mr. Percy Marmont is good as Herbert Manners; Mr. J. Wheatman is a success as John Dibbs; Miss May Fairclough gives a delightful impersonation of Ethel Smedley; Miss Mary Griffiths is amusing as Mrs. Baldwin; and Miss Ethel Stalman renders good service as Mrs. Smedley. A one-act play, entitled That Brute Simmons, precedes, in which Mr. J. Wheatman as Thomas Simmons, Miss Harriet Trench as Mrs. Simmons, and Mr. Fred Paul as Bob Ford appear with success.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—A special visit of the American-Indian actress Go-won-Go-Mohawk and company in Wep-Ton-No-Mah is the attraction here. Miss Go-Won-Go Mohawk plays the name-part, an Indian carrier, in a dashing manner, and is very popular; Mr. C. W. Charles makes an excellent impression as Colonel Stockton; Miss Minnie Goepel is capital as Nellie Stockton; Mr. Edward Leroy does well as Manuel Lopez; Mr. Dan Ryan is mirth-provoking as Garry Cullen; and Mr. Guy D. Hackney as Sam White, and Miss Dorothy Neville as Miss Matilda Shimes are also commendable.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Andrews.—At the top of this week's list of clever artists is R. A. Roberts, the remarkably smart protean actor, who is scoring in Dick Turpin; Tom Edwards, ventriloquist, is meeting with a gratifying reception; Seeley and West, musical comedians, are very good; Esta Stella both sings and dances in a vivacious manner; the Finneys give their well-known display of fancy swimming, &c., in the crystal tank; Beatrice Willey, daintily costumed, and possessed of a good voice, sings a flower song to the delight of all; the De Lucca Troupe of drawing-room gymnasts give a finished performance; Marguerite Broadfoote scores her usual success; Ross and Grayson, in The Professor and His Pupil, furnish good entertainment; and Frank Leslie, light comedian, sings a droll song.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—The principal attraction this week is Fred Southern and company, including Miss May Emery (Mrs. Southern), in The Blind Mother and We Must Win. The smart coin and card speciality act of Mersano is popular; Marie Neilson is a clever comedienne and dancer; Davis and Davis, comedians and dancers, are most entertaining; Barrington, in a musical act, is well applauded; and Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope is a popular feature.

Temperance Hall.—The St. Louis animated pictures, including the novelty of talking and singing pictures, by the aid of Gaumont's chronophone, opened a fortnight's engagement here on Monday evening. The pictures of Ben Bradford (Mr. Edwin Kneene), Marjory Crib (Miss Marjorie Tennant), and Little Frank (Miss Elsie Jones).

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur.—Crowded houses have been the rule here this week, the attraction being Proof, presented by Mr. and Mrs. William Maclaren's capable company. Mr. Gerald Kennedy was a fine Pierre Lorance, acting with considerable pathos and dramatic force; Mr. William Dexter made a sufficiently villainous Lazare; Mr. St. Vincent Beechey afforded every satisfaction as the Duke D'Aubeterre; Miss May Grimshaw presented a sweet Valentine; Miss Lucy Prittie-Tydd was the Madeline and Adrienne; and Victor Laugney was undertaken by Mr. G. Garnet-Vayne; and a humorous Chamberan submitted by Mr. Wilford Bailey.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—A number of good things are included in this week's list. At the top are the Holloways, who go through a marvellous wire act; Kelly and Gillette are always a big attraction with their smart work on the billiard table; in consequence of his great success George Leyton remains another six nights, pleasing everyone with the military scena Boys of the Chelsea School; a smart comedy turn is given by the Sivronis; Cherry Lass sings and dances agreeably; Gertie Gertana pleases with her scena Home from School; as vocalists, comedians, and dancers the Society Quartet appear with distinction; Halter and Ray have an able comedy act; and others who appear are Carlotta Levey, comedienne; Dan Thomas, "he of the laughs"; and Myles and May, "the merry huntsmen."

NEW PARTHENON. — Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—Heading an attractive bill here this week is Jack Hylton, who pays a welcome return visit. Charles Santon, male soprano and double-voiced vocalist, provides a turn which is much appreciated; the musical and farcical duologue, Semi-detached, presented by Ada and Jack Meynotts, provokes continuous laughter; J. H. Wakefield, with his lively plantation songs and dances, puts in a second week; some pleasing character songs are given by Carrie Lorrison; Marie Dane acquits herself well as comedienne and dancer; and Kittie Kearns, a Liverpool girl, shows considerable talent as a comedienne. The Tuesday matinées at this popular house continue to be extremely popular.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The "Royal" stock company is this week presenting an interesting sketch, entitled A Life's Story. Mr. Percy Boucher is a humorous Tony Cremonini; the Captain Jack Temple of Mr. Harry Tresham is full of dramatic strength; Mr. Cecil Ravenswood handles the double part of Frank and Max Clifford with much ability; Mr. Herbert Cecil makes an excellent Count Bergen; and the Tom Berry of Mr. E. D. Allen is satisfactory. Miss Lena Nazeby plays sweetly as Beatrice; and Miss Beryl Ravenswood holds the rôle of Zeika with credit. Some interesting moving pictures shown by the Bioscope are a pleasing feature of the evening's entertainment.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—A sensational five-tableaux sketch entitled The Devil's Hand is here this week, played by Mr. J. Wright Aitken and company. James Lowrey, the singing furnaceman, is loudly applauded for his taking songs; Sandes and Vincent provide an agreeable turn with their singing, dancing, patter, and knockabout work; Miss Blanche De Verne possesses a sweet soprano voice, and uses it with effect; Will Saunders, eccentric comedian, is good; and Miss Gertie Cunningham is a serio with a taking style. The Bioscope projects attractive pictures.

PARK PALACE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Here this week are Stewart and Morgan, accomplished vocalists, with their capital scena Leaving Ireland; as a mimic of leading music-hall stars Miss Ruth Molloy is above the average; the Ladderites perform some clever and daring equilibristic acts; Will Jennings, buck and wing dancer, has a good turn; the Three Zaracs present a smart comedy bar act; Lottie D. Abbey is a refined vocal comedian and character mimic; and Toney Iveson provokes much merriment with his "A tramp at the piano."

HAYMARKET.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Willmot.—At the top of the bill here this week is W. H. Lee with his dramatic episode, A Soldier's Return. Hector and Sultan create great laughter as comedy acrobats and burlesque boxers; Edie Endon sings several smart coon songs, and does some neat acrobatic dancing; a capital turn is given by Walker and Lake, comedians and cross-talkers; Bert Holmes has some acceptable descriptive songs; and Adelina Yhole renders popular ballads in good style.

WESTMINSTER. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Heading a capital programme here this week is Little Ganty, whose patter, songs, and antics keep this audience in a merry mood; Spencer and Marks have a comedy act, entitled The Stage-Struck Waifs; Miss Adey Spencer has some attractive songs; Arthur Royce, eccentric character comedian at the piano, is particularly acceptable; as comedy and expert jugglers Peatman and Walsh give an excellent show; and others who appear include Madge May, comedienne; and Kisbey, "the call boy."

OLYMPIA, LTD.—Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—A lengthy and diversified list of artists is presented here this week. Foremost is Casey's Circus, which has provoked endless laughter; Fred Maxwell, Miss Lois Du Cane, and company appear in a capital dramatic episode entitled Dick Dare, M.P.; Watson's dogs go through a clever performance; an acrobatic and equestrian number, The Coster's Circus, submitted by Hoppit, Toney, and Terry, has been followed by screams of laughter; Unthan's "feet writing" is watched with interest; the Bosanquet Sisters sing several pleasing numbers; Diabutsu, the Ju-jitsu wrestler, proves a strong attraction; Fred Russell introduces his amusing ventriloquial figure, "Coster Joe"; and much merriment follows the comedy duologue The Interviewer, given by Booker and Narbis.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—The Royal Pierrots and Marcograph company are still with us, and their popularity is increasing. Eva Barlow, a vocalist of considerable talent, sings various popular ballads with acceptance; Little Eugene is enthusiastically received; Crane and Crane, in the sketch The Lady and the Lord, are both clever and amusing; Kilpack and Cobby, in illustrated songs, meet with approval; Taylor Snowball, in some eccentric songs, convulses the audience; Claire Destrail as a balladist is successful; and the Sisters Robin and the Truro Sisters are well received. Beautiful Lima, in kaleidoscopic dances, is one of the features of the performance.

MAIDENHEAD.—TOWN HALL.—Secretary, the Town Clerk.—Mr. Albert Chevalier is always welcome here, and was greeted on Wednesday by a very crowded and enthusiastic audience. Newer selections from his répertoire, together with some of the old favourites, were listened to with rapt attention, and recalls were numerous. Mr. A. H. West, both as accompanist and soloist, is as good as ever, and Miss Ethel Walker delighted everyone with her musical sketches. The sketch The Goose with the Golden Eggs was smartly played, and caused great amusement

MAIDSTONE.—HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. G. H. Watson.—The chief turns here this week are given by Miss Peggy Pryde, a clever comedienne who is receiving a well-deserved ovation nightly. E. J. Sheldon has some good speciality songs and patter; Frank and Violet Payte appear in the successful racing sketch, Also Ran; Miss Dot Hardy is a popular comedienne; Simosa San is a clever juggler and equilibrist; and other attractions in the bill are Fred Clayton, comedian; Miss Connie Langford, dancer; and the Hippodrome pictures.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmundstone Shirra.—Mr. Harry Yorke presents here this week Sherlock Holmes, a very fair interpretation of which is given by a company headed by Mr. Henry Renouf in the title-part, which he renders in acceptable style. Mr. W. F. Sterling gives a forcible depiction of Moriarty; Miss Violet Lewis is notably good as Madge Larrabee; Mr. Walter Hicks is capital as Billy; and others who contribute to the dramatic effect of the whole are Miss Vera Longden as Alice Faulkner; Miss Rosalie Notrelle as Terese; Mr. Philip Renouf as Sidney Prince; Mr. Francis Hawley as Dr. Watson; Mr. J. Poole-Kirkwood as Forman; and Mr.. Ernest Gray as James Larrabee.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Acting Manager, Mr. George Lee.—An excellent rendering of Niobe is given here this week by Mr. Harry Paulton and a clever company. Mr. Paulton's work as Peter Amos Dunn is admirable, and as Niobe, Miss Annie Esmond gives a highly commendable delineation of a part by no means easy to play. Mr. Harry Paulton, Jun., is amusing as Griffin, and Miss Agnes Paulton shows excellent talent in the rôle of Hattie; while as Helen Griffin, Miss Mary Vilpack is all that could be wished, and Mr. C. Stafford provides a clever impersonation of Philip Innings. Other parts are well played by the remaining members of the company, and the company is as bright and entertaining as ever.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—The stage here is occupied by that clever character-actor, Mr. Arnold Bell and company in a repertoire consisting of Hoodman Blind, Called Back, The Octoroon, and Ben-my-chree. The first-named was presented at the beginning of the week for three nights, and was very well received by an audience which showed great interest in Mr. Wilson Barrett's play. As Jack Yeulett, Mr. Arnold Bell was, of course, excellent; and Miss Frances Campbell displayed her accustomed cleverness and charm in the dual rôle of Nance and Jess. Among others, Mr. Cuthbert Imrie and Mr. John Belton acted with distinction. All the plays are very well-staged.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—The Love that Women Desire is staged here this week by Mr. G. Carlton Wallace and his company. Mr. David G. Noble is seen to considerable advantage as Philip Carnaby, and Miss Lalla Stanhope makes a charming Sybil Thornton. Mr. G. Carlton Wallace, the author of the play, is very successful as Frank Hardy, the outcast, and the villainy of the action is well brought out by Miss Alice N. Livesey as Madge Abingdon, Mr. J. O. Stewart as Squire Abingdon, and Mr. Hugh Mewburn as Richard. A trio of laughter-makers are Mr. John Hignett as O'Rourke, Mr. J. W. Wilkinson as the constable, and Miss Maud Stuart as Pattee. The staging is excellent.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A good programme here comprises Harry Tate's Motoring, a very popular sketch; the Violet Whitworth Cycling Girls, in a remarkable racing act; Tom White's Arabs; Ada Cleveland, a pleasing vocalist; the Four Abaradoffs, in their comic "prehistoric peeps"; Fred Pollard, versatile comedian; Farr and Farrland, comedians and banjoists; the Three Seymons, in a clever juggling act; and Bert Weston, the swell comedian.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Manager, Mr. Gus Flanagan.—An old favourite is here this week in the shape of It's Never Too Late to Mend, with Mr. John Wainwright in his familiar rôle of Tom Robinson. Mr. Wainwright is really excellent in his part, and his efforts are worthily supported by the company he has got together. Mr. Alfred E. Calver is a manly George Fielding, whose sweetheart Susan is nicely depicted by Miss Frances May; Mr. W. R. Weldon acts well as Mr. Merton; Mr. W. R. Wilson figures effectively as Mr. Hawes; Mr. Charles F. Johnson is good as the Rev. Francis Eden; and Miss Florrie Ferguson makes a capital Josephs.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Last week's attraction at the Royal Osborne Theatre, The Village Blacksmith, played by Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company, is staged here this week to good houses.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Berry.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company is playing here this week The Sin of Her Childhood, a powerful and interesting drama. Mr. Frederick Loyd plays Captain John Thornton with the requisite manly spirit, and Miss Ruth Sheppard is admirably sympathetic as the repentant Mary Haysel. As the villainous Stephen Haysel, Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes acts with decided skill, and among others of a thoroughly capable cast Little Dott Moss, as Hannah Spry, contributes clever songs, dances, and banjo-solos, and Mr. Hugh Brady provides amusement as a lively Irishman.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter De Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Sam Elton, the famous comedy juggler and plate breaker, and Tom Foy as "the Yorkshire lad in London," are the chief attractions here this week, and their efforts are received with roars of laughter. Another good turn is that of the Five Foys in their screaming absurdity, The Excursion Depot, which causes no end of amusement. Lady Mansel's Juveniles are clever little people, and their speciality A Concert Rehearsal, is decidedly entertaining. Other items of interest are Jean Priver's Royal Six cyclists, vocalists, and dancers; Harry Champion, the quick and quaint comedian; Rob Hutt, comedian; Fred Carran, comedian; the Sisters Hall, vocal comediennes; and a series of capital animated pictures portraying the latest events.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—Top of the bill here this week is Hermann Melot, whose conjuring entertainment is exceptionally deft and amusing. Prominent also is Duse Mohamed, an Egyptian actor-author, who appears in his tragedietta, The Jew's Revenge, a rather ill-flavoured episode of the fifth century A.D. The most novel turn of the evening, however, is that of Conn and Conrad, "the quiet burglars," whose act develops into a sensational performance on a swinging bar. In addition to these, David Poole is highly successful in his ventriloquial business; the Serenaders give a tuneful turn; Gull and Grey give a comic lawn-tennis interlude; the Hardinis display fine talent on the violin; the Remingtons prove themselves smart acrobats; and Flo D'Orville shines as a comedienne.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—Machnow, the Russian giant, is proving a "big" attraction here this week, the house being packed at every show. A wonderfully clever performance is given by the Aurora Troupe of Cyclists, who do some absolutely unique tricks, and are deservedly applauded. Lindon's Vaudevilles are heard to advantage in a novel and pleasing act; and an exceptionally graceful trapeze performance is that of the Lios Alfa Sisters; Anna Kenwick, comedienne, dances very well; Burke, Andrus, and Frisco, in their Trafalgar Square incident, are vastly amusing; and good turns are also contributed by the Allisons, duettists, and Fred Lincoln, comedian. The choir render "Night, Lovely Night" nicely; Mr. James Foy sings, "Oh, what a Lovely Dream," to pictures, and "The Lost Collar Stud" is shown on the American Bioscope.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. A. Wilkes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—The programme here this week is excellent. Tom Leamore, the popular eccentric comedian, tops the bill, and makes a hit with his capital songs. Another fine turn is Daisy James, the chic comedienne, who scores in several songs. Frank Lawton is a first-rate whistler, dancer, and bone-soloist, and is well received, as are also Margaret Ruby and Ernest Laws in a pleasing quick-change musical comedy-sketch, Cora's Visitors. Mani Reeves is a delightful comedienne; Edna Cragge, burlesque artiste, is good; and other enjoyable items are those of the Reays, gymnasts and equilibrists; Tom Odlin, comedian; Alice Digby, comedienne and dancer, and Raymond's Vivagraph.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Menotti, the Stockholm wonder, presents a clever and sensational novelty here this week, that of riding a bicycle at the rate of forty miles a hour on a single wire. Mons. Slippere (assisted by Miss Ramsay), the blind novelty pianist and baritone vocalist, appears in an enjoyable vocal and musical act; Walter Curtis is an amusing comedian; and Hess and Lisbon, in their grotesque roller-skating speciality, are the cause of much laughter. Good turns are also provided by Little Rose Pink, a juvenile comedienne and dancer of merit; Can and Rose, in extracts from an extensive repertoire; Frank Whiteley, comedian and bone-soloist; the Dainton Girls, character-duettists; and the Three Wades, in a novel comedy-skit. Weary Willie and his Motor, depicted on the Bioscope, is good.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A laughter-provoking sketch, entitled The Demon of the Cellar, is offered here this week by the Six Brothers Luck, and achieves much success. Theodore Jones and company present an original scena, entitled Jack Sheppard; and the Bollingers concoct effective pictures very cleverly out of bits of different coloured rags. The Brothers Zano are good comedy-bar performers; the Bonanzas are neat hand-balancing acrobats; Carson Hicks sings and dances in a satisfactory way, as does also Jessie Jukes, a smart juvenile artiste; and Frances Lyric adds a pleasing song and dance. On the occasion of our visit an extra turn that merited and received much applause was given by Moon and Morris, comedians and dancers. Animated Pictures complete.

HIPPODROME (HULME). — Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Enigmarelle, the marvellous automaton, which walks, rides a bicycle, and writes its name on a blackboard, is the attraction here this week. A brisk, clever, and highly appreciated turn is provided by Kiel's Pom-Poms, society entertainers of merit. The smart tumbling of the Four Hearnes also finds much favour; and Raglus, a novelty burlesque juggler, is particularly good. Very successful are Wallace Whitney, character comedian, and Tokio, the famous Japanese mimic. The neat dancing of the Sisters Allen is well received, and entertaining turns are contributed by Beattie Foster, character artiste, and Georgina Leonard, comedienne. Animated Pictures complete.

MANSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Under the management of Mr. T. Jennings.—A good programme is provided here this week. Will Rain and company, in their funny sketch The Motor Maniac, cause much laughter; Learto and his dog Babs create quite a furore; Marie Yorke gains applause for her singing; and Mr. Walter Lake also does well. The Brothers Onda give a clever and amusing turn on the triple bars; Fred Willis is appreciated for his singing; Pearce and Ward give an entertaining turn; and the Edison Bioscope exhibits a good series of amusing pictures.

MARGATE. — HIPPODROME. — Sole Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—This week Neil Kenyon, the Scotch comedian, is at the top of the bill, and a speciality turn is Effie White in her kaleidoscope dance, "The Spirit of the Cave," which is a good feature of the show. Other contributors include Elsie Earle, comedienne; Geo. Collins, quaint comedian; Arthur Goodman, the American tramp juggler; Johnny Fuller in a unique speciality, The Cat on the Wire, and the Hippodrome pictures, as interesting as ever.

MERTHYR TYDFIL. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Smithson.—Varieties provide the attraction here this week, the premier position being held by Houston, a clever Chinese magician; Minnie Moran is a smart comedienne; Ward and Wylie are a diverting pair of eccentric comedians; Frank Lyndon supplies a novelty musical entertainment; Bob Downs pleases with his humorous songs; the Danbys give an amusing performance; Los Granadas, a couple of clever acrobats, perform their feats with especial smartness, and a capital display of animated pictures complete an excellent programme.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Mr. John Gerant and company are this week presenting At Duty's Call. Mr. John Gerant is prominent with a fine impersonation of Harold Allison; Mr. Leonard Williams gives a powerful rendering of Capt. Allison; Mr. Ernest St. John submits a well-studied portraiture of General Gordon; Miss Edith Knight plays with grace and charm the rôle of Dora Drummond; Miss Edith Wallis is acceptable in the character of Salema; Mr. Harry Ugar (Terry O'Halloran) and Miss Harlington (Mary) prove delightful in the comedy scenes.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—Mr. A. Hamilton Warden and company in the drama, A Woman's Past, is here this week. Hamilton Warden, in the character of Clement Harper, is exceedingly good; Miss Maisie Hanbury gives a realistic study of Bessie; Mr. Frank Hayling as Scrubby, and Mr. Wilson Munroe as Spriggings, are amusing; Mr. Horace Herbert acts with distinction as David Heath; and Mr. Charles Standford as Frank Dellannoy leaves nothing to be desired. Miss May Dallas displays dignity and grace as Dorothy Heath, and Miss Gertrude Harrison does well as Clara Darrel.

OPERA HOUSE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—Mr. Sidney Bacon's combination is supplying a good miscellaneous entertainment here. Mr. Arthur Jefferson's dramatic work, The Maniac, is a thrilling episode, in which Mr. Melville Bickford takes the leading rôle; the Huge Troupe give an excellent tumbling display; Little Violette proves herself a clever singer and dancer; and the other turns are provided by the Hare Trio, Leonard Gurney, and Rubie Ray.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Chas. G. Rembges.—An excellent programme is provided here this week. Miss Lina Verdi in her delightful impersonations of well-known artists takes the house by storm; the ludicrous antics and acrobatic feats of Kelly and Ashby are heartily enjoyed; Griff presents a clever and amusing juggling turn; the Elvio Trio find favour in their comedy act; the gymnastic display of Sibb and Sibb is much appreciated; and other good "turns" are provided by Les Belles Americaines, dancers; Brull and Hemsley, comedy artists; and Tod Rowen, comedian.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Alf Graham.—Crowded houses are the rule here this week, the programme being of a really enjoyable character. One of the most successful turns is that of Ross and Lewis, a pair of clever Yankees, with some amusing patter and dancing; A. J. Kebla is also funny in his comic juggling act; Percy Farrimond, tenor; Casseli and James, banjoists; and Minnie Cunningham, a dainty comedienne, also contribute.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE. — TYNE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. F. C. Sutcliffe.—A Queen Without a Crown is the title of the romantic play Messrs. Howard and Wyndham are presenting to their patrons this week. Miss Ruth Mackay undertakes with conspicuous success the leading rôle of the Countess Melrosa, and the part of Rudolph is enacted in a natural and boyish manner by Miss Helen Granville; Miss Geraldine Oliffe presents the part of Queen Theresa Maria with point and distinction; Mr. Wellesley Smith invests the character of Dr. Daly with genuine Irish humour, which proves highly acceptable; and other prominent characters are adequately portrayed by Mr. Eric Hudson, Mr. T. Holding, and Mr. S. Creagh Henry. The scenery and appointments deserve special mention.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. Tearle Lingham.—Crowded audiences have greatly enjoyed the comic opera, entitled The Girls from Utah, which is being presented here this week for the first time by Mr. Walter McEwen's company. Included in the cast are some established favourites, notably Mr. W. H. Powell, whose quaint style and irresistibly funny mannerisms elicit much laughter. Mr. Fred Eastman creates many a laugh with his droll impersonation of the landlord, and another prominent fun purveyor is Mr. Arthur E. Stigant as Sir Joseph Pickles; the fine voice of Mr. Harrison Brockbank is heard to advantage in the numbers allotted to the rôle of Terence Rainford; Miss Florence Parfrey gets through a lot of work in excellent style as Mrs. Bumble; and Miss Kate Vesey is a sprightly Suza, both singing and dancing with refinement; Miss Nora Brocklebank is a bright and attractive Mildred; the chorus and orchestra do admirable work under the control of Mr. Geo. M. Saker. The famous French actress, Mme. Jane Hading, and company paid a flying visit here on Friday afternoon and presented Le Maitre de Forges.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—Messrs. Granville and Thorne's company are presenting here this week the romantic drama, entitled Napoleon the Great. Mr. Hugh Montgomery realises to a nicety the popular character of Napoleon; Mr. Frank M. Thorne (the author) submits a carefully thought out study of Pierre Pomponnet; and Mr. Phil Harper impersonates the character of Col. Jules Meuron with distinction. The leading feminine rôles, namely, Marie Walewska and Leonie Marbœuf, allow Miss Leslie Warner and Miss Maud Russell respectively ample scope to show to advantage. Able support is forthcoming from Mr. Henry Earlesmere, Mr. Bartlett Garth, Mr. C. W. Spencer, Miss Marie Harcourt, Miss Florence Thorne, and Miss Adelaide Cromer.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—An especial attraction is appearing at the Byker Theatre this week, namely, Mr. John Clyde and company in the ever-popular play, Jeannie Deans. The company is the same that appeared at the Theatre Royal a fortnight ago, and all the artists confirm the good opinions we then expressed of them.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Leslie Conroy. There is an excellent company here this week, chief honour falling to that popular comedian and raconteur, Mike S. Whallen. The Sutcliffe Family give a good account of themselves as Scottish pipers, and also appear to advantage in a Risley act. Vastly entertaining do Spry and Monti prove themselves with some acceptable comedy, and the Northern Troupe score heavily as speciality dancers. The Mackneys are responsible for some boisterous fun on the wire; Rex King is a clever character mimic; Ferguson and Mack contribute a speciality act successfully; Johnny Alexander and company win favourable comment for their comedy sketch; and as a comedy juggler Sloan is distinctly funny. The programme concludes with a very funny picture by the Bioscope, entitled "The Dream of a Rare Bit Find."

PAVILION THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—A noteworthy feature in this week's programme is the overture, entitled "Pavilion," dedicated to the genial manager, Mr. Boardman, and composed by the musical director, Mr. H. Elliott Smith. Casey's Court is a clever act, wherein a number of juveniles disport themselves in song and dance; the Eight Lancashire Lads receive rapturous applause for their singing and dancing; notwithstanding the previous visits here of Lind, this clever female impersonator continues to mystify part of the audience; Alex Lukos supplies a treat with his descriptive songs; the performing dogs introduced by Professor McCann show wonderful intelligence; Susie and Protti are highly effective speciality dancers; Barles and Smith, in an episode entitled A Rehearsal, gain a capital reception; Lillie Soutter, character comedian, and Nancy St. John, comedienne, both achieve success; and the Barrascope is always a pleasing item.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Miss Mary Austin and a capable company are playing The Cotton Spinner here this week. Miss Mary Austin as Mary Prescott give a really fine portrayal of the cotton spinner's daughter; Mr. John S. Haydon submits a delightful character-study of the homely cotton spinner, John Prescott; Mr. E. Vivian Edmond as Arthur Norbury plays with realistic power; and Mr. Edwin Fysher does well as Lord Northbury. Miss Enid Ross makes a dignified Constance Harrington; Lady Charlotte Needy is capably portrayed by Miss Bella Power, who with Mr. Ernest Edwards as Major Stratton adds to the success of the piece by their quiet comedy; and Mr. Chas. Milton as the villain Foster Cunningham, is successful. Minor parts are well sustained by Miss Ethel Inwood, and Messrs. Albert Cooper and Frank Storey. An exhibition of animated pictures precedes the piece each evening.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr. O. Stoll—The chief attraction here is the Boisset Troupe in their sketch, The Bricklayers; May Henderson is quite a favourite; the Anartos are musical comedians of a high order; Walter King does well as a singer; and the Seddons provide a clever juggling turn. Fernando is responsible for much amusement with a barber's saloon; Cora Caselli produces striking effect by her skirt dances on a darkened stage, and Charles Gardiner contributes a couple of songs in good style.

NORTHAMPTON. — OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—The Octoroon is this week presented by Mr. Milton Bode's Stock company, and the old piece is still received with favour from the popular parts of the house, and is well staged and capitally acted. Miss Florence Creagh's impersonation of Zoe is excellent, and throughout evinces a careful study of a trying part. Mr. Louis Hector, as Wah-No-Tee, is impressive; Mr. Frederick Harker is good as the ultra-villainous Jacob McCloskey; Salem Scudder receives a clever portrayal at the hands of Mr. William Matthews; Mr. Edward Swinton is really funny as the favourite Nigger Pete; Mr. Fawcett Lomax does full justice to the part of the genial Mr. Sunnyside; Mr. Harry Esden makes a typical Captain Ratts. Miss Daisy Stone is capital as the boy Paul, and other parts are well filled by Messrs. Monson Thorpe (George), Henry Hammond, A. C. Tor, Scott Turner, Misses Violet Temple (Mrs. Peyton), Sybil Hare (Dora), and Lily Wainwright (Grace). Songs are contributed by Miss Daisy Stone and Miss Lily Wainwright, the dances of the former being prettily executed.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Barton.—Frank Sylvo is at the head of affairs this week, and keeps the house merry with his quaint juggling. Veronica Brady and company are successful in their musical comedy sketch, The Rag-time Queen. Bass and Guinness are smart eccentrics and dancers. Grace Abbott (the winner of a singing competition here a fortnight ago) is a pleasing vocalist. The Palace Pictures, as usual, are interesting, and amongst the other contributors are Fred Dunston (in song, parody and patter), Daisy Ray (comedienne and dancer), and Rose Tilley (versatile artist), all of whom command attention and applause.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—The boards here this week are occupied by Mr. Fred Jarman's company, with Under the Czar, which has had a cordial reception Mr. James Hare as Nicholas Yeroslaff, proves himself to be an artist of great ability; and Mrs. W. H. Riley gives a capital impersonation of Zakhar Zovesky. Mr. Louis Weston as Paul Igmah, presents an able portrayal of the character; Mr. Laurence O'Brien makes the most of Alexis Petroff; and Mr. J. Leicester does justice to the rôle of Egar Gregorovich. Mr. A. C. Cresswell is good as Nikon; and Mr. Philip Jowett is a satisfactory Count Neneldorf. As Zara, Miss P. Carew sustains the part in a capable manner; Miss Kathleen Cavanagh is an effective Sonia Gregorovich; and Miss Linda Riley is well placed as Sismoko.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—The bill here is headed by Miss Daisy De Roy, comedienne, who is cordially received. The Maros, triple bar comedians, are smart; the Lynches, with their American picture songs, are as popular as ever; and Mr. Tom Fancourt and Miss Jennie Rubie, in Out of Barracks, are well received. Mr. George Bernard, actor-vocalist, is a great favourite; Musgrove, speciality artist, is clever; and the bio-photoscope is greatly relished.

NORTHWICH.—CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. S. Golden.—Mr. Alf Berg's vaudeville company is this week occupying the theatre here. Wambo, a clever trick cyclist, brings down the house with his marvellous performances on the wheel; Miss Clara Urwin sings and dances in a charming manner; Mr. Alf Berg receives well-merited applause for his exhibition of weight-lifting; Mr. Alec. Alexander, actor-vocalist, displays ability of a high order; Miss Gertrude Martine possesses an excellent soprano voice; Leo Selwyn, although secured by numerous handcuffs, and locked in a box, escapes with a rapidity which is amazing; Jesse Ricardo is a skilful conjurer; an excellent sketch entitled Found Faithful, and played by Messrs. W. T. Burgess, H. Shaw, and W. F. Rogers, is accorded a hearty reception.

PIERROT PAVILION.—Proprietors, The Royal Pierrot Co.; Manager, Mr. Arthur Smethurst.—Another attractive programme is provided this week. Miss Evelyn Barrie, soprano, sings sweetly; Miss Mabel Ashton, vocalist, also receives a hearty welcome; Miss Nellie Stuart and Mr. Teddy Worth, the comedy pair, are meeting with excellent receptions; and Mr. Glanmore Jones again sings with his usual telling effect. Comedy is well represented by Mr. Jim Pullin, who is encored; and Happy Atwood, all smiles and jokes, is retailed another week. Barry Gilmore, now in his fourth week, seems to grow in popularity.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Mr. E. Lockwood's company in Sergeant Brue is here this week. Mr. Arthur Reynolds as Sergeant Brue creates much fun; Mr. E. Percy Rogers is equally humorous as Michael Brue; Mr. Arthur Stroud is a good Gerald Treherne; Mr. Chas. McLagan deserves praise as Cookie Scrubbs; Mr. Henry Chichester ably portrays Mr. Cranks; and Mr. Chas. Sims as Matthew Habisham, Mr. Clarence Napier as Inspector Gorringe, Mr. Arnold Webster as Mr. Lamb, and Mr. J. F. Leighton as Capt. Bay ably fill their respective parts. Miss Eva Weigh most charmingly fills the part of Aurora Brue; Miss Eliza Earle does admirably as Daisy; and Miss Lily Lingard is an attractive Lady Birkenhall.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. F. W. Fitt.—A capital programme is being presented here this week. J. P. Long gives a successful comedy monologue; Mr. Charles Parker's Six Æolians have a capital reception; Louis Counsell and Oscar Mills are amusing in their comedy, On the Stage; the Dagodets submit a good turn; Tate and Tate as trampolin acrobats are smart; George Carney and Frank Armstrong prove amusing in their sketch, The Pro. and the Baggage Man; the Sisters Marion are pleasing duettists; W. H. Downs displays ability as a ballad vocalist; and Harry Mansfield, in Dreamland, scores a success. The Hippodrome Biograph is very entertaining.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The brightness, fun, and rousing choruses of The Prince of Pilsen gained the heartiest appreciation of Monday's audience, and Mr. George Musgrove's company deserves every congratulation. Mr. Edwin Adeler is the life and soul of the play as the Cincinnati brewer, his amusing sayings and clever business evoking the utmost merriment; Mr. G. Villiers Arnold uses an agreeable voice with skill and spirit; Mr. Stuart Alexander acts effectively as Carl Otto; and the vacuous Earl of Shrimpton is well depicted by Mr. Lawrence Wensley; the excitable and volatile François has a capable exponent in Mr. Alfred Selby; and the liveliness of Sidoni is cleverly shown by Miss Nell Emerald; Miss Nellie Cozens sings with considerable taste the music allotted to Mrs. Crocker; and Miss Clara Stanton, as a Gibson girl, makes a specially interesting figure in one of Miss Cozen's songs; Miss Ruby Verdi impersonates the brewer's daughter with a daintiness and grace that win the warmest admiration; and Miss Mildred Baker enacts Edith Adams in a thoroughly accomplished manner.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Chas. P. Cooke.—A drama of absorbing interest, The Little Breadwinner, is presented this week by an excellent company, touring under the auspices of the author, Mr. J. A. Campbell. The title-rôle is ably sustained by Little Emmie Thomas, whose sweet singing quite captivates the audience. Mr. J. A. Campbell is a finished actor, and his dignified assumption of the part of the Quaker, Lord William Dorrington, is a fine piece of work; Mr. David Gordon commands much sympathy by his manliness under oppression, as Richard Lawrence, whilst the utmost detestation is evinced for the villainous Prior, well depicted by Mr. Scott Leighton; Miss Mary Fulton has every opportunity for good work as Margaret Daventry. The comedy side of the piece is well cared for by Mr. Allen Charles as Charles Prior; Miss Jenny Bostock as Bridget O'Flanaghan; and Miss Lissa Young as Bobby Trott; Miss Maud Buchanan has all the necessary "go" for the villainess, and a charming little Quaker servant is found in Miss Emmie Litchfield.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edgar O. Waller.—A smart little episode, entitled The Bank Robbery, shows the dramatic capabilities of Messrs. Edward Ranier, Henry Watson, Tom Wilton, Alf. Knight, Arthur Barnes, are clever whistlers and dancers; La Martine is a smart baton manuipulator; Flo Viller, male impersonator, is successful; and Frazer and Mac also appear.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Nuttall.—The Musical Schafers have a very good turn in The Garden of Melody; the Brothers Zampah, one-legged marvels, are well received in their jumping feats; Florrie Bray is a capable comedienne; and Zaro and Arno give a novel comedy bar act. Wat Tyler, in his latest successes, is good; Winnie Scott, soubrette; and Will Ellerslie, comedian, are also in the bill; and the Dottoscope, as usual, has some up-to-date pictures.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—Mr. Lionel Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche's company has been delighting visitors up here for the Eights Week with a charming representation of What the Butler Saw. Mr. Charles Fawcett gives a delightfully free and natural performance of Jack Barrington; Mr. R. Anderson is excellent as Sir Charles Foden; General Dunlop, Weinstein, Clifford, de Bogyas, and Professor Shale all find capable exponents in Messrs. G. Ascott, H. R. Rignold, G. Beale, A. Alves, and R. Byford; while Mr. Lionel Rignold keeps his audience in high good humour right through the play by his intensely droll performance of Pink the butler. Miss Ada Blanche is bright and effective as Mrs. Barrington; and the other ladies' characters are well sustained by the Misses Marie Daltra, Grace Richardson, Phyllis Gibson, Minnie Willett, Edith Blanche, Annie Gerrard, and May Hart.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. G. P. Wells.—Mr. J. P. Kennedy's variety company is here. It includes Miss Rosie Ascot, serio; Miss Grace Rosaire, ballad vocalist; and Mr. Frank Florence. La Rola dances artistically; and Mr. Jack Shepherd gives an exhibition of handcuff tricks. The farce Muldoon's Picnic is played by members of the company.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—Mr. Herbert St. Clair and Miss Violet Maitland's company is in possession here this week in By Tempest Tossed. Mr. Herbert St. Clair submits a sterling impersonation of Peter Ingleby; while Miss Violet Maitland plays with histrionic ability the part of Nance Kingston. A capital portraiture is that of Jasper Marsden by Mr. Harry Glenney; as is also that of Ben Ingleby by Mr. Hugh Macdonald. Mr. Fred Sidney plays with conspicuous success the part of Jack Harper: Horatio Jones is made a very funny and humorous character as presented by Mr. Sam Allen; and clever are the assumptions of Benson by Mr. W. May, Simon Trueman by Mr. Tom Chester, Captain Meredith by Mr. F. Harboard, and Lieutenant Stone by Mr. T. Watson. Miss Flo Stansfield acts capably as Mrs. Kate Ingleby; Miss Doris Brandon as Sally is highly amusing; Miss Phyllis St. Clair as Little Nellie Ingleby plays intelligently; and Miss Nellie Saker is to be commended for her embodiment of Davy, a fisher lad.

EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. H. Savile; Manager, Mr. Delno Fritz.—This house closed for the season on Monday night, when a special programme was submitted, on the occasion of Mr. Fritz's annual benefit. Quite a host of artists contributed to the programme.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Langdon Lee. The first visit of Mr. Charles Frohman's company in Leah Kleschna drew a crowded house on Monday, and the audience was rewarded with a rich dramatic treat. Mr. Robert Pateman, as Kleschna, tendered a magnificent representation of a man of indomitable will and determination; Mr. S. Graeme Cambell was equally convincing as the firm yet generous Paul Sylvaine; Mr. Cyril Harcourt, as the contemptible Raoul Berton, evinced a close study of Parisian fast life, and Schram (Kleschna's assistant) was carefully depicted by Mr. E. H. Brook. Miss Haidee Wright earned rapturous applause by her impersonation of Leah Kleschna, the scenes in which she was associated with Kleschna and Sylvaine being models of dramatic art; the other feminine parts are comparatively small, but what had to be done was well done by Miss Haidee Hemsley (Clair Berton), Miss Ethel Marryat (Madame Berton), and Miss Dorothy Sidney (Sophie Chaponnière).

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owner, Mr. A. Carlton; Manager, Mr. Mitchell.—Horace Stanley's company pays a return visit in The 10.30 Down Express, a piece well known and very popular locally. There is plenty of romance, exciting incident and humour, to which full justice is done by a very capable company.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Livermore; General-Manager, Mr. S. Field. — Richard Corbin's wonderful comedy and acrobatic dogs evince marvellous canine sagacity; Dale and O'Malley, patter comedians, strike out a distinctly original line; the Five Astleys obtain plenty of music and fun out of farm implements; Les Valdos have a humorous sketch entitled The Eccentric Motor-Bus Man, in which they introduce a clever acrobatic turn, and Frazer and Haley are an accomplished pair of lady vocalists; Louis Kerno (comedian), Evie Hamilton (soubrette), and Vernon's Pictures complete the programme.

PROMENADE PIER AND PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. John Higson.—A smart little variety company, called the Roman Singers, occupies the platform this week. The various members remain incognito, but one lady is possessed of a fine soprano voice far above the average. Amongst the male members there is a rich tenor, and an exceptionally good baritone. The company have drawn large audiences all the week.

PORTH.—POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Bynorth.—Mr. Reginald H. Adair's company opened on Monday to an excellent house in The Luck of Life. Mr. R. H. Stephenson gives a capital rendition of George Stanhope; Mr. Roland Yorke satisfactorily portrays the villainous Michael Bazilovitz; Count Petroff is ably presented by Mr. Leonard Thackeray; Mr. H. Hesslegrave does good work as Bahadur, and Ivan Polowski has an able representative in Mr. Albert Cuthbertson. Miss Mary Dawson gives an excellent account of herself as René Bazilovitz; Miss Gertrude Beneers deserves complimenting on her impersonation of the Countess; and Miss Kate Perowne is good as Mlle. de Beaudyn. The lighter parts are meritoriously played by Mr. George Davis as Simon Stanley, and Miss Dora Huggett as Laura.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Lady Clancarty, with the distinguished American actress, Mrs. Russ Whytal, in the title-rôle, is the attraction at this house for the week. It is many years since the piece was played in Portsmouth, so, in a sense, it is like a new production. Mrs. Whytal gives a very successful and well balanced portrayal of the high-spirited and much tried Lady Clancarty; Lady Betty Noel is played by Miss Mabel Knowles in a sprightly and charming manner; Mother Hunt is also admirably depicted by Miss Ada Marius; Mr. Claude King as Donough Macarthy, "Earl Clancarty," is excellent, the impersonation being well sustained; Cardell, "Scum Goodman," is capitally taken by Mr. J. J. Bartlett; Mr. Leslie Palmer is convincing as the Earl of Portland; and Lord Charles Spencer and Lord Woodstock are ably acted by Messrs. Edward Beecher and Arthur Hardy.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate. —Mr. Frank Lindo and company are here for the week, in the domestic drama, Home, Sweet Home. Mr. Frank Lindo ably impersonates the manly young fisherman, Stephen Armitage; David Armitage is well taken by Mr. J. W. Henson; and Mr. Charles H. Lester, as the unscrupulous Lucas Lyle, is most successful. Miss Marion Wakeford as Joan acts sympathetically; Dora is prettily taken by Miss Daisy Rochefort; Miss Hetty Webster and Miss Mary Denver with Messrs. Sydney Bryant and Ernest E. Owens are responsible for the lighter side of the drama.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—Topping the bill here for the week are Carrie Laurie's Juveniles, with their kindergarten act. Sauteron, the jumping expert, gives an exhibition of his quality; Lottie Siegenberg with her musical sketch is a success; Lambert and Hands, operatic vocalists, are distinctly good; Newco and Sullo are a pair of grotesque dancers; Minnie D'Aubyn, burlesque artist, is smart; the Lyons Trio of pantomimists score heavily; and also appearing are Martinette and Wallace, coloured musical comedy artists; and E. W. Selman, comedian and dancer. Payne's Bio-Photoscope, with new pictures, is also an attraction.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—The variety fare provided by Fred Karno's No. 1 vaudeville company has been a strong attraction here this week. The three popular sketches, Early Birds, Gaol Birds, and Mumming Birds, keep the audience in continuous laughter. Datas illustrates his wonderful power of memory by instantly giving the dates and full details concerning important events named by members of the audience; Woolmer Young, comedian, renders his songs in good style; the Marblesque Trio appear in various effective poses; the Two Eltons display remarkable agility in their comedy bar act; Harry Leybourne scores a success with his mimetic vocalism; Alec Kendall's funny songs and stories evoke hearty laughter; and the duets and dances of the Sisters Tinsley gain loud applause.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff.—This week Messrs. Garside and Knowles's company is presenting The London Fireman. Miss Nellie Shirely as Ada Curtis leaves nothing to be desired; Mr. Oliver Birrell ably sustains the difficult rôle of Viscount Fleming; Mr. J. Forbes Knowles as Hal Curtis is an ideal hero; Mr. Edward L. Garside shows great dramatic ability in the part of Ratty; Miss Nellie Garside as Polly Bramble, and Mr. Charles A. Preece as Nixy Stinger, keep the audience in mirthful mood.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—Lockhart's Elephants figure as the chief attraction here this week, and under the direction of Mabelle they give a remarkably clever performance. Alex. Leo and Leo Trainor are smart comedians; Sam Jesson's Little Merrymakers sing and dance very pleasingly in a musical sketch, "Minnie's Birthday"; Gertrude Mason contributes some taking songs; Tennis and Laune are clever character duettists; Mannon's Merry Maids create hearty laughter in A Motor 'Bus Outing. Fields and Lewis are capital burlesque artists; Bioscope pictures complete an enjoyable programme.

RADCLIFFE. — GRAND OPERA HOUSE. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Sante; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—A strong variety company is occupying the boards here. It includes Hardeen, the King of the Handcuffs; Master Nat Blair, an expert violinist and pianist; Marie Gibson, vocalist; J. P. Carroll, the military tambournist; the King's College Boys, singing septette;; Herbert Jackson, clog dancer; Rich and Reilly, knockabouts; Fred. Keeton, comedian; Halma, society juggler; and Charles Matthews, jumper.

RAMSGATE.—AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. H. Bowman.—A Fight for Millions, a drama full of exciting incidents, has this week been staged here by Mr. Robert Perris's company. There have been good houses and appreciative audiences, the various clever situations and the acting of the principals being warmly applauded. Mr. Jack Armitage makes an excellent Tom Manley and Miss Eva Purcell a charming Pearl Rivers; Mr. J. G. Beresford is an effective Hudson Rivers; and the fun of the play is in the capable hands of Mr. N. Conway (Harold Hobbs) and Miss Lottie Pearce (Betty Brady).

RAWTENSTALL. — GRAND THEATRE — Co-proprietors and Lessees, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller.—This week we have a visit from the New Empire Animated Photo and Vaudeville Co., which opened on Monday. Miss Carlotta Lunn quickly gained the appreciation of the audience with her excellent musical contributions. Mr. Harry Bent was successful in keeping the house convulsed by his clever mimicry; Dwight and Son gained applause for their dancing; and Miss Molly Doon was decidedly dainty. Shawlene, a siffleur of exceptional ability, brought down the house with his solos. The animated photos were charming.

READING. — ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. B. Barnett; Secretary, Mr. Reginald Taylor.—A Sister's Sin is being presented this week by Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company. Miss Violet Langley as Minnie Hastings, Miss Isa Lyndon as May Raymond, and Miss Dorothea Vivian as Jack all meet with approval; Mr. William Vane acts with power as the hero, Harold Raymond; and the comic element is well provided for by the humorous acting of Mr. Horace Custins as Larry Murphy; and the rival sweethearts, Floss Perks and Nell Stubbs, cleverly represented by the Misses Edie Macklin and Alice Glanville.

ROCHDALE.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague. —Passion's Power is the attraction here this week. Mr. Wm. Clayton acts with power the part of Prince Kandos; Mr. Frank Radcliffe, as the bluff, honest General Zuran, is lifelike in his impersonation; Mr. Walter Roberts plays well as Rudolph Laski; Mr. Stephen E. Scanlan cleverly depicts the villainous Michel Laski; and Mr. Henry Howard appears as Patrice, a journalist. Miss Stella Carmichael has to be credited with a well-acted portrayal of Countess Delaunay; and Miss F. Conyers Radcliffe fascinates the audience as Norah Varno.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Smith and Lee.—Pringle's North American Animated Pictures are here once again. Variety turns are interspersed by the Bouncing Dillons; Mr. Ben Holdsworth, mimic; the Katos, Komikal Kidgets; and Mr. H. Kirk, comedian.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Good business is being done here this week. J. W. Rowley is a popular comedian, with his witty patter and songs; Bert Woodward performs all kinds of tricks on his bicycle; the Arizona troupe give a good turn of juggling and foot balancing; Vardon and his caddie submit an amusing ventriloquial turn; other artists contributing to the programme include Billy Burns, vocalist; Frank Hartley, the juggling schoolboy; Albert Brady and company, sketch artists; and Will Percival, dancer.

RUGBY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Drew Mackintosh.—This week the United English Opera Company, under the direction of Mr. F. S. Gilbert, is appearing. On Monday Faust was presented. Mr. F. S. Gilbert, in the title-rôle, was a great success; Mr. Kneale Campbell as Mephistopheles was artistic; and as Valentine Mr. David Fuller displayed marked ability. Mr. H. Davis was good as Wagner. The Marguerite of Miss Kitty Brownless left very little to be desired, her rendering of the part throughout meeting with much appreciation. Miss Vera Vizard as Siebel was an undoubted success; Miss Doris Gilbert as Martha was excellent. During the week Maritana, The Bohemian Girl, Il Trovatore, and The Daughter of the Regiment were down for performance.

SCARBOROUGH. — PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Managing Director, Mr. William Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman.—The variety company here includes the popular comedian Witty Watty Walton. Miss Violet Beatrice sings her Irish songs with success; Leo Fallowfield is both quaint in his songs and get-up as a comic singer; the Recars give a good acrobatic exhibition; the Rizarelis score as lady gymnasts; T. E. Johnstone, with popular songs, receives deserved applause; Matt Wilkinson's sketch company are also here in The French Woman and The Registry Office, and are well worth seeing; and Vernon's bioscope still retains its popularity with up-to-date pictures.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Geo. Zalva.—A capital bill of fare is again provided here this week. The turn of Wild, Willie, and West in the Bricklayers contains a great deal of variety. The Lovelaces, with their American song illustrations, are favourably received. Chief amongst the cinematograph pictures, which are still the leading feature in the programme, is "Life of a New York Policeman."

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. C. Harrison.—The entertainment for the current week is provided by Miss Brenda Leslie's company of pierrots, and some animated pictures. Prominent amongst the artistes are Charles Bradford, a clever humorist; Bert Rolfe, a double-voiced vocalist, whose singing is much appreciated; Millie Legrand, a charming soubrette; Katie Dudley, a pleasing soprano; Lawrence Wright, a skilful instrumentalist; Vera Wedburn, a smart dancer; Lena Dudley, a powerful soprano; Trixie Toole, a successful serio and dancer; and others. A laughable sketch, The Woman in a Trance, is given by members of the company. The Crown Trio of lady dancers also contribute a clever turn. Miss Brenda Leslie in American picture songs is distinctly pleasing. The animated pictures include some films of the French mining calamity at Courrières.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA. 1850—1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

THE PIONEERS.

THREE NEW PLAYS.

In the selection of the three new plays which were produced under their auspices last Sunday at the Royalty Theatre the Pioneers have given evidence of sounder judgment than was displayed at the inaugural performance of the society last December. This time they have been wise in introducing the works of young authors who have already won their spurs in one branch of literature or another. Unquestionably the best thing in Sunday's evening's programme was

"COMPROMISING MARTHA,"
A Comedy, in One Act, by Keble Howard.

Martha .....MISS FLORENCE HAYDON
A Neighbour .....MISS MARIANNE CALDWELL
Monica .....MISS JUNE VAN BUSKIRK
The Curate .....MR. A. VANE TEMPEST

Mr. Keble Howard is one of the most brilliant of our younger writers of light literature. In a recent novel, "The Smiths of Surbiton," he contrived to make characters of what some authors would regard as an almost characterless community. Compromising Martha is cleverly conceived and cleverly written, and Martha herself is a faithful embodiment of a type of fretful, gossiping old dame every one of us has come in contact with. In her prettily-situated cottage, Martha is engaging most vigorously in the occupation best fitted for a lady of eighty-seven years. Her slumbers are undisturbed by the entrance of the village curate, and Monica, the squire's daughter. Could two lovers who desire to avoid the scandalmongering propensities of the villagers have a more convenient trysting-place, or could the curate and Monica have a worthier object on which to bestow, in the one case, moral ministrations, and, in the other, creature comforts, than dear old Martha? The fact that they happen to visit the cottage at the same time ought surely to be construed as an accident. But there is a talkative neighbour in the clothes-washing line who doesn't construe it in that wise. While the curate and Monica are hiding in separate rooms in Martha's house the talkative neighbour gives vent to her suspicions. But Martha won't hear of them. The curate is such a nice young man, and Monica is such a sweet girl. She is sure they would not bring intrigue into her cottage. The neighbour leaves the old woman with an uneasy feeling that something is going on which should not go on, and somehow Martha fancies she hears an unaccustomed noise. She pretends to be asleep, and snores loudly, as an indication that her sweet forgetfulness of life is quite bond fide. Out come the curate and Monica. They relieve their pent-up agonies by a kiss. Something tells them that Martha is shamming to be asleep, and that she has seen their lips meet; and Martha confirms their belief. Wrathfully she informs them that there shall be no scandal in her cottage. She has lived in the village for well-nigh ninety years, and has never allowed a male creature to kiss her! The curate removes the reproach, and makes his exit, after having begged that she will keep silence on the subject of their visit. Martha is very much inclined to carry the matter further, but Monica pleads with her. Has she never been young herself? Would she wreck the lives of two sweethearts? Gradually the old body relents. Monica turns her head as she is leaving the room, and sees Martha in tears.

It was a wonderful characterisation that Miss Florence Haydon gave us in the part of Martha. It seemed too real, too lifelike, for a mere simulacrum—it was flesh and blood, and a fine touch of human nature. Martha, with all her adipose tissue, sat before us, grumbled about her ailments, and croaked out her animadversions upon all the villagers who, she imagined, complained that she had been in the world too long. It was the goodliest bit of acting throughout the whole evening. Mr. A. Vane Tempest submitted a capital portrayal of the curate fallen head-over-heels in love; and Miss June van Buskirk played with naturalness as the affectionate and engaging Monica; while Miss Marianne Caldwell gave an amusing study of a rustic housewife.

We are sorry we cannot pass so whole-hearted an eulogium upon

"OUT OF SIGHT—"
A Comedietta, by Frederick Fenn and Richard Pryce.

Ralph Aird .....MR. ATHOL STEWART
Billy .....MR. CECIL ROSE
Footman .....MR. EWAN BROOK
Mrs. Avon .....MISS MABEL BEARDSLEY
Margot .....MISS DAGMAR WIEHE

This is little more than a duologue. As a play—even as a one-act play—it lacks "point," strength, and fulness, and we know that the authors are capable of better work. Ralph Aird, after an absence from England of two years, spent in making a fortune abroad, returns home. During the period of separation from his sweetheart, his affection for her, and hers for him, has waned, and apparently each has someone else in view. But, face to face once more, the old love is renewed. Miss Dagmar Wiehe was delightfully charming and winsome as Margot; and Mr. Athol Stewart furnished an effective and finished presentment of the lover who had roughed it abroad, and returned to share his fortune with the sweet heart of former days.

The melodramatic element in the evening's entertainment was represented by

"DAUGHTERS OF SHEM,"
A Play, in One Act,
Adapted from Mr. Samuel Gordon's Story of the same name,
By Samuel Gordon and Carmel Goldsmid.

Anschel Markovitch ..MR. MICHAEL SHERBROOKE
Zilla .....MISS MADGE MCINTOSH
Golda .....MISS ALICE ARDEN
Commissioner of Police
MR. E. HARCOURT WILLIAMS
Enoch Gontaller .....MR. BERTRAM FORSYTH
Yeiteles .....MR. MORRIS HARVEY

Messrs. Gordon and Goldsmid have an extremely interesting—indeed, thrilling—story to tell; but for a one-act play there is too much of it. They have sufficient material to build up a three-act drama, and, provided a little more attention were paid to the writing and construction, we think they would have no reason to regret the trouble entailed in giving to their present effort the greater scope and dignity of the lengthened work. Now as to the play as it stands. Anschel Markovitch has chosen, according to an old Jewish custom, a husband for his eldest daughter Zilla. The latter has given her heart to the local commissioner of police, a Christian, who once saved her life. A violent scene ensues between father and daughter. She declines Enoch Gontaller, the husband selected by her father, and arranges to run away with the police commissioner the same night. Her younger sister Golda prevents the carrying out of the scheme by keeping Zilla locked in her mother's bedroom, and telling the commissioner that her sister has asked her (Golda) to meet him for the purpose of telling him that she releases him. Golda hints at what would happen in the event of children being born of the union of Zilla and the commissioner. No, Zilla must marry one of her own race, and she must carry out the wishes of her father.

It was, indeed, a superb performance of the part of Anschel Markovitch that we got from Mr. Michael Sherbrooke. He showed us how the homely Jewish father, in his moments of happiness, forced the pace of merriment in others, and when he was angry, one shuddered to think of what he would not be capable of doing. It was excellent acting. Tragic intensity marked many of Miss Madge McIntosh's utterances as Zilla, and the rôle was cleverly handled. Mr. E. Harcourt Williams carried out the authors' ideas so far as the police commissioner was concerned; and Miss Alice Arden was a suitable Golda.

"LEAH KLESCHNA" IN THE LAW COURTS.

In the Court of King's Bench, on Tuesday, judgment was delivered in the action for libel brought by Mr. C. M. S. McLellan, the author of Leah Kleschna, against Mr. Charles Hannan, the writer of a letter which appeared in the Stage newspaper on May 18 of last year. The letter complained of was as follows:—

"LEAH KLESCHNA."

Sir,—Will you allow me, without prejudice to the various issues and interests concerned, to state that I have intimated to Mr. Charles Frohman and Mr. McLellan, and other parties interested, my claim to priority of copyright in respect of the play Leah Kleschna, in virtue of my published novel and previously copyrighted play of the same name, The Coachman with the Yellow Lace, and that I have requested the immediate withdrawal of the play, Leah Kleschna, from public performances, and further, that in my letters upon the subject to Mr. Frohman and others, I have incorporated a clause of the following natdre:—

If, however, you desire to continue or promote performances of the play Leah Kleschna, then I hereby intimate to you that you may do so solely on the condition that my charge to you (independent of my claim on other parties) shall be £— per performance, the performance to be held in law in every case as full proof of the interest and liability involved, and as an agreement on your part to pay me the said sum or sums.—I am, Sir, yours faithfully,

CHARLES HANNAN.

London, May 15, 1905.

The plaintiff contended that this letter charged him with plagiarising from The Coachman with the Yellow Lace.

The defendant denied that the words complained of bore the construction put on them by the plaintiff, and contended that they were true in substance and fact. He counter-claimed for damages against Mr. McLellan and Mr. Charles Frohman for the alleged infringement of his rights in The Coachman with the Yellow Lace, and for an injunction.

The case, which was begun last week, when Leah Kleschna was read in court, was resumed on Monday, a portion of the morning being taken up by the reading of The Coachman with the Yellow Lace.

Mr. McLellan was called, and said he had written about fifteen plays. In the autumn of 1901 he was staying in Paris. He and his wife were accustomed to take walks in the afternoons on the Paris boulevards. They met a certain young woman on several occasions who attracted their attention, because she was refined in appearance and very pretty. One day they met her in the company of a man, a very strong, uncompromising villain in appearance. The man was talking to her very violently, and she replied in the same way, both of them being apparently unconscious that they were attracting the notice of the passers-by. During the next few days plaintiff said, he took up the subject as a dramatic possibility, on the lines of a pretty girl committing a crime under strong influence. He did not at first see how he could make it attractive to an English audience. One morning, a fortnight afterwards, however, his wife said: "I dreamt last night that I saw a woman burglar in my bedroom." Instantly the girl of the boulebards came to his mind, and he seized on the incident as suitable for the play.

Mr. McLellan stated that it was in 1901 that the idea of the play came to him, and in 1902 he wrote it in the form of a scenario. He began to write the play in November, 1902. He did not commence it before as he was engaged on The Jury of Fate and Glittering Gloria. At the beginning of 1903 he discussed Leah Kleschna with Mr. Robert Taber, and a complete synopsis was prepared for Mr. Taber and Miss Lena Ashwell in March of that year.

The synopsis was typewritten from the original scenario, to which he had added. He received it on March 11, and sent it to Mr. Taber. On March 12 or 13 he discussed it, at lunch, with Mr. Taber and Miss Ashwell, with a view to a contract. At that time he was engaged on the third act of the play. He finished the two last acts at Geneva; he should think it was finished in June. He then sent it to Mr. Taber.

In reply he received the following letter from Mr. Taber:

"I've read and re-read the play with profound interest, and have given it the best consideration that I'm capable of. We've always been very frank with each other, so I'm going to speak now just what's in my mind—for, if I know you, I'm sure you wish it that way. I consider the play to stand thus: First act, admirable; second act, most admirable; third act, enormous; fourth act, absolutely wrong; fifth act, good. You must appreciate that it is a very trying position for me to assume—sitting up, as it were, in judgment and criticising in a short letter a work that you have given your heart and soul to, and months of untiring labour—but I'm looking at it as one of your audience, and they in the end will decide the fate of your piece. . . Miss Ashwell has read it, without having heard any criticism from me. I particularly wanted to have her unbiassed judgment, and she has arrived at practically the exact opinion that I hold. That, I know, is an important and suggestive fact. . . . Ever faithfully yours, ROBERT TABER."

After the receipt of that letter he re-wrote the fourth act.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hume Williams, K.C., defendant's counsel: Is not the main idea of the play to show a girl who is sent by her father to rob the house of a man whom she is in love with?—It is not indicated at first. But she has been dreaming of him.

Would that not indicate love?—Well, that may be so, but I wished to keep out the idea of love—something deeper I wanted to suggest. I had to introduce the subject of love later to make the play attractive

She bought a photo?—Yes, if that is love.

Mrs. McLellan corroborated her husband's statement as to the inception of the play, and said she had never talked about the play with her brother-in-law.

Miss Gladys Unger gave evidence, and said she saw the original scenario.

Miss Lena Ashwell said the play was submitted to Mr. Taber and herself. She did not see any resemblance between the two plays.

Cross-examined by Mr. Williams, she said she did not think Leah in Leah Kleschna was in love with Sylvaine. She had not studied the part in that light. In studying the part she had looked upon the girl as a dreamer, who didn't know what was before her.

Counsel: Sylvaine was a hero.—He had done something brave, and she was interested.

She had bought his photograph, and dreamt about him. Is not that something on the road to love?—I did not feel so.

Mr. J. T. Grein was called, and gave evidence. He said he thought this was a case for arbitration. Often an idea for a play occurred to two minds at the same time. He proceeded to instance one in the history of the French stage, but was interrupted by his Lordship, who said he did not think the matter was relevant. Proceeding, Mr. Grein then gave as his opinion that the two plays were as unlike as chalk from cheese.

Mr. George McLellan, examined, said in February, 1903, he took a flat belonging to the defendant, and the defendant asked him to read his play. Witness read only a few pages, and concluded that it would not do for him. He gave the defendant an introduction to Mr. Warren. Witness did not mention the play to his brother or discuss it with anybody. After Leah Kleschna was produced the defendant came to witness's office and said that it resembled his play. Witness suggested that he should go and see it, after which Mr. Hannan wrote to him.

Mr. Charles Warren said that in consequence of Mr. George McLellan's introduction he received the defendant's play. He sent the play to America. He never discussed the play with plaintiff.

Mr. Walter Frith said there was a superficial resemblance between the two plays in respect to the characters; but the plays in general did not resemble one another

Cross-examined by Mr. Williams, he said that given certain material, two authors in working on it would proceed in one direction. In a play one could not have the husband dominate the heroine; that would be uninteresting, and for the same reason the brother could not dominate her.

Mr. Williams: And so by a process of elimination we arrive at the fact that the fathers must always dominate the heroines.

Mr. Charles Frohman, who gave evidence on Tuesday, said he did not remember The Coachman with the Yellow Lace ever having been sent to him, though he recollected one or two plays being sent to him by Mr. Hannan. He certainly did not show it to Mr. McLellan.

Mr. Hume Williams: You represent a good number of theatres in London?—Not very good. Mr. Frohman added that Mr. Lestocq was his reader; he did not remember Mr. Lestocq reporting to him that he had read The Coachman with the Yellow Lace. He encouraged Mr. Hannan considerably in his work, and wrote to him telling him to go on with it.

Counsel for the defendant submitted that there was no case for the jury.

The Lord Chief Justice: I can't possibly withdraw the case from the jury.

In opening for the defendant, counsel said the case of a girl being sent to steal from the man she loved was the very essence of Mr. Hannan's play. He submitted that whether or not the jury came to the conclusion that Mr. McLellan had voluntarily or involuntarily appropriated Mr. Hannan's ideas, there was another point which was sufficient to entitle the jury to give a verdict for the defendant. That point was that there was substantial identity between the two plays in question. If the jury came to that conclusion, and believed that the play Leah Kleschna, as produced, contained the germ of the other play, however innocent Mr. McLellan might have been, the result was an infringement of Mr. Hannan's rights.

The Lord Chief Justice: Are you going to allege that Mr. McLellan is not the author of Leah Kleschna—that he took the substantial part of the play from The Coachman with the Yellow Lace?

Mr. Hume Williams: I am going to allege that there is substantial identity between the plays. Continuing his address to the jury, Mr. Hume Williams said it was precisely because such things as that might occur that the copyright law existed, and a man was entitled to protect the copyright in his idea, whether in a play or an invention. Mr. Hannan had produced many plays. Early in 1898 he conceived the idea of writing a book, the main incidents of which should be that thefts should be committed by a girl who was under the direction of her father; and that she should be sent by her father to commit a robbery from a man with whom she had fallen in love, without knowing that the things she was going to steal were his property. Having discovered that she has robbed her lover, the girl at once renounces the life of crime. In 1898 Mr. Hannan accordingly wrote a book called "The Coachman with the Yellow Lace," and shortly after commenced writing a play founded on the book. The book was published on Oct. 31, 1902. Shortly before, he wrote a short one-act play on the book, for the purpose of obtaining copyright. It was produced at Glasgow on Sept. 11, 1902. By November, 1902, Mr. Hannan had completed his four-act play. On Jan. 23, 1903, he sent it to Mr. Lestocq, and in May, 1903, sent it to Mr. Frohman himself. In March, 1903, it was in Mr. George McLellan's possession. Early in 1905 Mr. Hannan read a criticism of Leah Kleschna, and discovered that there was a most extraordinary resemblance in the main plot of the two plays. In conclusion, Mr. Hume Williams urged that Mr. Hannan was at any rate entitled to a share in the large profits which Mr. McLellan had made out of Leah Kleschna.

Mr. Hannan, who then entered the witness-box, said he commenced his dramatic work by collaborating with Mr. Wilson Barrett fifteen years ago. He dramatised The Cigarette-Maker's Romance, and had written a good many other plays.

The Lord Chief Justice, during the examination of the defendant, addressing Mr. Hume Williams, said it must be clearly stated whether defendant charged the plaintiff with stealing ideas from The Coachman with the Yellow Lace.

Mr. Hume Williams, after consultation with his client, said: We are at one, my lord, in thinking that the proper course is not to suggest that the plaintiff has stolen the defendant's ideas, but to ground our action on innocent coincidences.

The Lord Chief Justice: The way I have put it on my notes is that the defendant's counsel says that he would not ask the jury to find that the story of Leah Kleschna was suggested to the plaintiff by perusal of or information given to him as to the play The Coachman with the Yellow Lace.

Defendant, continuing, said that in his view there was substantial similarity between the two plays, which in certain respects were worked out in the same way.

Cross-examined as to whether he did not endeavour to make what he wrote true to life, defendant replied, "Not necessarily—sometimes I write quite absurd things."

In cross-examination, the defendant said: The Coachman with the Yellow Lace had never been produced. He denied that it was a comic piece from beginning to end.

The Lord Chief Justice: There have been some plays where the people wept at the comic incidents and laughed at the tragic ones.

Mr. Rufus Isaacs, K.C., plaintiff's counsel: And there was actually a piece written as a tragedy, which was put on as a farce, and was a huge success.

Mr. Isaacs: Is not the idea quite general that if you invent a thief for stage purposes, she should be regenerated at the end?

Defendant: Not at all. I should expect her to go down—down—down, and finally, in some big scene, take to drink.

Mr. Isaacs: That seems rather late.

Defendant added that he did not think it always desirable that a play should end happily—he believed that if the woman went down and down, and ended up in a great mad scene, the play would coin money.

Then why didn't you write it?—Because I took the opposite view.

There is nothing novel in a heroine saying, "Put up your swords, for my sake!"—No.

In the case of the duchess, she goes to find the property, for which she understands there is no rightful owner, whereas in the other case Leah Kleschna goes out to steal things which she knows belong to people who are living?—There is a rightful owner, but she does not know he exists.

That is the whole point I am putting to you. When you are presenting a play on an English stage it is rather desirable, is it not, that your heroine should be pure?—Yes. They do not seem to think so nowadays.

Defendant was questioned by Mr. Isaacs as to a play which he produced some years ago at Brighton. One paper, said Mr. Hannan, dealt with the production in parallel columns, comparing the play with Mice and Men. Defendant wrote to that journal, pointing out that his play was written thirteen years before. On another occasion he pointed out that a play being produced at the Pavilion was founded on the same lines as a play which he (defendant) was writing on one of his novels. The play was called The Criminal Judge, and he wrote asking for its immediate withdrawal.

The Lord Chief Justice: A very proper request

Mr. Isaacs: In substance, this claim is the same as in the present case, except that your fee is £50 per night, as against £25 in the former case?—In this case I hold the copyright; in the other I did not.

In the end, they went on producing the play, and you did nothing further?—That is right.

Mr. Hume Williams: You tried to stop what you believed was an infringement of your book? That was the whole point?—That is so. The author's profits on a play amounted to between 7½ per cent. and 10 per cent. of the gross receipts per night.

The plaintiff also was questioned on this point. He said 10 per cent. was a very large profit. The profit was usually on a sliding scale, rising gradually.

Mr. Hume Williams proceeded to address the jury.

Mr. Isaacs, who followed, mentioned the case of The Three Musketeers, two different versions of which were produced in London at the same time. They were based on the same words, but that did not give one playwright the right to say, "You have no right to make a play of it, because I have." The law said, "You must not make a colourable imitation of another man's work, or copy his work." He did not see how Mr. Hannan, who had failed to get The Coachman with the Yellow Lace produced, could claim damages.

The Lord Chief Justice, in summing up, said this was an unusual and very interesting case. He was not aware that he could point to any instance where a similar issue had been tried before a jury. There was no doubt that the defendant did mean to say more than that there was an infringement of the copyright, because he had put in a denial that the plaintiff was the author of Leah Kleschna. He was glad that any suggestion against Mr. McLellan's honour and honesty had been withdrawn. In this case the jury had to decide whether, looked at substantially, the pith and marrow of Mr. Hannan's play play had been taken by Mr. McLellan. His lordship said he must direct the jury, in face of what Mr. Hume Williams had said, that ideas were not the subject of copyright, unless they were embodied in written words, music, painting, or sculpture. It was rather remarkable that whereas on the plaintiff's behalf there was a body of testimony by critics and experts, who said they saw no plagiarism in Leah Kleschna, on the other hand, they only had the defendant's view.

After retiring for forty minutes' deliberation, the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff, finding that he had not infringed defendant's copyright. They assessed the damages at £25.

POLYTECHNIC SCHOOL OF ELOCUTION.

The 150th open night recital of the School of Elocution of the Regent-street Polytechnic was celebrated on Tuesday evening, when the Grand Hall was crowded with an appreciative audience. During the course of the evening Mr. and Mrs. S. Hasluck, the directors of the School, were presented with an address by the president, Mr. J. E. K. Studd, on behalf of the students. The address read as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. Hasluck,—We, the undersigned, past and present students of the Polytechnic School of Elocution, welcome this occasion—the 150th open night recital—to present you both with this piece of plate as a token of our affectionate esteem, and trust you may be long spared to carry on with your unrivalled abilities your work here. We also wish to express our regard for the kindness, friendship, and attention you have always shown to us, and your deep interest in our class work."

Mr. S. Hasluck made a humorous and feeling speech in response, adding, "The beautiful silver tray you have given us we shall always prize; but more valuable is the address, which breathes the affectionate sympathy you, our students, have for us in our work, and however strong and sincere they may be, it is most deeply reciprocated."

Mrs. Hasluck, who was received with an ovation, said their work in the elocution school was a labour of love, for they learnt to look on their students not only in friendship but in love, and although through ever-changing years their students went forth in all parts of the world, their ties never seemed to sever, and their family had been ever faithful. "We are both very happy," concluded Mrs. Hasluck, "and we thank you all in the name you have so lovingly remembered this evening."

Mrs. Hasluck read congratulatory letters and telegrams from Mr. Edward Terry, Mr. Benson, Mr. Geo. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Maude, Mr. Martin Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bourchier, Mr. Beerbohm Tree, and Sir Charles Wyndham.

The entertainment provided by the past and present students was worthy of all praise. Miss Alice Mellish gave an admirable impersonation of Jo, in "Bleak House," and was well supported by Miss Alice Cronin as Lady Dedlock. Miss Allison Botting appeared as Barnaby Rudge; Miss Bessie Wenmoth as Nell Gwynne; and Miss Maud Drew gave a sketch from "Jonas Chuzzlewit and His Wife"; Miss Rita Gallally and Mr. Bloye Higgs appeared in a scene from King Henry the Fifth; Miss Clara Hubbard, in Inglelow's "The High Tide"; Miss Daisy Browne in Andersen's "The Red Shoes," with music by Mr. Walmsley-Little; Miss Alice Bailey as Lady Macbeth in the Sleep-walking scene; Mr. Percival Reed in Matheson's "The Wail of the Banner Bearer," excellently rendered; Mr. Charles Mooney in Buchanan's "Fra Giacomo"; and Mr. Arthur Foxon in Kipling's "Fuzzy Wuzzy." Miss Amy Porter skilfully executed a 'cello solo; and the farcical episode, The Ladies' Club, was capitally sustained by Misses Laura Godfree, Evelyn Heepe, Lillian Church, Nancy Tripp, Fanny Barrington, Alice Isaacs, and Mrs. Sweasey, all of whom displayed brightness and vivacity; the evening's entertainment closing with the "Lamentable Comedy of Pyramus and Trisbe," from A Midsummer Night's Dream, the characters in which were humorously depicted by Messrs. Herbert Langston, Douglas Mathews, W. Mervyn Ward, Henry Middlemas, Henry W. Reed, Ernest Wellbeloved, William Faulkner, Edwin Barnes, Bower-Codling, George Maurice, Francis James, Misses Ethel Chandler, Grete Hahn, Florence Coiley, Isabel Arrowsmith, Bessie Skuse, Edith Tomkins, Florence Woolf, Edith Baker, Emily Gould, Ada Hatchwell, Blanche Browne, Gladys Ely, Isabel Frost, Frances Gallally, Gertie Heaton, Violet Purry, Clara Reed, Winnie Reed, Addie Sandwell, Alice Skuse, and Mabel Tranter.

ACTORS' DAY.

AN APPEAL TO THE PROFESSION.

The arangements for an "Actors' Day" throughout the country, on the basis that, on one night in every year, actors should combine to make provision for their funds and charities, have now been completed by the Council of the Actors' Association, who have been working on them for nearly a year. We print below a copy of the appeal which is being made to every actor, actress, and manager in the country to support this excellent idea.

ACTORS' DAY.

"It has long been felt that actors and actresses, as members of a self-respecting profession, should make more substantial provision for a day of need; that, independently of the charitable public, they, as a body, should be in a position to alleviate the sufferings of their fellow-players, whose cases are often as deserving as they are desperate.

To do this a large income must be available.

With this end in view the Council of the Actors' Association, being the only organised body representing the profession, have determined to bring the matter to a practical issue; and they earnestly ask for your help to carry out what cannot fail to be an enormous benefit to actors individually, and to the profession as a whole.

An organising committee, whose names appear below, has been appointed by the Council. After careful consideration, and conference with their president and vice-presidents, they propose:—

That in every theatre in the United Kingdom, on one night in every year, actors should combine to make provision for their funds and charities.

That the date shall be the third Thursday in October.

Actors and actresses, wherever acting, are asked to give their services for this one night without salary.

Authors are invited to allow their plays to be acted for this one night without fee.

Managers are invited, for this one night, to give their total receipts.

This is our scheme. It has been cordially accepted, and is earnestly commended to all actors and managers throughout the land.

Upwards of forty authors have promised to give up their fees.

Upwards of 1,200 actors, actresses, authors, and managers have promised their support.

The following gentlemen have undertaken to act as trustees:—

Sir George Lewis, Bart.,
Sir Squire Bancroft,
George R. Sims, Esq.

The sum total of all contributions will alone be made public. The contributions from each theatre will be known to the trustees only, each such contribution being sent in one sum, and no details of individual salaries will be given.

All who are not playing on Actors' Day are asked, if they are in a position to do so, to send a proporticnate contribution direct to the trustees.

The names of all actors who are willing to give their services will be registered; and, if unhappily misfortune should overtake them, they can claim as a right, and not as a charity, some share of what they have themselves accumulated.

The proposals of the Committee, as far as they have gone, have met with the keenest interest and approval. If those they have not yet had an opportunity of consulting are equally enthusiastic, the result will be that once a year managers, actors, and authors throughout the kingdom will help to accumulate a fund which, for all time, should place our calling beyond the need of charitable appeal.

Actors will work for actors on one night in every year.

Extract from letter:

'17, Stratton Street,
Piccadilly, W.

I am certainly with your Committee in their admirable proposal to set apart in all theatres one performance a year for the benefit of theatrical funds and charities.

Very truly yours,
Henry Irving.

The Council of the Actors' Association wish it to be clearly understood that they are merely supplying the machinery to establish Actors' Day. Every actor and actress, whether a member of the Association or not, is equally interested, and will benefit equally by the result.

We appeal to every member of the profession.

Acton Bond,
A. E. Drinkwater,
Norman McKinnel,
Cecil Raleigh,
Brandon Thomas,
} Organising Committee appointed by the Council of the Actors' Association.

All who are willing to assist in the work of organisation are invited to send in their names to the Committee."

The following are copies of the two forms in the appeal, one for actors and the other for managers:—

Form A.

To be signed by Actors.

I approve of the proposal, and undertake to give my services this one night without salary.

Date.	Signature.	Permanent Address.

Form B.

To be signed by Managers.

To the Organising Committee of the Actors' Day.

I approve of the proposal, and undertake to forward my receipts for the one appointed night, each year, to the Trustees of the Actors' Day.

Date.	Signature.	Permanent Address.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS TO THE COMMITTEE.

I will do all in my power to help the project.
Squire Bancroft.

A noble scheme.
Marie Effie Bancroft.

Use my name by all means as being in hearty sympathy.
Charles Wyndham.

I entirely approve of the scheme for all managers in the United Kingdom setting apart one night's proceeds for theatrical charities, provided, of course, all concerned give their services. I, for one, should certainly support such a scheme.
John Hare.

I entirely approve of the suggestion to devote one night's performance once a year in all theatres in the United Kingdom to theatrical funds, and I heartily commend my fellow actors and managers to adopt the sound proposal to give up their salary and receipts on Actors' Day, as by this means we shall be able to establish a fund worthy of our profession, and rid ourselves once and for all of the necessary and undignified proceeding of having to appeal to the public whenever one of our members breaks down in health.
Arthur Bourchier.

I shall be glad to fall in with any scheme determined upon to raise funds for the charities.
H. Beerbohm Tree.

Nothing in the world could possibly be better for our profession than the institution of this proposed Actors' Day, and we most earnestly trust it may be cordially supported by all.
Cyril Maude.

I certainly think the idea of an Actors' Day for our charities a most desirable one, and I hope it will have the assistance of every actor and manager throughout the Kingdom.
Edward Terry.

If we can carry through the Actors' Day, what a blessing! It will stop the "benefits" that have gone on too long.
C. Hayden Coffin.

Most heartily do I approve of the scheme.
Ed. S. Willard.

Quite willing to assist in the way you suggest.
A. W. Pinero.

We shall be delighted to help you all in our power.
Julia Neilson,
Fred Terry.

The scheme meets with my cordial approval.
J. M. Chute.

I am quite in sympathy.
Catherine Compton.

I shall be very pleased to give my support.
F. R. Benson.

Of course, I am only too delighted.
Henry Neville.

I think the scheme is good. I have great pleasure in giving you permission to use my name.
Arthur Collins.

I shall be very pleased to surrender my fees for the special day.
J. M. Barrie.

I need hardly say how pleased I shall be to help in the sensible course proposed, and have much pleasure in asking you to add my name to those willing to assist in a deserving work.
William Bourne.

The scheme looks well. I shall be pleased to give it my support.
Robert Arthur.

I have the greatest possible pleasure in adhering to your scheme.
Louis N. Parker.

I promise the fees of one performance a year.
G. Bernard Shaw.

I shall be pleased to give you my support for all it is worth. It is a great scheme. Every member of the company accepts it with enthusiasm.
H. A. Saintsbury.

In principle I am with you entirely. Put me down on the list.
J. F. Elliston.

Shall be pleased to fall in with the proposal each year, as far as the rent of the Apollo Theatre is concerned.
E. Aschersberg.

I am quite with you in every way. I send paper signed by every member of The Christian company.
Wentworth Croke.

I shall be only too pleased to set apart the proceeds of a performance once a year. It has my fullest sympathy.
Jonathan Dewhurst.

Ours was only a small crowd, but they did their best; they all signed, and agreed with me that the scheme was great.
Henry Renouf.

I willingly add my name to the list. I wish the scheme every success.
John Worswick.

I consider the idea excellent.
Beatrice Homer.

Please add my name; only too delighted to help.
Florence St. John.

Certainly worthy of sympathetic support of all managers. I will do all in my power to assist both at our Brighton and Bristol theatres.
Ernest Carpenter.

I am in complete sympathy . . . will do whatever I can to advance the excellent object.
R. C. Carton.

I heartily subscribe to it. Best wishes for success of so admirable a scheme.
George Mudie.

I will help the scheme with pleasure.
Millicent Bandmann-Palmer.

I have every sympathy with the scheme. I will do all I can to further it.
H. Cecil Beryl.

A TOUR IN SOUTH AFRICA.

In the Court of King's Bench on Monday was begun the case of Bruce v. Welton and Trevosper, in which Mr. Harry Bruce claimed the sum of £374 for money lent, salary, and expenses, and damages for wrongful dismissal from the defendants, Mr. Thomas Abercrombie Welton, who was alleged to have financed the enterprise, and Miss Marguerite Trevosper (Mrs. Macpherson), the nominal proprietor of the company.

It was stated on behalf of the plaintiff that he had been an actor and dramatic author for fourteen years, and he claimed nineteen weeks' salary as manager of the defendants' tour in South Africa, £190 for money lent, and £34 13s., the amount of his return fare home. Defendants denied liability, and Miss Trevosper alleged that she dismissed the plaintiff because of drunkenness and personal violence towards herself. She counterclaimed for the return of the MS. of four stage plays—Knight in Armour, The Distant Shores, The Two Hussars,

BERLIN, Thursday, May 24.—Herr Strindberg is a proverbial woman-hater, and has repeatedly expressed it as his opinion that woman was intended by nature to minister to superior man's comfort, and nothing more. Against woman as a worker and against her efforts to compete with man's intelligence, Strindberg has always set his face, and in his present drama he has poured out all the vituperation of a lifetime upon poor Bertha, leaving her not one single redeeming feature. He does not go to work on broad lines, but drives his stings and pin-pricks home with a malicious pleasure that is self-evident. Bertha and Axel are painters; they are a married pair, but we are not told their other name. He is what the Germans term a "hero of the slipper," whose affection for his wife is shamefully abused in every way. She is a perfect monster—a man-woman, who drinks and cheats, and betrays the man who has paid for her education in art and married her. Both now send a painting to the Salon, but only the one bearing Bertha's name is accepted. She flaunts her triumph with unwomanly coarseness before her husband, and to humiliate him still further causes the rejected picture to be brought into the studio and unpacked before a crowd of visitors. Her triumph is short lived. Axel, fearing her painting would not be taken, had changed the names, and it is thus his picture that graces the walls of the Salon. This is the end; Axel's patience has been tried too far, and he determines on a separation. All Bertha's wiles have no effect on him, so she manages her best to get what she can in the way of settlements. Both go their own way, and Axel has a lady friend waiting to comfort him for all he has undergone. A wife should not be a comrade, but only a woman, he declares; "Kameraden" are for the café, not for the home. Strindberg has introduced another woman or two on which to vent his feelings; they are also plunderers of the poor victim man, and the impersonation of all the vices. The interpretation of the piece was not as even as might have been wished, Herr Jarno giving the only absolutely satisfactory rôle. The reception on the whole was cordial, but a new piece is already announced. It must be stated that the real Lessing Company under Dr. Brahm are on tour, and the theatre is occupied by Herr Jarno's company from Vienna. Herr Jarno—an actor of much talent and versatility—was the author, it will be remembered, of Der Raubenvater, the amusing farce which had so long a run both here and in England. The summer season at the New Royal Opera is thus far decidedly successful. Leo Blech's new three-act opera, Menschenfeind und Alpenkönig, produced a few nights ago, has every prospect of becoming very popular. It is the work of a skilful musician, who has had the courage to employ plenty of melody of the good old sort—genuinely melodious melody, if sometimes sentimental. After the recitative musical dramas of which we have had such a number, it is refreshing to the majority of opera-goers—particularly in the summer—to listen to a work of this kind. The plot is fantastical. The "menschenfeind," or misanthrope, is Rappelkopf, a man whose great wealth makes him suspicious that everyone is cheating him. He is suspicious of even his wife and family, and finally he becomes unbearable to all around him. Half crazy he flees into the solitude of the mountains, where he implores the Alp-King to aid him. His Alpine Majesty is kind; he takes upon himself pro tem. Rappelkopf's form, and lends the misanthrope that of his own brother-in-law. In this guise Rappelkopf returns home and speedily learns that all whom he suspected are innocent of evil, and have a sincere affection for himself. More than this, his eyes are opened by the Alp-King—who is disguised as Rappelkopf—to see how much he has sinned himself, and he vows to do better in future. It is a changed and happy man who regains his old self again, and everyone else is happy in consequence. The opera was very well acted and sung, the mounting was effective, and Kapellmeister Kunwald conducted with consummate skill. The composer was unfortunately absent, but artists, manager, and conductor were all warmly applauded.

Wolzogen's tragi-comedy, Das Lumpengesindel, having played its turn successfully upon many of our stages, has now arrived at the Schiller N., where it met with such a hearty welcome as to warrant a lengthy stay. The cast was a capital all-round one, the amusing rôles of the literary Bohemians being especially well given by Herr Rolan and Herr Ziegel, while Frau Gundra and Herr Kirschner played their parts with equal humour.

The second performance at the Théâtre des Westens by the students of the Stern Conservatorium brought more than one embryo artist to light. The programme consisted of scenes from Cavalleria Rusticana, Faust, Lortzing's Czar and Zimmermann and Goldmarck's almost forgotten opera, Die Königen von Saba. Herr Max Begemann, who sang the rôle of the Czar in Lortzing's delightful little opera, proved himself to be in possession of an exceptionally beautiful baritone with a great range. He sang, for instance, in the famous aria in the third act the high A flat with perfect ease. The young singer's voice has been well trained, and when he has gained a little more experience there is no doubt that he will take a high place among operatic artists. Other students who should do well are Fräulein Rensch—who sang Santuzza—and Herr Herper, who distinguished himself vocally as Alfio, while his acting needs a good deal of attention. Professor Hollander again conducted, and the evening was altogether a thoroughly enjoyable one.

Signor Caruso has signed a contract to sing on six—at least—evenings at our Royal Opera within a short time. The famous tenor sang twice—it may be remembered—at the Théâtre des Westens last year.

Frau Marie delle Grazie, a talented Austrian authoress, has written an interesting drama, entitled Ver Sacrum, which was produced with success at the Volks Theatre, Vienna, a few nights ago. The play is reported to be admirably constructed; its plot is of the "soul-problem" order of which Germans and Austrians are so fond. It depicts the horror of a young girl at discovering her mother is faithless to her marriage vows, the weight of the secret proving so depressing that the girl dies in the end. The authoress was called and warmly applauded, but a few among the audience expressed their dissatisfaction in the customary manner.

Der Glückliche Jack is the title of a new three-act operetta by Ferdinand Grade, to which Herren Lipschitz and Okonkowsky have written the text. It will be the next novelty at the Central Theatre, and Fräulein Mia Werber will sing the chief female parts.

Fräulein Maria Pospischil, an actress of tragic and classical rôles—an old favourite here—will give a season at the Berliner in June with her own company. Sophocles' Electra—in the translation by Wilbrandt—and Goethe's Iphigenie (in each of which Fräulein Pospischil plays the title-rôle) are to be included in the repertory.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MISS ADELAIDE ROSS.

Miss Adelaide Ross is one of the few remaining members of the profession who may be classed as of the old school, she having graduated under some of our best managers. Coming of a non-theatrical family—she being the granddaughter of Sir Charles Hewitt, Bart.—she became, when quite a girl, a pupil of Mrs. W. West (a sister of the great George Frederick Cooke), then in her seventieth year. Under her careful training, and with numerous amateur performances, she gained considerable knowledge of stagecraft. On one occasion, at the little theatre at King's Cross, she appeared as Emilia to the Othello of Alfred Dampier, now a well-known Australian manager, and on another as Lady Audley to the Robert of Mr. Walter Joyce. She then took to the provinces, and, together with her sister, Miss Kate Ross, she worked hard through some rough but valuable experience. Eventually she secured an engagement at the old theatre in Marischall-street, Aberdeen, under the management of Mr. Alexander MacLein. Having purchased a version of Leah under the title of Hagar, the Outcast Jewess, she opened the season in Aberdeen in this part, and so immediate was her success that the piece ran for twelve nights—a very unusual thing in those days of quick changes.

For two years she remained a popular favourite with the Aberdonians, playing leading parts to all the stars who visited the theatre. Here she met Miss Heath and Mr. Wilson Barrett, and played Romeo to that lady's Juliet. Then came the great tragedian, Mr. G. V. Brooke, with whom she had the honour of appearing as Virginia, Desdemona, Margaret Elmore, &c.

She then came south, and joined Mr. George Melville's Bristol and Cardiff circuit. Here she met and supported Mr. John Wilson and Miss Amy Sedgwick, playing Mrs. Montressor in The Unequal Match. Then came the gifted French tragedienne, Mlle. Beatrice, and a heavy task was given to Miss Ross when she was cast for Elizabeth of England; but she attacked the part bravely, and so successful were her efforts that she received unstinted praise from Mlle. Beatrice. During this engagement she met Mr. Edward Terry, and here she had the unique experience of playing Gertrude to the Hamlet of Mr. George Melville, who rendered the part in French. From this she went to Cheltenham under the management of Mr. George Hudson, where she met Mr. Neil Warner and Mr. J. L. Toole. After this she revisited Scotland under the management of Mr. Alexander Wright, of Greenock. Here she met and was married to Mr. T. W. Ford, with whom she subsequently fulfilled several joint engagements. She then came to London, and played for twelve months at the Britannia Theatre, starring as Hagar the Jewess, &c. Following this, she fulfilled a special engagement at Dublin, supporting Mr. Barry Sullivan as Lady Macbeth, Mrs. Beverley (The Gamester), &c. Then came an offer to appear as Hamlet in the old theatre in Liverpool. On this occasion the part of Guildenstern was played by a young actor, who made his first appearance in that part, and who afterwards became known to fame—the late handsome and gifted Osmond Tearle. She then joined Mr. E. D. Davis, of Newcastle and Sunderland, where she was contemporary with Messrs. Leonard Boyne, George Titheridge, H. Kemble, Sam Honey, Mrs. John Pritchard (now Mrs. Oscar Barrett), &c. After this she toured with her own company in a version of the Wandering Jew, entitled Sybil, the Hunchback. It was produced at the old Marylebone Theatre, then under the management of Mr. Joseph Cave.

For some time after this Miss Ross retired almost into private life, only appearing occasionally at matinées. In 1883 she went with her husband to America to fulfil an engagement with Mary Anderson, on several occasions (at matinées) appearing in place of the gifted tragedienne. Before concluding her engagements, she accompanied Miss Anderson to the great Shakespearean Festival at Cincinnati. Miss Ross was the only English actress in the programme. At the end of the tour Miss Ross received many flattering offers to remain in the States, but being somewhat of a home-bird, she decided to return to England, which she did, and toured with her own play, The Monarch of the World, for two years. Then her husband returning to America, Miss Ross appeared in a starring engagement, viz., a special month at Southampton, appearing as Lady Clancarty, Margaret Arkwright, and Mary Tudor in 'Twixt Axe and Crown to the Princess Elizabeth of the beautiful Mrs. Rousby. She was then engaged for Lady Macbeth in the first Shakespearean production at the Queen's Theatre, Manchester; then to play Julia in The Hunchback at the opening of the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool; and again to appear in the same part at the Theatre Royal, Sunderland. On this occasion she was the recipient of a gift in the shape of a beautifully bound volume of Tennyson's poems. Then followed a long, important engagement with Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer to support that talented lady as Queen Elizabeth in her production of Mary Stuart at the Grand Theatre, Islington. After a series of engagements of more or less importance, Miss Ross practically left the stage to conduct a dramatic class in Birmingham, and afterwards in London.

When Miss Ross is not acting she is mostly writing either prose or verse. She has recently completed a poem, entitled "Victoria," being a record of the reign of that beloved monarch. King Edward has graciously accepted a copy. In private life she is Mrs. J. W. Ford. She has two daughters, Miss Mary Ford (Mrs. Charles Howitt) and Miss Minnie Watersford (Mrs A. B. Cross).

MISS ALICE CHAPIN.

Miss Alice Chapin hails from New England, and is descended from the old Puritan stock. There was strong opposition when she announced her determination to become an actress, but "where there's a will there's a way," and when her family removed to Brooklyn, New York, Miss Chapin became so popular as an amateur performer that she was chosen, from some 30 or 40 aspirants, to play Juliet in a special performance of Romeo and Juliet, given at the Brooklyn Theatre. Her next step was to become a student at the New York Dramatic College, where she had the inestimable advantage of studying with David Belasco.

Shortly after leaving the college Miss Chapin came to England, so that practically all her experience has been gained in this country. Mr. Hermann Vezin gave the stranger a hearty welcome upon her arrival on these shores, and Miss Chapin has most grateful recollections of cosy chats, interspersed with Shakespearean readings, in his delightful little flat, while Mr. Vezin dispensed tea and good advice with strict impartiality. After a first appearance as Virginia at a matinée at the Globe Theatre, Miss Chapin went on tour as the American Widow in Aunt Jack. A short engagement to play Minna in Fauntleroy followed. Last summer Miss Chapin again resumed acquaintance with this play, but this time she played "Dearest" to her little daughter's Cedric.

Miss Chapin's first engagement with Fauntleroy was terminated by a long and serious illness. When restored to health a special engagement to play Volumnia in the performances of Coriolanus at Stratford-on-Avon was speedily followed by a long engagement with Edmund Tearle, when Miss Chapin played such rôles as Lady Macbeth, Emilia, Queen Elizabeth, Woodville, and, what has always been a favourite character with her, Queen Gertrude. During the next few seasons Miss Chapin portrayed many heroines or villainesses of melodrama, with occasional incursions into Shakespeare, for which she has always had a marked predilection. One interesting experience was the playing (Closet Scene only) of Queen Gertrude to a girl Hamlet, in the music halls.

Out of many rôles which Miss Chapin has acted may be mentioned Marguerite Gautier; Sylvie in Le Passant (which she played in French); Virginie, in Drink; Princess Claudia, in The Red Lamp; Heavies, in The Power and the Glory and Defender of the Faith; the heroine, of A Mother's Love; and, best of all, Mrs. Erlynne in Lady Windermere's Fan. She also enacted La Tisbe in her own adaptation of Hugo's Angelo. Miss Chapin has also tried her hand at writing. Some of her short plays have found favour with the critics, and she hopes soon to produce a more ambitious work in a West End theatre.

MR J. T. MACMILLAN.

Mr. J. T. Macmillan, as his name implies, hails from "ayont the Tweed," and has had many years of varied experience, principally in comic opera, musical comedy, and pantomime, with occasional lapses into drama. He commenced his career as utility man in the stock company at the Theatre Royal, Greenock, where he also played his first pantomime under the management of Alexander Wright. This was followed by stock and pantomime engagements at Dundee, Middlesbrough, and Torquay. Then came a long spell of useful experience with the late Andrew Melville in Bristol, Newport, and Swansea. He then joined the Billie Taylor opera company, in which he played Ben Barnacle throughout the United Kingdom and also on a short tour in France. Afterwards he toured with Miss Kate Bateman (Mrs. Crowe) as principal comedian in Leah, Mary Warner, and His Wife. This was followed by engagements as Weasel in the comic opera Nell Gwynne, the Baron in Randolph the Reckless, and Cerberus in Sir Augustus Harris's Orpheus and Eurydice.

Mr. Macmillan played Bill Berkley, the comic convict, in Man to Man, and his performance of this part led to two pantomime seasons at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool. He also played Dominie Sampson in Guy Mannering, and other parts with Mr. Sims Reeves and Mr. J. W. Turner. He was then engaged by Mr. R. D'Oyly Carte to play the McCrankie in Haddon Hall, King Paramount in Utopia, Limited, and Bedford Rowe in The Vicar of Bray.

On the termination of his contract with Mr. Carte he was secured by Mr. Wm. Greet to create the part of Honeycomb in The Gay Parisienne; afterwards he toured as Uncle Matt in La Cigale under the same management. Then came a pantomime engagement at the Prince's, Manchester, where he played Will Atkins. From Manchester he went to the Princess's Theatre, Oxford-street, to play the principal low-comedy part in the production of The Star of India. On the conclusion of the run of this piece he was again engaged by Sir Augustus Harris to take part in the original production of The Telephone Girl. After that he joined Mr. Arthur Roberts to play the General in Don Quixote, and was the Mayor in that gentleman's production of Milord Sir Smith, and also took part in the skit on The Three Musketeers at the Comedy Theatre. Then came a tour as the Scotch solicitor in An American Heiress, followed by a pantomime engagement at the Borough, Stratford.

Mr. George Dance then had his eye on him for Pineapple in A Chinese Honeymoon, which part he played for two years in the provinces and for eight months at the Strand Theatre. After leaving the Strand he went to the Gaiety, Dublin, for pantomime, returning to London to play Milford, "the nightshirt hero," in The Worst Woman in London at the Adelphi Theatre.

On the withdrawal of the "Worst Woman" Mr. Macmillan turned his attention to the music halls, and "did" the Barrasford tour with Mr. Walter Summers' Sultan of Ranogoo. Finding the music halls pleasant and congenial, he decided to work "on his own," and has, since the conclusion of his pantomime engagement, been appearing in the halls as a Scotch comedian.

For the last two seasons Mr. Macmillan has been the Scotch comedian in Messrs. Howard and Wyndham's pantomimes at the Theatres Royal, Glasgow and Edinburgh.

MISS MARGUERITE CELLIER.

Miss Marguerite Cellier is a daughter of Mr. François Cellier, for so many years musical director of the Savoy Theatre, and niece of Mr. Alfred Cellier, the composer of Dorothy, &c. She commenced her stage career by walking on in Sir Henry Irving's company in his entire répertoire. Then she went as understudy in Mr. Flanagan's production of The Merry Wives of Windsor, and next took part in Mr. Courtneidge's production of As You Like It at the Prince's, Manchester. She understudied Celia, and it was Mr. Courtneidge who offered Miss Cellier her first chance. He gave her a trial at a matinée, and also arranged for her to play at all subsequent matinées, at the same time offering her an engagement to go to Australia with a Shakespearean company he was taking out for Mr. Musgrove. She accepted and remained in Australia over a year, and also visited New Zealand, playing Hermia in A Midsummer Night's Dream and Phœbe in As You Like It, besides understudying Viola and Olivia in Twelfth Night and playing Milly in On 'Change. On her return from Australia she joined Mr. Waller's Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner company to play in the prologue and understudy Elizabeth. On the second tour of this play Miss Cellier was engaged for Molly and to create the part of Lucy in a new first piece, The Borrowed Uncle. She had the opportunity of playing Elizabeth at a moment's notice, and on her third tour sustained the same rôle. Miss Cellier's only brother, François Cellier, jun., is also on the stage, and has successfully played Clement Hale and numerous other parts in Mr. Edward Terry's répertoire.

MR. STERLING MACKINLAY'S RECITAL.

Mr. M. Sterling Mackinlay, who has been before the public for some years as a popular teacher and vocalist, gave his only recital this season at Bechstein Hall on Monday to an overflowing audience, chiefly ladies. Mr. Sterling Mackinlay, who was assisted by Miss Dorothy Wren, Miss Pauline Potter, and Miss Dorothy Bridson, was heard first in Vulcan's song from Gounod's Philemon et Baucis, Brahms' "Sapphische Ode," and a refined and artistic rendering of Hatton's song "To Anthea," which was given by request. The concert giver, who has received his principal training under the famous teacher Señor Manuel Garcia, was also heard, and much applauded, in Schumann's "The Two Grenadiers," "Maid of Athens," by Gounod, and "Medjè," by the same composer. Other songs given by Mr. Mackinlay were "Der Erlkönig," Chaminade's "Berceuse," and "My Song is of the Sturdy North," by Ed. German. Great refinement characterised the singing of these by Mr. Sterling Mackinlay. Miss Dorothy Wren gave two pretty songs, "Grew a Rosebud" and "A Song of Sunshine," accompanied by the composer, and, later in the programme, Tosti's "La Serenata"; and Miss Dorothy Bridson's skilfully-executed violin solos, "Elfentanz" (Popper-Halir), and "Air," by Tenaglia, were warmly greeted by the audience. Miss Pauline Potter (a pupil of Mr. Mackinlay's) made a promising début in two songs, "Le Baiser" (Goring-Thomas) and "Vainka's Song" (Whishaw), the latter being encored. Relief was afforded to the vocal items by a clever recitation of "The Frenchwoman's Story," by Miss Jean Sterling Mackinlay, who appeared by the courtesy of Mr. George Alexander. Mr. Herbert Bunning and Mr. Walter German Reed presided at the pianoforte.

Mary Stuart ..... MRS. BROWN-POTTER

The romantic story of the unfortunate Mary Stuart has not of course escaped the attention either of the novelist or the dramatist. Sir Walter Scott in his well-known historical novel, "Kenilworth," told the story in his own masterly style; and Mary, Queen of Scots has figured in numerous other romances. Mr. Kennedy-Cox has founded his play on certain episodes in the early life of the unhappy Queen, the action extending over the period from 1561 to 1567. The evil genius of the play is the Lord James Stuart, Mary's bastard brother, in whom, unfortunately, she places implicit trust. He proves utterly unworthy of it; but does not reveal his true character until the poor Queen is completely at his mercy. All his plans are laid with Machiavellian subtlety and skill, and he plays with the leading characters in the piece as though they were so many human chessmen. The early scenes take place in the Courtyard of the Palace in Loraine, and the Council Chamber at Holyrood. The Earl of Bothwell is in love with the fair young Queen, but when he declares his passion she banishes him from her presence. Then comes the gay and gallant Lord Darnley, and in the hall at Wemyss a stately dance takes place, led off by his lordship and the Queen. At the suggestion and with the connivance of James Stuart, a secret marriage between Darnley and Mary is solemnised, the plotter listening to the wedding service with evident satisfaction. Darnley soon surrounds himself with boon companions, and neglects his young wife. The young Italian poet and musician, Rizzio, becomes her frequent companion. This gives James Stuart another opportunity of working mischief. In the presence of Lord Gordon and other courtiers he speaks of Rizzio's intimacy with the Queen, and more than hints that Darnley is not the father of the child she has borne. In his rage, Darnley flies at the speaker, threatening to kill him, but is held back by his companions, who, however, on being appealed to, do not deny the truth of James Stuart's statement.

The next scene is the Queen's supper-room at Holyrood. Dismissing her attendants, Mary admits Rizzio, who sings to her a song, which, according to the programme, is supposed to be an original melody composed by the Italian. The Queen complains bitterly of the neglect of her husband, who, as the sounds of noisy revelry testify, is drinking with his gay companions. Then a knock is heard at the chamber door. Rizzio, at the bidding of his mistress, blows out the wax lights and conceals himself behind some curtains. Lord Gordon enters, and, setting the Queen at defiance, searches her private apartments. Rizzio is of course discovered; he is seized by armed men, dragged from the room, and assassinated. When Darnley appears, the Queen heaps reproaches upon him for being the instigator of the murder of her faithful servant. In the last act, Mary discovers the treachery of her brother, when he asks her to sign a document which virtually condemns her husband to death. She refuses, and thereupon James reveals the game he is playing. It is his ambition to rule as King of Scotland, and he warns her of the dangerous position in which she stands. Upon this scene between brother and sister the curtain falls.

Mrs. Brown-Potter played with intensity and power the part of the unhappy Queen. She succeeded in presenting a pathetic picture of the unfortunate young woman who becomes the victim of Court intrigue, and the duplicity of her own near relative. The dignity of the young Queen was well maintained throughout, and at the conclusion of each act Mrs. Brown-Potter was enthusiastically recalled for her admirable impersonation of the leading character. Mr. Edward Sorley depicted the despicable Lord James Stuart with carefully-studied effect, and the portrait of smooth, calculating villainy was complete in every detail. Mr. Alec Frazer proved to be an excellent exponent of Lord Darnley, and made good use of his opportunities. Mr. Godfrey Tearle played with earnestness and feeling as the Earl of Bothwell; and Mr. Frank Deane was bluff and soldierly as Lord Gordon. Mr. Harold Payne was well-placed as David Rizzio; he looked the part, and his rendering of the song in the third act was admirable. Mr. John Cabourn and Mr. William Wynne gave able assistance as Mr. Secretary Maitland and Father Lesley, other minor rôles being assigned to Mr. George Ide as the Earl of Huntly, Mr. C. Croker-King as Lord Ruthven, Mr. Edmund Barker as Sir John of Findlater, Master Robert Alliston as Sir Adam Gordon sang a song in the first act. Mary Stuart is the only important female character in the play. Miss Vera Carfax appeared as the Duchess of Argyle, Miss Thora Archer as Mme. d'Oysel, and Miss Dora Maitland as Livingstone. Special care has been bestowed upon the scenery, and the music has been composed for the production by Mr. Herbert Smith. The new romantic play was most favourably received, the author being accorded the compliment of a call at the conclusion.

MISS MARGERY DALE'S DRAMATIC RECITAL.

Miss Margery Dale gave a well-attended dramatic recital at Steinway Hall on Tuesday afternoon, May 22. Miss Dale was assisted by Mrs. Percy Walters (pianist) and Miss Byam-Yates (contralto). Miss Dale's first recitation was C. Kingsley's "Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorrée," followed by the humorous "Paddy's Courting," by W. A. Eaton, in which the Irish dialect was most effectively given by Miss Dale. Shakespeare's scene from King John (where Constance realises how the marriage of the Dauphin to Blanch will affect her and her son Arthur) enabled the reciter to give an example of the more serious side of her art; indeed, the recitation; "King Robert of Sicily," with appropriate music by Dr. Walmsley Little, admirably played by Mrs. Percy Walters, was Miss Dale's most successful effort, being warmly applauded. Other recitations were "Pour la Couronne," by François Coppée (English version by John Davidson), and a scena from Shakespeare's The Winter's Tale; also, later in the programme, "The Death of Minnehaha," and the dramatic and Bret Harte-like sketch "Lasca," by F. Desprez. Piano solos of Brahms' "Rhapsodie," Schumann's "Romanze," and Chopin's "Ballade in A Flat," were skilfully played by Mrs. Percy Walters, and three songs were given by Miss Byam-Yates.

H.R.H. PRINCESS CHRISTIAN and suite witnessed the performance of Dorothy o' the Hall at the New Theatre on Saturday evening.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, May 21,
the Comic Opera, entitled
"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."

Played by Mr. E. St. Alban's Opera Company, this still poplar comic opera has formed the attraction at the Marlborough this week. This remains one of the very few productions of its own class which has withstood the ravages of age. Twenty-nine years have passed since Les Cloches was produced in Paris at the Folies Dramatiques, while the first performance of the piece in England dates back to February 23, 1878. That theatre was the now defunct Folly, afterwards Toole's, with Miss Violet Cameron as Germaine, Miss Kate Munroe as Serpolette, Mr. Shiel Barry as Gaspard, Mr. W. J. Hill as the Baillie, and Mr. Chas. Ashford as Gobo. The late Mr. Barry, it may be mentioned, played the part of the Miser considerably over 3000 times. The tuneful comic opera is done justice to by the members of Mr. St. Alban's company. Miss Marion Ayling is a charming representative of Germaine, and sings the music of the part with admirable effect. A pleasing and vivacious Serpolette is seen in Miss May Bradbury, who cleverly represents the awkwardness of the village maiden who suddenly finds herself a lady of title, much incommoded by a long train. Miss Bradbury also sings and dances in a style that gains for her abundance of applause. Mr. Geo. A. Fox cuts a gallant figure as the Marquis de Corneville; and Mr. William Everard not only plays well as Grenicheux, the young fisherman, but sings admirably. Mr. E. St. Alban scores a decided success in the part of Gaspard, the scene in the old château where the miser gloats over his bags of gold being in his experienced hands extremely telling. As the decrepit, feeble old man in the last act he also makes good use of his opportunities. Mr. Fred Dark as the Bailie faithfully and effectively carries out the traditional business of the part; and the same remark applies to the Gobo of Mr. Richard Martin. Miss L. L. Rhodes as Christopher and Miss F. Smithson as Marie fill minor rôles in satisfactory style; and the village girls are represented by a number of good-looking young ladies. The band is excellently conducted by Chevalier Legrand, and the opera is most effectively staged.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

On Monday, May 21,
Bizet's Opera, entitled
"CARMEN."

A most successful engagement has been effected this week, and lovers of music have crowded to excess to welcome the visit of the Moody-Manners Opera Company in a répertoire of operas. Carmen was performed on Monday night. Mlle. Zélie de Lussan in the title-rôle, it is quite superfluous to state, was excellent, and the house fully appreciated her fine acting and beautiful voice. Don Jose was undertaken by Mr. Maurice Paul, whose fine voice fully compensated for a little stiffness in his acting. Mr. Marshall Vincent as Escamillo was splendid. He was heartily encored in "The Toreador's Song." Il Remecdado, the Smuggler, was well represented by Mr. R. Brookes, and with Mr. S. Lansdale as Il Dancairo caused some amusement. They were heard to advantage in the quartet with Carmen and Don Jose. The parts of Morales and Zuniga were well filled respectively by Mr. G. Gorst and Mr. Van Lachterop. Miss L. Coleman and Miss M. Jeffries undertook creditably the parts of Frasquita and Mercedes, two Cigarette girls. A considerable amount of the success of the performance is due to Miss Nora Long, who made a sweet Michaela. The choruses and ballets were well rendered by a powerful company, greatly assisted by a largely augmented orchestra under the capable bâton of Mr. Joseph Sainton.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, May 21,
the Play, by W. G. Wills, entitled
"A ROYAL DIVORCE."

After a short season at the Scala Theatre that very popular play A Royal Divorce is again touring with its usual brilliant success, and is meeting with great appreciation this week at the Camden. Mr. W. W. Kelly's company, with that clever actress, Miss Edith Cole, at the head, give a very fine performance. The part of the unhappy Josephine is a part with which Miss Cole will always be associated, for she plays it in such a striking manner, so gentle, and yet so resolute, while her emotional acting is splendid. The scene in which the ex-Empress meets her supplanter Marie Louise, Miss Cole played magnificently. Napoleon is admirably portrayed by Mr. Frank Lister, who is to be congratulated on his make-up, and his acting leaves nothing to be desired; it is a thoughtful study of this much-debated character in history, and Mr. Lister presents it realistically and with force. That interesting figure, Talleyrand, is well embodied by Mr. F. Joynsen-Powell, who acts with great dignity and reserve. Mr. G. W. Cockburn is seen to every advantage as the Marquis de Beaumont; and Mr. George Howard makes a capital General Augereau. Miss Clara Earle is a very vivacious Stephanie, and she cuts a smart figure when she dons the uniform; Miss Elizabeth Watson depicts the cold and haughty Marie Louise in a finished manner; the King of Rome is effectively played by Miss Marion Ryder, a youngster of promise; Mr. T. P. Haynes is very amusing as the innkeeper Grimaud, a clever piece of comedy acting; Mr. Frederick Powell is good as Dr. Corvisart; and Mr. Bob Hudson is breezy as Bob Royal of the Bellerophon, his dancing of the hornpipe deserving mention. Messrs. Langford, Orme, and Vernon, and the Misses Helen Richmond and Joan Vaughan also lend valuable assistance. Mr. R. E. Warton stage-manages with marked success. The tableau of Waterloo is very cleverly done, and most effective. Mr. Walner Gregory is the acting-manager for Mr. W. W. Kelly.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, May 21,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Geo. R. Sims,
entitled
"FOR LIFE—AND AFTER,"

Messrs. Hardy and Von Leer's company has been drawing good houses here this week with the above-named drama. For the representation of this, the latest play from the pen of Mr. Geo. R. Sims, an excellent company has been got together, and the dramatist is to be congratulated on the fact that his characters are interpreted by experienced players who are thoroughly up to their work. Miss Grace Heywood—who is remembered at this theatre in a part less suited to her talents—is particularly well cast as Marion Grey, her finished acting and well-modulated tones making her performance a most satisfactory one from all points of view. Miss Muriel Dean is delightfully natural as Dora Grey, her refined style adding additional charm to her impersonation. As Loo Hexham, Miss Emil Leslie submits a convincing study of the poor girl of the people, who does her best to "run straight." Miss Marion Fawcett acts well as Jenny Huggett; and Miss Evelyn Shaw is amusing as the showman's wife. In Richard Grey, Mr. Vernon Sansbury is provided with a strong part, which he plays admirably, outlining the main characteristics of the broken actor with a firm touch, and filling in the details with the acumen of the true artist. Mr. Arthur E. Melborne gives a quiet, well-considered rendering of Gilbert O'Neil, his self-restrained manner and curt speech being admirably characteristic of the London doctor. Mr. Henry Hare doubles the parts of Jack Huggett and Jim Huggett, and, in the latter rôle, submits an amusing, but, withal, realistic, portrayal of the "lady-killer" in low life. Mr. Ernest K. Nelson gives a consistent rendering of Rube Hexham, the murderer. Mr. Chris Mason is responsible for a good deal of laughter as Joe Grimper, the latter's struggles with his afternoon tea being especially amusing. The smaller parts are all in capable hands, and are undoubtedly made the most of.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, May 21,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Sutton Vane,
"THE SPAN OF LIFE."

Mr. Arthur Carlton's company is meeting with a great reception at the Shakespeare Theatre this week in its representation of Sutton Vane's drama The Span of Life. The play is excellently staged, and the members of the company do the piece full justice. Mr. Sanderson Moffat gives a manly impersonation of Richard Blunt, and altogether acquits himself with success. The villainous Dunstan Leech is in the safe hands of Mr. R. E. Trelawnee, who contributes a sterling performance. In the rôle of Nutty Brown Mr. Walter Dale scores a decided hit, and his clever acting keeps the audience in roars of laughter throughout. Mr. Edwin T. Kisby does all that is possible with the part of Joshua Gurnet, and Mr. Bob Bryan as Inspector Ferguson and Mr. J. Petersfell as the Arab Azrek are both satisfactory in their respective parts. The Almo trio of acrobats, who form the human bridge over which the heroine escapes from the Arabs, are, in the third act, seen in several exceedingly clever acrobatic feats, which are warmly applauded. An ideal heroine is found in Miss Phyllis Hamilton, who gives a natural representation of the sorely-tried Kate Heathcote, and is accorded sympathetic applause. Miss Kitty Russell cleverly assumes the part of Shrove Tuesday, and her clever comedy acting is deserving of the warmest praise. Mrs. H. Russell is seen to advantage as Mrs. Jelf, and acts her part with ability. Miss Phyllis Graham's impersonation of the young boy Cecil Jelf is one of the leading features of the play, and it would be difficult to speak too highly of her acting.

PRINCE'S, POPLAR.

On Monday, May 21,
the Play by Hall Caine, entitled
"THE CHRISTIAN."

Mr. Hall Caine's play is full of strong situations and romantic episodes, and admirably staged with an exceptionally strong cast is proving a powerful attraction at this theatre. As Glory Quayle Miss Grace Chalmers is excellent. She displays dramatic gifts of an exceptional quality, and is equally at home in the part of the village heroine or the variety star in the Great City. Miss Molly Hayden is well placed as Mrs. Callander, and enacts the part of the Highland lady as to the manner born. In the character of Polly Love, Miss Wellborne does admirable work, and speedily wins the affections of her audience; and Miss Lottie Chesterman could not be bettered in the part of Liza. Mr. Frank Tennant makes a manly clergyman as John Storm, and emerges triumphantly from the ordeal of a difficult part. As Archdeacon Wealthy, Mr. Chas. E. Dering looks and acts the character admirably; and Mr. Stanley Radcliffe ably portrays the characteristics of the Rev. Father Lamplugh. Parson Quayle finds an admirable representative in Mr. Charles Hill, and as Lord Robert Ure Mr. T. Renaud Lockwood is seen to great advantage. Horatio Drake is well played by Mr. Jackson Wilcox, who makes an ideal lover. His acting is well received, and he wins hearty applause for his representation. Mr. Oswald Marshall presents a successful picture of the music-hall manager, and Mr. Bert Conway as the Faro King is highly successful. As Brother Paul Mr. Wilfred Blumberg is well placed. Mr. A. E. Kingston as the Linkman, and Miss Bella Moody, Miss Dorothy Clifton, Miss Edith Huntley, and Miss May Weir all do well in minor characters. The incidental music is under the able direction of Mr. Stephen Blythe, and the courteous manager, Mr. Herbert Leonard, is to be congratulated on an excellent entertainment.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, May 21,
the Comedy, by J. M. Barrie, entitled
"WALKER, LONDON."

Though it has been "on the road" so long, Mr. J. M. Barrie's clever and amusing riverside comedy, Walker, London, has not before been staged in the riverside town. Kingston playgoers, however, have had opportunities of making acquaintance with it in the neighbourhood. A thoroughly capable company appeared in the play at the Royal County Theatre on Monday evening, and a numerous audience gave it a most cordial reception. Mr. Blake Adams filled the rôle of Jasper Phipps, and kept the house in the best of good humour whilst he was on the stage; Mr. E. Coventry, under whose direction the comedy was produced, played capitally as Andrew McPhail; Mr. Orlando Daly was successful as Kit Upjohn; and Mr. Wylie A. Thompson as the schoolboy "W. G." and Mr. Stanley White as Ben were also decidedly effective. Equal honours were earned by, and accorded to, Miss Dolores Drummond as Mrs. Golightly; Miss Victoria Addison as Bell Golightly; Miss Irma Foldi as Nanny O'Brien; Miss Ethel Ramforth as Sarah Rigg; and Miss Hope Willoughby as Penny.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, May 21,
the Drama, in Four Acts, adapted by Arthur Shirley from Le Porteur aux Halles,
"THE BOOM OF BIG BEN."

A powerful company was brought to Marylebone this week by Messrs. E. H. Knight and Geo. Denham, and the West Londoners, who dearly love a realistic drama well acted, were duly appreciative. Mr. Fred Powell has veritably "a grip of iron" on the part of Captain Joe Galloway, which he interprets in a masterly way, much to the delight of his old admirers at the Church-street house. As Gilbert Galloway, Mr. Harry Scott plays in an easy, natural style; Mr. George Denham is responsible for a painstaking and thoughtful rendering of Tom Battleby; Mr. Stanley Bedwell does well as Henry Siegenback; and Mr. John Brittain is full of life and go as Tony Prebble. Miss Nellie Fletcher is pathetically tender as Judith Galloway; Miss Hilda Baynton is delightfully engaging as Marjorie; Miss Alice Francis and Miss Francisca Strickland are well suited as Baby Frill and Lottie Leverett; and Miss Mildred Cottell sustains the important rôle of Olive Lorette with much force and passion, her acting in the strangling scene sending a shudder through the house by reason of the realism of her varying expressions. The play, capably produced by Mr. George Denham, and staged and mounted in a lavish way, deserves every success.

LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, May 21,
the Drama, by Lewis Gilbert, entitled
"PARTNERS IN CRIME."

Lewis Gilbert's drama is attracting large audiences to the Lyric this week. It is a play such as the patrons of this theatre love—full of exciting scenes and humorous incidents—and they show their appreciation at the final fall of the curtain by rounds of applause. It is a fortunate coincidence that the author is taking the leading part. Mr. Gilbert is an actor of experience, and is able to present powerfully the character of Noel Cranford. The part of Aaron Moss is acted with great skill by Mr. F. Thorpe Tracy, who gives us a really masterly study of this worst type of East-end Jew. Though his rôle is one of villainy, yet his occasionally droll sayings give happy relief to an otherwise serious part. Mr. C. F. Collins, in the character of Ben Halliday, makes a dashing lover, full of fire and pluck. He is ably assisted by Miss Marie Clavering as Gladys Davenport, who presents this unfortunate, yet high-spirited, lady in a pleasing and natural manner. The grace and pathos thrown into the part of Jessie Davenport by Miss Minnie Grey deserves special mention, her acting being much admired. Mr. Geo. Ellis gives an original rendering of Tennyson Burns, portraying the mad poet to the life. He causes much merriment, and, together with Mr. A. P. Kane, as Jack Cartwright, and Miss May Seton as the latter's sweetheart, is responsible for most of the fun. Praise is due to Miss Irene Ross for her successful acting of Jim the waif; and mention must be made of Mr. A. G. Lytton and Mr. A. J. Robbins, both of whom give much assistance in minor parts.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, May 21,
the Play, in Four Acts, by Wm. P. Sheen, entitled
"THE TEMPTRESS."

Mr. John M. East has for this week secured Mr. W. H. Hallatt and company in The Temptress. The piece was presented on Monday to a large audience, who were thoroughly interested throughout. Mr. Fredk. Ross gives a thoroughly well-studied representation of the scheming villain Lucas Denbigh. During the play Mr. Ross shows a thorough grip of the character, and his quiet, but impressive, acting is a feature of the performance. Mr. G. D. Daiper submits a manly portrayal of Philip Welford, the young hero, who, with his much-wronged affianced wife, Marion Fordyce—excellently impersonated by Miss Mabel Scudamore—fully earns the sympathies of the house. Mr. W. H. Hallatt as Pedro Gonzales is responsible for a powerful rendering of the character; Mr. Robert Wilton makes an effective young clergyman, Austin Dale; and Mr. Claude Ashworth is a dignified Sir Oswald Fordyce. There is comedy in abundance, and it is in quite good hands. Mr. Tom E. Sinclair as Bob Tanner, and Mr. Allan Carruthers as Francis FitzFluke, prove themselves to be resourceful and clever comedians when paying their attentions to Rhoda Brown, a maid servant, excellently played by Miss Lizzie Chambers. Their patter and by-play keep the house in roars of laughter. Mr. Oscar Power as John Gregory also contributes to the fun. A fine piece of acting is supplied by Miss Florence Palmer as the mad wife of Lucas Denbigh. Mr. Forbes Harrison is successful as Caleb Blake, a yokel in Denbigh's employ. Miss Blanche Steele, in the title-rôle, is seen in a strong part, and thoroughly realises the character of the infamous woman. Mr. G. Drew as Rev. Thomas Finch, Mr. E. I. Brunton as Kenyon Dare, Mr. Horace Newtown as Sergeant Brough, and Miss Dorothy Greaves as Keziah Blake, fill the parts entrusted to them with distinction.

GRAND THEATRE, ISLINGTON.

On Monday, May 21,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Frank E. Thorne,
entitled
"HER ONE GREAT SIN."

Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr. J. Leicester Jackson's company is paying a first visit to Islington in this drama, which has attained considerable success in the provinces. There is nothing in Mr. Thorne's drama that calls for particular comment, it being a typical specimen of this class of stage work. The company is a good one, and the members all work hard for the general success. Mr. Sam Arthur as Reuben Warhurst acts with sincerity, his delivery, however, is scarcely distinct enough; Mr. Arnold Thornhill as the villain acts with vigour and success; Mr. Fred Hodson, in a comedy rôle, deserves special commendation, his acting in the third act being very humorous. Mr. Charles E. Lambert as Dan Hundle submits a neat character-study; Mr. Sam Roberts, as Dan's son, also deserves a word for a good performance; Mr. F. Morton Wright as Barkley gives a sympathetic portrayal of the innkeeper; Miss Phyllis Damian as Charlie is excellent as a street arab; and Miss Maudie Lambert gives a pleasant and clever performance of the child, which is well received. Miss Nellie Lambert as the maid is humorous; and Miss Louie Walton submits a distinctly effective study of a virago. Miss Lydia Donovan is well cast as Grace Warhurst, acting with power and pathos. The scenery and mounting are excellent, and the drama was accorded a good reception.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, May 21,
the Play, in Four Acts, entitled
"THE JEWISH MINISTER."

A large audience was present on Monday evening at the Pavilion, when the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company gave an admirable performance of The Jewish Minister, which is a very dramatic and effective play, with many touches of human nature. The characters were depicted with the skill which has been an outstanding feature during this engagement. As Izabella, Mme. Zwiebel displayed talent of a very high order, her expression of passion and tenderness being of unusual excellence, while her admirable vocalisation created quite a furore, her participation in a concerted number with Mr. Gusofsky and chorus at the close of the first act being quite worthy of grand opera. Mr. J. Fineberg is a capital actor, and scored heavily as La Rosh; while a strong melodramatic portrayal of Mendes was given by Mr. Katz. The impersonation of Cinq Santes by Mr. Schapira was marked by evidence of intelligent study and much ability; and special praise is due to Mme. Kayzer for her charming and spirited rendering of the Queen. Mr. J. Scherman, looking exceedingly handsome in his court dress, was very amusing as Picolo; and a sprightly Julia was found in Miss Bruh. Mr. Schilling was appreciated for his playing of Tobios; and Mr. Axelrad must be congratulated on his clever acting of Andre. Mr. Gusofsky was heartily applauded for his fine singing and artistic representation of Abarbanel. The chorus was above the average, and the dresses were rich and picturesque. Successful performances during the week have been given of The Viceroy, A Father's Sacrifice, Ben Hador, The Wise Man, The Jewish Hamlet, and Princess as Beggar, and Mr. and Mrs. Natanson, from New York, met with a hearty reception on their appearance here on Friday.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, May 21,
the Comedy, in Four Acts, by Stanislaus Stange,
entitled
"THE SCHOOL FOR HUSBANDS."

The School for Husbands, in which Miss Jessie Millward and a full London company are playing at the Fulham Theatre, is not a remarkably strong play, but it is, at any rate, brightly written and sufficiently entertaining. Miss Millward plays the leading rôle, that of Lady Manners, a neglected wife, who is enabled, by the aid of a timely fortune and the sound advice of her friends, to teach her errant husband a much-needed lesson. Her performance is an admirable mixture of vivacity and tenderness, and she well-deserves the applause showered upon her. Miss Maud Noel contributes an amusing study of the designing maiden of the period; Miss Maude Leslie is effective as Lady Tattle; Miss Emma Chambers plays Lady Speakill, a society scandal-monger, with a capital sense of humour; and Miss Mona K. Oram acts cleverly as Lady Airish, the fashionable widow. Miss Maud Abbott acts brightly as the maid Betty. The part of Sir John Manners is taken by Mr. Scott Craven, who is very successful in portraying the indifferent husband roused to love and jealousy, embodying the part with much power and spirit. Mr. A. E. Greenaway cuts a manly figure as Captain Lovel; Messrs. J. T. Manning and George Unwin act and look well as Lords Drinkwell and Playmore; as Lord Foppington, Mr. T. Wigney Percyval is highly amusing; and so is Mr. Philip Cunningham as the lovesick Indian Prince, Assam. Mr. Cyril Wolseley is satisfactory as the servant Roger. The play is handsomely mounted, and the costumes—of the attractive Georgian period—are rich and tasteful.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 21, the Play, by the late Wilson Barrett, entitled
"CLAUDIAN."

The revival of Claudian, which is being played this week at the Dalston Theatre, provides an opportunity for an excellent company to represent interesting characters. The play is received with every mark of approval; music and dancing adding to its success. The harvest solo and chorus (composed by Sir J. Benedict) sung during the first act evoke an encore. Miss Amy Hardcastle's cymbal dance, which is introduced during the second act, is applauded to the echo. Mr. William Maclaren appears as Claudian, a rich nobleman of Byzantium, and the way in which he presents the contrasts of that character is decidedly impressive. His rendering of the part is interesting throughout. Miss Lily C. Bandmann, as Almida, admirably sustains the character; Mr. A. G. Carr as Holy Clement also does well in the prologue. Others who appear in the prologue only are Mr. Edmund Grogan, an artistic Theorus; Miss Rose Webster, an admirable Serena; and Messrs. Arthur St. Aubyn, Harold Hargreaves, W. Boulding, George Best, A. Nuttall, and G. F. Floyd. Mr. Wilson Howard as the Tetrarch, Mr. George R. J. Austin, as Agazil, a blacksmith; Mr. A. Cotton Holmes as an officer, and Miss Dora Frank Harvey as Clia, a peasant girl, help to sustain the general interest. Mr. C. T. Chaloner as Belos and Miss Carlotta Anson as Edessa provide the humour.

THE TERRISS.

On Monday, May 21,
the Drama, entitled
"MYSTERIES OF LONDON."

The management of this popular theatre must be congratulated this week upon their foresight in securing the above exciting play for the delectation of their patrons. Mysteries of London is just the sort of strong dramatic fare to appeal to the pit and gallery. Mr. Leyton Cancellor presents a polished study of villainy as the murderous foreigner Victor Levigne; Mr. Philip Darien appears to much advantage in a dual impersonation, first as Sam Conway, and then as the broad-minded young parson, the Rev. Philip Conway. That favourite low comedian, Mr. Tubby Edlin, is soon a prime favourite as the jovial coster, Dick Coppem; and Mr. Fred de Vere as Robert Best, described as "a poetical policeman," ably seconds him in the fun-making. Miss Rosemary Rees scores a great success by the sincerity and feeling of her acting as Lena North; Miss Nellie Jackson is humorous as Dick's donah, Liza Stumps. Mr. Fred Terriss supplies an able character-sketch as Levigne's catspaw, Bill Rawson; Miss Katie Walfred is powerfully intense as the old hag Charity Rawson; and Miss Nell Oliver makes a distinct success in the rôle of the adventuress Sybil Grey, afterwards known as La Saleska. Reuben North is done full justice to by Mr. Thomas Henry; and Franz Muller is well rendered by Mr. Allan Davenport. The scenery and effects are quite adequate.

THE CORONET.

Mr. Esmonde Bramley's Shakespearean company are this week appearing at the Coronet, under the direction of Haldane Crichton. Richard the Third, The Merry Wives of Windsor, Twelfth Night, Othello, Hamlet, and The Merchant of Venice are among their répertoire plays. Mr. David Beattie as Shylock, in the last-named play, is a robustious kind of Hebrew, full of revengeful malice and greedy avarice. Mr. Cyril Este acts carefully and discreetly as Bassanio. Mr. F. Owen Chambers is distinctly good as Antonio, both in deportment and delivery of his lines. Mr. Baliol Holloway is a promising Gratiano, and in manner and appearance is suited to the part of the rakish roysterer. Mr. A. L. Evans is an excellent elocutionist. Miss Millie Ford is a gentle and pleasing Portia, somewhat lacking in dignity and force, but very charming withal. Miss Ruth Nightingale is a pretty and winsome Jessica; and Miss Maud Garth does well as the pert maid Nerissa. The part of young Gobbo is rendered by Mr. Philip Gordon satisfactorily; and Mr. George Jackson as old Gobbo does all that is required of him. Mr. Frederick Scarth is the swarthy monarch from Morocco, who woos fair Portia in vain. Messrs. Stanley Farbridge, E. Sisson, Charles Doyle, Leonard Cheetham, and others do minor parts creditably enough. The songs, "Gaily the troubadour" and "Sigh no more, ladies," are well rendered by a young lady whose name does not appear on the programme

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, May 21,
the Drama, in Five Acts, by G. R. Sims and Wilson Barrett, entitled
"THE GOLDEN LADDER."

This week we have a return visit from Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds's excellent company in the popular melodrama, The Golden Ladder. There is, as Mr. Vincent Crummles would say, plenty of "tears, cheers, and laughter" in the play, and it proves exactly to the taste of the good folks of Peckham. Some realistic scenes of prison life are shown, and there is a good deal of humour in the play, which plainly reveals the hand of the popular "Dagonet." Mr. Beresford Whitcomb makes a manly and earnest parson hero as the Rev. Frank Thornhill, the part which was enacted by the late Wilson Barrett. That experienced comedian, Mr. Joseph Rowlands, brings all his ripe humour to bear upon the part of Samuel Peckaby, and the result is much hearty laughter. There is a trio of villains in the play, one of them, who possesses some redeeming qualities, is admirably enacted by Mr. Harry Belford, whose Jim Dixon is a very clever character-sketch. His companions in crime, Michael Severn and the Greek adventurer, M. Peranza, are excellently played by Mr. J. Milne Taylor and Mr. Graham Winsford respectively. Miss Eva Moss is most pathetic as the heroine Lilian Grant, and shows to much advantage, especially in the prison scene. Mr. Edward McLean gives a good character-sketch as the Yorkshireman, Noah Learoyd; and Miss Kate Haslewood, as an unruly prisoner, nicknamed "The Teaser," causes roars of laughter in the fourth act. Mr. Lionel Ellis is adequate as the banker John Grant; and Mr. Eric Thompson is good as Rao. Miss Jessie Gillette plays with humour as Victoria Alexandria Peckaby; while her mother, Mrs. Peckaby, is amusingly enacted by Miss Nellie Graham. The scenery and effects are excellent, especially the representation of the exterior of the Mission House in Madagascar by moonlight.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

The current week at the Alexandra Theatre is devoted to a series of Shakespearean revivals and a version of The Three Musketeers, presented by Mr. Edmund Tearle and his company. On the opening night of the engagement Macbeth was performed, with Mr. Tearle as Macbeth and Miss Kate Clinton as Lady Macbeth. Othello formed the attraction on Tuesday night, Mr. Tearle appearing as the Moor and Mr. Wilson Gunning as Iago. Mr. Tearle presents a bold, vigorous, and powerful rendering of the jealous soldier, his reading of the part growing on one as the play proceeds. In the final scene he is seen at his very best. Mr. Wilson Gunning's performance of the crafty Iago evinces much thought and care, and he fully deserved the applause awarded at the end of each act. A charming and girlish Desdemona was found in Miss Esther Tearle; and Emilia was admirably played by Miss Mary Campbell. The Cassio of Mr. V. O. Crabtree had many good points; and the Roderigo, if a little modern, was satisfactorily played by Mr. Spencer Geach. A sound performance of Brabantio came from Mr. T. W. Benson, and the cast was well completed by Messrs. John Victor, J. A. Keogh, Herbert Tawse, Saxon Thomas, and Richard Melton. Julius Cæsar and The Merry Wives of Windsor are the other plays billed for presentation.

THE STANDARD.

On Monday, May 21,
Shakespeare's Tragedy, in Five Acts, entitled
"HAMLET."

A most interesting production of Shakespeare's great tragedy at this famous East-end theatre on Monday drew an excellent audience, many of them curious to see that favourite actor, Mr. Ashley Page, in his rendering of the melancholy Dane. His impersonation showed the result of careful study, and his declamation and acting were of considerable excellence, proving him to be an actor of resource and ability. The passionate speeches were delivered with artistic restraint and well-controlled energy, and never failed to make a deep impression. High in public esteem, too, was Miss Marion Denvil as Ophelia. Her reading of the rôle was an exceptionally fine piece of work, and well-deserved the highest praise. She was particularly good in her "mad scene," and played throughout with much intensity. Mr. John Sargent submitted a capital picture of Claudius, and was everything that could be desired. Mr. H. J. Barrett rendered a good account of himself as Polonius; and Mr. Edwin J. Collins was an eminently successful Laertes. As Horatio, Mr. Fred Morgan found favour. Mr. Alfred Harding succeeded in making his portrayal of the Ghost a weird and awe-inspiring performance; the first and second actor were adequately represented by Mr. E. C. Alfred and Mr. Henry Bassett respectively; the first and second gravediggers being humorously portrayed by Mr. Johnny Chippendale and Mr. Milton Frances. Miss Georgie de Lara appeared somewhat young for the part of Gertrude, the Queen, but nevertheless played with credit. The staging and mounting of the tragedy were on a scale of great magnificence.

BROADWAY THEATRE.

On Monday, May 21,
the Play, in Four Acts, by Alfred Sutro,
entitled
"THE WALLS OF JERICHO."

Mr. Arthur Bourchier's company, under the direction of Messrs. Silvanus Dauncey and M. V. Leveaux, is proving a great attraction here this week. The artists are all excellent and well fitted to their respective parts. Mr. Edward A. Warburton plays Jack Frobisher admirably, and wins general approval; Mr. Alfred S. Barber is very good as Hankey Bannister; Mr. Cecil Brooking is a dignified and aristocratic Marquis of Steventon; and Mr. W. L. Briscoe Owen a manly and convincing Lord Drayton. Mr. A. W. Tyrer gives a capital performance as Henry Dallas; Mr. Wilcox Cadogan as Bertram Hannaford, Mr. Joseph Herbert as the Hon. Wilford Renton; Mr. Wilfred S. Lane as Lord Marchmont; Mr. Walter Newcombe as Peter; Mr. W. L. Jenkins as Simpson; Mr. W. Littlejohns as James; and Mr. James Morris as William, are all very good indeed. Miss Amy Ravenscroft presents an admirable portrait of Lady Alethea Frobisher, and proves herself by this performance to be a finished and clever actress; Miss Mona Wynne as her sister Lady Lucy Debenham is very good; Miss Helen Haye is a pleasant Lady Westerly; Miss Jean Harkness a clever Miss Mornington; Miss Mary Weighall is a capital Duchess of Skye; Miss May Brooke is well fitted to the character of Lady Porchester; as is Miss Florence Harcourt to that of Miss Wyatt; and Miss Edith Warburton does all that is possible with the part of Mary. The dresses, scenery, and appointments are all handsome and appropriate.

MISS HELEN MAR'S RECITAL.

Miss Helen Mar, the charming American raconteur, gave her annual dramatic and musical recital on Monday afternoon at the Steinway Hall. There was an excellent attendance of well-dressed folk, and the hall, with its floral and other decorations—not to mention the hats of the ladies, behind which many a poor male creature struggled to get a view of the platform—presented a pretty and picturesque appearance. And as to the programme—well, there was not an uninteresting moment during the afternoon.

In her easy, natural, and expressive manner, Miss Mar told a number of stories, some amusing and light, others thoughtful and pathetic. But the charm of them all lay as much in the delightful telling as in what she told. A couple of magnificent bouquets were presented to Miss Mar during one of her repeated recalls. Mr. Arthur Bleackley submitted some capital impressions of modern actors and actresses. Thus, we had an effective imitation of Mr. Lewis Waller as Monsieur Beaucaire, Mrs. Patrick Campbell in The Butterfly, Miss Ellen Terry in Captain Brassbound's Conversion, Mr. Tree and Mr. Arthur Roberts rehearsing together, and Mr. George Alexander. In each impersonation he gave evidence of marvellous powers of mimicry, and the scene between Mr. Tree and Mr. Roberts was extremely amusing. Miss Ada Davies exquisitely rendered the beautiful lines of "Ave Maria," to the accompaniment of violin, piano, and organ; and Miss Margaret Cooper enchanted her audience with her sweet and vivacious singing of "My heart's at your feet." Miss Edna May, who looked as graceful and engaging as ever, sang "Love's Memory" and "A girl like me." Both numbers were treated in her customary good style, and with the first she had the advantage of the composer's accompaniment. Mr. Robert Michaelis afforded an agreeable few minutes with his interpretation of "Quand l'amour" and "Kissing is no sin"; and Miss Cora Belle Knight executed a pianoforte solo (Sinding's "Rustle of Spring") with expression and skilfulness. Mr. Rohan Clensy's work with the violin was greatly admired, the clever artist treating us to Moskowski's "Serenade" and Bazzini's "Ronde des Lutins." The dateful Datas supplied further proof of his powers of memorisation; and Mr. J. Dumayne imparted tune and tone to his whistling solo. Mr. Percy French entertained with a humorous art sketch; and Dr. F. Byrd-Page set one wondering with his feats of magic; while Mr. Alfred de Grey, in his singing of "Violets" and "Kisses and kisses"; and Mr. Andrew Betts, in his own special line, assisted in making a success of the recital. Good service was rendered at the pianoforte by Messrs. Stanley Hawley, Victor Marmont, Thomas Beecham, Claude Russell, and Arthur de Lissa, Mr. Arthur Coke acting as stage-manager.

MR. FRANK GRAN'S company is occupying the boards of the Theatre Royal, Brighton, this week with a farce, The Other Man's Business, and, on Monday evening, an elderly gentleman leaving his stall, said to Mr. Gran's representative in front of the house, "Which is Mr. Tree's part?" After a few minutes' explanation, the gentleman discovered he had mixed up Mr. Tree's production of Business is Business with The Other Man's Business. The gentleman left the theatre to think the matter over.

"THE WHIRLWIND."

A Play, in Three Acts, translated by Harry Melvill from the French of Henry Bernstein, Performed for the First Time in London at the Criterion Theatre, on Wednesday, May 23.

Earl of Ellingham .....MR. GEORGE BEALBY
Sir Henry Langham .....MR. A. G. POULTON

M. Henry Bernstein's drama La Rafale, which was produced at the Paris Gymnase in October last, is a variant on a gruesome theme which has been several times used in England, but seldom with success—the sale by a woman of her honour to save the life of the man she loves. Poetic justice demands that the sacrifice shall be unavailing; and it is so in La Rafale, the title of which is more correctly translated as the "hurricane" or the "squall"—the sudden crisis which sweeps at times over the lives of folk, carrying them away irresistibly. Mr. Harry Melvill has followed his original so closely that the plots of the two pieces are practically identical. In The Whirlwind, the Countess of Ellingham has been married by her father, Sir Henry Langham, to a titled fool, and has taken to herself as a lover, Hugh Carlton, a desperate gambler. When the action opens, he has not only lost £20,000 at cards, but has paid the debt of honour with money belonging to his friend Gregson. Carlton determines to commit suicide; but Lady Ellingham resolves to find the money, and save him. The rest of the play consists in her struggles to do so. She applies to her old adviser, Joseph Locksley, who proposes that she shall sacrifice her honour to him as the price of his assistance. Rejecting this offer with scorn, she tries her father; and, after a scene which culminates in desperate violence, succeeds in extracting from him a promise to advance the sum, but only by revealing her adultery and threatening to elope with Carlton. Sir Henry, however, insists that he shall have an interview with the gambler, and make conditions; and this Lady Ellingham refuses to allow. Rather than permit it, she goes to Locksley, and pays the shameful price of his help. But the sacrifice comes too late; Carlton commits suicide before she can bring him the money.

The "atmosphere" of the play is decidedly unwholesome, and the story and the characters are extremely unpleasant; but it must be owned that the theme, such as it is, has been worked out with considerable power. The father who condemns his daughter to a life of married misery, the daughter who consoles herself with her lover, and the mean and sensual scoundrel who purchases the embraces of the woman he once loved, belong, morally, to a very "low set"; and the inane husband and the gambler lover are not much better. Still, to give M. Bernstein his due, there is dramatic force in the scene between the father and daughter. In this decency and pretence are put aside, and the pair deal with each other with nakedly cynical frankness. It is a question, however, if the dramatic effect of the play will atone for its baseness.

Mrs. Patrick Campbell gave a harrowing representation of the agony and passion of the wretched Lady Ellingham, the nervous tension of her performance being very acute. Mr. Frank Worthing's reading of the rôle of Hugh Carlton was, perhaps, a little too formal; but he must be credited with some excellent acting in certain passages. Mr. A. G. Poulton played Sir Henry Langham with a quaint and realistic mixture of comedy and intensity; and Mr. Denis Eadie supplied a very telling and effective representation of the harsh and repulsive Joseph Locksley. The remaining personages, who performed the thankless office of "furnishing the stage" in the first act, were all ably interpreted. The Whirlwind was preceded by Mr. W. L. Courtney's dream play, in one act, performed for the first time in London, and entitled

Undine .....MRS. PATRICK CAMPBELL

Everyone remembers the fantastic "notion" of "Undine," the child of the waters, who, falling in love, receives the gift of a soul, and suffers accordingly. Mr. Courtney has caught the "eerie" spirit of Motte Fouqué's work; but he only gives us a preliminary bit of the story, his action ending when Undine, accepting, for love's sake, the burden of a soul, is married by Father Heilmun to Count Hulbrund of Ringstetten. The rush of the storm round the hut of the fisherman, the splashing of the waves, the songs of the water-spirits, and the surroundings generally were carefully and liberally supplied, and the fairy incident was depicted with appropriate feeling by the artists engaged. Mrs. Patrick Campbell was a very picturesque and poetic Undine, and played the part with the air of weird mystery which she so easily assumes. Mr. Julian Royce ably enacted the Count Hulbrund; and Mr. C. B. Vaughan's Father Heilmun was a careful, well-considered, and capable performance. Undine was so pretty and fanciful, and so pleasantly presented, that it made us—as Mr. Weller's valentine was intended to make the pretty housemaid—"wish there was more of it." But there is not much that is dramatic in the German narrative, hardly enough to furnish more than an act.

"ONLY HALF-WAY."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—It has come to my notice that an incident used in the play, The Fascinating Mr. Vanderveldt, is practically identical with one employed by me in my piece called Only Half-Way, produced on Nov. 7, 1905, at the Theatre Royal, Dunfermline.

The incident I refer to in Mr. Sutro's play is this:—Through the breaking down of a motor-car, a man and a woman are compelled to remain all night at a country inn, thus causing the lady to be compromised. Such coincidences often occur, but sometimes one is accused of plagiarism, and to avoid this when my piece is played in London, I should be obliged if you would give publicity to this letter.—Yours faithfully,

STANLEY COOKE.

It is surprising that the fame of Mr. Charles Klein's play has not preceded it to England. Possibly the author, in planning his piece, "builded wiser than he knew." Possibly, also, the "story" of the drama obscures its ethical interest. Consciously or unconsciously, The Lion and the Mouse is an awesome indictment of American life. "They say there is only one thing which it is useless to fight; and that is Money," says the brave little heroine. In this particular case, money is fought and beaten; "the gods come," as Rémonin says in L'Etrangère. But, supposing they had stopped away; supposing that Judge Rossmore had not had a clever, resolute daughter, who was a realistic novelist—what is the inference contained in the story? Obviously, that, under an omnipotent democracy Money is able to work what iniquities it pleases. It buys senators, it buys English noblemen, it buys truth and honesty. And if it should happen that an upright judge refuses to be bought, then it simply drops upon him with all its weight, ruins him, "bashes" him, and leaves him for dead. The inference is sufficiently depressing.

But this is the cleverness of The Lion and the Mouse: it is not merely a satire on Society. The people in it are real people; and the drama, apart from its ethics, is deeply interesting and most amusing. This is the story:—A combination of capitalists has planned a "job" in connection with a railway speculation; and, in the exercise of his duty, Judge Rossmore has prevented the proposed robbery. The coalition resolves to ruin and disgrace him; and it does so by allowing it to appear that he has received certain shares as a bribe. Suspicion is cast on the judge, he is removed from his post, and impeached; and as the question is to be made a party one, and the capitalists control the party in power, it is almost certain that he will be condemned. His heart is broken; he is crushed, and is likely to die. His daughter Shirley, a bright, courageous girl with a knack of novel-writing, has met, on board ship, Jefferson Ryder, the son of John Burkett Ryder, a great financier, and the leader of the gang of speculators who are killing her father. She resolves to save him, and there is the better chance of her doing so as his son has fallen in love with her, in spite of the fact that he is under his father's orders to marry Kate Roberts, the daughter of an influential senator.

Shirley goes to New York and writes a novel, the principal character in which is a "speaking likeness" of Ryder. His curiosity is excited; and in her character of "Miss Green," the authoress of the book, she has an interview with him at his house. She charms him by her wit and courage, and is asked to stay with Mrs. Ryder on a visit. Ryder has in his possession certain letters which would supply strong evidence of Judge Rossmore's innocence; and Shirley gets Jefferson to steal them from a drawer in his father's desk. Ryder is aware of his son's love for the daughter of Judge Rossmore; and he is so much pleased with "Miss Green" that he actually asks her to bewitch his boy and marry him, so as to save him from the Rossmore girl. In the end, the strain on Shirley becomes too great. Indignant at Ryder's callous cruelty, she proclaims her identity, pours upon him the vials of her contempt, refuses to marry into a family with such a head, and prepares to leave his house.

Ryder's supreme self-satisfaction is shaken; and, in the last act, he is completely conquered. He throws the immense weight of his financial influence into the political scale in Judge Rossmore's favour, assents to Shirley's marriage to his son, and goes with her to Washington to make her father's rehabilitation certain.

The Lion and the Mouse is a very "full" piece, and one of its many merits is the scrupulous care with which every bit of the canvas is worked over, even down to the character of a rebellious servant. An excellent all-round performance was given. Miss Marie Illington supplied a very strong and natural embodiment of Shirley Rossmore, exactly realising the cool, bold, and clever American girl who fights her father's battle so acutely and bravely. Miss Illington rose to passion and power in the third act, when Shirley refuses with scorn any connection with the rascally Ryder, who was represented with great vigour and emphasis by Mr. Edmund Breese. A delightfully youthful and suave interpretation of the rôle of Jefferson Ryder was supplied by Mr. Richard Bennett; and Mr. Gilbert Hare was unimpeachably polished and pompous as the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley. Ex-Judge Stott was pleasantly played by Mr. Frank Burbeck; and Mrs. John Burkett Ryder had an expert interpretress in Miss Marguerite St. John. Miss Nannie Comstock was bright and agreeable as Kate Roberts; Mr. Harry Harwood was a typical Senator; Mr. J. W. Macdonald and Miss Henrietta Cowen were amusing as two conventional visitors, and Miss Helen Rous characteristic as an effusive one. Miss Louise Sydneth made a comically mutinous servant; and Mr. Walter Allen suggested admirably the utter dejection and innate refinement of Judge Rossmore, Mr. William Postance being efficient as the Expressman, Mr. Arthur B. Murray satisfactory as Jorkins, and Miss Atherton Hinton commendable as the maid. The scenery by Joseph A. Physioc was effective and appropriate; and the piece held the attention of the audience firmly, and was applauded with great warmth and energy.

MR. EDITOR.—SIR,—In your notice last week of The Betrayer company, you mention Mr. Mark Practice as playing the principal comedy part. It should have been yours faithfully, J. W. FORREST, Theatre Royal, Whitehaven.

Shore Acres is an ingenious and effective combination of a strong sensation scene and an interesting drama of rural life. One can imagine Mr. James A. Herne hitting upon the "notion" of the interior of a lighthouse for his "big set," with a struggle between two men as to whether the lantern shall be lighted to warn off a passing vessel. But a good many authors would simply have "carpentered" up a story round this idea, and the result would have been the common or garden "nailed-up" drama. Mr. Herne, on the contrary, has given us a real play, full of simple fun, tender and naïf sentiment, passion, and character. The personages of the drama are not lay-figures, but types, and interesting ones "at that." The contrast between the two brothers Barron—Martin, the stern keeper of a Cornwall coast lighthouse and owner of a farm on the sea-shore, and Nathaniel, an old Crimean veteran, with a kindly heart and a quaint, humorous nature, is striking. Martin is tempted by a land speculator named Blake to mortgage his farm, and sell it to a company for building purposes. This course is strongly opposed by Nathaniel, who reminds Martin that their mother's grave lies in the best plot of the proposed estate, and does not want to disturb the old associations of the farm. Thus, from the first, the contest is between cash and sentiment, and—as usual on the stage—sentiment wins. Martin's daughter, Helen, is in love with Sam Warren, an intellectual young doctor, who finds himself quite out of place in the Cornwall village, and is hated by Martin for his Darwinian theories. Martin wants Helen to marry Blake, while Nathaniel, of course, is on the side of Warren. The scene in the lighthouse is led up to thus:—Helen elopes with Sam on board an outgoing vessel. A storm rises. The two brothers are in the lighthouse, when the lamp goes wrong, and there is a danger that the ship containing the lovers may be wrecked for want of warning. Martin, in his revenge, insists that it shall be. Nathaniel protests, and there is a struggle, ending in Nathaniel being thrown down senseless, Martin going out exultant. Nathaniel recovers, and, as the drop descends, is seen going up to attend to the light.

In the last act. retribution falls on Martin for his hardness and avarice. The land company is a failure, and Martin is in danger of ruin; but Sam Warren and Helen return from America, rich enough to save him, and a well-timed legacy from an old Crimean officer enables Nathaniel to assist in the relief. The development of this story involves a vast amount of homely humour and pathos, the feasting of country cronies, the oddities of a rural matron, and the introduction of a pack of happy, merry children, who play various pranks, appear in their nightdresses, and generally give the piece a sweet, fresh, and simple tone. One scene, in which an immense turkey is dismembered and devoured by a gathering of rustics in the farm kitchen, almost brings the scent of the gravy across the footlights. Add to this that Mr. Hawes Craven has painted a very pretty Cornish coast scene, that Mr. Walter Hann has supplied one of his most picturesque interiors, and that Mr. T. Hemsley has excelled himself in his lighthouse set, and the triumphant success of Shore Acres at the Waldorf on Monday is easily accounted for, especially when the admirable acting is taken into consideration.

Mr. Edmund Maurice's Martin Barron was the acme of stern, strong, passionate egotism, and the intensity and vigour of his rendering were worthy of the warmest praise. Mr. Cyril Maude gave a wonderfully natural, amusing, and pathetic impersonation of Nathaniel Barron. The quaint old fellow, with his odd, half-shrewd, half-simple ways, his extraordinary attire, and his gentleness and kindliness of spirit, was represented by Mr. Maude in a manner which proved his artistry pre-eminent. There was a scene of droll realism, in which Nathaniel was concerned in the cooking of a turkey, which was irresistibly winning and propitiating in its influence on the audience. Mr. Maude put plenty of power into his work in the lighthouse act; and his final exit in the last one, when Nathaniel sadly and soberly destroys the plans of the ill-fated "building estate," and with a sigh of relief betakes himself to bed, was very telling and significant. Miss Mary Rorke played a genial farm-mistress, with a trick of repeating her final sentences, in her usual accomplished style; Mr. Frank Mills gave a thoroughly sound and artistic embodiment of Sam Warren; and Miss Alice Crawford as Helen Barron showed real emotional power, especially in the second act. Mr. H. Cooper Cliffe made the most of the rôle of Mr. Blake, which was certainly well within that excellent actor's powers; and distinguished success was won by Mr. Edmund Lea, who created hearty laughter by his broadly comical business of feeding a timid and pallid child. The minor parts, hardly distinctive enough for separate description, were all admirably filled by artists of reputation. Shore Acres had a warmly-enthusiastic reception, and is likely to be a sustained success.

IN reference to a letter which appeared in our last issue, under the heading of "A Coincidence in Cats," Mr. W. Gunn Gwennet writes:—"I have a line from Mr. Calvert to the effect that the piece he is handling was written four years ago, but my own opera was completed several years previous to that."

"THE GARTER," a comedietta, in one act, by Sidney Lewis-Ransom, was produced, for copyright purposes, at the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham, on the 18th inst.

THE King was present at the performance of Die Walkure at Covent Garden Opera on Tuesday.

It is well that Mr. Martin Harvey should occasionally give his numerous London friends a chance of seeing him in the West-end, for audiences there remember him by much artistic work, and recognise his claim to rank as one of the first actors of the day, and as one who is proud to own that his highest ambition is to prove himself worthy of the great traditions of his departed chief, under whose banner he so gladly served in his earlier youth. Mr. Harvey opened his four weeks' season on Saturday at the Imperial with a play new to London, though it has won some considerable favour in the provinces since its production at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on April 27. It is entitled Boy O'Carroll, and is from the pen of the authors of The Breed of the Treshams, B. M. Dix and E. G. Sutherland. There was a large house to welcome the accomplished actor on Saturday evening, and the cordiality of his reception, which interrupted the progress of the piece in its early moments, must have been grateful music to his ears. It was indeed a testimony of popularity of which a Prime Minister would have been proud.

It is obvious that the piece with which Mr. Harvey elected to open has been written for the provinces; but it has all the essentials of life and movement, and its romanticism is allied to comic situations which appeal with real force to the mass of playgoers. Its interest is cumulative, and as the story progresses towards an inevitable happy ending, it keeps the listener engrossed. The hero, Boy O'Carroll, is a young lieutenant of horse in the army of Charles the First, and is encamped with his regiment near Repton-under-Wye—a pretty upland, admirably painted by Mr. G. Dobson, whose brushwork is excellent. Good-natured, impulsive, reckless, brave, and chivalrous, Brian readily recommends himself to any audience, and it is his championship of weak woman that forms the clou of the play. Lettice Yarrington, the young heroine, the niece and ward of the sour Puritan Major Yarrington, has written to her cousin, Lieutenant Mollison, a perfectly innocent letter, arranging for a meeting that he may give her safe conduct. Mollison boasts of a conquest, and shows the letter to his brother officers. One does not quite see why O'Carroll should interfere, but he does, and snatches the letter from one of them. The indignation that results is responsible for no less than three challenges; but O'Carroll, who is spoiling for a fight, is hurried away by his captain to take dispatches to Upper Lowcombe. O'Carroll, we should add, is in love with a bewitching Irish widow, Lady Honoria Vere, who has, however, given her heart to Captain Hebblethwaite, an obtuse, unimaginative, unimpressionable Englishman.

In the second act, our hero is discovered at the Hall, Yarrington Grange, Lower Upcombe. He has evidently mistaken this village for Upper Lowcombe, and has been taken prisoner accordingly, as the former place is in the occupation of the Parliamentarians, under command of Major Yarrington. The dispatches have been taken from O'Carroll by that stern, unbending Roundhead, and also Lettice's letter, which the Irish "bhoy" had intended to return. Old Yarrington jumps to the conclusion that the missive has been addressed to O'Carroll, and puts the worst construction upon it. "There was nothing further from your mind than marriage," shouts the uncle. O'Carroll of course assents. That settles his fate. The major bundles off his niece and O'Carroll to the parson, and in a few minutes they return man and wife. After the marriage ceremony, Brian is sent to London en route for the Barbadoes, and Lettice is packed off to a strict aunt.

For the purposes of the plot it happens that the hero and heroine—now man and wife—come together again in the next act, in the wardrobe-room, Armitage Manor. Here we find also Lady Honoria Vere, who, hearing a faint cry from beneath the lid of an oak chest, opens it, and releases the terrified and tearful Lettice. To Armitage Manor O'Carroll is brought by a troop of Roundheads, and with him, as fellow captive, is his rival, Captain Hebblethwaite. The two are handcuffed together, and naturally, both remembering their former quarrel, are in no amiable mood. Reconciliation, however, comes about through the Lady Honoria, who, after confessing to O'Carroll her love for his rival, is responsible for the sending of a loaf. The prisoners fall to, but O'Carroll speedily discovers that he is munching a piece of paper, which he hastily peruses to discover therein instructions as to the means of escape that are close to his hand. A rope is at the bottom of a hair-trunk, and the key to the handcuff is inside the loaf. "Have ye swallowed the key?" cries O'Carroll to Hebblethwaite, as the latter starts a violent fit of coughing. "If you have, I will cut you open to get it out." But no such drastic measure is needed. The key is found, and the handcuff removed. The rope, too, is discovered; but only one can escape by it. Which is it to be? Each would sacrifice himself for the other. In the end it is Hebblethwaite who is lowered from the window; but O'Carroll luckily discovers some window-curtains, tears them into strips, and by this means escapes from duresse.

In the fourth act Brian turns up at Marbrook Hall, there to find that Major Yarrington has recaptured Hebblethwaite, also Lady Honoria, and his horseboy Paudheen, the major having bluffed them into the belief that the house, where Lettice is also hiding, was surrounded by his troops. However, Brian, who arrives through the latticed window, plays the same game, and in turn the major's matchlock-men are taken prisoners. A temporary armistice is arranged, the curtain falling on Lady Honoria's engagement to Captain Hebblethwaite, and on Brian O'Carroll's discovery that he is falling in love with his own wife, through whose kindly offices he has been again enabled to escape the clutches of the brutal Parliamentarian.

Mr. Martin Harvey's impersonation of the title-rôle is a triumph of versatility. Those who have been deeply impressed by the dignity and tragedy of his Sydney Carton—and who has not?—will be the first to admire his embodiment of the devil-may-care Irishman. He positively glows with buoyant juvenility, and his acting seems to be guided by a thorough knowledge of the Irish temperament. His readiness of repartee is often coloured by a most welcome tinge of romance, and it is in such passages that Mr. Harvey is at his best. The success of the love scene in the first act between O'Carroll and the Lady Honoria Vere is shared by Miss Kate Rorke, who gives delightful emphasis to a character that goes far to justify the writing of the piece. Miss Rorke, who has oft beguiled us of our tears in the parts of suffering heroines, is the very personification of graciousness. Miss N. de Silva, in the part of Paudheen, makes an admirable boy, and the long and quickly-delivered speech in the third act which falls to the faithful but irrepressible gossoon is quite a tour de force in the way of elocution, and Miss de Silva's delivery of it is perfect. Mr. C. J. Cameron sufficiently accentuates the intolerant and unspeakably tyrannical mood of Major Yarrington, the dour Puritan leader; Mr. Thalberg, with no easy task before him, manages to interest us in the fortunes of the not very wide-awake Captain Hebblethwaite, who is about as sharp in an affaire de cœur as our old friend Modus; Mr. Albert E. Raynor makes an interesting martinet of Captain Vere; Mr. George Cooke's Lieutenant Wylford is most effective; Mr. Leonard Craske does well as Lieutenant Mollison; Mr. Reeve Denbigh puts a droll touch into his acting as Corporal Penray; and Mr. P. Hewland is adequate as Rejoice Allman. Miss Maud Rivers is a sweet and winsome heroine as Lettice Yarrington—an impersonation that reminds one of an April day, tears and sunshine. Miss Grace Hampton makes the most of her opportunities as Win-the-fight-Bubb; and Miss Bessie Elder as the serving-woman Tabitha, with a bad cold, is decidedly funny.

DEATH OF HENRIK IBSEN.

Henrik Ibsen, who died on Wednesday last, was born at Skien, on the south-eastern coast of Norway, on March 20, 1828. His parents were of mixed Danish, Scotch, and German blood. He was apprenticed in 1844 to an apothecary in the seaport town of Grimstad. In the winter of 1848-49 he composed his first drama, the three-act tragedy of Catilina, in blank verse. Catilina was refused at the Christiania Theatre. After this Ibsen wrote a second play, The Viking's Barrow; this was accepted and played. In 1851 Ibsen was appointed manager of the theatre at Bergen, and spent five months of the summer and autumn of 1852 in studying the practical arrangements of the playhouses in Copenhagen and Dresden. His third play, the romantic comedy of St. John's Eve, was put on at the Bergen Theatre in 1852. In 1856 Ibsen produced his drama of The Feast at Solhoug. Another work of his, Olaf Liljekrans, was played at Bergen in January, 1857. In the next summer he resigned management, and came up to live in Christiania, where he was appointed stage-manager to the Norwegian Theatre. He remained until 1862, and produced two historical dramas, Madam Inger at Oesteraad, which he had written at Bergen in 1857, and The Warriors at Helgeland. In 1858 Ibsen married Susanna Daae Thoresen, the step daughter of the novelist, Magdalene Thoresen. In the summer of 1862 his theatre became bankrupt. At this time he published Love's Comedy, a satire in dramatic rhyme. In the following year he was appointed "adviser" at the Old Christiania Theatre. His saga-tragedy, The Pretenders, was published at the close of 1863. In 1864 the Council of State granted him a travelling-stipend, and his Pretenders was put on the stage. In April, 1864, Ibsen left Christiania, and went to Trieste and Venice. In June he was in Rome, and at Christmas, 1865, he finished his poem of Brand, which was published in Copenhagen in March, 1866. He was saved from impending want by a pension, and spent the summer of 1867 in Italy at work on Peer Gynt.

In the autumn of 1868 Ibsen went to Dresden, and wrote his political drama, The League of Young Men. It was acted in the three Scandinavian countries, but was "damned" in Christiania. On his return to Dresden in 1870 he began the drama called Emperor and Galilean, which he finished in 1873. In the autumn of 1874 he settled in Munich, and in October, 1877, The Pillars of Society was published. It was not acted in Norway for some time, but in Germany it immediately achieved success. In 1878 it was played in over a score of German theatres at one time. Ibsen spent the winter of 1878 in Rome, and most of 1879 at Amalfi, where he wrote A Doll's House. It was performed in all the principal towns of Scandinavia and Germany, and from this moment his fame commenced.

While on a visit to Sorrento in 1881 he wrote Ghosts; An Enemy of the People was finished at Gossensass in the summer of 1882; and two years later came The Wild Duck, which was written in Rome in the summer of 1884. In the winter of 1885 his annual play was Rosmersholm, in 1888 The Lady From the Sea, in 1890 Hedda Gabler, in 1892 Master-Builder Solness, in 1894 Little Eyolf, in 1896 John Gabriel Borkman. When We Dead Awaken did not appear until Christmas, 1899, and was the last of Ibsen's dramas. In 1902 he collected his "Works" in two volumes, adding two juvenile dramas, The Viking's Barrow and Olaf Liljekrans, which had not been hitherto published.

For the last three years of his life he was forbidden by his physicians to do any mental work, and he became unconscious of the passage of events. Ibsen received many decorations from his own and other Monarchs. His likeness is preserved in the colossal bronze statue by Sinding in front of the Norwegian National Theatre.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The concert on Wednesday evening given by the students of the Guildhall School of Music commenced with duet, harp, and piano of Rossini's "Prayer" from Mosé in Egitto, arranged by Thomas, the executants being Miss Edith Harndeh and Miss Jenny Hyman. Mr. Darcy Woolfven sang "The Colleen Bawn," by Benedict, with good effect; and Miss Marjorie Mackay was much applauded in her solo pianoforte, "Paraphrase de Concert" (Eugéne Onegin), Tchaikowsky-Pabst. Miss A. E. Richardson, who has a fine contralto voice, and is a most promising pupil of Mr. Albert Visetti, might have chosen less hackneyed music than the scena, "My heart is weary," from Goring Thomas's Nadeschda. In the "Flower Song" from Carmen Mr. J. H. Callen displayed a well-trained and pleasing tenor voice, although showing a slight disposition to drag the tempo; and Miss Aggie Melville showed ability in the French song, "Les filles de Cadiz" (Chanson Espagnole), Délibes. "The Castilian Maid," by Lehmann, was neatly sung by Miss Louie Guthrie; and Verdi's "Eri In" from Un Ballo in Maschera was so remarkably well rendered by Mr. T. H. Watts that he should on a future occasion give the Aria in Italian. Several good instrumental items were included in the programme, Miss C. M. Fawcett playing her violin solo, "Romance sans Paroles" of Wieniawski, with much facility; and Miss Dadine Sutherland displaying a firm touch and fairly finished execution, unusual in so young a performer, in Chopin's pianoforte solo, "Allegro de Concert" in A. One of the most successful piano solos was that of Miss Minnie T. Crouch, A.G.S.M., who showed great talent in her playing of Chopin's Nocturne in F sharp, and in the difficult and clever "Study for the left hand only," a paraphrase of "The Last Rose of Summer," composed by Willem Coenen; and Miss Winifred Johnson produced a good tone with neat execution in De Bériot's violin solo, "Andante and Finale" from Concerto in G, the concert concluding with the vocal duet "Zigeunerlied," Brahms, sung by Miss Millie and Miss Louie Guthrie. Miss Jenny Hyman ably performed the duties of accompanist, and Mrs. Charles Smith superintended the appearance of the young ladies on the platform.

MR. WILLIAMSON, of Sydney, has purchased the Australian rights of the successful play, The Scarlet Pimpernel, from the authors, the Baroness Orczy and Montagu Barstow, for immediate production there.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

MR. T. P. O'CONNOR, M.P., gave notice on Thursday night that on Monday next he would ask leave to bring in a Bill to deal with the question of copyright in music. The Bill will be a short one, consisting practically of only two clauses. It has been drawn up by eminent counsel, and after several drafts have been prepared, has been finally reduced to this brief form. It is believed that it will be an effective weapon against the villainy still possible to the music pirates. Mr. O'Connor has been already promised the assistance of Mr. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, Mr. John Redmond, leader of the Irish Party, and Sir Alfred Thomas, leader of the Welsh Party; and hopes to have the assistance of several other prominent Parliamentarians when the Bill is introduced. As the question of musical piracy seriously affects the interest of both the dramatic and music-hall professions, we feel sure that every member of these professions will wish Mr. O'Connor every success in his attempt to obtain effective legislation on a subject of such immense importance.

MR. BEERBOHM TREE has settled upon Tuesday evening next for the production of Colonel Newcome. Despite the malicious article, manifestly designed to provoke discussion hostile to the eminent actor, which recently appeared in a contemporary, Mr. Tree's assumption of the part of the lovable colonel is awakening the most agreeable expectations. Mr. Michael Morton has based his version of Thackeray's great story upon a series of incidents in the career of the chief character, and endeavoured to preserve throughout the piece the atmosphere and spirit of the book. In his choice of the subject, it may be added, Mr. Morton was influenced by the conviction that the character would suit Mr. Tree admirably, and wherever it has been found expedient the novelist's own words have been retained.

FOUR hundred per year, it is said, is the number of plays received by Mr. George Alexander, and all are gone through religiously by himself and Mr. C. T. Helmsley, his manager. "The literary quality of the plays sent us is better than it used to be," said Mr. Helmsley. "It is often surprisingly good. But, then, literary excellence is not a very important feature in dramatic work, and the construction and characterisation are generally very feeble." One of the most curious plays ever heard of was that once offered to the late Wilson Barrett by a Parsee gentleman. It consisted of ten acts, each containing a heavy set scene and several smaller tableaux; there were ninety-seven speaking parts, and the dialogue filled nearly three hundred typewritten pages. Inclusive of the necessary waits, it would have played for about thirteen hours.

MR. ARTHUR COLLINS, who will be director of the stage for the Ellen Terry Matinée, has already devoted a great deal of his valuable time in order to emphasise the success of this momentous occasion. Mr. Sidney Smith and his helpers at the box office have had a huge task in dealing with the applications for seats. Many great occurrences have taken place at "Old Drury," but no event has ever reached the phenomenal booking attained by that associated with the jubilee of the great actress. So great has been the demand for places, that no reserved seats may now be had under three guineas.

THE executive committee for the matinée consists of Mr. Arthur W. Pinero (chairman), Mr. Geo. Alexander, Sir Squire Bancroft, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Mr. Arthur Chudleigh, Hon. Stephen Coleridge, Mr. Arthur Collins, Mr. Alfred Courtenay, Mr. Henry Dana, Mr. Tom B. Davis, Mr. George Edwardes, Mr. Charles Frohman, Mr. Stephano Gatti, Mr. William Greet, Mr. Frederick Harrison, Mr. Seymour Hicks, Mr. Cyril Maude, M. André Messager, Mr. J Forbes-Robertson, Mr. Sidney Smith, Mr. Bram Stoker, Mr. Otho Stuart, Mr. Ed. Terry, Mr. H. Beerbohm Tree, Mr. J. E. Vedrenne, Mr. Lewis Waller, Mr James Welch, and Sir Charles Wyndham. The hon. Press manager is Mr. Austin Brereton, and the hon. secretary Mr. Acton Bond.

THE complete cast for the first act of Much Ado About Nothing will consist of Messrs. Fred Terry, H. B. Irving, J. Forbes-Robertson, H. Beerbohm Tree, Hermann Vezin, Henry Neville, Edward Gwenn, Oscar Asche, Norman Forbes, and Laurence Irving, and Miss Marion Terry, Miss Ellen Terry, Miss Minnie Terry, and Miss Kate Terry (Mrs. Lewis). Mr. Gordon Craig, who has designed the scenery, has also invented a masked dance for the close of the act, in which all the members of the Terry family and others will appear. The wonderful programme, to many items of which we have already referred, has been rendered still more remarkable by the inclusion of the names of M. Coquelin and his son, who will appear in a scene from Le Mariage Forcé, and Mr. Willard's kind offer of assistance has also been accepted.

THE comedians who are to figure in the minstrel "first part" will, it is understood, wear evening dress, but will be made up as the various characters in which they are appearing at the date of the matinée. In the scene from The School for Scandal, which is one of the chief features of the afternoon, Sir Charles Wyndham will appear as Charles, Mr. Bourchier as Sir Oliver, Mr. George Alexander as Careless, Mr. Cyril Maude as Trip, Mr. Edward Terry as Moses, and Mr. Ben Davies as Sir Harry Bumper, with song.

TABLEAUX vivants, the figures of which are to be filled in by popular actresses, will be a striking feature of the performance. Those selected for presentation will include "The Rival Beauties," arranged by Sir Alma Tadema from his own picture, the scene painted by Mr. Joseph Harker, and the characters embodied by Miss Constance Collier and Miss Maxine Elliott; "The Ladies Waldegrave," arranged by Mr. Luke Fildes, the scene painted by Mr. Bruce Smith, will have Miss Violet Vanbrugh, Miss Julie Opp, and Miss Fay Davis for its exponents; a Watteau picture, arranged by Mr. Solomon J. Solomon, the scene painted by Mr. Walter Hann, will be impersonated by Miss Irene Vanbrugh, Miss Sarah Brooke, Miss Ellis Jeffreys, and Miss Gertrude Elliott; and a scene from Rossetti's poem "The Blessed Damozel," arranged by Mr. Byam Shaw, painted by Mr. Walter Hann, will be portrayed by Miss Julia Neilson, Miss Viola Tree, Miss Margaret Halstan, Miss Sybil Carlisle, Miss Dorothea Baird, Miss Muriel Beaumont, Miss Mabel Hackney, Miss Dagmar Wiehe, Miss Lettice Fairfax, and Miss Jessie Bateman.

A SCENE from the life of Joan of Arc, arranged by Mr. Percy Macquoid, scene painted by Mr. Bruce Smith, will be realised by Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, Miss Beryl Faber, Miss May Palfrey, Miss Nora Lancaster, Miss Beatrice Irwin, Miss Dorothy Minto, Miss Hazel Thompson, Miss Mary Mackenzie, Miss Beatrice Beckley, and Miss Iris Hawkins; and Miss Edna May will appear in Albert Moore's picture "Blossoms," arranged by Mr. A. L. Baldry, the scene painted by Mr. McCleary. Another Albert Moore picture, arranged by Mr. Baldry, will be represented by Miss Lily Brayton, Miss Nancy Price, and Miss Eva Moore; and further tableaux, including one by Sir James Linton, are being prepared, in which Mrs. Langtry, Miss Lena Ashwell, Mrs. Brown Potter, Mrs. Tree, Miss Evelyn Millard, Miss Mary Moore, Miss Kate Rorke, Miss Mary Rorke, Miss Winifred Emery, and Miss Ellaline Terriss will take part.

MR. LIONEL BROUGH supplies the comforting assurance that the reports which have been current during the last few days that he was seriously ill, are not true. How greatly exaggerated were the reports is shown by the statement, made on Mr. Brough's own authority, that he is "perfectly well."

"BRIGADIER GERARD" is to remain in possession at the Lyric until July 14, after which Mr. Lewis Waller will take a short rest previous to going on tour with the piece three weeks later. The tour will begin at Douglas, Isle of Man, and visits will be paid to Bristol, Dublin, Newcastle, Leeds, Manchester, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Liverpool, and Birmingham. Mr. Waller returns to the Lyric in November, when the new play, written by Henry Hamilton and William Devereux round the adventures of Robin Hood, will be produced.

THE Lyric will, in the interval, be devoted to a season of grand opera in English, which will be supplied by the Moody-Manners company. The opera season will begin on Saturday, July 21, and is arranged to last five weeks. There will then remain a month or more before Mr. Waller's return, a gap which might well be filled by extending the opera season. Mr. Charles Manners' indefatigable efforts in the cause of music on his last visit to the West End must surely have borne fruit in some degree, and the number of those who are able to appreciate the delights of grand opera, should be equal to supporting a first-class enterprise for more than the space of a month.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY, who has inaugurated his season at the Imperial most auspiciously, announces that from Thursday, May 24, Boy O'Carroll will commence at 8.30 instead of 8.15, as the comedy now plays much closer.

THE secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund has received £1 from Mr. Mark Ambient, per Mr. Cecil Beryl; £1 from Mr. Douglas Vigors; and £2 2s. from Mr. Robert Courtneidge. Mr. George Alexander has also sent a further sum of £1 12s. 6d., which he has collected in half-crowns in exchange for his autograph; and Mr. Tree is daily sending on postal orders from the same source.

THE stage has been well represented this week at the Elizabethan Fair and Fête, held in Lincoln's Inn hall and grounds in aid of the removal fund of King's College Hospital. What with theatrical costume performances and theatrical ladies selling at the stalls, the profession fully justified its olden reputation for good heartedness in the cause of charity. On Wednesday, when the fair was opened by H.R.H. the Princess Christian, in the theatre there were three performances of a well-known Elizabethan travestie, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, by Mr. W. S. Gilbert. The brilliant author appeared as King Claudius of Denmark, Captain Robert Marshall as Hamlet; while Mr. Leo Trevor as Rosencrantz and Miss Gertrude Kingston as Queen Gertrude contributed largely to the general hilarity.

THE second day (Thursday) saw an even greater assemblage of artists. Mr. Herbert Swears' burlesque melodrama, Hero and Heroine, was played by Mr. Arthur Playfair and Miss Kate Cutler, while in the cast of Amelia we had Mr. Nigel Playfair, Miss Hilda Trevelyan, and Miss Bramleigh. Appropriately enough, Miss Constance Collier recited "Elizabethan Love Lyrics," by Sir Walter Raleigh; Miss May de Sousa gave a delightful rendering of "Love the Tyrant" and "The sweetest story ever told"; Messrs. Cole and Johnson treated the visitors to a selection of songs of their own composition; and Miss Ella Dixon introduced a monologue, entitled "Her Debut at Court," by Mr. John Cutler, K.C. Among the other well-known theatrical folk who contributed to the entertainments were Miss Lena Ashwell, Miss Eva Baron, Miss Constance Collier, Miss Vane Featherston, Miss Rosina Filippi, Miss Mabel Love, Miss Gertie Millar, Miss Carrie Moore, Miss Marie Studholme, Miss Denise Orme, Mr. Willie Edouin, Mr. Fred Chester, Mr. George Graves, Mr. George Grossmith, jun., Mr. Walter Kirby, Mon. Malini, Mr. Huntley Wright, and Mr. A. Corbett Smith. Yesterday many of these artists again rendered goodly service, a special feature of the programme being the recital by Miss Rosina Filippi of a monologue by Mr. Maurice Materlinck, entitled "The Swarm."

SOME of our popular actresses were gracious enough to take charge of a few of the stalls. Thus, pipes and tobacco and cigars, smokers' cabinets and jars and many nick-nacks dear to the heart of the devotees of My Lady Nicotine were being vended by Miss Ellen Terry, Mrs. Arthur Bourchier, Mrs. Cyril Maude, Lady Burnand, Miss Ellaline Terriss, Miss Adrienne Augarde, Miss Lena Ashwell, Miss Maud Wynter, Miss Dagmar Wiehe, Miss Maud Cresswall, Miss Jessie Bateman, Miss Sybil Carlisle, and Miss Pauline Chase. Mrs. Cyril Maude was attired in a pretty and becoming Elizabethan costume of blue brocade and silver trimmings, with a turned-back rose du Barry velvet cap. At Mrs. William S. Playfair's stall, where specimens of antique and modern art were being much sought after, the assistants were Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, Mrs. George Alexander, Mrs. and Miss John Hare, Mrs. Nigel Playfair, Miss Playfair, and Miss Audrey Playfair. Some of these ladies were attired in mediæval costumes of brown red-shot silk, Winsey petticoats, sleeves lined inside with crimson silk, white net ruffs with gold edging, and brown velvet Henry VIII. caps with red feathers.

MOST of the special period dances, including the Maypole, were arranged by Madame Katti Lanner, and everybody commented on the exceedingly skilful and pleasing manner in which they were performed. During the progress of the Fair, Miss Sylvia Parkyns was seen in a particularly graceful solo dance "invented" by Madame Lanner, with music composed by Mr. Hubert Colegrave, and congratulations are also due to Madame Lanner for the efficient training of the twelve dancers who went by the name of the Folies. The amount collected inside the grounds was considerably augmented by the sale by auction of tickets giving admission to West End theatres. The managements of Covent Garden Opera House, the New Theatre, the Garrick, the Alhambra, the Court Theatre (for Miss Ellen Terry in Captain Brassbound's Conversion), the Palace, all gave a box, while the New Royalty sent a couple of tickets for boxes for Madame Réjane's season. Before leaving the subject of the Fête, we would like to express our admiration and gratitude—in which we are sure we shall be joined by other newspaper people—for the kindly consideration and attention so charmingly afforded members of the Press by Mrs. George Curnock.

"THE THIRD TIME OF ASKING," a new "rustic comedy," by H. E. Francis (Mrs. Blundell), will be produced at the Garrick Theatre on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Arthur Bourchier will appear in the play and will assume the character of a Lancashire lout. The little piece is intended to precede the fascinating Mr. Vanderveldt at every performance.

MR. CHARLES FRY'S concluding performance of his series of Shakespearean matinées was given on Saturday at the Court Theatre. Apart from the necessary curtailments, the play was given strictly according to Shakespeare's text, which, except in Sir Henry Irving's great revival, is not usually done. Mr. Fry added the scene between Queen Elizabeth, the Duchess of York, and the little Duke of York (Act II. sc. 4), to the episode with the two Princes, which, to the best of Mr. Fry's belief, was played for the first time.

"CASTLES IN SPAIN," supported by Mr. Harry Fragson and Miss May De Sousa, was removed bodily on Thursday to Terry's Theatre, where it was received by a large audience with all the evidences of popularity which it obtained during its recent run at the Royalty. The piece, which has been embellished by new and attractive songs, is admirably in tone with the pretty theatre in the Strand, and has adjusted itself perfectly to its new surroundings. There is an engaging air of novelty about the piece which prepossesses it in favour, and it went as merrily as ever on Thursday, securing ready laughter and enthusiastic cheers.

THE first encore of the evening was conferred on the dainty "Nightingale and Lark" song sung by Mr. Fragson and Miss De Sousa, the fresh, young voice of the charming comedienne being utilised with the utmost delicacy and grace. Miss Sousa's love ballad was also rendered with rare feeling and exquisite intonation, and a song called "How was I to know?" was vocalised with charm and point. Mr. Fragson obtained a most determined redemand for the remarkably clever song of the travels of a tragedy, his imitations of celebrated actors being an added delight. The enthusiastic reception of the lyric brought forth a novelty, a song in French, entitled "Adieu to Granada," which proved a most entertaining lilt, and was in turn succeeded by a nigger song, in which Mr. Fragson showed himself admirably qualified to take part as a minstrel in the best "circles."

MR. JOHNNY DANVERS'S ripe humour and resourceful byplay is invaluable in his impersonation of the American millionaire, whose accent is realistically caught. Mr. E. Dagnall succeeds to the part of the eccentric Spaniard, Señor Terraro, and plays it in the drollest style, ensuring many hearty laughs. The song in which he is described as a "Jolly good fellow" is quaintly rendered, invaluable assistance being derived from his three satellites played in the oddest manner imaginable by Messrs. Espinosa, Francis Howard, and Roger Alwyn. The smart and dapper Jenkins is dryly presented by Mr. Hubert Willis, who cleverly emphasises the humour of the part; and the imperturbable Charles is enacted with comic effect by Mr. Thornton Wynne. Miss Mabel Nelson exercises the fascinations of the Spanish senorita Chiquita to considerable purpose; and Miss Maud Millais plays Manuela in her customary artistic style.

MISS DENNY FITZHERBERT undertook last week, at a moment's notice, the part of the Actress in Facing the Music. Arriving in Ipswich from London at 6.30, perfectly strange to both the piece and part, she went through the performance the same night letter perfect, and was highly complimented by the management.

PAST and present members of the Benson company have been accustomed for some years to meet at dinner, and celebrate their connection with that justly famous company, and this year they will gather at the Trocadero on the night of June 10, under the genial presidency of Mr. H. O. Nicholson. Mr. H. Jalland being absent abroad, the secretary for the committee is Mr. F. Percy P. Soper, of Theydon Towers, Epping, who will be pleased to send particulars of the dinner to any Bensonian.

MR. PHILIP ASHBROOKE, the well-known voice producer, sang three new German songs at the Steinway Hall on the 14th inst. The songs, which were in manuscript, were written by Miss Marguerite Radclyffe-Hall, and were sung in cultured style by Mr. Ashbrooke, who won warm praise.

MR. ROBERT PATEMAN, who, this evening, at the Theatre Royal, Plymouth, finishes a most successful tour of thirty-three weeks as Kleschna in Leah Kleschna, has been specially engaged by Miss Olga Nethersole to play Schwartze in Magda for a short season in Paris early in June.

IN order to distinguish himself from others who bear, or have borne, the name of Lander, Mr. Charles Lander will in future be known by his full name of C. Oram Lander.

MR. J. F. ELLISTON, of Bolton, has just parted with a scenic artist who preferred to paint while whistling selections of serious music. Mr. Elliston, desirous of a change, now advertises for an assistant scenic artist, who must be thoroughly competent; and fond of working to music (hornpipe tunes) preferred.

MISS LUCY BEAUMONT (Mrs. Douglas Vigors), we regret to learn, is in Surgical Ward 4 of Charing Cross Hospital, where she is to undergo an operation for gastric ulcer. Much sympathy will no doubt be felt for Miss Beaumont in her affliction, and all will wish her a speedy recovery.

"THE GEISHA" may be expected at Daly's Theatre in a month's time, when the peerless musical comedy is sure of a reception as cordial as that which greeted it throughout its first phenomenal run. Miss Marie Studholme will be the Mollie Seamore, and the rôle of Juliette Diamant will be given to Mlle. Mariette Sully, a singer and comedienne of the highest popularity in Paris. The cast will also include Mr. George Graves, Mr. Fred Wright, jun., Mr. Robert Evett, Mr. Louis Bradfield, and Mr. Gordon Cleather.

MR. GEORGE EDWARDES has again gone to a foreign source in his search for novelty, and accordingly his next production at the Prince of Wales's Theatre will be an adaptation of La Troisième Lune, a Chinese comedy in three acts and four tableaux, by Madame Fred Grésac and M. Paul Ferrier, with incidental music by M. Charles Cuvillier, brought out two years ago at the Paris Vaudeville. The adaptation of the work, which is to be entitled The Third Moon, and is due in a few weeks, is dependent upon the able pen of Mr. Charles Brookfield, while the music is entrusted to the dainty muse of Mr. Sidney Jones.

"THE LONELY MILLIONAIRES," the production of which took place at the Adelphi on the 15th inst., will be withdrawn on Friday, and The Taming of the Shrew will be revived on the following day. Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton will resume their former rôles of Petruchio and Katharine, and the company will be practically the same as before, with the exceptions notably of the exponents of Lucentio and Bianca, which parts will be in the hands of Mr. Matheson Lang and Miss Francis Dillon respectively.

MISS LILIAS WALDEGRAVE, who has been called "the lucky understudy," because of her many opportunities to play big parts, is engaged to appear as Isobel, in Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace, at the Coronet and Camden Theatres, opening on June 4. The company will also include Miss Mary Moore, in her original part, Miss Illington, and Mr. Yorke Stephens.

MISS OLGA NETHERSOLE will inaugurate her season in Paris early next month, opening at the Vaudeville Theatre there on June 7. Miss Nethersole will present The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, Sapho, Magda, Carmen, and Camille, and will be supported by the company that has just concluded a long tour with her in America.

MR. FRANK GRANS will produce The Other Man's Business, at the Grand Theatre, Fulham, on Monday. Mr. C. W. Anson, Mr. Frank Stanmore, and Miss Lilian Hubbard will be in the cast.

MR. GEORGE ARLISS has returned from America, and will remain in England for several months.

THE usual weekly meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association was held on Tuesday, when there were present Mr. C. Aubrey Smith (chairman), Mr. A. E. Drinkwater (deputy-chairman), Mr. Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Mesdames Carlotta Addison, Kate Bishop, and Kate Phillips, and Messrs. Cecil Barth, Clarence Blakiston, Burton Cooke, C. Hayden Coffin, William Devereux, Arthur Holmes-Gore, Norman McKinnel, M. R. Morand, Algernon Syms, Brandon Thomas, Spencer Trevor, Frank Vernon, Hubert Willis, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary).

THE Hon. Solicitor reported that a claim of a member against a manager had been satisfactorily settled, and that in another case amicable arrangements had been made as a consequence of their intervention. They also reported that a case set down for trial would be before the court during the week, and that in another action the hearing had been, at the request of the defendant, postponed until the end of next month. A member attended before the Council, and having given her version of a certain matter, the Council determined that it was a question which should be referred to arbitration.

THE Secretary reported the receipt of a letter from the Theatrical Managers' Association, agreeing to receive a deputation from the Actors' Association, to discuss a question of considerable importance to the profession, and he received instructions to summon a meeting of the "Special" Committee for the purpose of appointing delegates. The report of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was received, and the Secretary received instructions to summon a special meeting, for the purpose of considering a scheme proposed by Mr. Cecil Barth, Elsie Howard Ross and Montague Elphinstone were nominated for election, and two former members were nominated for re-instatement. An alleged case of bogus management was under consideration, and the Secretary received instructions.

THE Finance and General Purposes Committee held a meeting last Tuesday, when there were present Mr. M. R. Morand (chairman), Messrs. A. E. Drinkwater, Arthur Holmes-Gore, C. Aubrey Smith, Hubert Willis, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary). Several matters of routine were discussed, and the Secretary received instructions.

MR. EDGAR CHARLES ASHLEY, assistant stage-manager for Miss Olga Nethersole—who has just completed her American tour—was this week the recipient of the following genial letter, which explains itself:—"Boston, Mass., May 7, 1906. My Dear Ashley,—Don't be offended, but when a man has shown himself so utterly disagreeable and so hopelessly incompetent as you have done during this tour, we think he ought to be paid in his own coin. So a few of us have put our heads and our ha'pence together, and the result is this little souvenir, which we hope will not only 'keep you up to time,' but remind you of our thorough appreciation of your unquestionable ability, your unswerving loyalty, and your untiring efforts in behalf of every production, and, in fact, the general good. Wear it in remembrance, and may 'good luck' go with it and you. —Cicely Richards, Louise Moodie, Hubert Carter, Charles Quartermaine, Hamilton Revelle." The missive was accompanied by a handsome gold watch.

MR. ARTHUR GREENAWAY, after a successful tour of Australia, and latterly with Miss Nance O'Neil in America, is now supporting Miss Millward in The School for Husbands, which is this week securing great success at the Fulham Theatre.

MRS. BROWN POTTER will appear at the Marlborough Theatre next week with her new play, Mary Stuart Queen of Scots. An extended notice of the piece, which was produced at the King's Theatre on Monday, is given in another column.

MR. LEONARD SHEPHERD, who recently made such a hit in the States by his characterisation of Trivulzio in Mr. Harrison Grey Fiske's production of Monna Vanna, has now scored another success by his creation of Grivet in Mr. Fiske's dramatisation of Zola's Thérèse Raquin. Mr. Shepherd and his accomplished wife, Miss Helena Head, sail from New York at the end of the month, and are due to arrive in London early in June.

VISITORS to Mr. Robert Arthur's Kennington Theatre will much appreciate the open-air summer promenade which Mr. H. B. Brandreth, the new manager, has provided for the patrons on the spacious balcony leading from the grand saloon. Fitted with a protective awning, and embellished with floral decorations, the promenade will prove a cooling and refreshing retreat "between the acts" during the summer months.

THE matinée of Captain Swift, given at His Majesty's Theatre on Tuesday, will benefit to a considerable extent the funds of the Royal Free Hospital, Gray's Inn-road, which needs a larger building and new furniture. The performance was under the patronage of the Princess Christian, and there was a crowded and fashionable audience. A great dramatic treat was afforded by Mr. Tree's impersonation of the ex-bushranger, and Mrs. Tree's emotional fervour and graceful acting in the part of Mrs. Seabrook were agreeably pronounced. Miss Sybil Carlisle gave a charming rendering of Stella; and Mr. Holman Clarke as Marshall, Mr. Lyn Harding as Mr. Gardiner, Mr. J. Fisher White as Mr. Seabrook, Miss Lettice Fairfax as Mabel, and Mrs. Cecil Raleigh as Mrs. Staunton furnished perfect renderings of their respective parts.

MISS MARGARET ILLINGTON, who plays the part of Shirley Rossmore in The Lion and the Mouse at the Duke of York's Theatre, is in private life the wife of Daniel Frohman, the American manager, brother of Charles Frohman.

MR. FRANK BERTRAM will commence a short summer tour of The New Clown, by arrangement with Messrs. Silvanus Dauncey and James Welch, at the Grand Theatre, Blackpool, on Monday. Mr. Ernest Spalding will play the part of Lord Cyril Garston, and Miss Celestine Bertram Rosie Platt. The cast will also include Messrs. Gerald Clarke, C. Poole, Cyril Vernon, Douglas Payne, G. Ellis, Miss Connie Merton, and Miss Alec Flood. Among the towns visited will be Southport, Yarmouth, and Southend.

AN illuminated address is to be presented on Tuesday to Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett, the popular managing director of the Alexandra Theatre, Stoke Newington, the occasion being the first anniversary of his taking over the management of the theatre. The presentation will be made by the Mayor of Stoke Newington, supported by an influential committee of local gentlemen.

MISS EMMA HUTCHISON AND MR. PERCY HUTCHISON'S companies will provide strong and suitable attractions for the Whitsuntide holidays. At Birmingham Miss Hutchison and Mr. George Giddens will appear in Public Opinion, at Harrogate The Freedom of Suzanne will be played, and the South company of Public Opinion will make its first visit to Jersey. For the great Show Week at Swindon Mr. Percy Hutchison is producing three of the most popular plays, namely, On the Love Path, Cousin Kate, and A Country Mouse. It will thus be seen that these enterprising entrepreneurs still depend on plays that appeal to a laughter-loving audience, and that their selection should please holiday-makers is assured. All the autumn tours of the comedies start again in August, nearly all the seaside towns being booked for the summer months.

THERE was a large attendance at the tenth annual meeting of the Actors' Orphanage Fund, which took place at the Garrick Theatre in the afternoon of the 18th inst. Mr. Cyril Maude, chairman of the fund, presided, and there were also present Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Sir Squire Bancroft, Mr. George Alexander, Miss Ellen Terry, Miss Constance Collier, Miss Eva Moore, Miss Winifred Emery, and Miss Carlotta Addison. In moving the adoption of the report, the Chairman said that day could be considered as a red-letter one in their annals. They were entitled to greet themselves in a Chinese fashion by cordially shaking hands with themselves, for the orphanage fund had now been in existence for ten years. The good work it had been able to do could not be doubted. They had taken under their protection the sons and daughters of their late brothers and sisters in the profession.

MR. MAUDE said he felt some diffidence in addressing them as president, because he was following one whose name was breathed with reverence by all in the profession. The calls upon the late Sir Henry Irving were many, but there was always a ready response to the appeals made to him to assist the fund. The loss they had sustained was irreparable, but the good precepts which Sir Henry set before them should act as an incentive to them to help the institute. Mr. Maude paid a warm tribute to the founder and hon. secretary of the fund, Mrs. C. L. Carson, who had been compelled to retire through ill-health.

THE receipts, continued the Chairman, amounted to £2,752, and the expenditure was £1,178, thus leaving a credit balance of over £1,500 for the year. The annual garden party would be held in July at the Royal Botanic Gardens, and their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales would in all probability visit the garden fête. They hoped that all would support the institution in the coming year, added the Chairman, for they did not wish to touch their little capital. All the children were well looked after. There were Roman Catholics, and special attention was paid to their instruction in the faith. Were they Church of England, Congregationalist, or Baptist, they were all watched and carefully tended, and brought up in the way their departed fathers and mothers would have them.

MISS EVA MOORE moved a vote of thanks to the Executive Committee, and paid a hearty tribute to Mrs. C. L. Carson for the excellence with which she had discharged the work for the children of actors and actresses. The Chairman announced that the good work of Mrs. Carson was not to go without a permanent recognition, for a proposal was on foot to endow a bed, in an institution, bearing the lady's name. A vote of thanks to Mr. Bourchier for the use of his theatre was unanimously passed, and replied to.

AT the Central Criminal Court, on Wednesday, before the Common Serjeant, William Cecil Watson, described as an elocutionist, was indicted for conspiring with Harry Dawson, otherwise Blackburn, to defraud persons applying to them in response to advertisements offering theatrical engagements. Mr. Charles Mathews, counsel for the prosecution, stated that the man Dawson had not been apprehended. The prisoner was charged with obtaining money from seven different complainants in connection with what the prosecution said was a bogus business he had carried on at 63-64, Chancery-lane, known as the Northern Dramatic Touring Syndicate, Ltd. A typical case was that of a Mr. Bertram Parker, a draper's assistant, whose attention was attracted by an advertisement which read:—"Stage.—Ladies and gentlemen required immediately, without experience, for small parts in new dramatic production; also for touring companies. Good salary. Long tour.—By letter, with envelope for reply, Secty., Northern Dramatic Touring Syndicate, Ltd., 63-64, Chancery-lane. No agents."

PRISONER, who described himself as the general manager of the syndicate, offered Parker a part in a play called The Jew, which he represented was being toured by a company with which he was connected. Parker paid a fee of £2 2s. for tuition, and was given a penny book of the play, and told to learn the part of Frederick. Subsequently prisoner offered him what he said was a better part in a sketch called Diamond Cut Diamond, which he represented was to be produced for a fifty-four weeks' tour. Mr. Parker paid a further fee of £5 5s., and the next step was a suggestion by the man Dawson that as Parker had "a South American voice," he should join a company which was to play The Octoroon, to do which it would be necessary to pay more money. At this prosecutor became suspicious, and went to the police. Evidence having been given, the hearing was adjourned.

The Era, it would appear, is read by all sorts and conditions of men, as the following copy of a communication recently received by an advertiser would testify:—"Dear Sir,—In strictest confidence. Twelve months or so ago, I saw you playing Artful Jimmy in Shadows of a Great City. I now notice your advertisement in The Era, announcing that you have taken premises in Birmingham wherein to store scenery, wardrobe, &c. Can we do business together? Although I do not know you personally, I have sufficient confidence in you to know that you will not give me away. I want somewhere central in which I can deposit articles of various kinds for a time. You would run no risk, and I could afford to treat you very liberally. If you are disposed to entertain my offer, please reply, c/o The Era letter-box, and I will arrange an appointment.—Yours, &c., NAMELESS."

MR. OWEN DACROY, general-manager for Mr. Carey's After the Ball company, terminates his engagement to-night, being re-engaged by Mr. Edward Marris for The Dandy Doctor tour.

MISS EDNA GODFREY-TURNER, who has recently been playing the title-rôle in Sweet Lavender with Mr. Russell Rosse's company was, on Tuesday last, the occasion of her birthday, the recipient of some charming presents. Mr. Rosse's Classic Comedy Company (of which Miss Muriel Godfrey-Turner is the leading lady) gave her a handsome writing portfolio, and Mr. and Mrs. Rosse presented her with an excellent edition of Shakespeare's works. Many other presents were sent, and telegrams from all parts reached the little lady wishing her many happy returns. Miss Muriel Godfrey-Turner, in honour of the event, invited all the members of the company to supper at the Bull Hotel, Cambridge, where they have been playing this week.

MR. H. G. DUDLEY BENNETT has arranged for the appearance of Mr. E. St. Alban's comic opera company in the ever tuneful and popular opera, Les Cloches de Corneville, at the Alexandra Theatre next week. The favourite opera, it is interesting to note, has been played by this company over 5000 times.

MR. TOM HERMAN, an old actor of the Grecian, Britannia, and Surrey Theatres, is lying seriously ill at his lodgings after undergoing two operations, and he would be pleased to hear from his brother and sister artists. His address is 28, Lamb-pit-street, Wrexham.

MR. HENRY C. CAVANAH, who some six years ago succeeded his father, the late Mr. John Cavanah, as manager for Mr. Robert Arthur at Her Majesty's Theatre, Aberdeen, has recently been appointed auditor of the Aberdeenshire Rifle Association. This preferment sufficiently attests Mr. Cavanah's good standing in the profession of chartered accountant, which he successfully combines with that of theatre manager.

ROYAL GENERAL THEATRICAL FUND.

ANNUAL DINNER.

Mr. Arthur Bourchier presided over the sixty-first public dinner of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, held in the Whitehall Rooms of the Hotel Metropole on Thursday evening. The function, from every point of view, was a most successful one, the immediate pecuniary result being that the Fund benefited to the extent of £1,000. Mr. Bourchier was supported by a number of distinguished gentlemen, including the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Ripon, Canon Sheppard, the Marquess of Granby, the Earl of Cork, Sir Squire Bancroft, Mr. Edward Terry, Mr. H. B. Irving, Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., Mr. Comyns Carr, Mr. Anthony Hope, Sir Eyre M. Shaw, Col. Sir H. Hozier, Mr. A. Farquhar, and Mr. Augustus F. M. Spalding. Among others whose names figured on the table list were—Dr. Allchin, Sir W. Avery, Mr. C. Ayer, Mr. J. Ayer, Mr. G. P. Bancroft, Mr. P. Birkett, Mr. E. Blake, Mr. C. Bogler, Mr. Acton Bond, Mr. C. Breese, Mr. A. Bruce-Joy, Mr. E. A. Bull, Mr. S. Butler, Mr. A. R. Butt, Mr. W. Clarkson, Mr. W. A. Collins, Mr. C. I. Coltson, Mr. F. Cooper, Mr. C. Copeland, Mr. R. Courtneidge, Mr. D. Croker, Mr. C. Cruickshanks, Mr. W. F. Curry, Mr. Charles J. Davies, Col. Newnham-Davis, Mr. F. Denny, Mr. Walter J. Ebbetts, Mr. G. S. Edwards, Mr. A. H. Elliott, Mr. F. Evill, Mr. H. Evill, Mr. C. N. Foreman, Mr. W. Ganz, Capt. A. Garland, Mr. G. W. Garrick, Mr. J. W. Gilmer, Mr. H. J. Greenwood, Mr. A. Haines, Mr. A. Hamilton, Mr. B. Harris, Mr. Reginald Harrison, Mr. G. Hast, Mr. Bourchier Hawksley, Mr. S. Heilbut, Mr. W. Hogg, Mr. R. Howard, Mr. H. Hughes, Mr. A. Jones, Mr. J. Kershaw, Mr. A. E. Langford, Mr. H. Le Forestier, Mr. H. Le Blanc, Mr. J. H. Leigh, Mr. W. Lumley, Mr. Alan Mackinnon, Mr. F. MacNicol, Mr. E. D. Maddick, Mr. H. Marriott, Mr. F. C. Marshall, Mr. H. W. Marshall, Mr. T. Marshall, Mr. D. L. Mathias, Mr. J. F. Maunder, Mr. W. A. Metcalf, Dr. Middlemist, Mr. W. Millwood, Mr. M. R. Morand, Mr. J. S. Morrison, Mr. H. Turner Newton, Mr. J. W. Noble, Mr. P. Noble, Mr. J. A. Partridge, Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, Mr. H. Rabbetts, Mr. A. Sargeant, Mr. J. Sargeant, Mr. J. O. Schuler, Mr. T. Stephany, Mr. F. Stringer, Mr. Louis Roche, Mr. Bassett Roe, Mr. A. G. Warren, Mr. N. H. Wild, Dr. Wilson, Mr. W. Clifford Weblyn, Mr. E. de Witt, Mr. Gordon Young, and Mr. G. W. Younger.

The loyal toasts given by the Chairman included "The King" and "The Queen, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the other Members of the Royal Family." The National Anthem was sung by Mme. Alice Esty and a chorus, as well as the grace, "For these and all Thy mercies."

THE CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH.

The CHAIRMAN, rising to propose "The Royal General Theatrical Fund," said:

My lords and gentlemen, — I have now the honour of submitting the toast of the evening, "Success and continued prosperity to the Royal General Theatrical Fund." Since the toast was last proposed the Fund has lost one of its trustees and most generous supporters, Sir Henry Irving. He took the chair at the annual dinner on four occasions, and was ever keenly interested in the Fund, which owes much of its present prosperity to his fine advocacy and open-handed charity. His loss is indeed irreparable, alike to the art he adorned so nobly and to the various schemes for the relief of those of our profession who have fallen by the wayside, and, personally, I feel that our best tribute to his memory to-night would be a bumper subscription and donation list. On one occasion (if my memory serve me right, it was at a banquet in aid of this Fund), Sir Henry, with that felicity of phrase which distinguished all his speeches, alluded to the drama as the "Cinderella of the Arts," and at that time the description was as true as it was happy. We have advanced a good deal since those days, and Cinderella can no longer say that she is neglected, either by the powers that be or by the public in general. Perhaps, indeed, she is sometimes in danger of receiving too much attention. Just before I came into this room I was reminded by a candid friend—bless him!—of the old adage, "Brevity is the soul of wit." I disclaim all intention of being funny in the few remarks I am going to make to you to-night, but I would be witless indeed, if, in return for my advocacy of our cause, I did not beg you to mark my brief with a heavy fee! Let me now point out to you in a very few words the objects of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, and the advantages to be gained at a very trifling cost to those who are members of it. The aim of the Fund is to raise a sufficient sum of money for making a provision, by way of annuity, for aged and sick members, and also for the defraying of general expenses when such necessity may arise. All persons who practise the art of acting, dancing, or singing, as well as acting-managers, stage-managers, treasurers, scenic artists, and prompters, are eligible as members, after being engaged in such professions for three years, provided that their income does not exceed £250, and it can honestly be claimed for this Fund that it offers more advantageous terms than any other life insurance office. As an instance, let me quote the provision of an annuity of £120 for a member who has reached the age of sixty. If he joins the Association when he is twenty-five, he will only pay a quarterly sum of £2 2s. 4½d., against £4 6s. 5½d. charged by the life insurance offices; if he joins at thirty, he will pay £3 0s. 9d., against £5 2s. 10d.; at thirty-five he will pay £4 11s. 10½d., against £7 11s. 3½d.; at forty he will pay £7 19s., against £10 11s. It is worthy of note that a certain actress who only paid £138 in all received £2500, and many of our annuitants have left money to the Fund. Once more, as an illustration for the relief of the sick, the Fund offers better terms than the insurance companies, for any member of seven years' standing, on becoming incapacitated by accident or infirmity from exercising his or her duties, is entitled to receive such annuity for life as the annual available income of the Association can afford, such annuity, of course, being calculated according to the class of subscription which the member has paid. Now, gentlemen, when you consider the many advantages which our Fund offers to subscribers, you may be surprised to hear that in the large body of people connected with the stage, which number some thousands and embraces the leading man and the chorus lady, there are only eighty-seven regular subscribers. Why this should be I know not. It certainly is not the fault of our energetic secretary, Mr. Davies, nor of our hard-worked treasurer, Mr. Edward Terry, both of whom are always devising ways and means to extend the operations of the Fund; but there is the plain fact, and we have to face it. Last year's subscriptions only amounted to £730 odd, while we paid away over £2300 to annuitants, and, but for the generosity of friends who remember the Fund in their wills, our finances would be in a parlous state indeed. Heaven helps those who help themselves, and I am convinced that if the mass of those engaged in the theatrical profession could be brought to realise that, by giving a tithe of their salaries every quarter, they would be ensuring for themselves a pension in their old age, the subscription list would increase by leaps and bounds. In coming upon the Fund they ask for no charity, for no favour; they simply reap what they have sown. We appeal, too, to the prosperous members of our profession, whose lines have been cast in such pleasant places that they are never likely to require assistance from the Fund. In sending us a few golden pieces from their store, they will always have the satisfaction of feeling that they have brought some measure of comfort to their less-fortunate brothers and sisters. Gentlemen, it was said that every private in Napoleon's army carried a field-marshal's baton in his knapsack, and I believe that every actor aspires to play "lead" in a West-End theatre. It is not given to every soldier to command an army and win popular applause, but those unknown heroes who have broken their teeth on the camp bread in many a campaign have always had our sympathy; and the actor who, in a long and arduous career, has served faithfully in the ranks, adding his tiny lustre to increase the brightness of the star, deserves the consideration and appeals to the generosity of all who love the theatre when old age creeps upon him and he can play no more. Formerly we used to have an annual benefit for this Fund, but it has been discontinued, and we content ourselves with a dinner, which, in the first place, gives the chairman an opportunity of seeing his good friends, and, subsequently, enables us to increase the number of our annuitants. But it has long been felt in our profession that our various charitable funds should be self-supporting and housed under one roof, and that we should not be obliged to appeal to the public for their support. It may not, therefore, be out of place if I touch upon the proceedings of the Actors' Association, now under the presidency of our good friend Sir Squire Bancroft, to whom the stage owes so much—so very much—of its present position, and who is never weary of well-doing on behalf of his fellow-actors. About this time last year I was the humble instigator at a little informal meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association held at the Garrick Theatre, of a proposal that one evening every year should be set apart for theatrical charities. On that evening, to be called Actors' Day, every person connected with every theatre in the kingdom, from the manager to the call-boy, should give his or her services free, and the entire receipts of the performance, which would be just the ordinary performance of that night, should go towards the common fund. Gentlemen, that proposal has not been shelved; it is going through, and when the necessary arrangements have been made, we shall have such a sum of money that in a few years, maybe, we shall be able to dispense with all appeals to the public. Surely we can reasonably hope that the day is not far distant when we shall be able to grant our good-service pensioners a cosy cottage and a bit of garden—if not three acres and a cow! In the meantime, for a little while longer, we must take things as they are, and, if I am not mistaken, your presence here to-night is proof of your belief in the efficacy of the Royal General Theatrical Fund. I have the less hesitation in appealing to your generosity because you know how gladly the members of the theatrical profession respond to every call made in the name of charity. May I ask you to think only of the countless pleasurable hours you have spent in theatres—hours during which the petty cares of life have been dissipated by the make-believe of the players. May I ask you to remember that the life of the player is full of changes and chances, of failure as well as success; the race is not always to the swift nor the prize to the most deserving. William Ernest Henley, dramatist, critic of art and letters, and writer of some verse which the world will not willingly let die, reminds us in one of his ballads of the ups and downs of the player's career:

> "The curtain falls, the play is played—
> The beggar packs beside the beau;
> The monarch troops, and troops the maid;
> The thunder huddles with the snow.
> Where are the revellers high or low?
> The clashing swords? the lovers' call?
> The dancers gleaming row on row?
> Into the night go one and all."

Gentlemen, when the curtain falls for the last time on the player, the Royal General Theatrical Fund ensures him the comfort he so richly deserves in his old age. I ask you, therefore, to drink with full hearts and full glasses to its success and prosperity.

A BISHOP ON THE DRAMA.

The Right Rev. the BISHOP OF RIPON, in submitting the toast of "The Drama," said: Mr Chairman, my Lords and Gentlemen,—I think it will be within the recollection of some of you that a certain picture appeared in a popular journal some few months ago, or perhaps a year ago, in which there was depicted the inmate of a lunatic asylum, and when he was asked what he was he quietly informed the enquirer that he was a poached egg, and that he was looking for a bit of toast in order that he might be able to sit down. If I had been the inmate of that lunatic asylum and I had been speaking to you about our experiences to-night, I should have said, "I am a drop of water and I am looking for a sponge." You have all heard in the education controversy of the importance of atmosphere. I venture to think that you have had an illustration of it to-night. Now, I really must make apologies for commencing in that strain when I have a serious subject in hand, and I am rather afraid lest I should bring myself within the arm of the law in the person of your Chairman. But I am quite sure that Shylock will let me off, and will not demand the pound of flesh, and, certainly, as there is entrusted to me so interesting and so important a toast as the subject of the drama, I am quite persuaded that you will bear with me and forgive the imperfections of my acquaintance with the drama, and allow me at any rate to claim that I have this right to speak—that I have the greatest veneration for the drama of nearly all lands, and I will yield to none in what I may call the patriotic admiration which I have for the British drama. I venture rather to join issue with one dramatic critic who I think has remarked that it would be a small loss to England if all the plays since Sheridan and Goldsmith were swept away. I am inclined to think that that is taking rather a pessimistic view of the dramatic art of England. I do not for a moment suppose that we are anticipating, even in the twentieth century, the birth of a new Shakespeare, and I am not at all sure whether it would be an advantage to the world at large if we had another Shakespeare. We are quite content that in the possession of Shakespeare we have set before us a wonderful and marvellous ideal of workmanship, and it is a noble thing and an inspiring thing to every man engaging in this class of literature to know that he is writing in the language that Shakespeare wrote. But may I plead for one thing—that the drama should be treated as a serious art? It is quite true, as your Chairman has said, that Sir Henry Irving designated the dramatic art as the Cinderella of arts, but I am not sure whether Sir Henry Irving was not, at the time he gave expression to that definition, under the influence of that depressing atmosphere which I am told surrounds every artistic temperament. May I put before you the suggestion—which does not come from myself, but from one man pre-eminent in another art, the art of painting—which was given utterance to by Lord Leighton, in his address to the students of the Royal Academy, in regard to that oft-debated question of the relations of morals to art? He entered upon the discussion as to whether art for art's sake, apart from all moral purpose or end, was to be considered as a true dictum. In my judgment he gave an eminently judicious conclusion, but into that it is not my purpose to enter. In the course of his speech on the subject he pointed out this simple fact: That if you take what many people will describe as the very queen of arts, the art of music, you meet a representative interest. You must cheer your entertainment with music, and so every art, whether it be the painter's art, or the sculptor's art, or the poet's art, is obliged in its turn to ask for musical assistance, and therefore music holds a unique position in the circle of the arts. Lord Leighton pointed out that you might take every phase of music, and you would be obliged to ask at the end, "Has it been able to teach directly any moral truth?" And you would be bound to answer that it has not. There is nothing in the music which could convey direct moral teaching. He said that the simplest homily, if it only be sincere in spirit and lofty in tone, had more moral efficacy than all the works of the most pious painters and sculptors from Giotto and Michael Angelo, or from the passion music of Bach, because it was reserved for art which finds its expression in words to give direct moral teaching. I am not quite sure that every one of us who employs words for the inspiration and instruction of others must recognise that by the utterance of words we have the power at our command of directly appealing to the moral nature of man, and in that regard the dramatic art stands high. It has potency in it. It remains infallibly true that moral power resides in the hands of the man who has the capacity and the opportunity of using words. There is a resemblance between the profession of the actor and the profession of the clergyman in this respect: That too often each is regarded as a profession that is good enough for those who have failed elsewhere. Here lies the source of our popularity and of our weakness. We are believed to have our doors open to the derelicts of life. I would venture, in the interests of the dramatic calling, to say that that is an unworthy aspect on the part of the public. This profession should be treated with all seriousness, and if that is the case, may I point out that there is a way in which what I may call the moral force of the dramatic art and the moral force of the preacher's art run, generally speaking, in different lines. It is the duty of the preacher, I imagine, to speak straight to men. You, if I may venture to speak so familiarly, would resent it if I were to speak otherwise than directly concerning the moral questions, and the great spiritual aspirations and needs of human nature. That man forsakes the dignity of the duty of his office who does not deal directly with the moral questions which affect mankind. Now, the dramatic art does not approach moral questions in a direct method. I am inclined always to think that the novel with a purpose is not always a success. That is my own personal opinion. People say that the book ought not to smell too much of the lamp. I am sure that it is not wise that we should be treated too much to what is called the problem novel, because, after all, do we not ask, in these works that are given to us to relax the severer moods and moments of life for something that will amuse us and carry us on, something that shall help us along the road of life? It seems to me that the force of the spoken word, as far as the dramatic art is concerned, lies in the indirect method, and that method is the most powerful. If I understand rightly, the most indirect and the best method of stimulating and helping the moral forces of mankind is through the suggestions that arise out of delineated characters. Life is an education, and it is a test of character. The man who delineates character is always dealing with the moral forces if he deals with them truly, because he cannot touch them without touching those aspects and conditions which are continually bringing out the moral aspects which constitute the moral force of character. Professor Moulton, in his study of Shakespeare as a dramatic artist, points out that the critics have said what an inconsistent character, for instance, Lorenzo is. Lorenzo gives us that beautiful soliloquy in the moonlight. Yet Lorenzo is what Professor Moulton would describe as a light character. Well, Lorenzo may be dull as night and his affections dark as Erebus, but, as Professor Moulton points out, the value of the character lies in the fact that it is exactly a sort of character that you so often meet with, a gentleman who is so susceptible to the emotional side of life that for that very reason he is the man who looks upon the practical side of life as not having for him any solid interest. Well, we have escaped from the period of violent contrasts. We do not put a villain on the stage as scowling and black and badly dyed in character as the heroine is an angel without any fitful ebullitions of character, because we try to put men and women as they are. We try to see truth as it is. There is a demand for serious treatment of dramatic art, and it does seem to me that it would be a great gain to every profession, and not less to that important profession which is associated with the drama, if there could be a recognised definite method of such training as would teach people that it is a serious profession, that they might not go away with false dreams, and the lad and the lass, who, because they happened to learn the soliloquy of Hamlet at school as a task, must not feel that they can immediately tread the boards and beat Sir Henry Irving hollow. I do think that it is important for the public itself, as well as for the members of the dramatic profession, to recognise that the drama does demand serious consideration, and that it is not an occupation into which a man may jump unprepared; and just as we may protect the pulpit from the person who comes along with the happy gift of guilelessness, so you may desire to protect the dramatic profession from anything like the intrusion of those who might split the ears of the groundlings and break the hearts of the critics. I will ask you to drink to the toast of "The Drama," by which I suppose we mean to drink to the health of those who in any way have helped to keep the drama as a lofty profession in the eyes of man. I am not associating with the drama the pantomime or the evening amusement: I am proposing the toast of "The Drama," and that means the drama in its dignity, in its historic association, which we feel should always be present to the man who writes and the man who acts, and to the man also who hears; and, in proportion as one realises what the drama might be as an educational force in the nation, just in that proportion do I plead that all who are interested in it should regard it as being a serious and noble profession. I have to associate with this toast a very honoured name. It is the name of one who has occupied the leisure he has so well earned by putting his services and his talents at the disposal of the public; who has done much for charities by his own exertions, who has drawn back our thoughts to the name of Dickens, and has made us laugh and weep over the Christmas carol. I should lose caste if I were to speak otherwise of Sir Squire Bancroft, and it therefore needs no diplomacy on my part to commend this toast to your acceptance.

SIR SQUIRE BANCROFT'S REPLY.

SIR SQUIRE BANCROFT, in responding to the toast, said: My Lords and Gentlemen,—Never have I been so anxious to get behind a speech, to be divorced, as it were, from the poor words I have to offer in response to the eloquence to which we have just been treated. First, let me assure our Chairman of my most cordial sympathy with what he has said about Actors' Day, and I promise that no work shall be too hard for me to bring about the achievement of so desirable a project. Mr. Bourchier has reminded us that to-day is a revered anniversary, and on an occasion like the present it will not be out of place if I venture to remind you that it also chances to be the birthday of a brilliant author to whom lovers of the stage for five-and-twenty years have owed so much. And long may his house be in order! For, my lords and gentlemen, while such plays are so written, while such plays are so acted, we may stop our ears to the cuckoo cry which has haunted us from childhood that the drama is dead. No, gentlemen, the drama is undying, like the majestic creature that reigns for ever as its master; it is not for an age, but for all time. Thinking over what I should say this evening, I was, of course, reminded by the honour we were to enjoy of the Bishop of Ripon's presence. I, too, felt with his lordship that in a sense there is a resemblance between preaching and acting. Their chief exponents not only give the world inspiring sermons, but when they quit the pulpit or the stage finally, their charm, their animation become mere memories. The personality of John Knox or Martin Luther is but a mystery, and what more is left of David Garrick and Edmund Kean, or Sarah Siddons and Dora Jordan? Reynolds and Lawrence with others of their day have told us all they could about them, and, while we are grateful for their glorious gifts, we envy them the enduring renown which rests to-day upon the walls of our National Gallery, surrounded by the mighty works of immortal comrades, the last addition to their splendour being the much-discussed Velasquez masterpiece. Although the actor's fame may perish quickly, his living influence is supreme, taking its proper place among the arts which in their varied and sweetly-laden branches so nourish the world. There is a beautiful saying no doubt well-known to you, my lord, in the Mohammedan faith. It is that a man's true wealth hereafter is the good he has done in this world to his fellow-men. When he dies, people will ask, "What property has he left behind him?" But the angels will ask, "What good deeds has he sent before him?" My Lord Bishop, with the assurance of our great respect, in the name of this company, in the name of the drama which we all here love, we thank you for this great deed. We thank you for stretching out with your warmheartedness a kind hand to help those of the drama's followers who need our aid; and we thank you for this splendid link so generously afforded between Church and Stage.

The MARQUESS OF GRANBY, in proposing the toast of "The Chairman," said: My Lords and Gentlemen,—There is an old saying that a man is known by his friends. I have always had some considerable doubt in my mind as to the exact application of that saying. If a man is known by his friends, looking at it from one point of view, in what character is he known? Let me put it to you that way. And in what character would you like to know our host to-night? You have known him in a good many. I have known him, not to go back too far, in the guise of a bishop. Furthermore, to show that there was no ill-feeling on the subject of religion, I have known him more recently as Shylock. I think those two parts might be eminently brought in at the present juncture of political affairs, because, at any rate, upon one much-discussed matter the two characters would be able to join hands. That is upon the educational question. I do not think that our Chairman has in any respect gone in for any educational establishment such as Mr. Tree's, provided or non-provided. Our friend the Chairman has appeared in so many instances in various uniforms in so many branches of the British army that I almost hesitate to mention them, and I shall confine myself to saying that in this particular line he has generally appeared as rather a down-trodden officer who by sheer force of merit has invariably come to the top. That is a very satisfactory characteristic and a very satisfactory force of character to have obtained. His more recent characterisations have been somewhat in the guise, in the first instance, of the rough, true-hearted and extremely warm-hearted child of nature. He also has carried his point by sheer good humour and good temper Without going very far, I may say that our Chairman has delighted us on so many occasions in past years in so many distinctly varied representations that I think we all of us are very much indebted to him for the lightening of our lives by the excellence of his dramatic art. We are deeply indebted to him for his admirable portraits of various kinds of people on the stage. I think I would rather drink to our Chairman in that character which he is so admirably fitted to fill, namely, to our Chairman to-night. Mr. Bourchier, I drink to your health; and I can only wish to say one thing further—that your remarks in respect of this great Fund to which we have to render what assistance is possible in our power this evening, and your remarks on the insurance scheme have deeply touched me, who am an insurance director myself. I would point out that there is nobody, director of any insurance company or not, who has a more sincere and hearty good feeling towards the objects of this Fund than the humble individual who is now addressing you. I give you, with all the honours, the toast of our Chairman, Mr. Arthur Bourchier.

After the toast had been drunk with musical honours,

The CHAIRMAN, in acknowledging the compliment, said: I cannot thank Lord Granby sufficiently for the kind words in which he has proposed this toast. I am sure that in the many ambitious moments of my career I have never aspired to such honour as I have been paid to-night in being surrounded by such a distinguished assembly—distinguished in every sphere of life. The Bishop is almost the cause of my becoming a cousin derelict. I once had the honour of listening to his Bampton lectures at Oxford. That made me determined to go into the Church; but I could not pass. Had his lordship chosen this profession instead of his own I should have been very jealous indeed. I would like to take this opportunity of saying that I have just received a letter from Mr. Beerbohm Tree enclosing a cheque for ten guineas, and regretting that the production of Nero prevents his attendance here, and Mr. Alexander has written similarly.

MR. TERRY ON THE FUND.

MR. EDWARD TERRY, in replying to the toast of "The Fund," said: Mr. Chairman, my Lords, and Gentlemen,—It is now my duty, as honorary treasurer of the Fund, to thank you for the favours already received. But before proceeding with the little effort that I have to make, I should like to be permitted to take the liberty of thanking the Bishop of Ripon for his presence here this evening, and for the most eloquent and admirable speech that I think I have ever heard. I am sure had it not been in his mind that he was assisting a good cause we should not have had him here. I have discovered, as treasurer of the Fund, that one good point is that the recipients of our annuities never seem inclined to die. Some of our annuitants are ladies whose portraits I remember tinselling as a boy. I could not at first believe it was possible that these ladies were still in existence. Fortunately they are, and the Fund is certainly doing a great deal of good when it conduces to the longevity of our profession. But what we want is an influx of young members, and I am very pleased to say that there has been a notable improvement in this direction during the past year. As the old ones leave us, so we wish the young blood to come in. It is really a very admirable Fund, for we grant annuities to the extent of £115 each. Lots of once young folks in our profession have said, "Oh, we shall never want it!" Later on in life they regretted that they did not take advantage of the Fund. If they had done so, many of the cases that I see before me every Thursday at the Actors' Benevolent Fund would not be there, and it is only right that our young folks should look to the future, and not imagine that everything is going to be cosy in this very precarious profession. The public forget you very soon, and though we may remember the names mentioned to-night, the general public after about thirty or forty years of us get a bit tired, and want something fresh. We sustained a great loss in the death of our dear president, Sir Henry Irving, and it required a great deal of care and thought to find a successor. We did succeed in finding a very worthy one in the person of Sir Squire Bancroft. We are also fortunate in retaining all our friends. The firm of Rothschild has been very generous to us. They teach us to invest our money in the most marvellous fashion. I would like regretfully to say that we have lost a dear friend in the person of Mr. Silverthorne, who always had a good feeling towards this Fund. I now take pleasure in informing you that the total subscriptions this evening amount to no less a sum than £1000. I am sure you will join me in congratulating our chairman on the very happy result of his chairmanship this evening.

Mr. COMYNS CARR, in proposing "The Musical Artists," made a humorous speech, in which he said he considered that this toast was the toast of the evening. They had listened to some most charming music, and he asked them to drink heartily to the health of the artists who had entertained them so ably, coupling with the toast the name of Mr. Gantz.

Mr. WILHELM GANTZ, in responding, remarked that for thirty years he had had the pleasure of assisting at the musical entertainments at the dinners of the Royal General Theatrical Fund. He had never had the slightest difficulty in bringing forward the most distinguished artists, and on their behalf tendered thanks for the appreciation shown.

A high-class concert programme formed a delightful feature of the function. Mlle. Zelie de Lussan gave an exquisite rendering of "Habanera," from Carmen, and Somerville's "Kisses"; Mme. Alice Esty enchanted the company with her beautiful interpretation of the Jewel Song from Faust; while other clever artists whose efforts won high praise were Miss Florence Monteith, Mlle. Rosa Olitzka, Mr. Gregory Hast, and Mr. Charles Copeland, the Chevalier Wilhelm Ganz acting as conductor.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

Mme. Melba made her first appearance this season on Thursday, May 24, in Puccini's delightful opera, La Bohème. A large and fashionable audience, headed by His Majesty the King, and their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, filled every part of the theatre. The charming story of Henri Murger, so pathetic in its alternations of joy and sorrow, combined with such artistic and melodious music, would always make Puccini's work welcome, without the additional attraction of having Mme. Melba and Signor Caruso, two of the most brilliant operatic stars, in the cast. The part of Mimi has ever been a favourite with Mme. Melba, and the lovely music in the first act was sung by the great prima donna with all the purity and freshness this fine artist has for many years made opera-goers familiar with. Signor Caruso also was in fine voice, and gave the passionate solo and duet in this act with great intensity, wisely declining a strong attempt at an encore. Signor Scotti again made an excellent Marcello, and Mlle. Parkina a charming Musetta; while the other characters of Collini and Schannard were skilfully interpreted by M. Journet and M. Gilibert, Signor Rossi doubling the parts of Benoit and Alcindoro. The chorus was intelligent, and the scenic effects well up to the Covent Garden standard; while the orchestra, under Signor Campanini, gave a spirited performance of the clever score.

At Covent Garden on Tuesday night an extra performance of Die Walküre was given, Fräulein Ternina undertaking the part of Sieglinde for the first time for years. Fräulein Ternina's great capacity as an actress was manifest in many scenes of the drama, and even if her voice has lost some of its earlier strength, her artistic phrasing reveals all its former beauty, while her every gesture is significant. Herr Van Rooy was again an excellent Wotan, and Herr Knüpfer's Hunding deserves praise, while Herr Anthes' impersonation of Siegmund had many features of interest, although it is a pity the music of this part was not more frequently sung instead of declaimed. Brünnhilde was admirably undertaken by Frau Gadsky, and Frau Runt's Frica was a meritorious performance. The fine orchestra under Dr. Richter gave a splendid rendering of the elaborate score.

THE Life of St. Paul has been dramatised and produced at the theatre in Erfurt, under the patronage of the rulers of the Thuringian States. Infinite care has been bestowed on the decoration, scenery, and the dresses, and over 200 persons assist in the representation. The play, which is the work of Robert Falke, the well-known literary pastor, gives the leading scenes from the life of St. Paul, and the most gorgeous of its scenic effects are "Paul in Athens" and "The Rome of Nero" previous to the martyrdom.

"PETRONELLA; OR, A ROYAL ROMANCE," the new comic opera to be produced at the Great Queen-street Theatre to-night, by Mr. Harold Payne, is composed by W. T. Gliddon, the book being by Mr. Montague Turner, with additional lyrics by Miss Stafford M. Smith. The scene is laid in Spain at the period of the Carlist rebellion, and the action centres round the intrigues of a Spanish Don Juan, in which Queen Casilda is involved. The cast includes Miss Zoe Gilfillan, Miss Alma Allen, and Mr. Harold Payne. The comedy element will be chiefly sustained by Mr. Broughton Black and Miss Marie Ault, and "The Arosa" Troupe of Spanish dancers have been specially engaged. Mr. Howard Crispin is the business-manager.

"HIS HOUSE IN ORDER" is being played in Milan under the title of La Casa in Ordine. The piece has secured, at the Theatre Manzoni, as brilliant a success as that achieved in London, and the greatest praise is given to Mlle. Gramatica for an exquisite creation of the part of Nina.

FRITZ STAVENHAGEN, a German dramatist of much promise, has just died at the early age of twenty-nine. His plays, Der Lotse and Juergen Piepers, achieved considerable success on the Berlin stage, and he was a novelist of much merit. Herr Stavenhagen was a native of Hamburg.

THE BUSINESS OF THE STAGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—It is with great pleasure I notice in your last issue that you have dealt with the question of theatrical finance, as it would certainly appear necessary—bearing in mind the recent failures and frauds in the line which tend to kill the market—that champions should come forward to support a profession which (to use your own words) "is subject to the same laws as other businesses."

There is no business, trade, or profession workable without capital, and there can be no doubt whatever that, in every direction, your remark, "Syndicates, however, have their uses," is good, in fact, excellent, for syndicates, both private and public, have been for many years the basis of all the best concerns conceived in the London money markets. For instance, if I, as a worker, see a piece of land (which I know to contain diamonds, gold, or valuable mineral) going cheap, and my means will not permit me to purchase it, can it be asserted that I am acting wrongly if I approach richer people with the idea of forming a syndicate to purchase the land, to subsequently re-sell to a larger company at a fair profit? Such, it would appear, is the modus operandi of the worker in any business, and the argument applies to the theatrical manager whose mine is a play, the concert agent whose mine is a musical genius, the musical hall manager whose mine is novelty, and so on. Thus the whole argument resolves itself in one direction, namely, the partnership of capital and labour.

You cite the case of the late Mr. John Hollingshead, who "went into the Gaiety Theatre with £200, and in eighteen years had £120,000 out of it." This is only one of the hundreds of modern business schemes, and I may refer to the case of the late Mr. D'Oyly Carte, who was supported at the onset by several friends. These two gentlemen alone demonstrate the solid fact that real, practical hard work, combined with an affection for a specific occupation, never fail in their mission, and capitalists who discover the conscientious worker should invariably make it their duty to assist him forward, as "character" is the foundation of the world's commercial stability. It is a truism well worth noticing that the sound, practical man seldom requires large sums to commence operations—he is almost, without exception, the embodiment of economy. It is the sharks of the financial arena who slaughter the goose with the golden eggs, by their exorbitant demands and their ignorance of the smaller details which constitute the only firm footing of true enterprise.

In my letter headed "Theatrical Finance," and signed "Optimist," which you honoured me by publishing in your issue of April 14 last, I declared that theatrical business "is as stable, lucrative, solid, and firm as any other," and I defy anybody to prove otherwise, providing always that the said theatrical business is managed by a man who knows "the ropes." In support of my contention, I have drawn up, and now append, a list of those limited liability enterprises which enjoy the control and guidance of ripe experience. Let he who is sceptical of the entertainment money market compare this list with tea-shop companies, newspaper companies, sundry commercial undertakings, &c., &c., and I am confident his opinion will be changed towards a profession in which there is a lot of money to be made if the trick is diligently acquired. The public will always give cash for excellent value, and the experienced manager knows exactly what the public require, and acts accordingly, and is never rash in expenditure at the onset.

Can a person, with the slightest elementary knowledge, express unfavourable opinions on the entertainment market as an investment after a perusal of the above list? Can such a person calmly aver his money is safer in "Africans," "Australians," some new table water scheme, a provision merchant, or what not? Look at the steady Gaiety results! the Palace, the Oxford, Howard and Wyndham, Drury Lane! And all ye people connected with the entertainments professions put your money into similar enterprises. Look out for your managers of repute and character, and do not hesitate to back them.—Yours faithfully,

WAT. W. ESSPEA.

MISS WOOLGAR'S PENSION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Dear Sir,—In the letter which appeared under the above heading in your last issue, Mr. W. H. Cummings is mistaken in supposing Mr. George Alexander's statement to be "somewhat inaccurate."

Mrs. Alfred Mellon was not a member of the Covent Garden Fund, but has for years been a subscribing member of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, from which, since her retirement from the stage, she has drawn the annuity to which she is entitled.

I would like to take this opportunity of stating that the Fund is greatly indebted for its present prosperity to the energy and disinterested support it has for years received from both Mr. Alexander and Mr. Edward Terry.—Yours faithfully,

ALFRED B. TAPPING.

"WHICH AND WHY."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—In reading the report of Mr. Hannan's case, I observe Mr. Hannan stated that he had produced a play in Brighton a short time ago entitled Which and Why.

I presume a one-act play, written by himself—entitled Richard Wye, which I myself produced in Brighton a couple of years ago is the one referred to.

Yours faithfully,
NORMAN V. NORMAN.

"DEAR OLD CHARLEY."

A New Farce, in Three Acts, by Charles H. E. Brookfield, from the French of MM. Labiche and Delacour, Produced for the first time at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on Thursday, May 17.

Charley Ingleton ..... Mr. James Welch
Gabriel Peploe ..... Mr. Fred Lewis
Thomas Dumphie ..... Mr. John W. Deverell
Colonel Fishbourne ..... Mr. George F. Tully
Purkitt ..... Mr. Henry J. Forde
Agnes ..... Miss Estelle Winwood
Mrs. Fishbourne ..... Miss Helen Vicary
Reeves ..... Miss Ethel Hollingshead

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

If vociferous applause, loud laughter, and enthusiasm are any criterion of success, then it can safely be predicted that the new farce, Dear Old Charley, produced for the first time at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle, on Thursday night, will be assigned a foremost place in that category. Mr. Charles H. E. Brookfield, who is the author of this latest trifle, has supplied Mr. James Welch with a cleverly written farce, the dialogue being bright and witty, and throughout tends to the display of pure, unadulterated fun. It is always a difficult thing to minutely describe a work of this kind, complication following complication, but in a rough detail we find that Charles Ingleton has, added to the business qualifications of a stockbroker, the ability of not only making himself particularly fascinating to married ladies, but also of ingratiating himself to the extent of popularity with their husbands. Coming to the state of matrimony himself, he finds that these accomplishments, however pleasant they may have been in his days of bachelorhood, have laid the foundation of a vast amount of unforeseen trouble and complications. With the wives of the ingenious Gabriel Peploe and Thomas Dumphie, Charles was on such terms of intimacy as led to the writing of affectionate and compromising letters, and these were stored in a box, which he afterwards found difficult to retain. Mrs. Dumphie dies and Charles finds himself being continually troubled with the attentions of her melancholy husband. Mrs. Peploe does not die, and continues to make Charley's married life anything but pleasant by continuing the correspondence, and his misery is increased by the continuous presence of Peploe himself. Charles, in Peploe's opinion, is "one of the best," and acts as a sort of adviser-in-chief to the Peploe family, he having to engage the Peploe cooks and choose the Peploe wallpaper. The presence of the mother and father-in-law, Colonel and Mrs. Fishbourne, also tends to make the existence of the guilty Charles almost unbearable, but our hero is ultimately saved from his too-affectionate friends, by the plea of poverty.

The title-rôle, in the hands of Mr. James Welch, was the chief cause for the hilarity with which the house continually resounded. A prominent feature—a particularly droll rendering of a dramatic recital, convulsed the entire audience, and throughout his long and arduous part Mr. Welch never deviated from his purpose of creating merriment, and the applause that greeted the popular comedian at the end of each act was cordial and spontaneous in the extreme. Mr. Fred Lewis was an entirely effective impersonator of the sentimental Dumphie, and lent excellent support throughout. The Gabriel Peploe of Mr. John W. Deverell was an impersonation worthy of the highest praise; and Mr. George F. Tully more than justified his selection for the rôle of Colonel Fishbourne. Miss Estelle Winwood characterised the part of Mrs. Ingleton with much attractiveness and charm; and Miss Helen Vicary presented a good sketch of Mrs. Fishbourne. Others who participated in the success were Miss Ethel Hollingshead and Mr. Henry J. Ford, who both did justice to their respective parts. A particular word of praise may be accorded the dresses, which are admirable creations of the costumier's art.

NATIONAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

At Portman Rooms on Tuesday evening, May 22, the National College of Music gave a concert, at which Miss Bertha Bird, the Australian soprano, and other distinguished artists appeared. The warden, Dr. Tindall, A.T.C.L., made a few remarks before the concert began on the great need there was at the present day of a proper method of voice production. In the course of Dr. Tindall's short address he stated that the only true and perfect means of training the voice was the old Italian system. Miss Bertha Bird, who was assisted by Mr. T. Bennett-Griffin, Miss B Pearce, and Signor Louisè Bioletti, was first heard in David's couplets, "Du Mysoli" (from "La Perle due Brésil"), which gave Miss Bird a fine opportunity for displaying the wonderful compass of her voice, almost an octave above any other vocalist, and, unlike many light sopranos, giving no trace of falsetto, but a pure and bell-like tone to the very highest top note. Miss Bird was most ably supported by Mr. F. Bennett in the flute obbligato. Miss Bird was also heard in Verdi's cavatina, "Tacea la notte Placida" (from Il Trovatore), and a pretty song, "All for you," by Guy D'Hardelot, in which the fine resonant quality of the lower register of her voice was shown to great advantage. After singing "Spring," by Tosti, Miss Bird responded to a unanimous encore with "Annie Laurie." Mr. T. Bennett-Griffin, the fortunate possessor of a most musical and pleasing tenor voice, gave Blumenthal's "Evening Song" with good effect, and for the encore "Sally in Our Alley"; and Mr. F. Bennett also received a recall for a clever flute solo, "Chanson Suisse," of his own composition. Violin solos, "Andante Religioso," by Thomè, and Raff's charming "Cavatina," were given by Signor Louisè Bioletti, and two pianoforte solos by Miss B. Pearce. Mr. T. Bennett-Griffin later in the programme sang L. Kellie's "Love Nocturne," and joined Miss Bird in Chaminade's duet, "In Woodland Dell." After the concert an award of diplomas, certificates, prizes, and medals was handed to the successful candidates of the recent London examinations by Miss Bertha Bird and the Warden.

DEATH OF HENRY CRISP.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Henry Crisp, of Charley's Aunt fame, which took place at Westminster Hospital, on Saturday last, at the age of fifty-three. Mr. Crisp, it will be remembered, had the misfortune to lose the use of both his eyes. His sad affliction commenced in the January of 1904, when he began to suffer from inflammation of the left eye. After being an inpatient of the North Staffordshire Infirmary for six weeks he lost the sight of his left eye, which was removed and a glass one put in its place. For a time his vision with the remaining eye appeared to improve, and he resumed his part of Stephen Spettigue, in Charley's Aunt; but one morning, while appearing at Eastbourne, he found he could not see across the room. In the beginning of November a bed was obtained for Mr. Crisp in the Westminster Hospital. After five weeks he came out, though but in a small degree improved, and some weeks later visited the South London Ophthalmic Hospital, where he remained only a week. Mr. Crisp was totally blind after January, 1904, and, as the funds at his command were exceedingly limited, we invited the co-operation of the profession in an appeal on his behalf, the result being over £300.

Mr. Crisp had a most interesting stage career. He entered the ranks of the profession just after he had attained his majority, thirty-one years ago. After some useful experience gained in stock seasons at Norwich, Cambridge, Greenock, and elsewhere, as well as in a few trifling engagements, he joined Miss Jenny Lee's company in Jo, to play the part of Mr. Chadband, a character Mr. Crisp sustained for 1500 performances. After appearing with Mrs. Scott-Siddons for some time he became a member of Mrs. Langtry's company, playing with that lady for a couple of years in

MR. HENRY CRISP.

America, and for a similar period at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, the pieces produced being Pygmalion and Galatea, The Unequal Match, The Hunchback, She Stoops to Conquer, &c., in which Mr. Crisp played comedy and old men's parts. Later on he was for a couple of years with the Vaughan and Conway comedy company, who opened at the Haymarket Theatre, and toured through the provinces. When Mr. William Farren severed his connection with this enterprise, Mr. Crisp took his place. He then travelled with Mr. Beerbohm Tree's company in Captain Swift, enacting the rôle of Seabrooke. This was followed by three tours with Mr. E. S. Willard's Middleman, in which Mr. Crisp appeared as Chandler, and, in addition, attended to the stage-management. He was next seen with the Charles Dickens company, personating such characters as Micawber, John Browdie (Nicholas Nickleby), and Sampson Brass. On Feb. 29, 1892, he opened at Bury St. Edmunds with Mr. Penley in Charley's Aunt, and after that date he was with Mr. Penley nearly all the time, taking the part of Stephen Spettigue.

Presentation.—On Saturday last, on board the ss. Frederica, during the passage from Guernsey to Jersey, the members of Mr. Allan Wilkie's répertoire company, who are playing in the Channel Islands, presented Mr. George Lambton, one of the principal artists, with a handsome cigarette-case, holder, and matchbox, suitably inscribed. Mr. George T. Greig, the stage-manager of the company, made the presentation, and referred to the esteem in which Mr. Lambton was held by his fellow-artists, "not only as an actor, but as a man," a place he had held in the regard of his brother players ever since the days long gone by, when he supported the late Barry Sullivan. Mr. Lambton responded in a few well-chosen words.

It is Mr. William H. Brougham—not Broughton—who is engaged for the tour of A Prince of the People with Miss Emily Sheridan. Mr. F. Rawson Buckley is playing the leading part of Victor Lafond, and Mr. Douglas Munro has been engaged for the comedy rôle. The production is fixed for June 4, at the Empire Theatre, Oldham.

Miss Florence Smithers has been re-engaged by Mr. Edward Marris for her original part of Jane in The Dandy Doctor, and opens at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, on Whit Monday. She has just concluded a most successful engagement with Mr. Charles Carey's After the Ball company.

MATINEE BENEFIT AT THE CORONET.

A special matinée entertainment, organised by, and under the personal direction of Mr. Richard Mansell, in aid of the funds of the Seaside Convalescent Hospital, Seaford, Sussex, was given at the Coronet Theatre, Notting-hill Gate, on Thursday.

The long programme contained two new productions, the first being a Dream, in one act, by Lauderdale Maitland, entitled

"NEW YEAR'S LESSON."

Dick Graham ..... Mr. Joseph Millaine
Frank Hargreaves .. Mr. Lauderdale Maitland
Nellie ..... Miss Gertrude Valentine

Frank Hargreaves is a young artist who, instead of steadily following his profession, has got amongst bad company, to the grief and despair of his loving young wife, Nellie. He returns home one evening considerably the worse for drink, and falling sound asleep, has a bad dream. First of all he sees his old friend Dick Graham making a futile attempt to induce Nellie to leave her home and her husband. Then he himself enters the room, half drunk, and invites Graham to play game of cards. He at first refuses, but ultimately consents to play on one condition, that if he loses he hands over to Hargreaves his fortune of £60,000, but if he wins he takes Nellie and her child away from him. The men cut the cards three times, and Hargreaves is the loser. Graham, however, foregoes his claim on Frank solemnly promising to lead a new life. At this point the sleeper is awakened by his wife; Dick Graham, who has just returned from abroad, makes his appearance, and Frank is about to relate the curious dream he has had as the curtain descends. Mr. Joseph Millaine did well as the young painter; Mr. Lauderdale Maitland, the author of the piece, acted with earnestness as Frank Hargreaves; and Miss Gertrude Valentine played with feeling as Nellie.

The second novelty was a comedy in one act by Forbes Dawson, entitled

"HER GRACE."

Doctor Jack Carruthers .. Mr. William Calvert
Mrs. Ethel Carruthers ..... Miss Bashford
A Hunting Groom .... Mr. Howard Cochran
The Duchess D'Orray ..... Miss Kate Phillips

Dr. Carruthers is carrying on a not very prosperous practice at a small town in Leicestershire. The place is so healthy that his patients are few and far between. However, he and his wife, despite their genteel poverty, are very happy together; but the lady, given to day-dreaming, pictures what they would do if her husband became a fashionable physician in Harley-street. Then arrives upon the scene the Duchess D'Orray, in hunting costume; her horse having cast a shoe, she asks for shelter at the doctor's house. In Mrs. Carruthers she recognises an old schoolfellow. The Duchess has been left a wealthy widow, and does not quite know what to do with her money; so she invites her old schoolfellow to take a trip with her abroad, telling her husband that it will do his wife a lot of good. He reluctantly consents, and draws a cheque to cover the expenses; but finding that the couple are devoted to each other and that to part them even for a short time would be an act of cruelty, the Duchess acknowledges she has made a mistake, and offers instead to buy the doctor a practice in Harley-street. Mr. William Calvert was easy and natural as the country doctor; and Miss Bashford was pleasing as Mrs. Carruthers. Miss Kate Phillips gave a smart portrayal of the sporting, good-hearted Duchess, who smokes cigarettes; and Mr. Howard Cochran, as a hunting groom, completed the cast.

The one-act play, Time is Money, by Lady Bell and Arthur Cecil, was admirably acted by Mr. Charles Hawtrey as Charles Grahame, Miss Florence Sinclair as Mrs. Murray, and Miss Mona Harrison as the French maid Susan. In Mr. Charles Brookfield's comedietta The New Regimé, Mr. Frank Cooper and Miss Lottie Venne as the husband and wife who disagree, delighted the audience with their finished acting, and were most cordially received. So, too, was Miss Gertie Millar, who early in the afternoon gave her popular scena "Rotterdam," from the Spring Chicken, and also, to save a wait, sang "Little Mary" with her usual charm of manner. Miss Carrie Moore, accompanied by the Symmetrion Girls from the Apollo Theatre, sang "The Sandow Girl" and was recalled. Both Mr. George Robey and Chirgwin gave great delight to their hearers, the latter interpolating into one of his songs some happy lines commendatory of the Home. Mr. Robey appeared as the pro.'s ambitious dresser. Miss Winifred Hare, who sang "One little lonely star," was well received; Miss Sybil Arundale sang "The cinnamon tree"; Miss Margaret Cooper, "My heart's at your feet" and "Just her way"; Mr. Charles Capper gave a whistling solo; Miss Lily Elsie sang "On the stage"; Miss Mabel Love recited "The pride of Battery B"; and Miss Louie Pounds gave "The little Irish girl." Mr. Courtice Pounds sang "I'll sing thee songs of Araby" and "I'm Irish too"; Mr. G. H. Snazelle recited "The whistler" and sang "Drake's Dream"; Miss Topsy Sinden and Mr. Bert Sinden gave a song and dance; and Mr. Arthur Ricketts and Mr. Geo. W. Hooper also contributed. The musical directors were Messrs. Henry A. Harrison, Arthur Wood, and Jacques Greebe; Mr. Herbert Van Fleet and Mme. E. Hastings Warren acted as accompanists. The stage-managers were Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn and Mr. Charles Hargrave; and the acting-managers Messrs. Edward Lytton, Wynne Penwyn, and W. H. Griffiths.

SORE THROAT OR HOARSENESS
CURED IN A FEW HOURS.

Sir Morell Mackenzie, M.D., the Eminent Throat Specialist, constantly recommended Condy's Remedial Fluid to be diluted and used as a Gargle for speedily curing Sore Throat or Hoarseness.

Dr. Walford Harris, in his book entitled "The Throat and its Treatment," says: "I have found the 'Condy' and cold water gargle excellent, many cases being cured immediately."

The late Mr. Sims Reeves, the world-famed Tenor Vocalist, wrote: "'Condy' used as a Gargle clears the voice and braces up the uvula."

Condy's Remedial Fluid, sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. Caution.—Insist on having "Condy's."

ISACCHI.—In ever-loving memory of my beloved husband, Louis Francisco Isacchi, who died in Leipsic, May 26, 1903, of pneumonia and heart failure.

Can I forget, when winter snows lie deep
Above the place where you, my loved one, sleep,
And I no longer madly, wildly weep?
No! in my aching heart there ever lies
A place hid deep from mortal eyes,
Where dwells the love that never dies,
Nor can forget.

MAYHEW.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Henry Mayhew, who fell asleep May 26, 1900.
"To live in the hearts of those we love is not to die."

TAPPENDEN.—In ever loving memory of William Tappenden (father of Lizzie Melville), who died May 24, 1894. Gone, but not forgotten by his wife and daughter.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Almanac and Annual for 1906, is not only a valuable collection of information and a history of the dramatic and musical year. It is also a very amusing and entertaining shillingsworth It contains contributions from many well-known actors and actresses. Mr. Frank Desprez, the editor, contributes a delightful story about an actress who sold her collection of Press notices in order to help a colleague in distress. There are numerous portraits. The lists of English, French, and German plays produced during the year are very useful. Altogether, "The Era" Almanack is indispensable to all interested in the stage.—The Star, Jan. 24, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
The thirty-ninth issue of "The Era" Annual has just appeared, and once more it supplies a useful record of the theatrical year. An editorial note reminds us that among the contributors to the first number, that of 1868, were E. L. Blanchard (its editor), Charles Mathews, T. W. Robertson, Andrew Halliday, H. J. Byron, Watts Phillips, and Dion Boucicault—a brilliant band indeed. The contributors to the present issue are almost exclusively actors rather than literary men, but upon the whole they make a very fair show; while the lists of plays produced in London and the provinces, and in Paris and Berlin during the twelve months under review are distinctly useful. There are a number of photographs including an exceedingly fine one of the late Sir Henry Irving.—Pall Mall Gazette, Jan. 22.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual, 1906, is welcome as containing carefully compiled lists of the pieces produced during the past year in London, the suburbs, and the provinces, in Paris, and in Berlin. The rest of it is curious and entertaining reading. There is the almanack with its "memorabilia of theatrical events occurrences, &c." There are besides a score of stories and other articles contributed by theatricals a very good one being Miss Louie Freear's set of verses, "'Boy Bob' at Sea," which has humour, feeling, and swing. The book contains many theatrical portraits. As a book of reference the Annual is of great use and value, and while some of its contents doubtless appeal more keenly to the professional than to the outsider, any thoughtful person may derive from its study much amusement and no little insight into the conditions of the metropolitan, and the complexity of the English theatre of to-day.—Morning Post, Jan. 22.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT

ACTOR AND COMPOSER,
BY
ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).
Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.

MR. TREE AND COL. NEWCOME.

Everyone must sympathise with Mr. BEERBOHM TREE after the unwarrantable attack made upon him by a writer in a daily contemporary with reference to Mr. TREE'S production at His Majesty's Theatre, on Tuesday, of an adaptation of "The Newcomes." In colossal type, the author asked the absurd question, "Should Mr. TREE be allowed to play Colonel Newcome?" and then went on to deny the manager of His Majesty's Theatre the ability to play "any part owing nothing to adventitious aids and costume. THACKERAY'S bones," the assailant continued, "would almost burst their cerements at the news of the proposed production."

What is most objectionable in this article is the attempt to prejudge and injure in advance a performance of the merit of which it is impossible to form any previous opinion. It "puts into the heads" of the pit and gallery, on the first night, ideas which in all probability would never have entered spontaneously. With an exaggeration of reverence for the work of a dead novelist, it discourages and defames a living actor.

The penalty of success in any particular line of business is a strong presumption against achievement in any other department. In producing an adaptation of "The Newcomes" at His Majesty's, Mr. TREE is making one of his bold, but usually successful, experiments. As this "move" is in the direction of high and simple art, it should be encouraged in every way. The real difficulty is the presentation to the patrons of His Majesty's of a comedy of character and manners immediately after a spectacular tragedy in blank verse. But this eclecticism has always been Mr. TREE'S characteristic. By his excursions into IBSEN and into MAETERLINCK Mr. TREE has shown a desire to "break new ground" whenever possible, and to vary his successes in parts like Wilding and Svengali with more intellectual and eccentric impersonations. "The Newcomes" is a satire on society and a pathetic story of sentiment. Its essence is the triumph, in a certain phase of progress, of the modern commercial spirit over the ideals of the feudal system—personal courage, truth, and love. The former is embodied in Barnes Newcome, the mean and base, but able and unscrupulous, man of business, who comes into opposition with Colonel Newcome, with his old-world notions of honour, just as Clive Newcome, the artist and lover, is opposed in his passion for Ethel Newcome by Society as expressed in the character of the worldly-trained young woman, and embodied in the crafty and relentless Lady Kew. There is a genuine drama in "The Newcomes," and it only remains to be seen if the adapter of "Resurrection" has been as happy in his treatment of THACKERAY'S book as he was in TOLSTOY'S. There is certainly not in THACKERAY'S book any inherent obstacle to its being made into a good play, and the author, if he were alive, would be the last to object to his work being presented in dramatic form. He would be much more likely to "burst his cerements" after reading the article.

Colonel Newcome himself offers no particular difficulty to an experienced actor with a suitable physique. The character is the essence of simplicity. It is not a question of the study of complex emotions, or of a subtle and elaborate analysis before the actor can grasp the part. It cannot be made a "big" one—it belongs to the category of Mr. TREE'S triumphs as Triplet, the Abbé Dubois in A Village Priest, and the honest doctor in An Enemy of the People. But it is absurd to talk as if the character of the Colonel were one of those tremendously deep and difficult ones which cannot be properly presented on the stage. We cannot easily imagine a modern Iago, because the absence of soliloquy—tabooed by inexorable custom—would make the workings of the villain's mind incomprehensible. An individual like IBSEN'S Brand is too intellectual, too psychological for the brisk traffic of the boards. But it is absurd to make so much fuss about the embodiment of an elderly officer in the army in a drama of domestic life, and to talk as if there were something sacro-sanct about it, or the novel in which it is contained.

Still more presumptuous is it to assert that an actor of Mr. TREE'S calibre cannot adapt himself to the nature of such a rôle. For the most part, the personages of the drama are of the theatre, theatrical. Mr. TREE at his commencement took the stage as he found it. He had to learn his business, just as in other walks of art, IBSEN, WAGNER, and BALZAC learnt their respective trades—i.e., by doing tentative studies. Mr. TREE'S impeccable representations of rôles like Prince Malleotti in Forget-me-Not, of Baron Hartfeld in Jim the Penman, and of Svengali in Trilby, won for him the fame and position which have enabled him to try so many experiments. Many men would never have thought of trying them. Only an artist, with an artist's ambition and an artist's love of adventure, would have taken the risks which Mr. TREE has taken, and have been impelled to face the uncertainties and the opposition which are always met with by those who try to attain their own ideals instead of remaining satisfied with those of their admirers. It is the natural instinct of the artist to do the very highest work of which he is capable; and no one knows what that is until he tries. When Sir CHARLES WYNDHAM was the recognised exponent of "agreeable rattles" in English adaptations of Palais Royal farces at the Criterion, who would have imagined that he was capable of Captain Drew? When Mr. PINERO was doing—and doing admirably—his series of farces for the Court Theatre, how many people expected him to become the author of The Second Mrs. Tanqueray?

It may be argued that in this very article we are discussing in advance the merit of the piece which we are to witness on Tuesday evening. But we submit that we have only dealt with possibilities, and that we have dealt with them in an encouraging and not a discouraging spirit. The round of applause which greets an "old favourite" when he appears for the first time in the evening is surely excusable. It gives him confidence, heart, and spirit. We can hardly say the same of the premature detraction—the journalistic "boo"—which bears in every line the mark of prejudice, and shows an animus which it is difficult to account for by any supposition which is not disagreeable.

A SUCCESSFUL reading of The Tempest was given by members of the Belfast branch of the British Empire Shakespearean Society, at the Medical Institute, Belfast, on the 17th inst. Sir William Whitla, M.D., J.P., president of the society, presided. Miss Florence Smith's assumption of the rôle of Miranda was highly creditable; and not a little of the success of the reading was due to Mr. Sinclair Neill for his skilful interpretation of Prospero. Mr. R. A. Leighton was an amusing Stephano; and Miss May McTear's Ariel was a most agreeable feature of the performance. More than ordinary praise is due to Mr. S. Bulloch for his capital conception of Caliban. During the course of the piece songs were admirably rendered by Miss Annie C. Kemp, Mme. Dorothy Bagley, and Mr. C. D. Patterson.

"ABELARD AND HELOISE," a blank-verse play in five acts by Hélène Gingold, was produced for stage-right purposes at the new Lyric Opera House, Hammersmith, on Saturday. The work will shortly be published by Messrs. Greening and Co. His Majesty, the King of Greece has graciously accepted the dedication of the book.

THE report and balance-sheet of the Bath Theatre Royal Company, Limited, just issued, states that the gross income for the year was £621 16s., this sum including £4 16s. unclaimed dividends for the year 1902, which have been forfeited in accordance with the Articles of Association. The expenditure amounted to £459 2s. 8d., of which a sum of £23 was spent on No. 6, St. John's-place in structural repairs and in providing three new windows overlooking the space formerly occupied by the old gallery staircase, thereby giving light and air to rooms which previously only had small skylights. A balance remains of £236 18s. 5d., out of which the directors propose to pay £200, reducing a loan to £100, and to carry forward to next year's account £36 18s. 5d. The directors who retire by rotation are Messrs. Haddy, Mundy, and Stone, and they, being eligible for re-election, offer themselves accordingly. The general meeting of shareholders is fixed for the 30th inst.

MUSICAL masterpieces of all ages figured among the works performed since October last up to the 17th of this month by the municipal orchestra under the direction of Mr. Dan Godfrey at the Winter Gardens, Bournemouth. Beethoven was the composer most largely drawn upon; while Mendelssohn, Mozart, Dvorak, Brahms, and Bach also figured extensively in the list. Out of a total of 238 compositions performed, forty-one were by English composers, twenty-four of them being new. Sir A. Mackenzie, Mr. Edward German, Dr. F. Cowen, and Mr. Coleridge Taylor were among the composers who conducted their own works.

M. FRANCIS THOMÉ, the composer of the new ballet which is to be produced at the Alhambra, is of course well known in England. His "Simple Aveu" and other piano pieces, some of his songs, and his "Andante Religioso" for violin have become popular. Born in 1850, M. Thomé has written several ballets, operettas, a sacred work, entitled "L'Enfant Jesus," and other compositions.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, Thursday, May 24.—When, at the dress rehearsal of L'Etrange Aventure the curtain fell on the second act, all the critics looked at one another in astonishment and whispered the words: "The admirable Crichton!" For, curiously enough, M. Barrie's play is the only English work with which all the Paris critics are well acquainted, it having been produced here by Mr. Frohman's company a few years ago. After the first night the outcry grew louder, and M. Gleize was somewhat severely taken to task. To these attacks the French author replied that he certainly had seen The Admirable Crichton, but that at the time the English play was first produced in London, his own manuscript had already been for over six months in the hands of M. Samuel, manager of the Variétés. The latter has confirmed M. Gleize's statement, so that the affair, instead of having been cleared up, has now become more mysterious than ever. And, to make things still more lively, other authors, among whom are MM. Albin Valabrègue, and Georges Feydeau, announce to the world that they, too, have plays ready for production of which the plot is the same as that of M. Gleize's piece. In the work just given at the Odéon a number of Society idlers have started on a yachting tour. One of them, the pretty Mme. Auffroy, is flirting with Derbel, the bachelor of the party, but she has also noticed that Jacques, one of the sailors, a handsome youth, casts very admiring glances at her. A fearful storm breaks out, and a portion of the passengers are shipwrecked on a desert island. But for Jacques they all would have perished. He is their saviour, and they all obey him and recognise in him their master. And Mme. Auffroy is on the point of dropping in the handsome sailor's arms when a vessel turns up which takes them away from their island. Jacques again becomes an ordinary sailor, and Mme. Auffroy returns to Paris forgetting all about him. It is the identical plot of M. Barrie's play.

"CHAINE ANGLAISE,"
Comedy in Three Acts, by M. Oudinot, produced at the Vaudeville on May 23.

Thérèse Herbault	MLLE. GABRIELLE DORZIAT
Mrs. Davis	MLLE. CECILE CARON
Winnie Davis	MLLE. HENRIETTE HARLEY
Lord Brandon	M. LERAND

Eric Davis	M. ANDRE BRULE
Pfeiffer	M. BARON FILS
Fesseuse	M. MONTEAUX
Davis	M. JOFFRE
Gustios	M. VICTOR BOURCHIER

The author of Chaine Anglaise, an inexperienced writer, asked M. Abel Homant Hermant to give him the benefit of his able advice; and it is a pity the piece was not altogether written by this clever dramatist, whose touches are discernible in many of the scenes. In the first act we are in a fashionable hotel in Salso Maggiore, where we meet an extraordinary cosmopolitan crowd, among whom are the millionaire Lord Brandon, and the Davis family, composed of the father, the mother, and their son and daughter, Winnie and Eric. The most important personage, however, is Thérèse Herbault, a beautiful girl, the mistress of the Duc d'Azay. For some unexplained reason Mrs. Davis asks all these people to visit her on her return to England, and in the next tableau they are the guests in M. Davis's country house on the banks of the Thames. Gustios, the artist, paints Winnie's portrait; Fesseuse, the novelist, takes copious notes; the Duc d'Azay makes love to Winnie, and Lord Brandon, Davis senior, and his son Eric try their luck with the fascinating Thérèse. The latter, however, keeps them all at a respectful distance, so much so that young Eric jumps into the river to drown himself, but, being an expert swimmer reaches land again in safety. Davis senior then takes Thérèse roughly in his arms, and we do not know what might have occurred if this brutal scene had not been interrupted in a comical manner by the sudden arrival of a number of tourists come to visit the historic castle, open to visitors on certain days. And, to crown it all, Thérèse catches the Duc d'Azay in the act of kissing Winnie. Deeply hurt, Thérèse leaves the house, and accepts Lord Brandon's hospitality. The old nobleman asks her to become his wife, and whilst she is weighing the matter in her mind young Eric rushes into the room and throws himself at her feet. Thérèse loves the handsome youth, and feels tempted to give herself to him; but she sees the folly of it, and explains to him that she will be compelled to leave England, and that they will never meet again. But Eric throws his arms round her neck and says that he sees a way to arrange everything. "How?" asks Thérèse. "If you marry Lord Brandon," replies Eric. And this is the not very moral ending of the piece. It was fairly well acted. Mlle. Dorziat impersonated Thérèse in a very intelligent manner, without, however, imparting to it the required charm. M. Lérand supplied an amusing sketch of old Lord Brandon, and M. Brulé was excellent as the amorous Eric.

M. Antoine's appointment as director of the Odéon in succession to M. Ginisty has given general satisfaction. M. Ginisty clearly was not fitted for the post; and the decline of the Odéon became more apparent every day. M. Antoine, a revolutionist in questions concerning dramatic art, will no doubt surprise the world. He has brought with him some five-and-twenty works, with their scenery and costumes, acquired for the Théâtre Antoine, and which he intends to produce at the Odéon. Altogether, we will see a new order of things. M. Antoine's intimate friends, however, are somewhat surprised at the step he has taken. In the little theatre that bears his name he was absolute master. The undertaking was most profitable; in fact, a little goldmine, patronised by the best class of Parisians, and no playhouse could give a manager less trouble than this small theatre in the Boulevard de Strasbourg. Instead of this, M. Antoine will now have to take orders from the Director of Fine Arts. His responsibility will increase tenfold, and, from a financial point of view, it is not likely that for the present he has bettered himself. Why, then, did M. Antoine take this step? It either is a case of megalomania, or, possibly, he wanted to get even with M. Ginisty, whom he owed a grudge, since, after a violent quarrel, he and M. Ginisty parted company at the Odéon. Be it as it may, M. Gémier, the actor who succeeds M. Antoine, has come in for a good thing. He has but to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor to make the concern pay, and, as he himself is a splendid actor and a great favourite with the public, he stands a good chance to succeed. As to M. Ginisty, he has been appointed Inspector-General of Historic Monuments. M. Ginisty will find that position less exciting than that of the manager of the Odéon.

The Nouveau-Cirque has breathed its last. It was virtually dead when a Franco-Russian gentleman tried to restore the old circus to its former splendour. It will now be turned into a theatre, and an enterprising lady is already anxious to take over the management if she finds the necessary capital. Thus far, however, the money has not yet turned up.

THE Brothers Webb have been re-engaged for five weeks at the Winter Gardens, Blackpool.

"GREYSTEEL" AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

The Moody Manners Operatic Company deserve the thanks of all lovers of opera for the energy they display in their support of English opera. Money and talent of the highest kind are freely given for the purpose, and Mr. Manners is a real benefactor to native composers. During his recent campaign at Sheffield he produced on March 1st an opera the text of which was written by Mr. R. Gatty and the music by Mr. Nicholas Gatty, already well-known as a composer of popular songs. The cast at Sheffield included Miss Crichton and Messrs. Carter, Lachterop, Vincent, Neilson, and Mr. Harrison Frewin, a musician of ability, was the conductor. Greysteel has a subtitle, The Bearsarks come to Surnadale, and Mr. Gatty has evidently taken a hint from Wagner's Seigfried, for there is a magic sword which greatly affects the progress of the story. The Bearsarks, like the Vikings, are sea robbers who land on the coast of England (then defenceless), and carry off the cattle of the farmers, and sometimes their wives and daughters. The opera, which is in one long act, is based on Sir George Dasini's translation of the Icelandic Saga of Gisli the Soursop. The story relates how Ari, the owner of a farm at Surnadale, has a brother Gisli, who is secretly in love with Ingibjorga, Ari's wife. Bjorn, the Black, chief of the Bearsarks, arrives accompanied by his followers, and demands Ari's wife, but gives him the offer of an ordeal by combat, the survivor to possess the lady. Ari agrees, and his wife wishes him to take the magic sword Greysteel, made by her thrall Kol; but he refuses, and goes to fight the chief on an island set apart for such contests. While this is taking place, Gisli, Ari's brother, arrives, and after hearing the reason of his brother's absence, declares his love for Ingibjorga, who comes out of the house anxious to learn the result of the contest; sounds of fighting are heard, and Gisli rushes off. The curls presently appear bearing the dead body of Ari. Gisli swears to be revenged on the robber chief, and after some persuasion from Ari's wife consents to use Kol's magic sword. Bjorn arrives to claim his bride, but is challenged by Gisli; they fight, Bjorn falls mortally wounded, and the curtain descends as Kol is made a freeman amidst general rejoicing. The music, principally recitative, follows on strictly Wagnerian lines, consisting chiefly of themes and motifs that are worked out with considerable skill, such as the finale to the fourth scene, where the body of Ari, carried by attendants bearing torches, is brought on after the combat. Some of the love music between Gisli and Ingibjorga, although somewhat lengthy, is tuneful and imaginative, but Gisli's long soliloquy over the dead body of his brother certainly would bear curtailment. The chorus on the whole was most effective, showing that the opera had been most carefully rehearsed, and the orchestra rendered the score admirably under the able conductorship of Mr. Harrison Frewin. The one scene of the farmstead of Surnadale in North Macren and the stage management generally reflected the greatest credit on Mr. Charles Manners. The heaviest work of opera fell to the share of Miss Enriqueta Crichton, the soprano, who undertook the part of Ingibjorga, and aided by a fine voice she most ably sustained the character, her gestures and dramatic action generally being clever and convincing. Miss Crichton was well supported by Mr. Charles Carter in the tenor part of Gisli, who at times had an arduous task. The character of the truculent Bjorn was cleverly played and sung by Mr. George Neilson, who greatly distinguished himself in the realistic fight with Gisli in the last scene. The baritone part of Ari was vigorously performed by Mr. Hendrick Van Lachterop, and the part of Kol cleverly undertaken by Mr. Marshall Vincent. At the fall of the curtain the principals were heartily applauded, and there were also loud calls for the author.

ENGLISH COSTUME.

By DION CLAYTON CALTHROP. London: Adam and Charles Black.

All who take an interest in the manners, customs, and costume of our ancestors will find in this volume much information of an instructive and entertaining character. The author, Mr. Calthrop, has set himself the task of describing early English costume, the period covered being from the Conquest until the reign of Henry the Third. The book is fully illustrated, both by coloured pictures and small engravings, this important portion of the volume being also the work of the author. Mr. Calthrop has devoted himself entirely to civil costume, leaving others to deal with clothes which are but the symbols of various trades and professions. He writes: "I have taken the date of the Conquest as my starting-point, and from that date—a very simple period of clothes—I have followed the changes of the garments reign by reign, fold by fold, button by button, until we arrive quite smoothly at Beau Brummell, the inventor of modern clothes, the prophet of cleanliness. I have taken considerable pains to trace the influence of one garment upon its successor, to reduce the wardrobe for each reign down to its simplest cuts and folds, so that the reader may follow quite easily the passage of the coat from its birth to its ripe age, and by this means may not only know the clothes of one time, but the reasons for those garments. To the best of my knowledge such a thing has never been done before; most works on dress try to include the world, from Adam to Charles Dickens, lump a century into a page, and dismiss the ancient Egyptians in a couple of colour-plates."

Mr. Calthrop claims that the series of paintings contained in his work are "a valuable addition to English history," and the assertion which follows, that he has made an exhaustive study of his subject from his own point of view, is not likely to be disputed by any reader of this carefully-compiled volume. He continues: "Of course, I do not suggest that the ordinary cultured man should acquire the same amount of knowledge as a painter, or a writer of historical subjects, or an actor; but he should understand the clothes of his own people, and be able to visualise any date in which he may be interested."

The question of correct costume is one of decided importance to the actor and actress, and, should he or she be engaged to appear in a play in which the characters belong to a remote period of English history, a reference to Mr. Calthrop's book will give full information as to the costume of the time. The accompanying illustrations, both coloured and plain, display artistic merit of a high order, and most valuably supplement the lucid descriptions of the clothes worn by the Englishmen and Englishwomen of a by-gone age.

MISS MILLIE LEGARDE has this week accepted from Messrs. Harrington and Tate, author and composer of her successful "Nurseryettes" song, a new number, entitled "Forgetfulness," which she is producing immediately.

MME. MELBA has discovered a wonderful contralto, Miss Irene Ainsley, a young singer from New Zealand, in whom she has such faith that early in July she will give a concert to introduce the newcomer to the London public. Miss Ainsley, who is a thorough musician, has a rich voice, with a wide range, and very sympathetic in quality. For the last two years Mme. Melba has guided her studies, and predicts a great future for her young New Zealander.

MR. CHARLES WILLIAM KLOOF, of Kloof and Ramsey, was initiated into the mysteries of the Terriers' Association on Sunday, Terrier Spot performing the ceremony.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

MR. T. P. O'CONNOR, M.P., gave notice on Thursday night that on Monday next he would ask leave to bring in a Bill to deal with the question of copyright in music. The Bill will be a short one, consisting practically of only two clauses. It has been drawn up by eminent counsel, and after several drafts have been prepared, has been finally reduced to this brief form. It is believed that it will be an effective weapon against the villainy still possible to the music pirates. Mr. O'Connor has been already promised the assistance of Mr. Balfour, leader of the Opposition, Mr. John Redmond, leader of the Irish Party, and Sir Alfred Thomas, leader of the Welsh Party; and hopes to have the assistance of several other prominent Parliamentarians when the Bill is introduced. As the question of musical piracy seriously affects the interest of both the dramatic and music-hall professions, we feel sure that every member of these professions will wish Mr. O'Connor every success in his attempt to obtain effective legislation on a subject of such immense importance.

IN contradiction to certain reports that have been published, we may state on the most reliable authority that Mr. Harry Tate's sketch company opened at the Orpheum Theatre, San Francisco, on the Sunday before the earthquake, for a two weeks' engagement, and, of course, were there when the great earthquake took place. They lost everything they had—props, &c., and were walking about the streets all day, eventually escaping from the city at night, by going on the ferry-boat to Oaklands. They opened at Los Angeles the week after the earthquake, with Mr. Keith, of New York, whose tour they were on.

THE gaiety of the metropolis will be enhanced in a day or two by the arrival in town of Miss Vesta Victoria, she having sailed from New York on the 23rd inst. per s.s. Baltic for England. A cable on that date from a New York correspondent on the subject of a projected music-hall trust mentioned Miss Victoria's song "Waiting at the church" as being the hit of the season in that city.

A SMART advertising "notion," emanating from the brain of Mr. William Francis, acted in an eminently satisfactory manner in letting New Yorkers know who were the publishers of the famous song. Open envelopes—or what appeared to be such—were picked up on the side-walk, and on the portion of the note apparently protruding were printed the words, from the chorus, "Can't get away to marry you to-day. My wife won't let me.—Obadiah." Mr. William Francis bosses the printing department of Messrs. Francis and Day's American branch. Few songs have attained so great a popularity with our Transatlantic cousins as has this ditty, which is by Fred W. Leigh and Henry E. Pether.

LONDON managers are not inclined to devote any serious attention to the proposed American variety theatre trust, which is to "absorb or force an alliance with one of the principal English variety combinations." Mr. George Adney Payne says the thing is not feasible. He knows little of the American trust, and cares less. He has no faith in it. His views reflect the opinions of other London managers.

MR. J. L. GRAYDON, under date May 21, writes to us from the Middlesex as follows:—"I regret to repeat that the artists are conspicuous only by their absence at the meetings of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund. The sub-committee met very recently and fully discussed the question of effecting economies with regard to the administration of the fund, with the result that Mr. Marriott, the secretary, was good enough to suggest that he would do the work gratuitously from now until the end of the present financial year—about four months. By that time we shall be in a position to know the results of the matinée at the Palace Theatre, which is to take place at the end of June, and of the Sports that are now being organised. If these two functions are successful, I do not see why the Fund should not regain its former prosperity, and continue to do the good work that it has done in the past, in spite of the ill-feeling and dissatisfaction that have been expressed, and which have evidently been set afoot by those who know nothing whatever about the matter.

"THOSE gentlemen on the committee who constantly attend, and there are but few, should receive the thanks of the profession generally for the interest they have taken in order to keep the Fund afloat. The committee has resolved to take immediate steps for the recovery of outstanding loans, which, if you remember, I referred to in my speech at the dinner as being considerably over £1,000. If the greater portion of this money were repaid many more urgent cases for relief could be dealt with."

THE United Varieties Syndicate was registered on May 19 with a capital of £48,000. The object of the company is to acquire the leases of certain sites in High-road, Tottenham, and at the junction of High-street North and Burgess-road, East Ham; to adopt an agreement with G. Adney Payne, J. Davis, Henri Gros, and Henry Tozer, and to carry on the business of theatre and music-hall proprietors, &c. The gentlemen named are the first directors.

REHEARSALS at the Oxford have been long and exciting this week. The King of Sahara, due on Monday night, is the most important and elaborate production at the popular hall since Mr. Arthur Robert's skit on Nero. His Majesty of Sahara, who will be attended by a crowd of gaily dressed supers, and will make his appearance in effective stage settings, will be played by Mr. Edward Lewis, a comedian who has played a number of Mr. Willie Edouin's parts on tour. Mr. Ernest Leicester, a former leading man at the Surrey Theatre, will play the part of Lord Leenham; and others in the cast are Lulu Valli, Gladys Ward, and Lauri de Frece, who have all done excellent work in musical comedy. The music is by Mark Strong, and the lyrics are by W. Sullivan. The sketch is in three scenes, and in the second of these, Mr. Jack Donald will sing "Dreams" and "William Henry," by Harry Wellmon, the American song writer.

MISS BERTHA DUCKETT has now quite recovered from her recent illness, and has gone to Rhyl, North Wales, for change of air. She hopes to start work again in a couple of weeks.

THE Dickens Fellowship has been taking a keen interest in the work of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lucas. Several of the members went to see their performance at Balham last week, and sent Mrs. Lucas a lovely bouquet in appreciation of her careful and sincere impersonation of Nancy and Poor Jo. It is, perhaps, in a selection from "Martin Chuzzlewit" that Mr. Lucas and her husband are making their biggest hit, for it would be hard to find a wider contrast of character than there is between old Martin, Mercy Pecksniff, and Jonas Chuzzlewit. It is only two years since these two clever Dickensonians tried their luck, with such good results, on the variety stage. They sail for South Africa at the beginning of July, opening their tour in Johannesburg. Mr. and Mrs. Lucas will be accompanied by their little daughter, Edna May, who is to play Tiny Tim in selections from "A Christmas Carol."

MR. J. W. CRAGG, the veteran head of the popular Cragg troupe of acrobats, is very proud of the following communication to him on a postcard:—"Many thanks for your great kindness to me during our stay in the Tyne; I was very pleased with your entertainment. When I go back to Japan I shall be very pleased to send a postcard.—I am, yours respectfully, KISHIMOTO. On board his Imperial Japanese Majesty's ship Kashima." The performance witnessed by this young Jap officer was given at the Empire, Newcastle, early in the month.

THE Blackpool Hippodrome opens for the coming season on Monday. The inaugural bill will be the great American Living-Picture Show, the Britt-Nelson fight for the championship of the world. The film is the largest one known, being almost 6000ft. in length. The new management has made engagements with some of the principal artists in the kingdom, and Mr. T. P. Duignan, late of Belfast, expects a record season.

MR. DAN THOMAS has been unanimously elected a member of the Bellahouston Harriers. He was proposed by J. McGough, Scottish champion, and seconded by D. Copland. This club undoubtedly numbers amongst its members the cream of Scottish athletes, such as Stark, Kitson, and Anderson, who represented Great Britain at Athens.

MR. THOMAS ALLAN EDWARDES, of Derby, who for about two years has been the lessee of Stoke Hippodrome, has now become the owner. On Wednesday he completed the purchase of the theatre from Mr. D. H. Mountford, who originally built it. The figure at which this popular house of entertainment has changed hands is a considerable one, and the transaction is interesting as indicating the change in its fortunes. Mr. H. F. Miller, the businesslike manager, some time ago embarked upon a scheme of reorganisation which recognised the possibilities of the nimble sixpence, and since then the Hippodrome has enjoyed such prosperity as has warranted its purchase by Mr. Edwardes. His other ventures include the New Grand Theatre and the Palace of Varieties, Derby; the Palace, Attercliffe; and the Palace, Grimsby.

THE Stage Plays committee of the Sheffield City Council has again considered the question of permitting smoking at the Alexandra Theatre. Mr. W. D. Forsdike attended before the committee on Monday with a plan for the improvement of the gallery stairs, and, after considerable discussion, the committee decided to grant the licence to the Alexandra Theatre, without any prohibition as to smoking, on an undertaking being given that the alterations to the gallery stairs should be carried out forthwith.

MR. LEW LAKE was as cool as a cucumber last Sunday. While travelling from Aberdeen to Sheffield the truck carrying his scenery caught fire through a spark from the engine while near Preston. His "Bloomsbury Burglars" put the local (Central and Butler Street) fire brigades in the shade by uncoupling the truck, and saving all the props. and house-baggage. It is a question whether the local fire brigade knew anything about the happening until they saw it in the local paper. "The Burglars" worked the Empire, Sheffield, on Monday, as if nothing had happened. They fortunately were able to make use of a duplicate set of scenery.

MR. HERBERT SHELLEY scored an instantaneous success at the Bordesley Palace, Birmingham, on Monday in his new costume scena of 1787, entitled Dan the Outlaw. A feature of the production is some beautiful Irish music. A copyright performance of the scena, which is founded upon an episode in the reign of George the Third, was given at the Theatre Royal and Opera House, Bradford, on the 18th inst. Mr. Shelley, who plays no less than seven different characters, is well supported by Messrs. Percival Craig, James Stewart, Charles Lockwood, and Misses Ivy Dene and Rhoda Larkin.

DR. WALFORD BODIE, after a three weeks' rest in the far North, has now fully recovered from his recent severe indisposition, and will open on Monday next at the Hippodrome, Liverpool, for two weeks. After a short tour, he will start his annual Scotch season. He will leave Macduff on Saturday night for Aberdeen, journeying on Sunday to Liverpool.

MISS FLORRIE FORDE achieved an instantaneous success with Messrs. Harrington and Tate's new song, "The Curate Saw," at the Palace, Bath, where she also "scored" with the Monte Carlo Publishing Company's popular publication, "Any old place where the sun shines."

VERSATILITY is none too common on either the variety or dramatic stage. Therefore the turn of Mr. Rex Fox, who, by accounts to hand of his performance, has demonstrated in the provinces his right to be called "the one-man programme," should soon be heard of in London. If energy and ability count for anything he is bound shortly to make his way to the front.

MR. LAURI WYLIE writes to us from Wigan under date of the 24th inst. as follows:—"In your last issue you mention a picture which you allege is the first portrait of a lady on the variety stage exhibited in the Royal Academy. A portrait of my wife, Rosa Rosetti, 'The Musical Girl,' was exhibited there in 1902. It was by the well-known lady artist Miss Jessie Macgregor."

MR. CHAS. J. CAWOOD, late acting-manager of the Edinburgh Empire Palace Theatre, was the guest of the evening at a smoking concert held at the Carlton Hotel on Friday of last week. There was a large gathering of Mr. Cawood's friends, including many of the artists from the various theatres in the town. In the course of the evening Mr. and Mrs. Cawood's health was proposed by Convener Barton, who took the opportunity of presenting Mr. Cawood with a cheque for £75 from his well-wishers, and to Mrs. Cawood a brooch and bouquet of choice flowers. Mr. Cawood, in his reply spoke of the happy years which he had spent in Edinburgh, and of the many kindnesses which he had received both from the staff of the Empire Palace Theatre and from the general public.

A CAPITAL programme was carried through, selections being given by, amongst others, Mr. Harrison Brockbank, Mr. Arthur Stigant, Mr. Howard F. Crompton, and Miss Florence Parfrey, of The Girls of Utah company; Mr. Clifford Morgan and Mr. Peter D. Bermingham, of the Scottish Bluebells company; and by the Delevines, Harrison Brothers, and Mr. J. H. Cullen, Empire Palace Theatre. Mrs. Cawood also sang with much charm, and Mr. Cawood contributed a violin solo. Mr. Geo. Burnley, conductor of the Theatre Royal orchestra, and Mr. Davidson, of the Empire Palace Theatre, were efficient accompanists.

MME. FOUGÈRE, the café chantant artist, who was found guilty recently of stealing articles of clothing from the shop of Messrs. Lewis and Allenby, Regent-street, was again before Mr. Loveland-Loveland, K.C., on Wednesday. Mr. Loveland-Loveland decided to state a case on points raised by Mme. Fougère's counsel, and to again liberate the accused on bail until July. Mr. Richard Warner and Mr. Walter Gibbons offered themselves as security after several hours' delay, and the French soubrette left the court with her husband.

FOR Mr. Edward Swanborough a benefit matinée is being organised at the London Pavilion by Mr. Henri Gros and his co-directors of the Chelsea Palace, where the veteran manager is held in such high esteem. The latest report regarding the invalid is that he is slowly improving.

MR. JOSEPH WILSON, who returned too soon to his work at the Tivoli after a severe attack of influenza, has been spending the week in the delightful village of Chideock, near Bridport, Dorset, and is returning to the Strand house this evening.

MR. JESSE SPARROW was presented on Thursday evening, at the Granville, with a handsome salad-bowl and servers and a biscuit-box—all in dark oak and silver mounted—subscribed for by the staff of the hall. Mr. Robert Duce, who made the presentation, spoke in cordial terms of his old manager, and voiced the general regret felt at his resignation.

MR. HARRY MASTERS, who has been recuperating at Eastbourne, has entirely recovered from his severe illness, and will resume his duties with Mr. George Adney Payne on Monday.

AT the London Hippodrome on Monday will be exhibited for the first time in England The Three Olympiers, who will become living replicas of some of the most beautiful bronze groups by great masters. The idea of the representation is to show the public at large the world's famous art gems in as perfect a form as possible. These men are superb specimens of humanity, trained purely by a system of physical culture, and their nude bodies are, by a secret process, coated with a preparation of bronze. Some of their poses are of the most difficult character, there being "The Messenger of Victory from Marathon," after Max Kruse; "The Hercules Group"; "The Atlas Group," after Wenk; "The Quoit-Thrower," after the antique; and other equally classical and much admired groups.

OLYMPIA, at Christmas, will be the scene of a gigantic international fair and carnival. Whilst all the popular features of the old English fair will be retained, every effort will be made to make the undertaking of a cosmopolitan character, and travelled visitors will find much to remind them, not only of the Ginger Bread Fair in Paris, but the big shows of Coney Island—Luna Park and Dreamland. The stalls will be arranged to represent celebrated Continental thoroughfares and an American avenue. Other attractions will be a circus, with many up-to-date features, and a production of Mazeppa, a pantomime in the annexe, and a wrestling tournament in another part of the building. The gentlemen interested in the enterprise are well known on both sides of the Atlantic.

MR. JAMES WATSON WILKINSON, who has just joined the H. W. Wieland Agency, was for very many years connected with the late Westminster Aquarium. In 1888 he was appointed secretary to the company, and from that time until it was sold to the Methodist body, he held the licences for the establishment and was part of the management. With such an experience, embracing all kinds of public entertainment, he can scarcely fail to be an acquisition to the agency named. Mr. Wilkinson for three years was a member of the late Westminster Vestry, and for thirteen years a volunteer in the City of London Artillery, where, after acquiring the rank of sergeant-major, he accepted a commission in a Rifle Corps.

MR. GUS GARRICK was responsible for a smart piece of work last week. On Monday he received a wire from Mr. Harry Day at 4.30 at his address, Brixton. Mr. Day asked the comedian if he would open that night at Bristol for him. Garrick had to get his stage luggage from the Middlesex, which he succeeded in doing, and caught the 6.30 from Paddington. He was in ample time to take his turn at the Empire, and made a most gratifying hit.

WE regret to learn that Miss Wynnie Darrell, the talented wife of Mr. Geo. F. Slatter, of the Walthamstow Palace, and herself well known on the variety stage, is on the sick list, and on Monday last was obliged to undergo a surgical operation. According to latest accounts Miss Darrell not only came successfully through the trying ordeal, but is now making satisfactory progress.

MR. LOUIS BRADFIELD has been specially engaged by Mr. Oswald Stoll to play the part of Compère in the Coliseum Revue at the 6 to 8 p.m. performance daily, to the commère of Miss Godwynne Earle, who has understudied Miss Billie Burke. As at present Mr. Tom E. Murray and Miss Billie Burke will take these leading parts at the 3 to 5 p.m. and 9 to 11 p.m. houses. It will be interesting to watch the results obtained respectively by each set of leading characters, for Mr. Bradfield and Miss Earle have carte blanche to work their own business, and to introduce topical allusions. Needless to say that Mr. Tom E. Murray and Miss Billie Burke have taken full advantage already of the like permission.

MISS MARGARET ASHTON, who this week concludes a successful six weeks' engagement at the Oxford, has been singing the delightful "L'Ardita" waltz, which is greatly appreciated. While at the Canterbury the charming American cantatrice has been appearing in her delightful winter scene, besides introducing a tuneful melody in her new song, "Close Those Dreamy Eyes." The popular American lady, who for the second year in succession heads the list in the opening week of the Pelican competition, begins on Monday the Moss and Stoll tour at the Empire, Hackney. Later in the year she will fulfil her engagements at Leipzig and Vienna.

MR. "SIXPENNY POPS" SMITH is adding, during next week, three numbers to his already extensive catalogue of Mr. David Day's renowned series of cheap editions of his firm's musical copyrights, bringing the total up to 279. They are Mr. Tom Leo's "Too Lazy to Live," Mr. Whit Cunliffe's "It's a Different Girl Again," and the popular ditty known as "In the Parlour with the Lights Turned Low." Mr. J. W. Ellison's charming song, "The Sweetest Singer of All," by Charles Collins (who, in conjunction with Tom Mellor, was responsible for that great success, "I wouldn't leave my little wooden hut for you"), will be added to the "Sixpenny Pops" in the course of the next few days.

THE Monte Carlo Publishing Company has just accepted from Messrs. Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford two new songs, which they will issue at an early date, viz., a strikingly original march song, entitled "When the band played the ——" and a pretty idyllic number, the title of which will transpire in due course.

IT is a matter of the highest satisfaction to the Alhambra directorate that the public taste in ballet has reverted to the strictly classical, and the forthcoming artistic production at that house—now in full rehearsal, though still unnamed—will be of this nature. It has been written and arranged by Mr. Charles Wilson from a scenario by Mrs. Hay-Ritchie which tells a story of ancient Egypt. M. Francois Thomé will write the music, the dances have been composed by Signor Alfred Curti, and the costumes will be by Alias. The production will introduce two new dancers, Signorina Maria Bordin, ballerina of La Scala, Milan, and Signorina Enrica Varasi, ballerina of the Opera House, Vienna. The latter artist has recently achieved an enormous success as Svanilda in Délibes' ballet of "Coppelia" in New York.

MR. KARL KAPS, renowned in the world of dance music, was honoured on Wednesday with a letter from Kensington Palace, which read as follows:—"Miss Minnie Cochrane is desired to inform Mr. Karl Kaps that Princess Ena will have much pleasure in accepting the dedication of his valse, entitled 'Castile.' Mr. David Day has the waltz in the press.

THE springs of laughter have been touched to considerable purpose this week at the London, where Mr. Tom Craven, son of the late celebrated dramatist, is appearing in the new sketch The Lady in Red. He is responsible for a most original conception of the part of William, the man-servant in the household of the gay Mr. Johnson. The plot of the little piece, which deals with a storm in a domestic teacup, is of the scantiest kind, but Mr. Craven has materials for creating fun of which he makes the most, and his impersonation of the stolid valet, deliberate in speech, slow in movement, but decidedly comic in method, is effective in making the house constantly hilarious. Mr. Craven is excellently supported by the other members of the little company. Mr. Stephen Adeson realises completely the embarrassment of the resourceful husband, who imagines his wife's sister, dressed entirely in red, is no other than a lady similarly attired with whom he had a flirtation on the previous evening. A striking appearance is made by Miss Marie Shields in the part of Cora, the scarlet-clad lady; and Miss Nita Tomkins acts impressively as the fair but inexorable young wife.

MESSRS. BERT DELMAR AND GEORGE BURTON have just published with the Monte Carlo Publishing Company their tuneful number, "Zing! Zing! Zing!" which will be extensively "featured" by different pierrot troupes this season. The song will be included in the popular Berners-street firm's "Sixpenny Successes."

IT is now six years since Mr. Edwin Brett and Miss Emmeline Orford gave their first duologue on the music-hall stage, and they have been forging ahead ever since. Starting with a racing sketch called A Ten to One Chance, they did not find it necessary to alter their bill for several seasons, when the discussion on mixed bathing gave Mr. Brett—who is his own composer, author, and producer—an idea for a second little piece, to which he gave the name On the Quiet. Their present success, The Two Lovebirds, in which they are appearing at the Oxford will carry them through a forthcoming engagement of fourteen weeks with Moss' Empires, to be followed by another appearance in London, and a Stoll tour—the second this year. Miss Orford makes a point of her smart dresses, wearing a different one nearly every evening. On Monday she appeared in pale blue and fawn with bronze shoes, on Wednesday her frock was carnation pink, covered with tiny tucks and frills, and with a trellis-work design of cerise satin ribbon on the skirt and full little bodice. On Saturday she made yet another change, playing the lady lovebird in a white silk short dress, trimmed with écru lace.

MISS EMMELINE ORFORD has been on the stage nearly all her life. She is a Londoner, her home having been on the spot where the Apollo Theatre now stands, and she made her first appearance next door at the Lyric Theatre. The title-rôle in Mam'zelle Nitouche was, perhaps, the most important of her engagements on the regular stage, and she has also appeared at the Court, Terry's, the Duke of York's, and the Strand Theatres. Miss Orford makes a vivacious principal boy, having made a hit as Aladdin at Brixton last Christmas. That she started her varied professional career well equipped is shown by the fact that she studied elocution under Allen Beaumont and singing under Edwin Holland. Mr. Brett, who makes several lightning changes of make-up and costume in the ten minutes' sketch at the Oxford, is a comedian who has played such parts as Gentleman Joe and Orlando Dando.

MR. EDWIN E. GILES, late manager of the Battersea Empire, sued the Surrey Vaudeville Company (Limited) on Tuesday, in the City of London Court, for £83 as damages for wrongful dismissal. The plaintiff was engaged at a salary of £4 10s. a week, and was told he would have a benefit. After he had attended at the Surrey during one week to ascertain his duties, and had been introduced as manager, the defendants said they had changed their minds. It was not true that he was directed to attend on Sunday to take over his duties and the cash. Mr. Fred Baugh, defendants' managing-director, said the plaintiff was only a weekly servant, and the £9 paid into Court was for one week's salary in lieu of notice. He told the plaintiff to attend on Sunday; as he did not do so someone else was employed. Managers always had to work on that day, as the scenery, &c., came in, and arrangements must necessarily be made for starting the house on Monday. Judge Lumley Smith held that the plaintiff was only entitled to a week's notice, and found for him for £9. As this had been paid into Court with a denial of liability, the defendants must pay the costs of the issue.

THE 464th meeting of the committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association was held at the offices in Wellington-street on Tuesday, when the chair was occupied for the greater part of the proceedings by Mr. Fred Herbert, and, subsequently, by Mr. Charles Coborn. There were also present Messrs. R. Abel, who took his seat in the room of a member recently resigned, Harry Blake, A. Borelli, W. H. Clemart, Harry Freeman, Frank Gerald, Bob Leonard, Paul Martinetti, George Preston, and C. Douglas Stuart, secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and passed. Mr. Pat Carey, who had succeeded to the committee by virtue of being next in order at the last general meeting, attended, and intimated that he preferred not to serve. Mr. Fred Neiman, the next on the roll, was accordingly added to the executive. A letter was read from Mr. Harry Freeman, who had been asked by the committee to reconsider his resignation, saying that, as it had been tendered under a misapprehension, he would withdraw it. Two members, together with one assistant, who had ignored the committee's applications for refunds, were ordered to be dealt with under rule 39. The attendance of the committee was under discussion, and it was decided that the rule must be enforced without exception.

THE establishment of a branch office in Liverpool was suggested, and after various schemes had been outlined, the proposal was left over for further consideration. A member who attended before the committee on a question of the renewal of cards, preferred the complaint that an application made by him to the committee some considerable time ago, had been suppressed, and the secretary promised to bring up for examination correspondence showing that the matter was laid before the executive then in office, and dealt with in order. Correspondence involving cases of refunds and insurance was taken, and the financial statement for the week ending May 19 was read, showing an increase of membership by 38. The receipts for the week amounted to £39 1s., and the expenditure to £10 19s. 10d.

ROSARIO GUERRERO, the great Spanish dancer and pantomimist, returns to the Palace Theatre on Monday evening, opening with a little pantomime play which has never yet been seen in this country, entitled A Daughter of the Mountain. It is somewhat more ambitious as a production than anything she has done yet in the way of a sketch.

AL FRESCO artists who have not yet had Shapiro, Von Tilzer's budget of songs should write in at once, and thereby secure sure successes for the seaside.

WHEN Mr. Joe Elvin was ten years old, he made his first professional appearance at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, under Mrs. Nye Chart, in Hop o' My Thumb. Soon afterwards he was playing in the halls as a comic singer and clog-dancer. He undertook a small part in a sketch, and that led Mr. Crowder, of Crowder's Varieties, Greenwich, to suggest to his dad, the late Mr. Keegan, that father and son should have a farcical sketch written, in which they could appear regularly together. The advice was acted upon, and so began the career of a sketch company. Their first sketch was Old Trotter's Way, followed by The Two Smiths and Sport. A great hit was made with The Tinker's Holiday, with six extra members of the company; and similar successes were scored with A Dreadful Tragedy and The Clock.

THE sketch which placed Elvin at once in the front rank of comedians was The Hansom Cabby. From the very first this farce took hold of the public, and the "Cabby" soon won his way into their affections. Following on The Bookie, another screaming farce of a sporting turn, were the Oxford productions, Over the Sticks, On the Flat, The Wrong House, A Day's Sport, 'Appy 'Ampstead, and The Hidden Treasure.

"A DAY'S SPORT," to take an instance, was one of the biggest things in the way of productions ever put upon the stage. It employed hundreds of supers, and five principals, in addition to Elvin himself, who was of course the pivot on which the whole affair turned. He seldom left the stage for more than an instant, and was more than ordinarily successful in his impersonation of a gentleman who had laid a wager that he would engage in five different sports in five different counties on one and the same day. Among the sports indulged in were skittles, a game of cricket at Lord's, a motor-car drive, the finale being the Derby at Epsom, run by six thorough-breds. Joe has fought his way upward from small beginnings, from small parts and small sketches, till he has come to be recognised as one of the finest farcical comedians of the day. He is at the Stratford Empire next week.

DALTON'S Agency, which in the past has introduced many new turns, has placed Miss Ruby Dahl, with her human mannikins, with Mr. Oswald Stoll for thirty-four weeks, including a long engagement at the Hippodrome, London. This is a very novel act, and the enterprising firm, of which Mr. Will Dalton is the proprietor, has Miss Dahl already booked for a long Continental tour.

So great in Australia has been the success of and requests for the songs "Starlight," by Madden and Marse, and "Walking home with Angeline," by Totten Smith and J. C. Rundback, that Messrs. Allan and Co., of Melbourne, who act as Australian agents for Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter, have had to reproduce large editions to satisfy the demands of the trade at the Antipodes.

MR. CARTER LIVESEY and Miss Lilian Rosebery, with The Would-be Actors, are due at three halls next week, viz., Middlesex (a return within eight weeks), Canterbury, and Paragon, and are booked to return to the Palace in September and the London Pavilion at Christmas.

"THE PLAYERS," who, in these columns, recently received favourable comment on their dramatic sketch, Her Last Chance, will, on Monday, produce at the Richmond Theatre a new farcical sketch by George Unwin, entitled Touched Up! The cast consists of the Misses Violet Ellicott and Rose Temple (Mrs. John Donald) and Messrs. Lewis Sealey and Fred Conyers.

THE following is a specimen of what has been held to be "fair criticism" by an American court of law. The writer of the notice is giving his opinion on the performance of three sisters. He says:—"Nellie is an old jade of fifty summers, Jeanie a frisky filly of forty, and Maisie, the flower of the family, a capering monstrosity of thirty-five. Their long skinny arms, equipped with talons at the extremities, swung mechanically, and anon waved frantically at the suffering audience. The mouths of their rancid features opened like caverns, and sounds like the wailings of damned souls issued therefrom. They pranced around the stage with a motion that suggested a cross between the danse du ventre and fox-trot—strange creatures with painted faces and hideous mien."

MISS IDA GLADSTONE is now on board the splendid Cunard liner Carmania en route for New York, to fulfil a forty-three weeks' engagement in the States. She thanks Mr. Alfred Butt and pantomime managers for offers, and sends kind regards to friends.

THE contortionist is rarely found now in the programmes of variety halls, not because such an act is not attractive, but because those who practise it are few and far between. Serpentello, who is presenting his hair-raising interlude at the pretty Richmond Theatre this week, concludes a really marvellous performance by the dislocation of his neck. This unique demonstration evokes loud applause.

Princess Pauline, in dainty dresses and amusing song, has been delighting her hearers at the Richmond Theatre this week with a description of "Sunny Spain." Her elocution is decidedly good, and she dramatically conveys to the hearer something of the realism of a Spanish bull-fight, rounding off her success with a funny allusion to the garlic-loving propensities of the Spaniards.

AT the London meeting of the International Artists' Lodge on Sunday, May 20, at the Hotel Provence, there were present Brothers 1329, 1340, 1101, 487, 1377, 432, 1211, 403, 1356, 461, 1311, and one guest. A discussion took place on the powers of the English executive committee, during the course of which the president pointed out that the executive committee in London was in reality a sub-committee.

THE attention of the meeting was called to the fact that the name of a recently-convicted felon was being boldly featured on the bills of certain variety theatres. The meeting felt that this was discreditable to the profession, and appealed only to the low tastes of a certain section of the public. If people wanted to see such persons they should go to Madame Tussaud's. It was finally resolved "That this meeting is strongly of the opinion that it is contrary to the best interests and the good name of the music hall profession that a convicted felon should be boldly advertised as taking part in public entertainments." It was also agreed that this resolution be sent to all the leading daily, weekly, and professional papers.

THE president, while regretting that the members of the V.A.F. had not very frequently attended the I.A.L. meetings, took the occasion to comment on the difference in the rules for eligibility to the I.A.L. and V.A.F. It was pointed out that the I.A.L. did not admit minors as members, nor ladies to the meetings. Therefore, it was decided to write a letter to the V.A.F. expressing the pleasure the I.A.L. would always have in welcoming any members of the V.A.F., with the exception of ladies and minors.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

LONDON PAVILION.

Mr. Frank Glenister is presenting La Milo in a new series of classical poses this week, and that beautifully-formed girl with the forget-me-not blue eyes—who owns to a 26in. waist and is proud of it—is packing the house nightly. She mounts the pedestal first as the statue of Andromeda, who was saved from the snares of a sea-monster by the intrepid Perseus, and afterwards became a star. As Œnone, the nymph who became the wife of Paris, and committed suicide when she saw his dead body, the natural beauty of La Milo's perfect proportions is seen to the greatest advantage; and the charming poseuse succeeds in investing every statue with the modesty of nature. The late George Du Maurier declared in his novel "Trilby" that there was nothing so chaste as the nude, and this dictum receives emphatic confirmation every evening at the London Pavilion. Cruickshank, the clever lightning caricaturist, is varying his series of political portraits with rapid impressions of famous cricketers, and the lineaments of A. C. Maclaren, the famous Lancashire bat, and Lord Hawke, the popular Yorkshire captain, are greeted with loud applause. As a matter of course, the greatest enthusiasm is reserved for "Joe"—otherwise Mr. Chamberlain—who is represented with the familiar monocle and orchid.

Mlle. Renée is a newcomer to the Piccadilly circus house, and her refined turn as an instrumentalist should secure for her great popularity. She is very versatile, playing with a sweet and soft tone both on the coach-horn and bugle. She also is quite successful in a solo with variations on the piano, and other instruments of which she is mistress include the cornet and concertina. She has an attractive personality and a gracious style. Her accent betrays her American origin. From the States also come Wilbur Hill and Willette Whitaker, who are responsible for the singing of some taking negro melodies. The lady, Miss Whitaker, also plays the harp, accompanying her partner in a whistling solo, "Down by the Swanee River," and as a wind-up to a most successful interlude tells a story in song of an old Negro preacher, who besought his congregation to stand up and sing "Hallelujah!" The best and most artistic singing of the evening is contributed by Mr. Arthur Aldridge, a tenore robusto with a warm, impassioned style, a perfect intonation, and a power of voice which is never forced at the expense of sweetness. On the night to which we are now particularly alluding Mr. Aldridge sang "Nirvana," the popular song by Stephen Adams, and in response to an encore gave Airlie Dix's fine ballad "The Trumpeter."

Mr. Malcolm Scott, "the woman who knows," is much more than a mere patterer, though no one would wish to discount the amusing nature of his topical references or the cleverness of his satire. He is a comedian with a power of expression that will one day, we hope, be appreciated in a comedy part that will give him the requisite opportunities. Mr. Scott leaves us shortly, to find, we trust, appreciation for his humorous abilities in the land of gold—Transvaal. He will be much missed in London. Mr. George Mozart, who has been here for some months, has dropped his tea-girl skit, and is heard nightly in his amusing number, "Bertie, M.C.," in which his waltz with a gigantic partner is so funny. His interlude "Hats" has been wonderfully improved since we first heard it, and is heartily laughed at. Mr. Ambrose Thorne, in his singing of "The practical, tactical, nautical man," to the success of which we have already referred in these columns, has the aid of the Pavilion Girls, who present early in the evening a most attractive terpsichorean entertainment, in which our national games are prettily and gracefully suggested by dancing and posing.

An entertainment of a type that is rare is presented by Dome, the clay modeller, who presents a number of portraits in high relief which do credit to his artistic as well as to his comedy powers. Mr. Marriott Edgar, "the man in red," is a comedian with a style of his own. He copies no one, and his originality, exploited in really good songs, evokes loud applause. Mr. Jock Whiteford has been a favourite at this house from the time during the spring of last year that he journeyed "frae the North" to give a taste of his quality. It was found to be excellent, and he has now a drawer full of contracts. As a Scotch comedian he is hard to beat. Mr. Whit Cunliffe is a great success with "It's a different girl again," and also in a second number, wherein he rises superior to Nuttall, and gives new meanings to well-known words. Mr. Maynard Dakin is responsible for a wonderful medley; Miss Lilian Lowe is a sweet ballad-singer; and the Three Laurels are responsible for an acrobatic act that is as smart and intrepid as anything of its kind to be seen on the London boards. The show has also the saving grace of humour. Miss Alma Gray, the little Australian dancing girl; the Fitzroys, gymnasts; and the Jalvans, comedy jugglers, are also in the bill. Mr. Bond Sayers has an excellent orchestra; and Mr. William Cobbett makes a popular assistant-manager.

THE CANTERBURY.

The value of variety is thoroughly apparent in the current bill at the Canterbury, where a pleasant evening is assured by the judiciously-assorted company arranged under the direction of Mr. George Adney Payne, and presented in smart style by the general-manager, Mr. Fred Miller. Two sketches are contained in the bill, the first being that of The Battle of the Belles, which makes all for fun, and well succeeds in its purpose. The climax of the playlet is furnished by the travesty of a fight between two ladies, in which nails and teeth are used vigorously. There is a lack of gore in the struggle, but otherwise the realism is perfect, and arouses the greatest excitement. Messrs. Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholls' company exert themselves indefatigably throughout, the gentleman who plays the resourceful husband presenting a comedy impersonation of a decidedly novel character.

Pathos enters largely into the composition of the romantic episode, entitled Lulu, played by Miss Sylvia Cavalho and company. Miss Cavalho plays the part of an actress, who, like a similar heroine of the dramatic stage, gives herself up to a man of whose love she imagines she is the sole possessor. He is a theatrical manager, and Lulu, by her talents, wins him fame and fortune in the provinces, afterwards preventing a fiasco by taking up her part in London at an emergency. Between the acts she meets the wife of her idol, and learns that his love is only fleeting. She is on the point of throwing up her part, when an appeal is made for the employees of the theatre, who would be thrust out of work if the play was stopped, and for their sakes she goes on with the piece. Out of these materials some stirring situations are effected and admirably performed. Miss Cavalho plays with sustained power and real dramatic strength as Lulu, and the sentiment of the rôle is made very touching. The fascinating influence of Hector Montcalm is well exercised by Mr. Clifford Pembroke, who looks a handsome and dashing theatrical manager; a graceful and refined appearance is made by Miss Gertrude De Burgh, who speaks and acts with agreeable delicacy as the wife; Mr. Harry Carr plays well as the agitated stage-manager; and Miss Emma Chambers appears as Lulu's dresser.

The jovial James Fawn preserves his popularity in his song of "Girl," which he sings with added zest, and his recital of the sorrows of the "Henpecked Jossers' Club" is made to the accompaniment of continuous mirth. Mr. Gus Elen comes late in the programme, but finds a numerous contingent of admirers eager to welcome him. His song in which he offers an extraordinary solution of the unemployed question was his only offering on Monday night; but it served to keep his hearers thoroughly amused. Mr. Elen seldom, if ever, adopts the spoken word, but from the rising of the out-of-work navvy from his lowly cot to his lying down thereon, his actions are truly eloquent. The interval is filled in with irresistible comicality, his low obesiance to the diploma of the "Sons of Rest" which adorns the wall, his horror at the bare contemplation of a labourer at work, and his fatherly care of the beer-bottle, being silent but expressive evidences of feeling, at which the audience roars itself hoarse with laughter.

A specially hearty welcome is reserved for Miss Victoria Monks, who favours the house with another hearing of the popular "Give my regards to Leicester-square," the refrain of which is taken up vigorously. "Moving Day" affords Miss Monks an opportunity of appearing in her favourite rôle of a lady coon, who sings of the woes of removing. The scena is cleverly written and arranged, and is thoroughly well sustained by Miss Monks, who mournfully trills her lay as the procession of workmen take out the furniture, and finally lead the lady in tears from the empty house. Miss Hanid Alexander, a prepossessing young lady of many accomplishments, introduces herself as a maiden home from school, whose joy is overflowing. Subsequently she plays an elaborate arrangement of "Alice, where art thou?" at the piano, supplementing it with a recitation about two street arabs, in which pathos has a large part. Miss Alexander in a song of "Sister Cissy" proves herself a finished comedienne, and her dancing is also of the neatest and best. Miss Margaret Ashton exercises a fine voice to advantage in a lullaby addressed to a baby, and afterwards appears with charming vivacity as "The Winter Girl," who frolics amid a realistic snowstorm, which seems to have no ill-effect on her tuneful top-notes. Pete and Juno, coloured comedians, dance with wonderful precision and alertness; Clark and Hamilton win mirth by their comedy act; Miss Sylvia Du Barry, the South American soprano, selects a Toreador song from Carmen with which to charm the ear; and other items of the programme consist of Miss Lily Lena, comedienne; and A-Bo-Kou, juggler, and the latest pictures on Ruffell's Bioscope.

A novel competition, instituted by Mr. Gilbert Girard, aptly described as "the human harp," is a feature of the week's bill. Prizes are offered for the best amateur impersonation of Mr. Girard, the final being fixed for Friday last. The first competitors appeared on Monday, after Mr. Girard had submitted his clever imitations, and caused unlimited amusement.

THE GRANVILLE.

At the Walham Green Theatre of Varieties this week a good all-round programme is presented by Mr. Duce, tending to dispel dull care, and drive away fits of "the blues," which the unseasonable weather engenders. Chief among the purveyors of mirth is George Mozart, an alert comedian, who in his quaint, unforced humour, at times reminds one strongly of the late lamented King's jester, Dan Leno. His ditty, "Hats, any old hats," is a fitting vehicle for the exploitation of his lightning silhouettes of typical oddities, and very divertingly he portrays them. In his second song, "Bertie, the dandy M.C. of the old bob hop," he is immensely droll, and his "business" is excruciatingly funny. He gets valuable assistance from his fair and gigantic partner in the mazy waltz. Mr. Albert Whelan, the Australian entertainer, is a good all-round man, who also rejoices in the possession of a quiet, unobtrusive method. He does not think it necessary to put on his trousers the wrong way round, or bawl at his audience, in order to make them appreciate the joke. His whistling is artistic, he is a good raconteur and comic singer, as witness his ballad of "The clergyman hunter and the bear," and a quaint musical expositor. He gives a fine imitation of Chirgwin.

Spry and Austin submit a good turn, the lady of the duo being a very bright soubrette, with a taking way of singing, and some good songs, e.g., "Patsy O'Brannaghan's ball," and the duet in which they join forces, concerning "The girls of England" (to the tune of "Boys and girls, come out to play"), is a good example of its kind. Katie Marsh is a versatile and clever little lady who possesses considerable talent, and her little scena from East Lynne is very well done indeed; but she should avoid a parrot-like way of repeating her verses illustrative of her performance. Ernest D'Almaine, the tenor vocalist, sings two pleasing love songs in excellent voice, his selections being "When your love grows cold" and "My heart is yours, if your heart is mine," this latter a very sensible suggestion of give and take.

The Smythsons have a laughable sketch, known as Lucy Norman. It seems that Jack has been putting a bit on a horse, or, rather, a filly, of that name, and on the strength of his friend Brown's good opinion concerning its chance, he counts his chickens to the extent of ordering a suite of furniture and a new hat for his wife, on his prospective gains. His wife reads his ecstatic effusions concerning Lucy, and also intercepts a telegram saying that "Lucy doesn't go to-day," and, thinking it is a lady referred to, she gets mortally jealous. Hubby thinks he has lost his last fiver, till another wire comes to say that Brown has put it all on "The Weaver," which has romped home at 40 to 1 (Good man, Brown! Wish we knew him!), and all is joy and excitement as the curtain falls. The piece is well acted, especially by the exponent of Floppy.

Daisy Silcott is a lively and shapely comedienne, who has a good word to say for the men, and then tells us, in boy's costume, that she "wants to be a soldier." Anyhow, she enlists our sympathies and kind regards. Bennett and Martell are a pair of eccentric knockabouts, with amusing antics and patter to match. Maud Beaumont is a comely comedienne, with a robust voice and figure, who sings "Will you come back to Donegal?" (delighted, I'm sure) and "I've got a bungalow in Borneo." Trik and Triksie are a quaint and comical musical duo, Triksie being a good dancer, and Trik an excellent musician. Bert Brantford is funny in his songs, "I wouldn't mind taking his place" and "I didn't know what to say." Emma Don and company give a little scena illustrative of "Jack's return" from Australia, after having made the pieces, with song, "Telling the same old tale." Rezene and Robini are well-known and always appreciated as trapezists and eccentric knockabout comedians; Leotard Brothers do the "hat trick," or, rather, all sorts of tricks with hats, very adroitly; and Vernon's bioscope shows us "A wig chase," "Chasing a leg of mutton," and "Moose hunting in Canada."

THE BRITANNIA.

The Macnaghten management gain deserved success here by providing an entertainment that is equal in quality to that presented at any West End hall. This week's company is quite up to the usual high standard, and large audiences are the result. As in the earlier days of the old Britannia, melodrama holds premier position; and the Vaudeville Dramatic Company is presenting an elaborate production of The Lonely Man, a sketch written round an unrecorded episode in the life of the notorious Charles Peace. Mr. Herbert Pearson is seen to advantage as Francis Durham, M.P.; Mr. Ernest Wengfield ably sustains the character of James Chesterfield, a Liverpool detective; and great praise is due to Mr. Fred Lawrence (a stock comedian of the old Britannia days) who at a moment's notice undertook the character of Charles Peace. His powerful acting and excellent make up made him unrecognisable, though as recently as last Christmas in the successful pantomime here he renewed a memorable and agreeable acquaintance with his old admirers in Hoxton. Herman Krutz, a villain of a dangerous type, has an able representative in Mr. Weldon Atherstone; and the Misses Marguerite Trevosper and Helena Waldron give an excellent account of themselves as Edith Durham and the "Faded Lady" respectively. The scenery and effects are most attractive, the entire production being in the capable hands of Mr. Ernest Wengfield, who also officiates as stage-manager.

The Three Sisters Thurban present a successful musical speciality act consisting of selections on various instruments. It is seldom one has the pleasure to enjoy such a piece of genuine comedy as that presented by Terry and Lambert, whose character studies are purely works of art. Mr. Tom Terry makes good use of his vocal powers, and the facial expression of Miss Mabel Lambert is most apt. The favourite comedian, Mr. Harry Freeman, appears in some of his latest successes, including "That's him" and "I'm going again to-night," each number being well received. Miss Marie Blythe, a pleasing comedienne with a rich contralto voice, warbles pretty melodies to the immense satisfaction of an attentive audience; and Hanley and Hardon are an amusing pair of patter comedians, although their dialogue is somewhat "crusted." They nevertheless score with their smart dancing. After an absence of a few weeks we have a return visit of Miss Zeta Grey and company in their musical comedy sketch, The Lancashire Lass. Miss Grey is to be complimented on her artistic rendering of "Alice, where art thou?" Nelson and Francis, the comedy duo, appear in an amusing sketch On the Ra Ta, and Miss Millie Denham is a vivacious comedienne. Some good pictures are shown by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux, especially the earthquake at San Francisco. The destruction wrought by the late catastrophe is well realised in a series of pictures projected for the first time in this country. Mr. Carlo Hamlin leads his orchestra in some good selections, and the untiring efforts of Mr. James McCarthy, acting-manager, wins for him unbounded popularity.

SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE.

Mr. E. H. Dobson, the able manager of Mr. Stoll's establishment at Shepherd's Bush, can congratulate himself upon a continuance of that hearty support which in the early history of the house some people cast doubt upon. This week, for instance, he has had excellent audiences, attracted, of course, by an excellent programme. Little Tich, for whom a new title has been found, namely, "the Napoleon of the army of fun," is increasing the local store of merriment. As "one of the stay-at-home brigade," he is as comical a miniature "soldier" as one could imagine. It was in the thick of the fight, he tells us, and he was faced by fierce foes. "Did I shout for assistance? No! Did I run away? Yes!" And then we have him as a dainty little damsel in a white silk dress. The little damsel, it must be admitted, is not an altogether unsophisticated creature, for she understands what it means to "have been in the sun." At least, the condition of her sweetheart prompts her to apply the remark to him. Little Tich, in schoolgirl's attire, with a red flower on his feminine wig, is in himself something to laugh at; but his quaint antics and the manner in which he delivers his lines make the low comedy of the turn irresistibly absurd.

The Hebrew dialect frequently draws a laugh even when it is mimicked by the ordinary man in the street, but when it is given, accompanied by appropriate expressions and movements, by such accomplished comedians as Jordan and Harvey, the effect is simply ludicrous. And Jordan and Harvey, if they do not, indeed, belong to the chosen race, certainly seem to have studied that distinctive type of Jew one sees in the precincts of Middlesex-street. The conversation of these two artists keep one's risible faculties constantly at work while they hold the stage, and for an exceedingly mirth-provoking act Jordan and Harvey's business stands high. Tuneful medleys are always welcomed in the halls of dance and song, and the efforts of Fielding and Hull in this particular line are heartily appreciated. A charming and talented vocalist appears in the person of Miss Leah Arden, whose entire performance is most commendable. Miss Ella Retford also accounts for herself in a pleasing fashion. Her songs, "Borneo" and "Say, Mr. Johnson," are rendered in bright and merry style, and she is a sprightly dancer withal. As an entertaining comedian and speciality dancer, Mr. Steve M'Carthy proves exceedingly popular.

We can always be sure of a good "show" from Miss Marie Kendall, and her name adds distinction to any bill of fare. This week she is delighting her suburban admirers with a couple of ditties which certainly do, as the programme says, "get right there." Curiously enough, if we are correct in our assumption, the titles of her songs are somewhat similar, one being "Take them away," and the other, "Come away." Both are interpreted in Miss Kendall's merry and lively way, and both, it need hardly be said, are followed by boisterous applause. Johnson and Bert are, indeed, a queer couple. They are amusing, and they are astonishingly athletic. The catching of a hat while turning a somersault is an exhibition of agility, alertness, and precision; while a good deal of fun is made with the assistance of a property dog. In addition, we are treated to much humorous and original patter. Stave distinguishes himself as the "musical Kaffir," and furnishes some merry moments; and from the American Bioscope we have an admirable series of pictures, interesting and attractive in every detail.

THE CRAGGS

IN BIRMINGHAM.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Acrobatic performances are usually relegated to a secondary place in the modern music-hall entertainment, but the Craggs Family is a troupe of exceptional ability, and the leaders having had the enterprise to adapt their turn to the times are enabled to claim the premier position in the bill at Bordesley Palace. The "turn" has been elaborated into a sketch entitled Billy, the New Steward of the Channel Queen, which provides endless mirth, in addition to affording scope for some clever acrobatic feats.—Birmingham Daily Mail, May 22, 1906.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—This hall was packed last night. A grand programme has been arranged for the week. The Craggs Family are the chief attraction. This is one of the few professional families in which the old tradition that every member of the family must become an acrobat is faithfully observed. They appear in Billy, the New Steward of the Channel Queen, and while what they do is smart, it is also genuinely funny.—Birmingham Daily Post, Tuesday, May 22, 1906.

BORDESLEY PALACE. — The New Steward of the Channel Queen is Billy—and Billy is one of the Craggs, who crack the sides with laughing almost at the Bordesley Palace this week. The acrobatic foolery is most ludicrous, and, as a sort of by the way, very smart, and dexterous body flinging winds up the sketch.—Birmingham Gazette and Express, Tuesday, May 22, 1906.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—The Craggs provide a wealth of fun at the Bordesley Palace. They are clever entertainers, with a reputation which they fully sustain in their present show.—Birmingham Evening Despatch, Tuesday, May 22, 1905.

MR. EDITOR,—Sir,—With reference to Mr. Fred. Peake's sketch The Gambler, the part of Gordon Locksley is not played by Edith Carlyle, but by Yours faithfully, ELLIS D. CARLYLE.—Barnard's Palace, Woolwich.

MR. JESSE SPARROW'S BENEFIT.

An association of long standing was severed at the Camberwell Palace on Tuesday, when Mr. Jesse Sparrow took his farewell of the hall of which he has been the manager since its opening, close upon seven years ago. A crowded and enthusiastic house testified to the esteem in which Mr. Sparrow is held, and artists of the highest class attended in force to show their goodwill, by contributing to the programme, or by remaining in readiness to appear should time permit. At a convenient hour of the evening, when managers, agents, and people connected with the variety profession had found their way to Camberwell Green, the bioscope was turned on, and displayed a picture of the beneficiaire smiling and bowing to the audience, who responded with hearty cheers. The curtain was then raised, revealing Mr. Sparrow in the centre of a vast crowd of friends and admirers. Forth from this group stepped Mr. Harry Barnard, who said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I have a very pleasant duty to perform. I have to present our worthy manager, Mr. Jesse Sparrow, with a very handsome testimonial, in the form of a cheque subscribed to by managers, all agents in the profession, and artists, including the members of the Terriers' Association." This agreeable function completed, Mr. J. J. Fruin, said he had another pleasant duty to perform, that was to offer Mr. Sparrow a little present from the staff of that hall, with an expression of sincere regret that they were going to lose him. He had been their manager for six-and-a-half years, and had become popular with the whole of the staff, who expressed the belief that a better manager they could not find. The staff's present consisted of a pin, the letter "J," made up of pearls, while underneath was a small bird, composed of diamonds, aptly expressive of the beneficiaire's name.

Mr. Sparrow, who was warmly cheered, said in reply: "Ladies and gentlemen, friends all, I have made a few speeches from this stage, and have always found it very difficult to express my gratitude. To-night I find it all the more difficult, because I am not only tendering thanks, but saying farewell. During my stay here as manager I have striven my hardest, with sincerity and integrity, to promote the interests of the company whom I have served. Certain circumstances, however, have occurred to cause me to tender my resignation. The action is not forced upon me, but is a perfectly voluntary one on my part, and I leave with the good wishes of the directors, but my departure is not made without a tinge of regret. I tender my most hearty thanks to the subscribers to the testimonial which has been presented to me, and I shall always treasure the memory of this night in my heart. I also thank the staff for their very handsome present. My thanks are also due to the Terriers' Association, who have again honoured me by making me their president this year, for being present, and for the kindly and sympathetic sentiments expressed. Allow me now to introduce my successor, Mr. P. A. Lennon, who has served under me with credit at the Palace, Croydon. I know that you will accord him the same patronage as you have done me. In conclusion, I thank all connected with this testimonial, the band, staff, everybody. If I have forgotten anyone, believe me, it is not intentionally. All that I have in my heart to say, I feel I cannot find proper words to express. I thank you, one and all. God bless you!"

The programme, which attained enormous proportions, was contributed to by many popular artists. A hearty welcome was secured by Mr. Sam Mayo, who rendered one of his quaintest selections; Miss Victoria Monks left her mark on the house with "Moving Day," the chorus of which was constantly recurring throughout the evening; Mr. Gus Elen's latest character proved irresistibly comic; and Mr. George Robey made the house ring with mirth as "The Dresser." Late in the evening Mr. Harry Randall rewarded his expectant admirers with his song of "Mr. Tootles"; and Mr. Laurence Barclay followed quickly after, cutting a grotesque figure in "Trousers," or the lack of them. A pretty woodland scena, submitted by the Arcadians, a trio of pretty maidens and a youthful comedian, was greatly appreciated; Miss Constance Moxon fascinated all as a Bluecoat boy, with a whistling song; and Mr. Ernest Ball as the "Miser" acted with his customary power. Mr. Harry Ford was among the most effective mirth-provokers of the evening; and others who appeared included the Leotard Brothers, Miss Tandy, Miss Jane Clark, Sisters Caselli, Josh Izart, Dan Kennedy, Cyclo, Baby Atlas, Malcolm Scott, Charles Lemont, Tally-Ho Trio, Harry Conlin, Fred Earle, Flynne, Ern. Rees, Ethel Ra-Leslie, Tom Packer, the Two Bees, George Newburn, Kitty Raeburn, Tots Davis, Walter Tilbury, Spry and Austin, and the Fred Eustace sketch company in The Gay Parisienne.

The various sections of the variety profession were thoroughly represented, among those to be seen in the course of the evening being Messrs. Frank Allen, Nelson Francis, E. V. Page, G. E. S. Venner, E. E. Giles, W. Broadbridge, E. De Vere, Felice Napoli, Dave Cohen, Tom Pacey, Geo. Barclay, Fortune and Granville, E. Edelsten, Burroughs Smith, Tom Pavilio, Tom Claxton, G. Aplin, Geo. Pearson (of Pearson's Agency), Bentley, Frank Elliott, Laurie Cohen, Harry Lester, Chris. Davis, Frank Nilsen, and Gerald Burgess; while there was a formidable list of stewards, drawn principally from the Terriers' Association.

"LEFT."

A New and Original Sketch, by John Tresahar, Played for the first time at the Hippodrome, Margate, on Friday, May 18.

Howard Appleton .....MR. SIDNEY HOWARD
Vanderbilt C. B. Q. Blount ..MR. O. P. HEGGIE
Lancelot Baron de Marengo.MR. JOHN TRESAHAR.
Miss Sophinisca Appleton ..MISS DAISY THIMM
Janette .....MISS LILIAN ROGERS

In this amusing and up-to-date sketch, or farce, Appleton has, it is early made clear, inserted an advertisement for the disposal of his motor-car, and has used the initials "M. N." meaning "Motor Notes." His sister, a spinster of uncertain age and of far from attractive appearance, has advertised in the same paper under the initials, "M. N.," in her case the letters standing for "Matrimonial News." Replies have been received, and the prospective purchaser and the ardent wooer are both expected, the coming of each being known only to the recipient of the replies. The lover, in the person of the susceptible Baron, is the first to arrive, and is seen by the brother instead of the sister. Appleton's talk of "her" capabilities somewhat shocks the Baron, who imagines the description of her as "fast," the body being without blemish, the fact that she has had a good wash every day, that he can look her all over, and other such talk of the enthusiastic motorist, refers to his charmer. When the motor-purchaser, an American named Vanderbilt Blount, arrives, the nervous Sophinisca gets the maid, Janette, to temporarily take her place, thinking it is her would-be lover. The motor talk shocks Janette as much as it has astonished the Baron. In the end the Yankee purchaser agrees to buy the car, but the flighty Baron takes on with the maid, and when Appleton says he will take them all four for a spin, "What about me?" asks the ancient spinster. "Left!" is cried in chorus, and poor Sophinisca is disconsolate.

The little trifle is well played, Mr. John Tresahar doing excellently as the volatile Baron; Mr. Sidney Howard was good as Howard Appleton; and Mr. O. P. Heggie made the most of the part of Vanderbilt C. B. Q. Blount. Miss Daisy Thimm did capitally as Sophinisca Appleton, her make-up being wonderfully fantastic; and Miss Lilian Rogers was a pert and piquant Janette.

THE COLISEUM REVUE.

"One of the most beautiful and brilliant productions of which the London stage can boast," was the general verdict on the first production of the Coliseum Revue, and now that all the excellent people in the cast have been allowed a free hand in the introduction of amusing business and up-to-date gags, the attractions of Mr. Oswald Stoll's splendid spectacle have been much enhanced. To quote a line of one of Mr. Roland Carse's lyrics, "merriment and mirth abound." Mr. Tom E. Murray is now very much more at home in the rôle of compère of 1710—otherwise the friend of our youth, Robinson Crusoe, who re-visits the earth to accompany on a round of gaiety charming Miss Billie Burke—a more than sufficient excuse for his resuscitation. Though youthful and debonair, and not without an occasional touch of racy humour, Defoe's romantic figure has quite a spotless reputation, and on his tour of observation in London and Paris conducts himself with a propriety that is not even excelled by a German burgermeister. Mr. Murray has nothing much in the way of songs, but he indulges in a number of droll gags, which keep the house amused whenever he is on the stage, and is always accentuating the fun of any situation that is conceived in the lighter vein. Robinson leaves his "wooden hut" to see a lot of variety, and his endeavours to spice it with fun are quite successful. Miss Billie Burke, in a succession of lovely gowns, gives elegance, chic, and an alluring grace to the rôle of commère, and is quite at home in the part, to which she gives a welcome touch of comedy. A new importation since the first production is Mr. R. H. Douglass, who takes the part of La Marquise, the belle of Mayfair, in the scene of the lady socialists' meeting at Bethnal Green. Mr. Douglass gives way to gag, and raps out a succession of puns without a blush. The scene goes with immense spirit, animated as it is by the mischievous fun of Miss Nellie Bowman as the rude boy Herbert, and by the comic behaviour of Mr. Fred Zeitz as Biddy, Mr. Harry Gardner as Mickey, and Mr. W. Paulo as Swillington.

We have also some most welcome fun in the Zoo between Mr. Harry C. Lupino as the gorilla, and Mr. Harry Russon as a schoolboy, who rejoices in the fact that he has been locked in the Gardens. The scene is admirably worked up between the two comedians, who make a clever exit to the accompaniment of considerable applause. Mr. Arthur Conquest as the British bulldog, and Mr. George Lupino as the French poodle, extract a deal of amusing capital out of the canine entente cordiale; and the former gentleman is again seen to great advantage in his clever make-up and business as Coco Cocktail, a gigantic parrot at the Zoo. This is an exquisite scene, with its wonderful lady parrots on the perch.

Miss Annie Braddan as Miss Fashion and the Reine des Halles, give all the brightness demanded to those characters, and her impersonations are instinct with comedy. Miss Queenie Essex shares the success of the pretty number. "The Rose and the Pomegranate," with Mr. Henry J. Corner, who is seen in such widely-dissimilar parts as a coster and a French soldier, and always manages to score. Mlle. Mady has one of the most successful numbers in the piece, "Gondola Dreams," introduced into the delightful Earl's Court scene, and her fine voice does full justice to Mr. Walter Slaughter's pretty melody. Into the Frocadero scene, with its rocking girls and its theatrical supper party, Mr. George Lashwood introduces a song concerning "Gay Paree," that he sings with immense energy and vim. Signorina Galimberti dances in the true Italian style; the famous Price Troupe of Parisian pantomimists add to the fun and variety of the Earl's Court and the Paris scenes; and the trombone girls play with genuine enthusiasm. The Decorations of Nations (Scene VII.) is a prelude to the magnificent scene, The Jubilee of the Victoria Cross, which winds up a spectacle that should be enjoyed by everybody. Mr. Will Bishop in the stage, and Mr. Walter Slaughter in the musical, direction, are entitled to warm compliments for their excellent work in two such important departments.

ROYAL ALBERT.

This week's ordinary programme is, as usual, full of good things. There are the Sisters Cora, the sprightly dancers and talented vocalists. It is a very bright performance we get from them in "The ladies' soldiers' band," for in smart fashion they march about the stage and deport themselves as military folk should do. They have an attractive number, too, in their duet, "I want no other." Another pleasing and engaging comedienne comes along in the person of Miss Edith Manley, who gives evidence of no little versatility. We get a charming lyric from her in "Dear little Dora Daly," and then, as a violent contrast to that light and dainty theme, Miss Manley appears as a boxing-woman, who tells us that when she "dots" her husband with her right, the poor man requires no other intimation of wifely authority. The Francis Harrold company interest everybody with their artistic society sensation, entitled A Great Judge; and the Chandos have an exceedingly entertaining item in their eccentric musical act. Mr. Ryder Davis takes high place as an actor-vocalist and comedian; and Miss Eva Ward demonstrates to the satisfaction of the audience her abilities as a burlesque artist.

In Hector we have a remarkably clever wire-walker. What seems to be his most difficult and most daring feat in mid-air is his resting with one knee on the wire, and picking up a handkerchief with his teeth. Previous to his wire performance, however, he treats the house to a clever exhibition of hoop-rolling, and one wonders how he contrives to "induce" the wooden rings to return to him after he has sent them in one direction. Surely, the boomerang principle comes in here. Dale and Dale are extremely vivacious young ladies, who indulge in duets and clog dances. Extremely tuneful is their rendering of "Maisie, the belle of Tennessee," while their rag-time motions are executed in graceful and lively manner. Williams and Warden furnish any amount of fun with their comedy cross-talking, and they prove great favourites with the Canning Townites. Lytton and Bland offer an admirable comedy act in In Lesson, In Love. It deals with the love of a young music-hall artist for a sister artist. They have been aranging some sort of "turn" together, which they are to appear in the variety theatres. He wants her to marry him, but she says she has had offers from three noblemen, who are to call that day. The three "noblemen" do call—one a Scotsman, one a London Johnnie, and the third a German with an Irish name. In one case the lady refuses the offer of marriage, in the other two she herself declines. Then her own sweetheart returns to her in his ordinary garb—for he has been impersonating the three noblemen all along—and the girl accepts him, and they dance together. The little sketch is well acted. Walter Payne's Bio-Photoscope gives us some clear and well-defined impressions of what San Francisco looked like after the recent earthquake.

MASKELYNE AND DEVANT.

St. George's Hall admirably fulfils its place in the amusement world as the arcana of mystery, and offers very much greater advantages than the now defunct Egyptian Hall to that doyen of magicians, Mr. J. N. Maskelyne, in the presentation of his scientific and other problems. The current programme is judiciously varied, and is one of the strongest and most attractive of its kind that has been enjoyed by Londoners since they found their way, some thirty years ago, to the Home of Mystery in Piccadilly. The chief novelty presented on Monday was

"DR. HARDLY'S EXPERIMENT."

Dr. Hardly .....Mr. Charles Glenrose
James .....Mr. F. W. Arnold-Mussett
Giles .....Mr. Herbert Booth
Jubileena .....Miss Cassie Bruce

This new magical farce, the scene of which is the doctor's consulting-room, is an ingenious concoction written round what may be called the "decapitation trick." The Harley-street specialist to whom we are introduced has invented a rotary lancet. With this instrument he can cut off a limb so quickly that the patient is not aware of what has happened. A country bumpkin—an embodiment of bucolic fatuousness, who belongs to a "stiff-necked generation"—comes to be treated, and the doctor proceeds to operate on some of the neck muscles with his new lancet. Unfortunately an accident happens. The lancet slips, with the result that Giles's head becomes "detached." He is naturally much "cut up." So are the doctor's page-boy and parlour-maid, who have grounds for believing that they are partly responsible for the catastrophe, and their terror when they see the countryman's body separated from the head—which is still talking—causes roars of laughter. The little play, which of course ends happily for the whole of the dramatis personæ, serves to introduce one at least of Mr. Maskelyne's most wonderful specialities. It is amusingly presented by Mr. Charles Glenrose as Dr. Hardly, Mr. Herbert Booth as Giles, Mr. F. W. Arnold-Mussett as James, the page-boy, and versatile Miss Cassie Bruce as Jubileena, the parlour-maid.

Another novelty in the bill is "The Problem of Diogenes," for which Mr. David Devant is responsible. Mr. Devant's knowledge of Greek history is quite equal to telling us that the famous Cynic was once asked by Alexander if he could get into his tub when both ends were closed up with marked papyrus. Diogenes, who was banished from his native Sinope for coining false money, and was therefore the first "smasher" known to history, declared that he could. Mr. Devant is at the pains of showing us that the sage, who was probably a notorious liar, for once spoke the truth. Going among the audience, Mr. Devant procures two rough sketches—portraits—which he first draws boldly on two large sheets of paper. These he firmly secures at each end of the barrel by means of two missing hoops. He has no sooner done this than, by means of an electric light inserted through the bung-hole, we observe the shadow of the philosopher stroking his beard. Immediately afterwards, when he breaks through the fragile security of one of the doors of his temporary dwelling, we see an aged figure, who looks a cross between Father Time and King Lear in the storm scene. The mystery is exceedingly well presented, and Mr. Devant's remark on the selfishness of the old gentleman making his exit from the stage without even telling anybody how it is done is only one of his many humorous observations. Another new trick of his is called "The Homing Bells." Four silver bells disappear from Mr. Devant's hand, one after the other, and find their way invisibly to the ends of four pieces of coloured ribbon suspended in the centre of the stage. Members of the audience are allowed to choose, in each case, to which particular ribbon each bell shall become attached as soon as it leaves the "operator's" hand.

Mr. J. N. Maskelyne has a short interlude, in which he presents a new and extraordinary effect, entitled "The New Page." A youth of small stature is strapped tightly to an iron structure, which is placed in a hastily improvised receptacle, in which it is apparently impossible that he should move. A diminutive doll, which is a very small replica of the page, is then turned head downwards, and in this position is the page found when the cabinet is opened. How do these things happen?

Humour at the piano is a form of entertainment that had its greatest exemplar at the old St. George's Hall.

How doth the busy Corney Grain
Delight to satirise
The short, the slim, the stout, the plain,
With endless enterprise?

was written some years ago as an appreciation of one of the most genial entertainers of the nineteenth century. Mr. Barclay Gammon is not so good as Corney Grain—he would be the very first to admit it—but he is very good indeed. We are not quite in sympathy with his chawbacon, who is supposed to give a comic description of the performance of an oratorio—it is too far fetched; but his rapid patter upon things in general and nothing in particular is decidedly amusing, and he is positively great in his imitation of mixed melody, which is supposed to result from the joining together of scraps of pianola "records." Another excellent item is the skit on a Handelian chorus. Mr. Gammon is a decided acquisition to the St. George's Hall entertainment. So is Mr. John Warren, who not only exploits the Burmese gong—"a perpetual round of strange, mysterious change"—but does some capital tricks with coloured handkerchiefs and a cone, and likewise presents an amusing ventriloquial entertainment with his figure Marmaduke. Mr. C. Tamamoto is a graceful performer on a fixed rope, which he climbs with prehensile activity by means of his toes. Other very much appreciated items of the entertainment are Mr. David and Miss Dora Devant's experiments in mental magnetism, and The Mascot Moth, which finishes the series of wonders to be seen at St. George's Hall. Mr. E. A. Maskelyne, who plays the part of Max Hardy in this illusory sketch, is the courteous and attentive acting-manager. For a couple of hours' or so of light, refined, humorous, and agreeable entertainment we should recommend Londoners to place themselves in the care of Messrs. J. N. Maskelyne and David Devant at St. George's Hall.

We regret to announce that Mr. Kennedy Johnson, the energetic and popular assistant-manager at the Hackney Empire, who has been in failing health for some months past, has now completely broken down. He has been ordered change and rest. Mr. John Christie, who has indeed proved himself a veritable friend in need, has not left a stone unturned to secure for Mr. Johnson every little comfort during his illness.

CHAT WITH MR. ARTHUR CONQUEST.

(By our own commissioner.)

Mr. Arthur Conquest, who is at the Coliseum at the present moment, playing the parts of the parrot and the bulldog in the Revue, has practically devoted all his professional career to the study of animal characterisations. Mr. Conquest is the son of the late George Conquest, for many years associated with the Surrey Theatre, and who was the greatest animal impersonator of his day; so, as Miss Vesta Tilley would say, Mr. Arthur Conquest is following in his father's footsteps. Under the latter's management the subject of this interview played in eleven pantomimes at the Surrey, and, as a matter of fact, learned all his business at that establishment. For about five years Mr. Conquest has appeared annually in the Drury Lane pantomime. It is not often that an artist who has made a study of animal impersonations is called upon at pantomime time to undertake the principal comedian's part, but this is what happened in the case of Mr. Conquest during the run of Mr. Arthur Collins's production of Humpty Dumpty. Mr. Dan Leno was the the Queen in the pantomime, but being obliged to keep to his house through illness for a few nights, Mr. Conquest successfully undertook the great comedian's rôle, and was personally complimented by the management and by Mr. Leno.

"You, of course, Mr. Conquest, make a special study of the different animals you from time to time represent on the stage?"

"Certainly. In the past I have been a frequent visitor to the Zoo. Now, when I had been engaged to personate a wolf, I sat for two or three hours beforehand before the wolves' cage in Regent's Park."

"Is there one animal that more than another you prefer to represent on the stage?"

"Really, I don't think there is. The goose and the parrot, and the cat and monkey are all very much like one another, so far as the work of imitating them is concerned."

"But surely there must be one animal which you find most difficult of all to characterise?"

"Then it is the chimpanzee or the monkey. You see, it is not the easiest thing in the world to climb with the aid of one's bare feet up and down a rope or a pole. And that reminds me of an incident which happened at the Palace Theatre, Bath, last September. The Pygmies were giving receptions at the local Town Hall, and one Saturday night their manager, Mr. Hoffman, brought them to the Palace to witness my performance as a chimpanzee. Apparently they thought I was the real article as they had seen in wild in their own country, for it took Mr. Hoffman all his time to prevent them throwing their assegais at me." This speaks volumes for Mr. Conquest's impersonation, and he tells us that on this occasion the Pygmies would not leave the theatre until they had had an opportunity of seeing him as an ordinary man.

When Mr. Conquest is not appearing in pantomime he is to be seen on the halls in the sketch entitled The Sioux, in which he plays the part of a man-monkey. He is, by the way, engaged for next year's Drury Lane Christmas production. Talking about Drury Lane, he is reminded of a very pleasant and profitable engagement in America. After Humpty Dumpty was taken off the London stage, Mr. Conquest went with it to the States, where it ran for six months in New York, two months in Philadelphia, and a similar period in Boston. In America he introduced his celebrated star-trap scene. His record in this line—and it is, of course, the record—is the catching of a ring 17ft. 3in. above the stage after having been shot out of the star-trap and turned three complete pirouettes.

"Had any bad accidents?"

"I experienced a rather disagreeable one in America. One night, while performing the star-trap act, I came down on my back somewhat heavily, and was laid up for a week. Then once, at a Drury Lane rehearsal, I fell off the circle into the pit, and had a few ribs pushed in. I have to be very careful at the ordinary performances when running round the circle, because sometimes old ladies and children try to catch hold of me."

Is it easy to portray animals on the stage? Mr. Conquest assures us that, while it may seem so, the work requires a special gift, a great amount of study and practice, added to which it is necessary to keep oneself always physically "fit." It is interesting to learn that the animals' skins he wears are made on the same pricipal that a wig is made, every hair being put in singly and knotted. These make-ups, he considers, are a work of art; "but," he remarks, "no one who has not worn a mask of this sort can realise how very trying it is in the hot or even in the cold weather."

Mr. Conquest's hobby is yachting. He has a box on the Solent, where every year he spends a month or two with his wife and little daughter. From his boyhood he has been a keen follower of different kinds of sports, and has won a great number of prizes for running, jumping, and cycling. He holds the five-mile championship of the profession, given by the late Sir Henry Irving, as well as the one-mile championship prize—a massive silver punch bowl—presented by Mr. George Edwardes.

Mr. Harry Crocker, the popular stage-manager of the Liverpool Olympia, has been appointed stage-manager of the London Coliseum by Mr. Oswald Stoll. Mr. Crocker, although a young man, has had a very brilliant career, and was stage-manager at the Lyceum during the first part of Mr. Barrasford's proprietorship there.

It was Mr. C. J. M. Glaser, the chef d'orchestre of the Empire, who was responsible for the musical production of the beautiful ballet Coppélia at that house, and not Mr. Sydney Jones.

MR. ARTHUR J. BARCLAY.

Mr. Arthur J. Barclay was born at Alphington, Devon, and is the youngest son of the late Capt. George Keith Barclay. His first start in life was in the direction of art, as a pupil of the late Mr. Rimbault in his studio at Dane's Inn. He studied as a draughtsman and engraver, and was engaged for seven years on the Illustrated London News, the Art Journal, the Engineer, and Engineering, besides the works of Mr. Fairholt and others. The close application, however, began to tell, as he had often to work from eight in the morning until past midnight. So, after a severe illness Mr. Barclay had to seek more active employment. This being so, it is not strange he should turn to dramatic work, having taken part in it since the age of twelve as an amusement. During some years of touring town halls and piers he played hundreds of parts, the best being perhaps Pete in The Octoroon, Nathaniel Glover in Our Flat, the Softy, Rip, &c. His last appearance on the legitimate stage was with Mr. Robert Pateman's company, when Geo. R. Sims's City of Pleasure was produced at the Prince of Wales's, Birmingham.

Mr. Barclay then turned his attention to management, and had a successful engagement with Messrs. Keith Prowse and Co., the well-known Bond-street firm, and with one of the greatest showmen of modern times, Imre Kiralfy, at Earl's court, as superintendent of entertainments and sideshows at the Victorian Era Exhibition, 1897. In the following year he left the exhibition company and started in the variety world at the National Palace, Croydon. During his stay he was able to show a marked development in the returns. On the Granville Theatre of Varieties being opened he took over the management, which during over four years that he was there paid a steady dividend of 8½ per cent.

Mr. Barclay has taken considerable interest in Freemasonry in West London, being P.M. of the Kensington Lodge, and secretary and one of the founders of the Hammersmith. On his resignation of the latter post he was presented with a very handsome silver kettle as a slight acknowledgment of his sixteen years' services.

On leaving the Granville Mr. Barclay managed Mr. St. John Denton's pantomime at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, Cinderella, which opened Mr. Mulholland's successful enterprise. After a summer season as secretary to the Folkestone Pier management, Mr. Barclay joined Mr. G. Adney Payne on the opening of the Walthamstow Palace on Dec. 28, 1905. Although the people of Walthamstow looked rather with disfavour on the opening of a theatre of varieties in their midst, Mr. Barclay has scored another success, packed houses being the rule. Mr. Barclay's varied experiences have stood him in good stead at Walthamstow, and, although it is the last theatre added to the Varieties Consolidated, it has rapidly advanced to the front, and reflects great credit on all associated with the enterprise.

DAMAGES AT BELFAST.

As a consequence of the recent disturbance at the Palace, Belfast, an action was brought in the Belfast Recorder's Court on Friday, May 18, before his Honour Judge Fitzgibbon, by Messrs. Warden, Ltd., who claimed £20 compensation for damage done to the Palace Theatre of Varieties on Feb. 2 last, on the occasion of the visit of Mr. Ahrensmeyer, described as "The Cowboy Hypnotist."

Mr. Wm. M'Ildowie, who appeared for the claimants, said the damage was done when Ahrensmeyer, a hypnotist, was giving a performance, which excited a good deal of interest and curiosity. Between nine and eleven o'clock what was called the "second house" was going on. When Ahrensmeyer was giving his performance some sections of the audience, who were evidently organised, commenced to show their disapprobation to such an extent that they smashed some 260 electric globes, which were placed along the top of the balcony. They broke some ornamental elephants' heads, and did other damage, using belts and sticks for the purpose. The attack was such that the performance had to be stopped, and the police had to be sent for, fifty of them clearing the house.

Fred Wilby, stage-manager, gave evidence as to the rowdyism. For the hypnotic performance it was necessary that fourteen or fifteen people should leave the audience and go on to the stage. When these went on a further section of the audience, to the number of about forty or fifty, started to climb to the stage also. They were refused permission, and the remainder of the audience shouted, "Let them on," and "If they don't let you on kill him." (Laughter.) Then they broke the footlights, and the crowd on the gallery smashed the lights and ornaments.

Mr. Spiller (for the Corporation): Didn't the audience consider this man a fraud?—Well, I could not say.

Wasn't this attack on the hynotist and not as against the proprietors?—It was not against the proprietors.

Mr. F. W. Warden (managing-director), Mr. Conway, the Palace electrician; and Mr. Jansen, a scenic artist, were examined as to the extent of the damage and cost of the repair work.

Mr. Spiller said it was a question whether this was a malicious injury within the Act. There was no malice proved against Mr. Warden. It appeared there was a performance, pretending some kind of hypnotism.

Mr. M'Ildowie: You have no right to say that.

Mr. Spiller: Well, alleged hypnotism. I don't know anything about it myself, but some people thought it was all humbug, and made an attack on the performer. At all events, he (Mr. Spiller) contended that all the claimants were entitled to was the actual amount of damage.

His Honour granted £10 3s. 3d.

DEATH OF MR. J. B. ELLIOTT.

It is with deep regret that we have to announce the painfully sudden death of Mr. James B. Elliott, father of the well-known Elliott family of trick cyclists, who have also won a high artistic reputation as the Savonas, musicians. The deceased gentleman on Tuesday afternoon was standing on the landing-stage of the Tyne General Ferry Company at Jarrow, when he became very ill, and died in a few minutes. Dr. O'Neill was summoned, but when he arrived very shortly afterwards, Mr. Elliott was dead.

The family of the deceased gentleman were present, and were naturally very much distressed at the tragic occurrence. A stretcher was obtained, and the body was removed to the North-Eastern Hotel, where Mr. Elliott and his company were staying. They had opened with very great success on Monday at the Albert Hall, Jarrow.

Mr. J. B. Elliott had an active connection with the variety profession for over forty years, during which time his talents as an inventor were displayed in various directions. Born at Middlesbrough some sixty years ago, he became in the days of his youth a champion bicycle rider on the track. The "safety" was not then in vogue, and his feat of riding nearly one hundred miles a day for seven days on one of the old high machines was a triumph of strength and endurance. In 1882 Mr. Elliott caused a great sensation in Madrid by undertaking to ride a bicycle against a horse. The jockey made the animal gallop, thus infringing the rules of the contest, which the intrepid cyclist therefore won. He was victorious a few days later in a second race of a similar character.

The deceased gentleman used to tell the story of his making a small bicycle for his eldest son, and on this machine the rest of the family learned to ride. Indeed, they became so expert that the "pater" set to work and arranged a programme for them, at length feeling bold enough to seek an engagement at the old Alhambra. The late Mr. Charles Morton, then the manager of the Leicester-square house, referred Mr. Elliott to his brother, Mr. W. Morton, who was then manager of the Royal, Holborn, where the Elliott children fulfilled a month's engagement, and the late Mr. C. S. Crowder afterwards secured them for his variety house at Greenwich. Since then they have never looked back. They made a big reputation on the Continent with their cycling acts on a revolving-table.

Perhaps one of the most exciting periods in the history of the family was when the members of it formed part of the Greatest Show on Earth in Madison-square Garden, New York, and the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children had Messrs. Barnum, Bailey, Hutchinson, and Elliott arrested for refusing to discontinue the cycling performances in which the Elliott children were engaged. The case, of course, ended triumphantly for Mr. Elliott.

The world-wide success of the family in their famous musical act—in which they are known as the Savonas—was largely due to the creative genius of the deceased gentleman. It was he who invented the gigantic combined organ—a beautiful example of the pianoforte maker's craft both as to finish and musical effect. From the time Mr. Elliott handed the drawings to the makers to the time the instrument was completed a period of eighteen months elapsed. It was on Monday, November 27, last year, that Mr. Elliott scored a triumph at the Lyric Theatre, Liverpool, with his wonderful realisation of "The Palace of Orpheus," which justified its claim to be a veritable realisation of an "Arabian Night's" dream of beauty, colour, and effect. The electrical illumination alone was a triumph of taste and invention. Our correspondent, in his notice of this remarkable musical entertainment, said:—"Three of the performers (the Savonas) preside at the organs, and a volume of sound floods the whole of the auditorium. The rendering of the overture to 'William Tell' (Rossini) was accompanied by very impressive stage effects. As the selection progressed, the blaze of dazzling light gradually disappeared, the whistling of the wind, with peals of thunder, and vivid flashes of lightning, were introduced, and eventually these gave place to the twittering of birds as the darkness disappeared and the morning broke." Mr. Elliott was one of the most hard-working men in the profession or out of it, and he was rightly proud of the fact that the troupe whose fortunes he so tactfully guided consisted of members of his own family. To them we tender our sincere condolences in their irreparable loss. A kindly, genial soul, Mr. Elliott's death will cause widespread regret in a profession of which he was a conspicuous ornament.

Mr. H. Leslie Bell, who next week will be tieing A Bit of String at the Cambridge and Collins's, will shortly produce no less than three new vaudevilles, entitled Are You a Gentleman? The Understudy, and The Dream That Came True.

The Oxford directors report that up to April 30 last the net profit earned for the twelve months, after providing for interest on the debentures, amounts to the sum of £18,501 19s. 3d. In November last an interim dividend of £4 per cent. (less income-tax) was paid; and they now recommend the payment of a further dividend of £6 per cent. (less income-tax) for the half-year ended April 30, together with a bonus of 3s. per share (free of tax), equal to 13 per cent. for the year. After payment of this dividend and bonus the directors propose to deal with the surplus by applying £6,000 to the general reserve fund, making £40,000 to the credit thereof, and carrying the sum of £3,624 10s. 7d. to the current year's accounts. The fourteenth annual meeting of shareholders will be held at the hall on Tuesday next, at 2.30. Happy shareholders!

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

SYDNEY, April 10.—Paul Jones, with Miss Florence Young as the hero and Mr. George Lauri as Bouillabaise, will run until the 12th, and on Easter Eve Mr. J. C. Williamson will revive The Cingalee. The Little Michus is in full rehearsal.

"Lady Audley's Secret" will play out Mr. Wm. Anderson's season at the Royal, and on Easter Eve Mr. Bland Holt will begin his year's tenancy with Besieged in Port Arthur, a spectacular drama dealing with the late Russo-Japanese war.

West's pictures and the Brescians fill the Palace Theatre to overflowing every night, and Mr. Edwin Geach and Mr. West have arranged to show at both the theatre and the Town Hall in Easter week.

At the Tivoli Mr. Rickards has added Tambo and Tambo to his already overloaded bill of fare, which now includes Barnard's marionettes, the dancing Gilberts, Mlle. Nada Moret, Miss Alice Raymond, Mr. John Kurkamp, the Three Tees, and Harry Clark's Radium Girls.

Wirth's Circus has a great change of programme. The list includes the Gus Leon Family, the St. Leroy Sisters in an aerial act, Miss Phillipina in horseback somersaults, Miss Stella and Little May in a high wire turn, comical Gustave (clown), the Brothers Walhalla, and Gus Leon. Mr. Phil Wirth introduces seven well-trained horses in haut ecole; Professor Cormack does high diving; and the doings of the Flying Herberts, trapezists; Eric, a balancer; August, on the camels and goats, add attractiveness to a long and interesting show.

The annual theatrical carnival came off at the Sydney cricket-ground on the 7th. Twenty thousand people went, and £1,000 was raised for the fund.

SYDNEY, April 17.—Eastertide is in full swing in Sydney, every bed in every hotel and boarding-house having been booked weeks ahead. A plenteous season, in spite of droughts and disastrous bush fires, is just over, and the country folks come for amusement to the Commonwealth's metropolis. In spite of a large number of Good Friday celebrations in the churches and some chapels, and increased attendance thereat, there were 60,000 who attended jumping matches at the Royal Agricultural Show.

"The Cingalee" was revived at Her Majesty's on Easter Saturday, with Miss Florence Young as Lady Patricia. Another distinct success for her. Miss Margaret Thomas, Mr. George Lauri, Mr. Haigh Jackson, Mr. Claude Bantock, and Miss Rose Musgrove were all in their own respective parts cordially received. Mr. J. C. Williamson will revive The Orchid next, when it is hoped that Miss Clara Clifton will have recovered her voice.

Of Beauty and the Barge enjoyable performances have been given, Mr. Herbert Flemming, as Major Smedley, strengthening the cast, the Misses Emma Temple, Bessie Major, Winifred Fraser, Kate Gair, and Gordon Lee, keeping the fun going all the while. Mr. E. B. Payne is clever as Captain Barlow. To-night Mr. Herbert Flemming plays the Abbé in The Village Priest, Mrs. Brough being the Countess and Miss Beatrice Day the blind lady. Mr. Allan Hamilton has left the management, to look after his own ventures, and Mr. Claude H. Whaite is business-manager.

Mr. Bland Holt returned to the Theatre Royal on Saturday night, opening in Besieged in Port Arthur, a military play, by Arthur Shirley and Sutton Vane. The usually strong company had all the characters wisely distributed amongst Miss Frances Ross, Mrs. Bland Holt, Messrs. Walter Baker, Albert Norman, Arthur Styan, and Bland Holt, with satisfactory results. Incidents of the Russo-Jap war were depicted with startling completeness, the scenery being particularly fine.

The Tivoli saw the return, after ten years, of Mr. Slade Murray, who was warmly welcomed. The Two Bells and the Eight Primroses also came back to their old popularity. The Radium Dance, Miss Alice Raymond, Tambo and Tambo, Fanny Powers (the clever mimic), Mlle. Nada Moret, and Miss Florrie Henderson and her performing dogs are all in Mr. Rickards' plethoric bill.

West's Pictures and the Brescians, under Mr. Edwin Geach's direction, are filling both the Palace Theatre and the Town Hall, the latter catching "non-theatre-goers," as Mr. Geach tactfully puts it.

J. W. Winton, the ventriloquist, has organised a series of entertainments at the Centenary Hall, the assisting attractions being Miss Marie Dunoon, Mr. Leslie Forest, Mr. Howard Hall, and a series of biographic pictures.

The Hippodrome, so-called because no horses are employed, gives melodramatic plays in complete style at popular prices, the last being Coo-ee! or Wild Days in the Bush, written by the ex-Minister for Works, Mr. E. W. O'Sullivan, M.L.A. The play deals with bushranging, and all those incidents so dear to the Australian soul which hates police, law, and order.

THE LATE JOHN DEE HUMPHREYS.

The letter from Mr. Arthur Reeve, published in our columns recently, draws attention to the necessity for helping Mrs. Humphreys and her family. We strongly commend this most deserving case to the generosity of the showman world.

The many friends of the deceased, who was one of the founders of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, will, we are confident, now that they know the uregent necessity of the case, respond with readiness to this appeal.

During the whole course of a laborious and honourable career John Dee Humphreys was ever ready to assist his brother showmen. His open-handed generosity and unfailing kindness endeared him to a wide circle of friends and comrades in the circus and show world.

The object of the fund is to enable the widow and family to maintain their home until such time as the children are able to earn an income sufficient for that purpose.

Subscriptions sent to The Era to Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, hon. treasurer, will be acknowledged week by week.

Mr. A. Hubner, who has had a long experience of the business, has just become manager of the Palace, Bridlington. He introduced himself to a crowded audience on Monday evening, and briefly set out the various improvements he hopes to make for the comfort and pleasure of the patrons of the house. One of the great features will be the animated pictures, which will be illuminated by the electric light, a new installation having been put in. There are to be special matinées, and an amateur night once a week in order to exploit any new vocal talent, sentimental or humorous.

"The Era" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The usual weekly meeting of the London County Council was held on Tuesday at the County Hall, Spring Gardens.

NEW MEMBER.

To fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Timothy Davies, M.P., the Theatres and Music Halls Committee recommended that Mr. Edmonde Browne be appointed a member of the committee.

Agreed to.

INSPECTION.

In connection with the alterations made on Feb. 13 last in the arrangements for the inspection of theatres and other places of public entertainment, the Theatres Committee reported that they thought it desirable that the existing authorities for entering and inspecting licensed premises should be cancelled, and that new ones should be issued to the officers engaged upon the work. At the present time forty officers are provided with authorities, but in view of the arrangements which have been made for co-ordinating the work of inspection, it will be possible to reduce this number to thirty. The form of authority now in use was approved on June 4, 1889; but the committee were of opinion that this might conveniently be condensed, and it is proposed that the new authorities shall be in the form, which, with certain slight modifications, has been suggested by the solicitor.

Approved.

FIRE-RESISTING SCENERY.

With reference to this subject, the Theatres Committee presented the following important report:—

"The Council on March 1, 1904, included in the rules to be observed by licensees of premises licensed by the Council for public entertainments, one requiring that 'All scenery, wings, sky borders, cloths, draperies, gauze cloths, floral decorations, properties, hangings, curtains, &c., whether on the stage, in the auditorium, or in other parts of the premises, must be rendered and maintained non-inflammable.' The Lord Chamberlain subsequently issued a similar rule with regard to the theatres in his jurisdiction. Before March, 1904, it had only been necessary to render fire-resisting the hangings, curtains, and draperies used in places of public entertainment, and not the scenery. It was hardly to be expected, in view of the considerable trouble and expense which it occasions theatre managers, that the rule made in March, 1904, would at once meet with general acceptance, and, until recently, the reports made to us by the chief officer of the fire brigade of non-compliance with the rule were very numerous, more especially in the case of scenery brought into theatres by touring companies. The practice which is generally adopted for complying with the rule is to dip the lighter fabrics in a solution made from one or more of the chemical salts technically known as 'antipyrenes' (ammonium phosphate, borax, alum, &c.), and, as regards the scenery generally, to brush over the back of the canvas and woodwork with this solution.

"The method adopted by the Council's officers for testing whether the scenery is fire-resisting, is to obtain samples, selected at random in the presence of the manager, from the scenery to be tested, and to subject these samples at the headquarters of the fire brigade to the flame from a plumber's portable lamp, the temperature of the flame being about 1,000deg. Fahr. If when subjected to this test the samples do not support flame, the scenery is deemed to possess the requisite degree of resistance to fire. Complaints have been made from time to time to the Council and the Lord Chamberlain that the superficial treatment of the scenery with fire-resisting solution is of little, if any, use in making it fire-resisting, and it has been urged that only scenery formed of wood and canvas which has been thoroughly impregnated with fire-resisting solution should be allowed to be used in theatres and music halls.

"We have accordingly given careful consideration to the question whether it is necessary and practicable to insist upon the adoption of some more thorough method than is generally employed for rendering scenery fire-resisting, and, to assist us in arriving at a decision on this point, we arranged for the chief officer of the fire brigade to submit in our presence to the usual test imposed by him samples of materials which had been treated with fire-resisting solution, and similar portions of materials which had not been so treated. In all, thirty-three tests were made, the articles tested consisting of scenery cloth, profile boards, wooden scenery battens, artificial flowers and palms, hay, straw, gauze cloths, muslin, chintz cloth, flannelette, and linen.

"As a result of the tests, we are of opinion that the degree of fire-resistance obtained by dipping light fabrics in the fire-resisting solutions usually employed is quite satisfactory, and that as regards the scenery generally, the degree of the safety that is attained by brushing over the back of the canvas and the woodwork with fire-resisting solution is all that can reasonably be required. It is therefore, in our opinion, unnecessary to insist that the woodwork and canvas of scenery which has been so treated should be thoroughly impregnated with fire-resisting solution.

"It appeared to us probable, however, that as regards the canvas and woodwork of scenery which has only been treated superficially, the efficacy of the treatment might be impaired when the scenery was in constant use; but we are not in a position to form an opinion as to the extent of the deterioration likely to take place, or, consequently, as to the frequency with which scenery in constant use should be re-treated. We have therefore instructed the chief officer of the fire brigade to collect evidence on this point, and report to us thereon in six months' time. We report the course taken for the information of the Council."

The report was received without comment.

COUNTY COUNCIL AND STANDING ROOM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—It is satisfactory to learn, from the letters which have recently appeared in the newspapers, that the public are taking notice of the threatened curtailment of their privileges as to standing in certain parts of our places of entertainment, by the action of the London County Council.

Under these circumstances, the views of music hall proprietors upon this question may be of interest.

Their grievance is that there is no finality to the requirements of the Council, although at the Parliamentary enquiry of 1892 it was distinctly recommended that there should be finality, and that when once the requirements for rebuilding or alterations had been complied with, there should be a period of rest.

Many music halls have been altered, and new halls have been built, in accordance with plans approved by the Council. Halls built ten years ago, with, say, a capacity to hold 550 people in some part of the seating auditorium, and a total holding capacity of between 700 and 800 seating and standing, will, by the new regulations, only be allowed to admit 500 persons to that part, in spite of the fact that the two staircases are capable of allowing seven or eight people abreast.

The enforcement of this new regulation upon every hall must result in the curtailment of the entertainment or increased prices of admission; but if the L.C.C. regulations were framed in such a manner as to apply to houses of entertainment to be built in the future, they would meet with no opposition from the London Entertainments Protection Association.

It is manifestly unfair that proprietors who have built halls within the last few years, and have complied with all the L.C.C. requirements, should now be called upon to limit the numbers admitted to certain parts of their halls, and be informed practically that the certificate issued to them by the Council at the first will no longer suffice, and this, too, at a time when scenery and draperies have been made fireproof, and there is every precaution for safety.—Yours faithfully,

J. L. GRAYDON, Hon. Sec.

UNTHAN'S DRAWING POWERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In your paper of the 19th, your Glasgow reporter states that I draw and write with cleverness at the Coliseum. I certainly do remember drawing a horse on a "Northerly landscape" at the age of eleven or so; but as that was pronounced by almost everybody as a "camel in an Egyptian desert," I have never since been guilty of a similar offence.

Furthermore, I can scarcely write with a pencil at present, having caught some water in the knee in my tour through the mild climate of Italy.

I shall hasten to show the gentleman at Glasgow what I really do do by returning to the Empire, Aug. 20.—Faithfully yours,

C. H. UNTHAN.

MASONS AT FRASCATI'S.

The Chelsea Lodge of Freemasons, which was established twelve months ago in the interests of members of the theatrical and music hall professions, held its installation meeting at Frascati's Restaurant, on Friday, the 18th inst. A special dispensation from the Grand Lodge was read permitting the Lodge to be held at this restaurant instead of their regular meeting-place—the Chelsea Palace. On the completion of the usual formal business the W.M., Bro. James W. Mathews installed as his successor in the chair Bro. Albert Le Fre, the ceremony being impressively performed. The new W.M. then appointed Bro. Mathews, I.P.M. The other officers were invested as follows:—Mr. T. Serpentello, S.W.; Mr. H. Baroni, J.W.; Mr. W. S. Lyon, treasurer; Mr. C. J. Doughty, secretary; Mr. Walter H. Hitch, S.D.; Mr. Harry Bawn, J.D.; Mr. Fred Clay, D.C.; Mr. W. F. K. Walton, I.G.; Mr. Angelo A. Asher, organist; Mr. George H. Dyball, first steward; Mr. Bert. A. Bigny, second steward; Mr. L. G. Sharpe, third steward; Mr. E. T. R. Lester, fourth steward; and Mr. J. H. McNaughton, Tyler. The W.M. afterwards referred to the unavoidable absence, through illness, of the acting Past Master for the past year, Bro. Edward Swanborough, and, on behalf of the Lodge sent, by special messenger, a Past Master's jewel, together with a letter expressing hopes for his speedy recovery.

Dinner was afterwards served, the brethren present numbering seventy-eight. The loyal and Masonic toasts having been duly honoured, the W.M. proposed the toast of "The Grand Officers," and said he was delighted to be honoured by the presence of three Grand Officers on the night of his installation. Bro. Harry Nicholls was an honorary member, while Bro. Times had always taken a great interest in the lodge. He had received nothing but kindness from all the Grand Officers he had ever met. All seemed willing and anxious to further the interests of the craft in every way that lay in their power.

Bro. Nicholls said that he felt hardly equal to the occasion, and he felt the responsibility of his position very much. He gave way to none of the Grand Officers in his respect to the Craft, but he must say he thought he could sing a comic song better than make a dignified speech. Mr. Nicholls concluded by saying that the variety profession—the sister of the dramatic profession—was becoming more strong every year, and he was glad to see was reaching its proper place in the world of amusements.

Bro. Henry James also replied, and said that it was the first time he had visited the lodge, and he assured the members that he was not paying empty compliments when he said the installation ceremony could not have been more perfectly rendered.

The toast of "The W.M." was proposed by Bro. Mathews, I.P.M., who said: Our W.M. has this evening proposed several toasts; he has had the quantity, but I feel that I have the quality, for I have the pleasant duty to propose that of the Worshipful Master. I am sure he must feel delighted that he has taken up the reins of office. Bro. Le Fre is a member of my mother lodge—1319—and was initiated only six years ago, which is a short period for him to have reached the high office which he now adorns. He should be greatly flattered to occupy the chair of this lodge, formed as it is to bring vocal artists and actors together. We all know that he is as well known as an actor as he is as a singer. I prophesy a very good year of office for him, and I am sure the officers will assist him as they assisted me in my year of office.

The Worshipful Master, in his reply, said he thanked the I.P.M. and Lodge heartily for the kind manner in which they had drunk his health. He hardly thought he deserved all the kind words which were said by the I.P.M., but he hoped he would be able to follow the footsteps of the I.P.M., and at the expiration of his year of office, when he had done the work of the year, that the members would be satisfied that he had worked to the best of his ability.

The toast of "The I.P.M." was then felicitously proposed by the W.M., and responded to by Bro. Mathews, who thanked them most heartily for the handsome cup which had been presented to him. If there was a regret in saying farewell it was sweetened by the thought that Bro. Le Fre would be the next Master. In announcing that the lodge would in future meet in the Chelsea Town Hall, Mr. Mathews thanked the directors of the Chelsea Palace, especially Mr. Henri Gros, for the accommodation and kindness which had been offered the lodge.

The toast of "The Visitors" was acknowledged by Colonel Landon and Mr. W. Lestocq, the former referring gracefully to the services actors as soldiers had rendered during the recent South African war.

Mr. Lestocq spoke eloquently on the subject of Masonry, his words making a deep impression. The atmosphere of the Chelsea Lodge, he said, was one of attention and earnestness. "If we don't bring heart to it," said Mr. Lestocq, "if we don't think about it, if we don't gather some good from it, then Masonry is of no good to any of us. As artists, we know there is only one way to attain perfection, and that is, 'rehearse, rehearse! rehearse!'"

While the dinner was in progress a reply was received from Mr. Swanborough, and this was read out. Mr. Henri Gros made sympathetic reference to Mr. Swanborough's state of health, and announced that he and his co-directors were arranging a benefit matinée for Mr. Swanborough, which would shortly take place at the London Pavilion.

Among members present at the installation were Bros. Albert Le Fre (W.M.), James W. Mathews (I.P.M.), T. Serpentello (S.W.), H. Baroni (J.W.), Wolfe S. Lyon (treasurer), C. J. Doughty (secretary), Walter H. Hitch (S.D.), Harry Bawn (D.C.), Angelo A. Asher (organist), W. T. K. Walton L. G. Sharpe, Geo. H. Dyball, and B. A. Bigny (stewards), J. H. McNaughton (Tyler), Henry G. Neville (P.A.G.D.C.), J. Percy Fitzgerald (P.G.Std.Br.), Harry Nicholls (P.G.Std.Br.), Henri Gros, F. Clay, Hal Chapter, Valazzi, Primavesi, F. H. Pedgrift, W. Scott Adacker, Geo. Gilbey, Fred Winn, Mike Morris, H. R. Mayville, G. H. Hill, J. B. Helm, E. T. R. Lester, E. W. Brett, A. Nickler, Herbert Austin, Douglas White, Jimmie Prior, K. T. Hooper, Chas. King, H. F. Bingham, W. H. Atlas, Albert Christian, A. Cloeteus, Frank Hardie, George Grahame, J. G. Ellis, A. Felino, W. C. Jeapes, Spot, C. E. Chapman, and G. H. Hopwood. Included among the visitors were Bros. Henry Times (P.D.G.D.C.), Chas. Cruickshanks (A.G.Std.Br.), W. Lestocq, Colonel W. F. B. Landon, Colonel H. Walker, G. E. Seabright, R. F. Campbell, V. H. Lanyi, R. Cobley, Chas. Macdona, Herbert Chenery, G. H. Radford, J. Venner, Henri de Neut, A. C. Girard, W. H. Stephens, S. A. Weedon, T. W. Rumble, N. S. Lyon, L. Carson, G. Burgess, S. Grogan, J. W. P. Mark, E. T. Steyne, J. E. Nash, Jesse Sparrow, G. Percy Wright, F. Jennings, Fred Kitchen, A. Borelli, D. M. Trytel, and Max Rose.

MR. CARL HERTZ writes to us from San Francisco to inform us of the loss of his father, who passed away in that city on May 2. There is no doubt that the exposure and the continual moving of the invalid from one place to another on the night of the great earthquake and fire, acting on an already enfeebled constitution, hastened his end. The popular magician will have the sincere sympathy of his many friends in the profession in his sad bereavement.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

NEW YORK, MAY 9.—Mr. John Philip Sousa's new military comic opera, The Free Lance, for the book and lyrics of which Mr. Harry B. Smith is responsible, has two scenes, the first being laid in the garden of the Emperor's palace in Braggadocia. The Emperor is in financial straits, and so is the ruler of the neighbouring republic, the Duke of Graftiana; but each believes the other to be possessed of unlimited wealth, and a marriage between Yolande, the Emperor's daughter, and Prince Florian, the heir apparent of Graftiana, is arranged by these monarchs, with the one object of borrowing money from each other. But the young people have never met, and the plan does not receive their approval. Yolande escapes from the palace, and changes clothes with a goose-girl named Griselda; while Florian dons the garments of a goatherd called Siegmund Lump, who has been a brigand. Rather than have their plans frustrated, the two monarchs substitute the goose-girl and the goatherd for their children as the contracting parties. It happens that Siegmund and Griselda are already husband and wife; but as each is to receive a goodly sum, and an extra wedding can do them no harm, they keep this fact to themselves. Siegmund, however, cannot conceal his disappointment when he lifts the lady's veil to kiss her for the first time and discovers that she is his own wife. "Just my luck!" he exclaims; "the first time I'm invited out to dinner I get just what I've got at home."

In the meantime Prince Florian and Princess Yolande, attired as peasants, meet, and fall in love with each other. Then the Emperor and the Duke discover that they have been deceived, and war is declared, the scene of the second act being the border line between Braggadocia and Graftiana. The rival armies are encamped with only a hedge to separate them, and this close proximity is responsible for much of the humour of this part of the performance, particularly laughable being the various excuses offered by each monarch for not making an attack on the other. Lump, the ex-brigand, has been bereft of his strength and courage through losing his hair; but a sorceress presently appears to give him back his flowing locks, and becoming brave and strong again, he ends the struggle between the two monarchs by proclaiming himself ruler of both countries.

Mr. Joseph Cawthorne, as Siegmund Lump, has a capital comedy part, and he makes the most of it; Miss Jeannette Lowrie sings her "Goose-Girl" song with so much animation, and this number has such a catchy refrain, that it has won an immediate popularity; Miss Nella Bergen, who plays Yolande delightfully, has a voice of rare sweetness and charm; Mr. George Tallman, who appears as Prince Florian, is a fine tenor; and another excellent singer is Mr. Albert Hart, who is very amusing as the Duke of Graftiana. Sousa's new march, "On to victory," rendered in fine style at the close of the second act, is repeatedly encored. Many so-called comic operas have been misnamed, but The Free Lance is the genuine article, being, as the song says, "funny without being vulgar," and having music worth listening to

AMUSEMENTS IN NEW ZEALAND.

WELLINGTON, MARCH 26. — OPERA HOUSE.—Mr. R. G. Knowles opened here to a packed house in a monologue entertainment, which was very largely biographic, we might almost say autobiographic. One is bewildered to see Mr. Knowles in the part of descriptive guide while one roams via the bioscope through Africa and the Orient, he the while garbed in the evening dress of civilisation, whilst we have only known him in the frock coat and duck trousers. These he resumes towards the end of the evening, to the audience's intense delight. His peregrinations were interspersed with songs and stories and songs again, all vastly appreciated. The entertainment was leavened by two banjo solos by Mrs. Knowles, a very fine banjoist.

APRIL 3.—Mr. Stephenson's Musical Comedy Company opened here to-night, chiefly remarkable as introducing The Moorish Maid. Described on the programme as a "comic opera," it is interesting as being the work of two New Zealanders, Messrs. J. Y. Birch and Arthur Hill. It is valuable as the first local expression of this particular art form; unfortunately one is unable to judge the libretto as presented; the music, very light and tuneful, beyond a quartette for mixed voices does not follow the comic opera form, but rather that of musical comedy, and the comedians heartily abet this tendency. On the whole much may be expected in the future from these gentlemen, who are to be congratulated.

APRIL 7.—Messrs. Bostock and Wombwell's menagerie have "pitched their tent" here, and are delighting huge crowds of town and country folk.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

DURBAN, APRIL 20.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Messrs. B. and F. Wheeler's New London Comedy Company produced The Freedom of Suzanne, Mr. Cosmo Gordon-Lennox's new play, at the Theatre Royal yesterday. This was the first production of the play in Durban, and the representation thereof was highly creditable to the company. The staging of the comedy was excellent, and the costumes admirable. Miss Housley imparted much life and spirit into the title-rôle, the recital of her adventures in the first act being an exquisite piece of acting. Mr. Wilfred Payne as Charles Trevor made the most of his character, and filled the rôle remarkably well, his love scenes being acted in a very natural manner. Miss Gertrude Le Sage was an ideal interfering mother-in-law. The part of the family solicitor was ably performed by Mr. A. S. Homewood; and Mr. Herbert Greyville was responsible for a fine piece of acting in the part of the uncle. All the minor parts were in suitable hands.

JOHANNESBURG, APRIL 30.—HIS MAJESTY'S.—During the last five weeks, Messrs. B. and F. Wheeler have been presenting the D'Oyly Carte company. The principal comedian, Mr. C. H. Workman, has been earning many laurels as the Duke in The Gondoliers, Ko-Ko in The Mikado, the Lord Chancellor in Iolanthe, &c. Miss Nancy Freene, the prima donna, is immensely popular, her voice and acting captivating everyone. Miss Jessie Rose started as a firm favourite, and has kept her position throughout the season. Mr. Albert Kavanagh, who is now on his third tour through this country, is as popular as he was on his first appearance, and proves himself a capable actor in everything he does. Mr. Pacie Ripple, as the tenor of the company, has a capital voice, which he uses to its best advantage; and Mr. Leicester Tunks shows that he is a first-class baritone. Last, but not least, comes the old Savoy favourite, the one and only Billington, the original Sergeant in The Pirates, which part he played last week with all his old success. The orchestra, which cannot be too highly praised, is under the direction of Mr. François Cellier. The well-balanced chorus is by far the best Johannesburg has heard for some time.

THE EMPIRE.—On Monday last the new half-company opened at this popular pleasure resort. At the top of the bill are De Witt, Burns, and Torrance, in an act new to this country, called The Awakening of the Toys. Stuart, the male Patti, sings soprano songs in a marvellously clear voice; Mr. Fred Land is described as a quaint comedian, and fully keeps up his character; Miss Claire Romaine is as popular as she could wish with a "Soldier"; Douglas and Ford appear as duettists and dancers; Mountford and Walsh give a very fine, breezy turn, keeping the house in roars of laughter; and Meier and Mora are popular with their singing, dancing, and ball-punching. Mr. Dave Foote directs the orchestra.

BENEFIT TO MRS. LEONARD VIDAL.

By the kind permission of Mr. Oswald Stoll, a benefit matinée took place at the Leicester Palace Theatre on Thursday afternoon, May 17, in aid of the widow and child of the late Mr. Leonard Vidal, who was for upwards of two years the acting-manager of that hall, and whose painfully sudden death caused so much regret. A most attractive programme was submitted, and the house was packed. We are pleased to record that the widow will be the richer by nearly £200.

The staff, both front and back, gave their services, including the orchestra, and Willsons', of Leicester, the well-known theatrical printers, supplied the printing free, and Rockley's and the Universal bill-posting firms displayed the posters on their hoardings gratis.

During an interval Mr. E. Catlow appeared on the stage, and on behalf of Mrs. Vidal thanked everybody concerned in making the benefit such a gigantic success. He also thanked Mr. Stoll for his generosity in allowing the use of the theatre, the artists, the local management, and the orchestra for the very generous manner in which they gave their services.

The following artists, many of whom travelled considerable distances, and who would not accept a single penny towards their expenses, appeared, and it is needless to say were rewarded for their generosity by rounds of applause:—George Robey and Hetty King, who came from London; Ray Wallace, from Sheffield; Wilkie Bard, from Birmingham; Tom Edwards, Starr and Leslie, Beatrice Willey, and Frank Leslie, from Nottingham; Hermann Melot, Grell and Grey, the Hardinis, the Serenaders, the Allisons, Rosa Loader, Conn and Conrad, and Burke, Andrus, and Frisco, who were appearing at the hall.

THE fairs ahead for next week are—Bridgnorth, Hendon, Kirkby Stephen, Spilsby, Bodmin, Epsom, Iron Bridge, Thorpe (Surrey), Crowle, Messingham, Alston (Cumb), and Briston. In Scotland—Airdrie.

HASLEMERE (Surrey) Fair was mainly supported by local showmen. The exhibitions were—Hammond's fine art gallery and R. Wall's freak show, Wall's steam-horses and swings, Smith's hand roundabout and highfliers, Matthews' rifle saloon, swings, and cokersheets, Emmett's, Verney's, Wall's, and Smith's shooting concerns. Variety stalls, throwing games, and striking machines, football frames, pannam stalls, and toy stalls by Messrs. Carter, Matthews, Smith, Deaking, Davis, Emmett, Hammond, and Matthews.

CONTINUING our record of the Shropshire fairs, we have the story of Knighton Fair held this week. Here were Manders' menagerie, Chipperfield's show, and Manders' and Chipperfield's cinematographs, Hutin's, the mystics, Buckley's trained birds, Val Hague's boxers, Chipperfield's ground booth, and Wright's fine art gallery. The machine list included the well-known concerns of Marshall Hill, Shepherd, Gottheimer, Jerrison, Herbert, and Hill. Novelty providers and stallholders included Messrs. Dobson, Turner, Wright, Humphries, Cartwright, Manders, Taylor, Jerrison, Herbert, and others.

LEEK still maintains its well-won reputation as one of the best fairs in the Black Country. There is no surer test of the drawing power of a fair than that of the first-class concerns that take it upon their round. Here for the fair were—Relph and Pedley's electric cinematograph, Kemp's Anglo-American combine, Style's and Gould's theatre of illusions, Relph's distorting mirrors, and Rowley's fine art exhibition. Turning to the machine list, we had for the first time on any fairground John Whiting's jubilee motorcars, Relph and Pedley's whirling the whirl, and Holland's two machines—the steam horses and the electric flying-machine. Bates provided a number of the minor novelties, Winchester range, bottle battery, and park swings. The other amusement providers were Rowley, Jewell, Beckett, Ormrod, and Whiting. The fair was admirably set out by the Market Inspector, Mr. J. Maskery.

SEDGWICK'S American Menagerie is giving an excellent show at Alcester and Feckenham.

AT Flyford Flavel has been Mr. Thomas Scott, with galloping horses, park swings, shooting saloons, cokernut sheets, and other attractions.

TILLER'S mechanical mannikins and bioscope exhibition have been paying a visit to Market Harborough, and the performances were highly appreciated.

AT Desborough, Tiller's mannikins and bioscope are on a short visit, and giving a capital show.

BOSTOCK'S show, which arrived at Hoboken from Antwerp, on the 13th inst., had an exciting passage. Among the beasts on board were eighty lions, forty-five bears, a herd of elephants, twelve hyenas, five chimpanzees, a dozen mongooses, a drove of camels, twenty-five pumas, performing horses and ponies, a sacred white bull, dogs, kangaroos, and deer. During a storm on May 3 a wolf escaped, and got on the main deck. The official in charge of the animals and a dozen keepers went after the brute. He was chased round the deck several times, and then evaded capture by leaping into the sea. Almost at the same moment two lions, Victor and Madame, began a fight. Keepers with steel-tipped prods tried to force them apart, and in the process one of the men had a piece bitten from his leg. Victor killed Madame, and the lioness was thrown into the sea. Then a puma got loose and attacked a little elephant. The elephant, however, looped its trunk round the puma and hammered it on the deck, afterwards trampling it to death. The trainers were only able to obtain a few hours' sleep for six days of the voyage.

AT Builth Mr. T. Clarke gave a benefit, which resulted in the handsome sum of £11 19s. 3d. The money will be devoted towards providing a season band for the town.

AT Headless Cross we have Mr. C. Herbert's world's fair, roundabouts, park swings, shooting saloons, &c.

AT Redditch good business should now be done, as the cycle trade and the needle industry are very brisk. Showmen and others should make a note of this progressive town. New cycle works are being erected. Redditch is sixteen miles from Evesham, six miles from Bromsgrove, and seven miles from King's Norton. The show ground is in the centre of the town, and the recreation ground is let to large circuses, &c.

AT the Recreation Ground, Redditch, we have had Sedgwick's American menagerie, with the great tug-of-war contest, elephant versus forty men; also several animal performances. At the Royal Hotel Yard, this week, the International Circus and Hippodrome are giving high-class performances.

SANGER'S CIRCUS visited Bilston on the 16th inst., in wretched weather. The performing elephants proved a strong attraction, and the Maro troupe of acrobatic equestrians were also good.

THE excellent pictures that are now being produced in the cinématograph line reflect great credit on the management who undertakes their production. Mr. Tom Green, the well-known comedian and stage-manager, is busy at his studio, 106, Fairholme-road, Croydon, in supplying some of the principal firms in London with their latest sensations.

DEATH OF MRS. NORTH.

A sad feature of Congleton fair was the death of a well-known show woman, Mrs. Bess North.

The immediate cause of death was heart failure following kidney trouble.

She had been under medical treatment at Manchester and at Knutsford during the May carnival, and had had every possible care and attention in her living carriage, although following the fairs from Knutsford to Congleton, where she expired somewhat suddenly.

Her exhibition was well known on all the fairgrounds of the kingdom, and she ever idenitfied herself with the best work of the road.

Her kindly heart and open-handed generosity will be missed by the large circle of her friends and acquaintances.

The funeral took place at Leicester, in the Welford-road Cemetery. The chief mourners were Mr. J. Pearson and Mrs. E. Pearson (brother and sister), Mr. Edmund North and Mr. George Kemp, Mrs. Kemp (niece), Miss Jones, Miss Richards, and Mrs. Austin.

Amongst the "in memoriam" wreaths were beautiful floral tributes from Mr. and Mrs. Pearson, Mrs. E. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. T. Relph, Mrs. George Kemp, Mrs. Sketchlay, Mr. and Mrs. W. Pedley, Mrs. Austin, Miss Richards, Miss Stones, and Miss Jones.

THE LATE JOHN DEE HUMPHREYS.

The letter from Mr. Arthur Reeve, published in our columns recently draws attention to the necessity for helping Mrs. Humphreys and her family. We strongly commend this most deserving case to the generosity of the showman world.

The many friends of the deceased, who was one of the founders of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, will, we are confident, now that they know the urgent necessity of the case, respond with readiness to this appeal.

During the whole course of a laborious and honourable career John Dee Humphreys was ever ready to assist his brother showmen. His open-handed generosity and unfailing kindness endeared him to a wide circle of friends and comrades in the circus and show world.

The object of the fund is to enable the widow and family to maintain their home until such time as the children are able to earn an income sufficient for that purpose.

"HUMANITY" JOHN'S better half, Cissie Lawson, is resting for a few weeks, but will tour after July 16.

THE Haverleys (American song illustrators), now on a ten weeks' provincial tour, open at the Palace, Blackpool, on Monday. Mr. James Haverley, in addition to a rich baritone voice of good compass, possesses the rare gift of a pure soprano voice of good range and quality. This novelty (which is exercised during the act) will, we feel sure, be highly appreciated by Blackpool audiences.

THOSE doughty members of the Stockwell Angling Society, Messrs. Willie Warde and W. Eyke, had a day's fishing together recently with disastrous consequences to the trout. Several members of the club also have been enjoying the sea fishing at Southend, a form of sport which Dr. Forbes Winslow says is one of the finest rests for mind, body, and brain it is possible to enjoy.

CONGLETON FAIR.

THE old fair upon the new ground at Congleton has proved an immense success. Everything that could have been thought of or contrived to secure that success has been done by the Corporation. Special praise is, however, due to Mr. Randal Burslam, the Borough Surveyor, for the success of the detail arrangements.

There was an official recognition and opening of the Fair. This interesting ceremony took place upon the platform of Relph and Pedley's novel machine, whirling-the-whirl. The Mayor was accompanied by the Mayoress and Miss Lucas, Councillors Brereton and Hodgkinson, the Town Clerk (Mr. Plant), the Borough Surveyor (Mr. Randal Burslam) and Miss Burslam, Chief-Constable Watson, Sergeant-Major Pentland, and Messrs. Bowe, Alcock, Taylor, Barton, Relph, and Pedley.

The Mayor, in his opening remarks, said he was proud of the fact that during the present year, which he thought could be rightly called a year of progress, one of his duties had been to open the new fairground. The Corporation had spent some £800 in the purchase and outfit of the ground for market and pleasure-fair purposes, and it was the desire of all—and particularly of the children—that it should be one of the pleasantest Fairs ever known here. As long as he could remember, the May Fair had been located at the other end of the town, and it had been long thought that it would be better and more convenient if it were held nearer the centre. When the Corporation found that they could purchase the site, they thought it would be better to do so, in order to provide for any necessary extension of the market, but more particularly for the pleasure-fairs. They had to thank the officials of the Corporation, especially the Borough Surveyor, for the excellent arrangements of the fairground. He had also to thank the gentlemen who came there to provide entertainments for the people of the town, though doubtless they came hoping to get some profit by so doing. He had also great pleasure in announcing that the owners of the roundabouts had placed them at his disposal, to give all the children of the town of school age a free ride in commemoration of the opening of the new fairground, which he had now great pleasure in declaring open.

The children then rushed to the various roundabouts to receive their free ride, the Mayor and Mayoress adding to the pleasure of the occasion by joining the youngsters in their merry-go-round. The Mayor and Mayoress and Miss Lucas, the Town Clerk, the Borough Surveyor, the Chief-Constable, and several Councillors and ladies and gentlemen, had a ride, first on the whirling-the-whirl, then on the gondolas, the cocks and hens, and the galloping horses.

Commenting on the Fair, the Congleton and Macclesfield Mercury says:—

As we said last week, there is a great transfiguration in the showman world. There is an absence of the old-fashioned catch-penny booths, which are replaced by palaces of innocent pleasurable entertainment, consisting of Messrs. Relph and Pedley's Cinematograph, Colonel Clarke's Cinematograph, Proctor's Circus, Relph and Pedley's Side-show of Mystery, Relph's Hall of Laughter, the smallest pony in the world, and Mrs. North's show, which, through the death of the proprietress, remained closed throughout the fair. Mr. E. Holland had his galloping horses, swings, and other things; Mr. John Whiting his gondolas, gem horses and swings; Mr. Hurst his farmyard; and Messrs. Relph and Pedley their whirling the whirl, an admirable roundabout, comfortably arranged. It is reached by substantial staircases on each side, and you step in as if entering the deck of a steamer. Seats are provided like those on the top of a tramcar, and when the machine is set in motion it resembles a steamer rolling in a heavy sea. The whole is lighted from the ceiling with hundreds of variegated electric lights. Mrs. Marsden came once more with her shooting gallery, and Mrs. Jewell was also present with her gallery. Both these ladies have been coming to Congleton for forty years or more. Mrs. Mulhearn, with her gingerbread and nut stall, has been to Congleton Fair for forty-six years. Mrs. Massey with swings and stalls, Mrs. Harrington with Aunt Sallies and football amusement, are also old visitors. Barker's photographic studio has also been familiar for very many years, and beside it was Gumthorpe's studio. There were very many more old faces, such as Johnny Gavin, with his "brandy-snap," too numerous to mention.

Messrs. Relph and Pedley had a most magnificent structure, to describe which is baffling, for we can scarcely do it justice. The front is one huge stage, entered at each side by a staircase more than large enough to drive a carriage and pair up. On the lower part between the stairs is an apt quotation, "To Amuse and Entertain is Good. To Do Both and Instruct is Better." The centre is occupied by one of the largest, gorgeous, and most expensive organs manufactured. A work of art, an orchestra in itself, and studded with over 1000 electric lights, which at intervals change colour, making a charming effect. Two life-size statues beat drums, whilst dancing figures and a conductor complete the group. To view the organ from the back displays a work which is truly marvellous. Swinging from the lofty ceiling of the front are ten large electric arc lamps of thousands of candle-power. At each side of the organ are two beautiful entrances of polished mahogany and stained glass. The interior is well seated and lighted, and holds 700 to 800 people. As to the entertainment, the name of Relph and Pedley is quite sufficient. It is like a certain local advertised article "the hall-mark of purity." For some years they have pleased and astonished Congleton audiences with their high-class living pictures, but never more so than this time. There was no flickering, every picture was perfectly steady, and the choice of subjects was excellent. Some very clever and expensive films were exhibited.

The life history of the Relph and Pedley families in the show world would be intensely interesting. They had also a very good side show, in which some clever conjuring and a box trick similar to Maskelyne and Cook's was introduced. Mr. Relph had also a show containing amusing and distorting mirrors. Colonel Clarke is an old and respected showman with new ideas. He is up-to-date in everything he touches. A man of fine and gentlemanly physique, he comes of a generation of showmen, of whom he is justly proud. The Era of March 3 has his interesting life history, together with his portrait. He aims at the best. He allows nothing the least suggestive or vulgar to enter into his entertainment, and thereby reaps the reward of a truly honest and worthy exhibition, in which the public show the appreciation of his efforts. His fit-up is gorgeous in every respect of the word. The interior is adorned in red and gold, comfortably seated and lighted throughout with electricity. the motive power of which is driven by a powerful engine. Of the show itself we cannot speak too highly, sufficient to say it is far in advance of the living pictures shown at all the great music-halls. In fact it stands alone. The pictures are mostly coloured, and so excellently produced that one could fancy he was viewing a magnificent transformation scene in pantomime. "The Hen with the Golden Eggs" is an excellently clever set of pictures, the films for which are most costly, and all the other subjects are on the same magnificent principle.

A cinematograph entertainment intensely mystifying and interesting, the show has been crowded at every performance. On Tuesday, when the Fair was getting slacker, people flocked to see the "Passion Play," produced in the same exquisite coloured pictures. Two long performances were given, and so full was the building, which holds seven to eight hundred people, that many could not gain admission.

Proctor's Circus attracted large crowds, who were immensely pleased with the performance, the honesty and straightforwardness of which is commendable.

THE King visited the Imperial-Royal Austrian Exhibition, Earl's Court, on Saturday afternoon. His Majesty thoroughly enjoyed his visit, laughing heartily at the passengers on the chute and the voyagers on the flying machine. His Majesty made several purchases in the Queen's Palace, and subsequently lunched at the Vienna Restaurant. Among the ladies and gentlemen in the Royal party were Prince Francis of Teck, the Duchess of Devonshire, and Count Mensdorff-Pouilly-Dietrichstein.

STORIES OF SHOWMAN LIFE.

By the Rev. T. Horne, Hon. Chaplain, the Showman's Guild.

"THE DWARF'S STRATAGEM."

Sixty or seventy years ago no big fair was reckoned complete without the presence of a waxwork exhibition. As the older generation of showmen will remember, these waxwork shows travelled as many as eight or nine caravans, and the principal concerns were those of Ewin, Batty, Manders, Williams, Purchase, and Turnbull. Turnbull's exhibition toured the Scotch fairs; but upon one or two notable occasions made excursions into England, and even penetrated into the principality of Wales.

A curious story is told of this visit of Turnbull's to Wales.

Cardiff at that time was a very second-rate town, and was more given to the iron and coal industries (and these industries were only just beginning to thrive) than to the shipping trade, which is now its chief source of wealth.

Turnbull's waxwork was located upon a piece of ground at the junction of Mary-street and Castle-street, and as shows of this magnitude were rare visitors to Cardiff, very good business was done.

The exhibition contained two immense double carriage groups, one representing the then Royal Family of England, and with them, grouped in the outer circle, were the crowned heads of Europe and many notable characters of both English and foreign celebrity. This group formed one side of the show; on the opposite side the double wagon load was taken up with a Scriptural group, admittedly the finest of its kind then on the road—Daniel in the lion's den.

This was a moving group, and the mechanism was of the most startling and life-like character. There were twelve full-sized lions crouched or standing, their great heads moving, eyes turning, tails lashing their sides, and their massive jaws opening and displaying their terrible teeth and lolling tongues. So naturally had the artist contrived the action of the group that most people, when the lions were set in motion, shrank back, expecting that the powerful beasts would spring upon them. The figure of Daniel, with hands uplifted in prayer to God, was most majestic, and formed a striking contrast to the affrighted visage of the troubled King, seen at the extreme end of the cave looking down upon the prophet of God in the lion's den.

Of the other features of this show little need be said; there were the usual figures of celebrated or notorious characters, the national heroes by land and sea, and of course the inevitable chamber of horrors.

Travelling with the show was an extraordinary freak, the dwarf known as Peter Piper. Although the total height of the little man—and he was a full-grown man, and not a child freak—was but forty-two inches, quite twenty of these inches were taken up by his extraordinary head. In fact, he seemed to be all head and arms, for without any difficulty, standing erect, these powerful arms nearly reached the ground. Of course, such a freak of nature as this would scarcely be considered fit for exhibition in these days, so utterly out of proportion were the component parts of the little man's anatomy. But, despite the poverty of his inches and the misshapen contour of his body, a bold heart and a clever brain, with ready wit and the most exuberant good humour, were the characteristics of Peter Piper, the dwarf.

Piper was also the mechanic of the show, and most of the ingenious contrivances to give action to the models were the invention of this little genius. Although he was exhibited with the rest of the show, when the describer went the round of the caravans his principal work was on the parade where, decked with an enormous turban and his long arms in a wide-sleeved Turkish tunic, and his small legs and body hidden away in a crimson cushion, he was brought out and exhibited as the living head without a body, and was, of course, a great draw.

Now it chanced that the success of the show at Cardiff had excited the cupidity of three of the local thieves, who determined that they would wait their opportunity and try to rob the showmen of their earnings. Of course, in those far-away days banking facilities for showmen did not exist, and very often, after a run of good business, a considerable sum of money was carried in the cash-box securely packed away in the locker of the living carriage.

Fate seemed to favour the burglars' design, for the Brothers Turnbull, the proprietors of the show, received word of the death of their sister in Scotland, and this of course meant that they would have to journey to Greenock, where she would be buried, and that in the meantime, for four or five days necessary to accomplish their pious object, the show would be closed.

The closing of the show was soon noticed by the burglars, and, watching their opportunity, they entered the concern late one night, but, unfortunately for them, their felonious entry was not effected without the knowledge of Peter Piper, the dwarf.

Peter was quite alone, and had been the most of that day, for, not suspecting the least danger, and having a mechanical experiment to make which his clever brain had been busy with for months past, he had gladly undertaken to look after things whilst the other two resident members of the staff had gone off on their own pleasure bent.

The dwarf's mechanical invention was of a vocal character; in fact, it was to put a voice into the lions' bodies that they should roar as well as move.

When the burglars entered the show it was by removing the skirting-board under the Royal group, and there they stood in the darkness, bewildered for a moment or two which way to turn in order to reach the living carriage from the inside of the show.

The dwarf, as we have said, heard them, and, peering out round the corner of the curtain of the lions' group, he saw the three burglars hesitate, and then one of the trio lit a shaded lantern and proceeded to take the bearings of the living carriage. This was the moment when the quick, clever brain of the dwarf determined on the stratagem to outwit the burglars. With his powerful arms he pulled up the curtain of the group, and then, turning the crank that set the mechanism in motion, he utilised for the first time his own vocal device and made the lions roar.

The creaking of the machinery, the bellowing of the mighty lions, and the horrible effect of a huge man's head minus a body gazing fiercely upon them, completely paralysed the would-be thieves. So fascinated were they by the weird and horrible effect that they could not realise that these things were anything but horribly real and terribly natural, and in fact, one of the trio fell down in a dead faint at the feet of his two astounded and paralysed accomplices.

The bellowing of the lions not only paralysed the burglars, but it attracted the attention of the night constable, who by good fortune was passing the show at the time. Springing his rattle, he was speedily joined by two other guardians of the public peace. Rapidly circling the show, they noticed the broken shutter through which the burglars had made their entry. Quickly passing inside, the police were almost as much startled as the wonder-struck burglars; but their astonishment was quickly brought to an end by the powerful, commanding voice of the dwarf telling them: "Constables, these men have entered this show to rob it; I give them in charge." Thus called upon to their duty, the constables speedily handcuffed the still astounded and dazed thieves.

Little more remains to be said, except and only that the brave dwarf became the hero of the moment, and that the Welshmen thronged into Cardiff to see the brave Peter Piper, whose ready wit had circumvented the thieves' plot to rob Turnbull's living carriage.

Peter Piper's clever strategy was taken up by the Press, and wherever the show went the story had to be told how the little dwarf single-handed had met and baffled the burly ruffians of Cardiff town.

THE COUNTY OF MIDDLESEX AND SHOWMEN.

AT the beginning of the Parliamentary Sessions the County Council of Middlesex introduced a Private Bill for various public purposes. Amongst other powers sought under the Bill, Clause 31 proposed to enact as follows:—"If and whenever the Council, on the application of the local authorities of any district shall, by resolution, so determine the following provisions shall have effect in the district of such local authority (that is to say)—

"(1) No owner of land shall cause or suffer any such land within one hundred yards of any street or of any dwelling-house to be occupied so as to cause annoyance, injury, or disturbance to residents in the neighbourhood by any tent dweller, squatter gipsy, or other person dwelling in a tent or van or other similar structure.

"(2) No tent dweller, squatter gipsy, or other person shall use as a dwelling place, so as to cause annoyance, injury, or disturbance to residents in the neighbourhood, any tent or van or other similar structure placed on any land situated within one hundred yards of any street or of any dwelling-house.

"(3) Every person who shall offend against either of the foregoing enactments shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5."

The Executive Council of the Showmen's Guild, apprehending that local authorities might use these powers if given them to hinder and even prohibit show business within their borders, determined to petition against the Bill. This was done, and negotiations opened up at the same time with the County Council with the view of protecting trade interests of showmen.

It was recognised that additional powers as against gipsies and squatters might be necessary, but that showmen carrying on their business at local fairs might be seriously interfered with under the provisions of the Bill unless it was clearly set up that the proposed enactments did not apply to travelling showmen.

Not only was the petition duly lodged, and all necessary preliminary steps taken, but counsel was retained, the brief prepared, and witnesses brought to the Committee Room of the House of Commons, when the Bill was introduced.

Mr. T. Watson Wright, Parliamentary solicitor, and Mr. F. Millar, Parliamentary agent, instructed the Hon. Ewen Charteris, Parliamentary barrister, to appear and to plead the cause of the organised showmen before the Private Bills Committee.

Then it was that the Middlesex County Council recognised that the showmen had to be reckoned with, and a conference took place between the Parliamentary agents, solicitors, and counsel with a view to arranging a settlement agreeable to both sides.

The difficulty of course was to clearly define the business of the showman and to separate it from any confusion with gipsies dwelling in vans or tents and travelling hawkers trading in vans.

The following amendment to the objectionable clause was finally agreed upon:—

"This section shall not apply to any person dwelling in a tent or van or other similar structure who is a showman or roundabout proprietor or stallholder—not being a pedlar or hawker. Nor to any landowner who suffers any land to be occupied by such persons in such manner aforesaid."

Having thus safeguarded the interests of amusement caterers and fairground traders in full, the Executive of the Showmen's Guild withdrew their petition against the Bill.

Thus practically the Parliamentary work of the Showmen's Trade Defence Society was brought to a successful conclusion for the present Session of Parliament.

During the past six or seven years we have been asking: Is it possible for the wit of man to devise a form of words that should effectively abate the nuisance and danger to public health of gipsy and squatter settlements and yet be free from harm and danger to the business interests of travelling showpeople?

We rejoice greatly that the Middlesex County Council has been the first to recognise the fundamental difference between the business of the showman and the itinerant gipsy. Committees of the House of Commons dealing with Private Bills have repeatedly thrown out clauses aiming at bringing the gipsy under local government as regards sanitation and police matters.

The opposition to these clauses has been carried on entirely by the organised showman, in order to compel local authorities to recognise the essential differences between the trade of the showman van dweller and the avocations more or less dubious of the travelling tinker and squatting gipsy.

The Committee dealing with the Middlesex Bill recognised that showmen ought to be exempt from the sanitary and settlement clauses, and the Chairman informed Mr. Watson Wright that the Committee were quite satisfied that showmen ought to be exempt, and that they needed no further evidence on the question. They would reject Clause 39 in its present form, for they thought that even the gipsy was entitled to more consideration and less drastic treatment than that proposed in the Bill. They were willing, whilst rejecting the present clause, to accept a milder form of words, and they trusted that on the report stage of the Bill such amended clause would be put before them for final decision.

There are several considerations of great interest to showmen arising out of this last victory of theirs in the Parliamentary arena. The first and most important is—that for the first time in Private Bill legislation a clear and understandable definition of fairground trader, whether he be showman, roundabout proprietor, or stallholder, is set out in an Act of Parliament.

Up to the present time no such definition has been embodied in legislation, and its accomplishment marks another upward step in the status and public recognition of the showman's avocation in life. Hitherto draughtsmen of Parliamentary Bills have refused to recognise any difference whatever in the classes of people using tents or vans.

In season and out of season we have pleaded for the recognition of the showman separate and apart from other classes of people using tents and vans, and it is to us an occasion of great satisfaction, that what we have so persistently advocated has been at length obtained.

Without doubt the exemption clause in the Middlesex Bill will be a precedent in all future Private Bill Legislation, and we congratulate the Showmen's Guild and its Parliamentary Executive on the great success that has rewarded their strenuous efforts. A word of special praise is also due to Messrs. Alfred Ball, George Beach, J. Beach, and Lorenzo, who have been in attendance as witnesses at the Parliamentary Committee.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

AMUSEMENTS IN BRIGHTON.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr. Frank Grans' company is achieving great success here this week in The Other Man's Business. Mr. Frank Stanmore is intensely amusing as Anthony Bloggett; Mr. G. W. Anson gives a masterly enactment of the amorous uncle, Mr. Rattlechip; Mr. G. W. Elton's Horatio Bloggett is a good character-study of a precocious schoolboy; Mr. A. Hornby Warburton as Henry Hill and Miss Adie Boyne as Emma submit very droll comedy; Miss Lilian Hubbard makes a bright and pleasing Topsy Temple; Miss Nina Osborne is a refined and attractive Mrs. Bloggett; and Mr. Frank E. Petley is well suited as the peppery William Simpson. The farce is preceded by Monsieur Le Marquis.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—Miss Maud Hildyard and company opened here on Monday with The Great Awakening. Miss Maud Hildyard gave a very fine impersonation of Lola Selby; Mr. Bernard Copping, in the dual representation of Jack Merton and Sir Henry Merton, was distinctly successful; Mr. Herbert Evelyn made a manly Capt. Harry Lambert; Miss Doris Digby was charming and sympathetic as Molly Merton; Mr. Herbert Sidney's Richard Wilson and Mr. A. C. Hardie's James Selby were admirably played; Mr. Charles Vivian was forcible as the villainous Guy Rogan; and the comedy element was capitally sustained by Miss Isa Bellington as Selina Worts, Mr. Willie Scott as Billy Brass, and Mr. Tracey Barron as Antoine.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—There is an excellent company here this week. James Holden's mannikin entertainment is clever and amusing; Charlene and Charlene (Charlie and Lily) give a capital juggling and musical turn; Mark Leslie is a pleasing coon comedian and dancer; Geoffreys and Benson are very funny in the comedy sketch Spoofed; Lupino Lane, boy comedian, singer, and eccentric dancer, is well received; Mlle Cordite is an expert with the rope and lariat; the Netherlands present Dutch pastimes very neatly; Sadie Lawrence is a capital ballad vocalist; and Harry Cotton is an eccentric comedian. The Alhambrascope pictures are interesting and amusing.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—A capital programme is sustained here this week. Dan Crawley is enthusiastically applauded for his humorous songs; the Four Harveys are clever and sensational in their wire act; Harry Brown, coloured comedian and dancer, wins hearty applause; Verno and Voyce are smart vocal comedians; Adams and Ward are amusing in their acrobatic speciality; Will Souls, the laughing comedian, is very entertaining; the Four Jumels sustain an excellent musical act; Milner Verren is an artistic tenor vocalist; T. B. Fayme is warmly appreciated in his latest successes; V. L. Granville's character impersonations merit warm praise; Mons. Vincent, acrobatic table expert and lightning Arab tumbler, is skilful; and the Barrascope pictures are pleasing.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Mr. Norman V. Norman and company are here this week with Count Hannibal. Mr. Norman gives an artistic and convincing portrayal of Count Hannibal; and Miss Beatrice Wilson is charming and graceful as Clotilde de Vrillac. Mr. Brember Wills presents a capital dual enactment of Charles IX. and M. La Tube; Mr. Norman Leslie is well suited as M. de Montseven; and Miss Sybil Ruskin's Mme. St. Lo, Miss Hilda Gregory's Mme. Carlat, and Mr. Dennis Cleugh's M. de Tignonville also merit praise. The programmes for the week also include David Garrick, and Cut off with a Shilling.

LIEUT. ALBINI terminates to-night a successful provincial tour at the Theatre Royal, Oldham, where his success has been very marked. He returns to London next week to give a show to London managers of his long-promised novelty, The Queen of Sheba.

A CHARMING Indian romance, by the writers of "Navaho," entitled "Shining Star," has been secured by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter. Miss Florence Esdaile is making a big hit with the morceau.

THE first set of cinematograph films of the appalling disaster which lately overwhelmed San Francisco reached the Alhambra on Monday, and have been included in the "Urbanora" turn at that theatre. Graphic and terrible as the journalistic accounts of the ruin of the Golden City have been, mere words pale before these "scenes in motion" of the razing of the Queen of the Pacific to mere heaps of ashes.

THE Glenroy Troupe of Dancers, who have just concluded a most successful seven weeks in town, will now go on tour for three weeks, returning to London on June 18.

THE Crystal Palace Company has appointed Mr. Gerald Fitz-Gibbon, late of St. George's Hall, as their Press manager. Mr. FitzGibbon also acts as literary adviser to the Carl Rosa Opera Company, Madame Tussaud's, &c.

THE latest quotations of music-hall shares are as follow: Alhambra, 1⅛; Canterbury, 1; Empire (15s. paid), 1⅛; ditto (10s. paid), 1⅛; London Pavilion Ordinary 4, ditto Preference 4⅜; London Coliseum, ⅛; Metropolitan, ⅞; Moss Empire 4½, ditto Preference 3⅜; Oxford, 7⅜; Palace, 10s.; Tivoli, 5⅜; Variety Consolidated Theatres, 15s.

THIS week is a notable week in the history of the Royal Albert Music Hall. On Thursday evening Mr. Walter Leaver, who has presided in his gilded throne over the entertainments at Canning Town for the last forty-three years, and is the last chairman, took his twenty-sixth benefit. Appropriately enough the event had been advertised, in addition to the usual posters on the local hoardings and elsewhere, by W. Payne's Bio-photoscope, giving the necessary brief particulars, along with a sketch of Mr. Leaver's famous mallet. On Thursday, of course, the popular Walter refrained from wielding this mallet, it being arranged that the chair should be occupied at different periods during the evening by well-known gentlemen, including Councillor Hayday, Mr. Fred Baugh, Mr. Bob Van, and Mr. J. Watkins.

MISS NELLIE COLEMAN, the first woman to make the face up funny, and the only lady low comedian on the variety stage, has invented a new dance that, when produced, will be a startler.

THE curtain was rung up at seven o'clock—an hour earlier than usual—and among those who, apart from the regular company engaged for the week, kindly offered their services were:—Charles Ridgewell, George Victor, Louie Hurman, Jack Foley, Bella Harcourt, H. E. High, Rose Tree, Frances and Melli, Daisy Reed, the Two Whites, Vernon and Burdell, Elliott and Warne, the Three Sisters Thurbain, Gus Daniels, Charles Russell, Lottie Swinbourne, F. W. Wilkinson, Daly and Collins, Leo West, the Sisters Rosedale, Charles Chard, Edith Manley, Hettie Leave, the Sisters Selwyn, Ted Denham, Marie Joyce, Major Miles, Joe Lelly, Patsy Lloyd, Sparks and Vesta, Charles Lloyd, Lottie Bell, Jack Roberts, Grace Tyrrell, Rose Harvey, Will Burton, Dan Pedley, Dome, Pat Carey, Winnie Brugger, Master Sydney, and Annie Casey.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—The return visit of A Modern Adventuress is attracting good audiences here. Mr. Lingford Carson's company includes Mr. Leonard Aardale, who makes a favourable impresion by his impersonation of Pietro Donelli; Violet Meredith has a forcible exponent in Miss Kate Froude; Miss Alice Defoe carefully sustains the pathetic rôle of Vivette Delby; the comedy element is acceptably presented by Mr. Leonard Montgomery as John Crompton and Miss Ivy Chandos as Sally Hodges; and Mr. Harry C. Rutland as William Delby, Mr. Louis Edmonds as Harry Delby, Mr. Sydney Grant as Wallace Dalton, Mr. A. G. Polson-Turner as Walter Beal, and Mr. Frank Orchard as Steve Meredith acquitted themselves creditably in their various characters.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—Much amusement is evoked by the pantomime absurdity Nicodemus, with special trick scenery and effects, as presented by Charles Vandyke and company. Sammy Shields, Scotch comedian, is clever in his football sketch; Madge Daly makes herself a great favourite with her songs. Other successful turns are given by Arthur Slater, siffleur and mimic; T. Claver, juggler; the Vetter Brothers in The Page's Recreation; the Brooklands, duettists and dancers; the Four Balsamos, amusing bar performers; Johnny Worman, eccentric comedian; Sadie Seymour, serio and dancer; and Florence Hill, comedienne and dancer.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth—Gustave Fasola, an expert illusionist, obtains much applause; Wee Mona, juvenile comedienne, is responsible for some smart dancing; Fred Mason, whistling and singing comedian, does well; A Promising Pupil, as produced by Ben Harris and his Nippers, goes well; and the programme also includes Stylo, who does some smart work with hoops; Raynor and Reece, with comical singing and dancing; and Harry Lee, comedian and mimic.

SHEFFEELD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—Mr. James Welch made himself very popular in Sheffield in The New Clown, and on Monday his appearance at the Lyceum in the new farce, Good Old Charley, proved a thoroughly successful function, applause and laughter alternating in rapid succession. Mr. Welch as a good-natured man ever in hot water is of course quite at home, and admirers of this clever comedian will easily picture how mirth-provoking are "Old Charley's" attempts to battle with the mishaps that beset him. Mr. Welch is loyally supported by Miss Estelle Wynwood, Mr. J. W. Beverell, Mr. Fred Lewis, Mr. G. F. Tully, and Mr. Leonard Buttress. The curtain-raiser was a pleasing little play called The Lady Burglar. Both pieces were mounted in Mr. John Hart's accustomed artistic style.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The Price of Pleasure met with a cordial reception here on Monday. Miss Emily Huby was first-rate as Biddy O'Flannigan; Miss Dot Russell made a vivacious Polly Wilson, her songs and dances being a pleasing feature; Mr. Howell Webb was "firm" as Sir James Featherstone; and other characters were adequately represented by Miss Ivy Blanche, Miss Mara Collings, Miss Lily Clarke, Mr. Charles E. Howell, Mr. B. H. Ross, Mr. Larr- Clements, Mr. C. Bennett, Mr. Richard Harris, and Mr. Ben Fletcher.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—On its first visit to Sheffield, Walter Melville's powerful drama, A Girl's Cross-Roads, created a great impression, and the theatre was crowded on Monday, when the piece was again played by the author's strong company. Miss Beaumont Collins gives a wonderfully realistic impersonation of the degraded dipsomaniac, Barbara Wade; Mr. Charles Franmore as old Farmer Meadows submitted a capital character-sketch; Miss Nannie Meade was again successful; and good work was done by Mr. John Brookes, Mr. Frank Robertson, Mr. Roy Fortescue, Mr. Fred Ingram, Miss Elsie Saville, and Miss Lena Delphine.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—This spacious and luxurious theatre was packed twice on Monday, when the following artists contributed to the enjoyment of the audiences:—Mr. Lew Lake, assisted by Mr. Harry Lavers and a smart company of pantomimists, in the screaming absurdity, The Brixton Burglary; Athas and Collins, comedians; the Barowsky Trio, in their speciality act, In the Woods; Mr. Chris Richards, a lively comic; the Stuart Quartette of charming lady vocalists; the Sisters Morgan, duettists; Miss Claire Beasy and her well-trained cats; Mr. Charles Lilburn, vocal comedian; Miss Lillian Payne, vocalist; and the bioscope, with the Hackenschmidt-Madrali wrestling bout, and other films of a popular nature.

GRAND PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—Appearing at this cosy hall are the Forbes-Murray dramatic company, in a thrilling sketch; Mr. Will Farrell, vocal comedian; Bliss and Bliss, the favourite humorists; the Paragon Trio, in a diverting act; Miss Lily Sharplin, mimic; Henderson and Pallister's Biograph, which continues highly popular. The 19th inst. was a great night here, for the members of the immortal Sloper Family came down from London, and made presentations to Mr Fred Southern (it being his farewell benefit), and to Mr. George Dickenson, the genial and hard-working manager.

CENTRAL HALL.—Some new animated pictures are delighting the patrons of this hall, and the efforts of Mons. Primavesi, a clever juggler; Miss Adrienne, vocalist; Mr. W. E. Long, ventriloquist; and Mr. Hyam Long, comedian, are fully appreciated.

SHREWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Business-Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—The original American Photo Co.. is responsible for a varied and interesting show of "Electric Animated Pictures," relieved by a capital variety entertainment in which the following appear: The Ver-Vains, a clever pair of coon singers and dancers; Phil Rabey, a versatile comedian; Vic and Yerney, a capital whistler; The Cedrics, talented comedy artists; Lyons, a capable and amusing Irish ventriloquist; Vela, with a smart "Hurricane Love Act"; and Lulu, a talented lady instrumentalist.

SMETHWICK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Miss Grace Warner brings her company here this week in a small repertory. For the first three nights the well-known drama The Scarlet Clue held the boards, and a revival of East Lynne was promised for Thursday and Friday. In the former play Miss Warner, in her vivid impersonation of Sal Scarlet, holds the audience fascinated; Mr. George Gordon impersonates the male villain, Michael Stanton, with excellent effect; Mr. J. L. Leigh stamps the twin rôles of Jack and Harry Esmond with much individuality; Miss Lizzie Palmer gains esteem as Elsie Dane; and Miss Kathleen Cranston gives a stirring representation of Mother Scrooge. Much merriment is caused by Mr. V. T. Raymond, as "Billy the Rotter," a burglar, whose songs are much appreciated. He receives good assistance from Miss Esther Dean, as a French maid. Little Edith Rutland is well placed as Littie Polly.

SOUTHAMPTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton.—Good houses assembled to witness the performance of The Still Alarm, by Messrs. H. Glenville and F. Osmond's company. The piece is full of excitement, and the interest never flags. The scenery is effective, the turn-out of the fire brigade being very smartly done.

PALACE—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. William Trussell.—A company of exceptional excellence is seen here, the principal attraction being Mr. Harry Roxbury and company in a musical sketch, The Prince of Monte Carlo, which is well staged and produced. Mr. Harry Roxbury is very humorous as P.C. Longfellow of Scotland Yard, and laughter reigns supreme during the time he occupies the stage. Two Southamptonians also successfully appear—Miss Vashti Wynne (Denise) and Mr. Fred Davenporte, who is a dignified Prince. Miss Ethel Bryant is an admirable Lady Carr; and the other parts are well played. Miss Marie Santoi and her lady singers and dancers score a triumph in A Japanese Tea-Garden by Night; the cross-talk of the Brothers Redmond causes roars of laughter; Woodhouse and Wells are a clever pair of comedians; Martin Henderson, a blind musician, plays the concertina superbly; Jack Lorimer and Fred Cary excel as comedians; and Marion Scott is a charming artist.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; District-Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton; Acting-Manager, Mr Harold P. Howell.—Antonio Pierri's wrestlers, including Ahmed Madrali, form the principal attraction here; Chas. Baldwin's comedians evoke applause with their pantomimic sketch, The Bank Clerks; Leo Dryden is scoring with his well-known character studies; and Helen Charles is responsible for a versatile and refined turn. Frank Dunlop, comedian; Orpheus, instrumentalist; Walter Wade, comedian; and Rosie Reval, comedienne, also contribute to the evening's enjoyment SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Sole Owners, The Southend Theatre Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Mr. Bert Rutley's company is here this week with the musical burlesque, An English Belle. Miss Jessie de Grey as Jack gains abundant applause for her perfect representation of the part; Miss Gerty Wasley as Alice Oldfield is also very good; Mr. Albert Rutley as Squire Hardacre is a success; and Sunny Jim, a travelling pedlar, and Consul, his companion, characters that are played by Mr. Will Redmond and Mr. Dan Whiteley respectively, create roars of laughter. Mr. W. E. Matthews is also amusing. The Louis Roi quartet of dancers are an acquisition.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clifford are presenting here the four-act military play, entitled On Circumstantial Evidence. Mr. A. M. James as Sir Lawrence Kinloch, M.P., is well suited; and Jack Ogilvy is in the capable hands of Mr. Wilson Brash, who gives an excellent portrayal. Mr. Chas. Clifford as Captain Hamilton plays the villain with success; Mr. J. Keane is a smart General Garibaldi; Mr. Newton Pearce provides much merriment as Jeremiah Tobin, being well supported by Miss Stewart as Polly Smithers. Miss Hilda Hatton in her double rôle of Olga and Mary is versatile; and Violet Ogilvy finds in Miss Maud Camfield (Mrs. Clifford) a pleasing and clever exponent.

THE KURSAAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. P. T. J. Bacon.—In the theatre, Miss Florrie Farren pleases as a serio and dancer; Fred Field is heard to advantage in his songs; Cliff Harley is a clever electric automaton; and Cavern and Cave provide good sketches. In the Hippodrome, Peter Gotz gives wrestling exhibitions; and turns are presented by August and Lillian, smart acrobats; Little Steve, the coloured comedian; and Mme. Savairo, speciality artist. Other attractions include entertainments in the Café Chantant, "Slipping the Slip," and the Mystic Galatea.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietors, the Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Company; General-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—Mr. Leigh Lovel's company is this week presenting an admirable interpretation of Shakespeare's comedy A Midsummer Night's Dream. Miss Ethel Beckwith depicted the part of the singing Fairy with charming verve and artistic vocalisation; Miss Alys Rees undertook the part of Oberon very successfully, alike in a dramatic and vocal sense; Puck had a volatile and clever representative in Miss Mary Bessle; the attendant fairies were admirably impersonated by the Misses Sybil Glynn, Lilian Corbett, Della Rosa, and Gladys Glynn; Mr. Leigh Lovel scored a notable success in his humorous portrayal of Nick Bottom; Miss Octavia Kenmore and Miss Mary Lovett as Helena and Hermia respectively did well; and Mr. Michael Connolly effectively conducted Mendelssohn's music.

ALBERT HALL, WINTER GARDENS.—General-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—A capital programme was presented at this popular variety hall on Monday evening, the most prominent item being contributed by Helena and Emilon, talented gymnasts, who gave an astonishing and graceful performance. Other turns were supplied by Conway and Leland, the merry monopedes; Miss Cissy Paris, the Crystal Palace pantomime favourite; Mr. Frank Leon, eccentric character comedian and dancer; the Crystals (Nita and Rosa), vocalists and speciality dancers; Howard and St. Clair, American comedy artists; Miss Lizzie Kirk, comedienne and dancer; and Mr. Georgé Adams, the eminent New Zealand baritone.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Parker; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Mertz.—The favourite comedienne Jenny Johns, who heads the bill here this week, has met with a good reception, her rendering of "The Seaside Girl"—a song composed by Mr. J. H. Mertz, the popular manager of the Pavilion—being loudly applauded. The programme embraces the Bensons, in their great comedy act; Geo. H. Keith, versatile actor-vocalist; Rappo and Ella, equilibrists and acrobats; Mr. Charles Parker's Komedy Koncert Ko., including Miss Eileen Hope, Miss Rita Vincent, Miss Ethel Lonsdale, Mr. G. Le Butt, Mr. Arnold Richardson, and Mr. H. Flocton Foster; Sidney Dolf, vocal trickster; Dobito and Buxton, refined vocalists; Bert Harrow, the rum comedian; and the bio-tableaux.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—Large audiences are keenly appreciating A False Wife, a drama full of sensation, and presented by Mr. F. Marriott Watson's company. Miss Florence E. Florence is suitably cast as the adventuress, Estelle de Lussan, her admirable treatment of the part meeting with deserved applause; Mr. F. Strickland ably represents the cool and sinister villain, Jean Beraud; Mr. W. Howard Barlow speaks his lines boldly and effectively as the hero, Lieut. George Mansfield; Miss Ellen Armour is satisfactorily placed as the heroine, Agnes Weyland; Mr. Elton Morgan capitally renders the comic sailor, Ben Rattler; Mr. John Cecil ably sustains Zorak.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr. Jos. Sweeney.—The bill here is headed by Ara, Zebra, and Vora in Indian Pastimes, a successful novelty which is much appreciated; Warden, Reed, and company present a good dramatic episode entitled The Right Road; a ventriloquist of ability is Cavalli, with his Tyneside doll; the Dunvilles give an up-to-date act as musicians, vocalists, and dancers; other items are Harry Morgan, a smart coon artist; Earle and Melville, comedians and dancers; and Walter Payne's Bio-Photoscope.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Harding Thomas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Herbert Vere.—Mr. Henry Bedford's company is paying a visit to Spennymoor this week, and is delighting local audiences by the presentation of two pleasing dramas, Gipsy Jack and The See-Saw of Life. The week's entertainment commenced with the former piece, in which Mr. Bedford gives a clever impersonation of the title-rôle. Miss Bessie Bedford's May Harvey is bright and vivacious; and Miss Violet Alwyn displays capabilities as Dorothy Dexter; Mr. Cecil B. Churton as the Curate presents a decidedly good study; Messrs. Walter H. Domoney and Alex. Alexander as Mr. Skinner and his son Gerald submit capital portrayals of a couple of unscrupulous scoundrels. Miss Jenny Risley and Mr. Sid Bedford as Jennie Huggins and Joe Banks provide plenty of fun.

STAFFORD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone.—Mr. Francis Everard and company are still occupying the boards here, and continue to attract good houses. The Shadows of a Great City was the attraction for the first three nights, and for the remainder of the week The Streets of London, Sorrows of Satan, and Ticket of Leave Man were billed. In the first-mentioned piece Mr. Francis Everard, as Jim Farren, and Mr. Edwin Turner, as Tom Cooper, sustained their parts with great ability, and Mr. Hyland Shea gave an amusing study of Abe Nathan. Miss Mabel Marte was successful as Biddy Roonan, and Miss Phyllis Atherleigh was a clever and vivacious Nellie Standish. The Sisters Valli, musicians and dancers, had a flattering reception.

STALYBRIDGE.—GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Mundill.—This week there are variety attractions, headed by John Higgins, the champion jumper; T. W. Barrett, the nobleman's son, retains much of his humorous vitality; Violi, a lady instrumentalist, is remarkably clever; Miss Bessie Willows, burlesque actress, sings some capital songs; Miss Nellie Merton and George Rydan, duettists, cause much amusement; and Gillan, ventriloquial artist; Atroy, juggler; and a number of animated pictures are also among the attractions.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, The St. Helens Theatre, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—This week we have a return visit of Messrs. A. O. Dell and Chabot's company in the Romany's Revenge. Mr. A. O. Dell is the John Hope, and a better rendering of the part it would be difficult to imagine. As David Rennard, Mr. Harry C. Robinson fully realises the polished, cynical man of the world; Miss Ethel Ashleigh is well suited as Zamet, playing throughout with confidence and skill; Mr. A. Harvey's impersonation of Caleb Krai is in every respect excellent; and Miss Eva Elwes does well in the dual rôles of Lilian and Elskie; Mr. D. Hamilton and Miss Fanny Wallace cause much merriment as Bobie and Polly.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, W. Sley, and F. Willmott; Manager, Mr. A. V. Carnell.—Undoubtedly the star turn here is the Geni Family, ten in number, who, assisted by three ponies, give a clever, neat, and elaborate Risley act; Mr. H. O. Wills, comedian, repeats his success; Mlle. Zelda again scores as an instrumentalist; Barrett and Knowles create plenty of fun; Miss Marion Weston scores as a dancer and banjoist; Miss Blanche Marion is effective as a coon singer and dancer; Wyndham and Waters are well received in a sketch; and the Bioscope, with new pictures, pleases all.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. William Revill.—Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's company in In Holy (!) Russia has interested appreciative audiences here this week. Renée Rubinoff is gracefully and effectively played by Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy, and as Michael Matolski, Mr. Louis Norman acts with power. Genuinely funny is Mr. J. Rice Cassidy as Micky Nolan, and Mr. Frank Copeland is impressive as Sir Harry Beresford. Very amusing is Mr. Arthur Stratton as Colonel Richard Forrest, and Mr. Carl Rovinelli acts capably as Laurice Stragoff. Mr. Joe Cuthbertson impersonates the character of Baron von Pleve admirably, and Miss Alice Marsden as Madame Matolski, and Miss Annie Dudley as Mrs. Richard Forrest are both excellent.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Madge Gray in her Lancashire dialect songs has quite suited the tastes of large audiences here. Among others engaged are Correza and Keith in a clever equilibrist display; Ormond Penstone, an entertaining conjurer; Hughes and Elliott, ragtime vocalists and sand dancers; the Sisters Brand, delightful comediennes and dancers; the Jansons, in a talented gymnastic act; Mike Cray, an amusing juggler, and his dog "Dooley"; Tom Moore, a comedian of undoubted merit; Mona McDonald, vocalist, and the Brothers Brooks, in a pleasing comedy-act. A particular feature of the programme is the Hackenschmidt v. Madrali wrestling match on the Bioscope.

STOKE.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Manager, Mr. H. Miller.—The Royal Tokio Troupe head the bill this week in their foot balancing, &c., which is both clever and interesting; Miss Millie Payne is successful in her songs, which are enthusiastically encored; Harris L. Bell and Lily Pearl are seen in a capital sketch entitled A Bit of String; Mabel Kessler contributes solos upon the cornet and post-horn in a masterly manner; George Prince scores a success in his humorous items; Lanton and Lane are capital comedians; Peakman and Walsh, comedy jugglers, provide a turn of interest; and the Sisters Bartholomew are smart duettists and dancers. The Bioscope shows several capital pictures.

SUNDERLAND.—AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Sunderland Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin.—A special stock season commenced here on Monday with The Octoroon. Mr. S. S. Gordon gives a strong impersonation of Jacob M'Glosky; Mr. Albert Sember is seen to advantage as Salem Scudder; Mr. G. Antley is amusing as Pete; Miss Nina Vaughton gives an excellent rendering of Zoe; and other parts are ably filled.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Sunderland Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. E. Machin; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hemingway.—The animated pictures of the Britt-Nelson fight are drawing crowded houses here this week. In addition there are some variety turns.

PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Stringer; Treasurer, Mr. A. Browne.—The place of honour is this week held by Yukio Tani, the Japanese wrestler; Foreman and Fannan, grotesque comedians, also figure prominently; Nowles and Byran, patterers and duettists; Vera Mayne, comedienne; Jock Walker, Scotch comedian; Lady Julia, billed as the ape with the human brain; Billy Hobbs, dancer; Rose Elliott, vocalist; and Vernon's bioscope, complete the programme.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Captain Clayton; General Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—The Crimson Club, excellently played by Miss Evelyn Moore's company, is the attraction this week. As the wrongfully-accused Richard Fenton, Mr. Clifford Wright does some good work; the Sir Philip Garside of Mr. Fred Kay is played in forcible style; as Adolphus Garside, Mr. Percy Shaw achieves much success, and his whistling solos greatly please his audience. Miss Florence Delmar plays a heavy part as Julia Marsden, and scores well.

SWINDON.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Responsible Manager, Mr. Alfred Manners; Musical Director, Mr. Fred. Lucas.—Mr. Char. Harrington's company, under the general management of Mr. Gerald Alexander, in The Sailors of the King, is the attraction here. Mr. Charles Harrington greatly distinguishes himself as Admiral Drake, being strongly supported by Mr. Harry Douglas, who makes a decided hit as Dick; Mr. Walter Farnsworth does good work as Rufford Dent; Miss Gertrude Sterroll is distinctly pleasing as Daisy Dent; and Miss Sylvia Stella and Miss Hero Hathaway work creditably in their respective parts; Miss Maude Digby, as Rebecca Crosby; and Mr. F. Vernon Travers, as Orrel Drake, are seen to advantage; Mr. Kenneth Black, jun., as Barnet Fair, is the cause of considerable amusement.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Carey; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. J. Gunnell—Mr. Arthur St. John and company are appearing in Black-Eyed Susan. Miss Marie Jones gives a charming impersonation of the nautical heroine; and Mr. St. John scores as William the sailor; Mr. F. Walters as the Admiral and Mr. W. J. Mackersey as the Captain are excellent studies; Mr. W. Clarke infuses much humour into the part of Jacob Twig; and Mr. Smith is excellent as Lieut. Pike. Miss Jessie Elvin as Dolly Mayflower should also be commended; and other members of the company who do good work include Messrs. Archie Grant, W. Foster, E. Bennett, W. Langdale Thompson, and Bert Elvin. A farce, The Spectre Bridegroom, is well received as a curtain raiser.

WAKEFIELD.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Miss Adria Hill and Mr. Robert Ayrton's company occupies the stage this week, in the drama, The Gambler's Daughter. Mr. Robert Ayrton gives a capital impersonation as Desmond O'Dare; and Solomon Solomons finds an apt exponent in Mr. Alfred Saunders. Mr. Richard Pitt makes the most of his opportunities as John Grant; Mr. Victor Millard is good as Jack Grant; Mr. A. Kenyon Gray scores as Ralph Gillam; Miss Adria Hill gives a refined and pathetic rendering as Miriam Grant; Miss Sanders is well placed as Carita, a Spanish girl; and Miss Ida Fane is admirable as a negress.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Henry Lucas.—Mr. F. V. St. Clair, vocalist, heads the bill this week, and scores a hit; Cinizelli, the silent jester, gives a smart turn; Flo Hilton is a dashing male impersonator; the Gelders, conjurers, are clever. Other items include Miss Lillie Husker, a dainty dancer; Miss Gracie Logan, baby mimic; Freddie Bentley, comedian; and Mlle. Henrietta, in a pleasing musical scene.

WALSALL.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manger and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—George Brooks, the sailor, heads the bill here this week. The Four Olympian Stars give a capital turn; the Labakans and their dog Folly, acrobatic eccentrics, give a meritorious performance; the Sisters Mariano, in their breakaway trapeze exhibition, are successful; Jack Theo Trio also score as equilibrists; Lizzie Daniels, comedienne, is much admired; Starr and Leslie, comedy artists, add greatly to the interest of the programme; and the American Bioscope give some capital pictures.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Mr. Charles Price's company is the attraction here this week in The Shop Boy. Mr. Harry Pleon as Sarsaparilla Smith is delightfully humorous. The following specialities are introduced:—White and Jerome, comedy singing duo; Celia Kent, expert dancer; Chris. V. Bern, banjo speciality; and the Alexander Troupe of lady dancers. The drama is preceded each evening by the sensational episode The Club Raid.

WALTHAMSTOW.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. Adney Payne; Manager Mr. Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Slatter.—Mr. Dudman Bromwich and company are appearing here in the playlet In Old Madrid. The scene in the torture-chamber is thrilling in the extreme. Mr. Dudman Bromwich plays with vigour as Frank Lyndhurst; and Messrs. Harry Walker and Mr. Geo. Dalroy, Miss Katie Neville, and Miss Marie Pearl lend adequate aid. The other sketch of the week is a weird episode, The Freak's Revenge, in which Mr. Fred Conquest is most impressive as Esau; and Leon Dubois gives a marvellous impersonation of the gorilla. The Carisa Sisters, in a musical mélange, are remarkably clever; Mr. Will Dalton is a comedian with ability; Tee and Tee, eccentrics, provoke merriment; the Ten Dixie Girls sing and dance with abundant spirit; those tried and popular favourites, Signor and Madame Borelli, just returned from abroad, repeat a performance that is already familiar to Palace audiences, but is no less enjoyable on that account; the Italian, French, and German imitations of Madame Borelli are excellent. An interesting wind-up is supplied by Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope.

WEST BROMWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. P. Moore.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's company opened here on Monday to a crowded house with the historical drama A Royal Divorce. Miss Lillian Dundas gives a talented rendering of Josephine; Miss Muriel Thompson submits an effective embodiment of Marie Louise; Miss Gertrude Entwistle makes an acceptable Stephanie; Miss B. F. Stewart does well as the gouvernante and Blanche; and the young King is ably played by Miss Gracie Kendrick. Mr. Frederick Moyes, in the rôle of Napoleon, gives a rendering which is received with the heartiest applause. Mr. H. Gray Dolby is good as Talleyrand; Mr. Henry Ludlow as the Marquise de Beaumont is well placed; and Mr. C. Lionel Brocknor's General Augereau is capably played.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. J. A. Lewis.—An Abandoned Woman is this week paying a return visit. Miss Georgette Thierry endows the character of Ninon with dramatic intensity; Mr. Bernard Leill does well in the rôle of Philippe Malvoisin; Mr. George Gormley plays the part of Robert Saunders in good style; Mr. Wolston Foster is a manly Capt. Herbert Seton; and Miss Kathleen Magee wins the sympathy of the house by her portrayal of Eleanor Dean.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—May Moore-Duprez, who makes her first appearance here, gives sparkling freshness to song and dance; Otto and Olga in Mirth, Music, and Mock Opera convince all of their abilities as musicians; imitations are capitally done by Mr. Fred Poplar; some smartly executed acrobatic feats on the triple bars are contributed by Rozaro Bolleros; Grey and Welford, in patter and comic boxing, are amusing; the Roman Emperor song as done by Tatten Hall is about the funniest thing that has been seen here for some time; Kitty Wager, comedienne, contributes a pleasing

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA.

Kind expressions from Authors and Managers.

SIR SQUIRE BANCROFT.

"I congratulate you on your 'Fifty Years of the Drama': the list must prove both interesting and useful to lovers of and workers for the stage."

MR. GEORGE EDWARDES.

"I think the new feature of The Era is most interesting and useful. A list of plays produced from 1850 to 1900 will certainly be of great service to a very large number of your readers."

MR. EDWARD TERRY.

"An admirable idea, and will prove a most valuable record."

MR. FRANK CURZON.

"Your list, I think, will be most useful for reference."

MRS. W. K. CLIFFORD.

"I think the list will be immensely useful."

MR. SYDNEY GRUNDY.

"Your list will be exceedingly useful. But, of course, there is no reason why old titles should not be used again. Indeed, some day we shall have to go back to them. Some of our modern titles, when they are not mere proper names with an adjective attached, display the desperation of the dramatist in too ludicrous a light. Such a title as 'The Importance of Being Earnest' amounts to a misdemeanour."

MR. ARTHUR W. PINERO.

"The list of plays produced during the last half-century is a most valuable record. The thanks of those interested in the theatre are due to The Era for this and many other enterprises."

MR. ALFRED SUTRO.

"The list you are compiling will be of very great benefit, and I am looking forward to the time when it shall be complete, and obtainable in pamphlet form."

MR. JUSTIN HUNTLY McCARTHY.

"I have watched with the greatest interest the progress of your alphabetical list of the plays published during the last half of the nineteenth century. It is a most useful undertaking, and when it appears in volume form, it must prove of great value to all who are concerned with the drama."

MR. ISRAEL ZANGWILL.

"The list of plays will be very interesting and useful when published in complete form. The etiquette of the profession apparently still allows of novelists' titles being used by playwrights. Thus, The Master, which will appear in your list as a play by somebody else, is the name of a book of mine; while the new play, Noah's Ark, has the same title as a shorter story of mine."

MR. ARTHUR LAW.

"The publication in The Era of a list of plays produced during the fifty years, 1850-1900, is an excellent idea, and will be most useful to authors who may be in doubt as to their right to a certain title. When it is issued in book form I shall be very glad to possess a copy."

MR. ARTHUR BOURCHIER.

"Mr. Arthur Bourchier thinks the list very useful indeed."

MR. TOM GALLON.

"Your idea seems to me to be a most excellent one. Quite apart from the fact that there is always a difficulty in knowing what titles have been used, there very often arises the question of when and where a play was actually produced—a question difficult to be answered. Actors and authors should alike be grateful to The Era."

MR. LOUIS N. PARKER.

"I think your list of plays, produced between 1850 and 1900, will, like the other contents of your

MR. HAROLD MONTAGUE.

"I think the idea of printing a list of plays produced during the last fifty years an excellent one. It should be of great value to authors."

MR. ARTHUR SHIRLEY.

"The list of produced plays was not merely a happy thought, for the same idea has probably occurred to many, though until The Era carried it out no one took the pains to collect and publish such a truly valuable record.

"Managers, dramatists, as well as would-be authors, will henceforward have a long list of titles to refer to, and there will be neither reason nor excuse for encroaching on pre-existing copyright in play titles. What a lot of trouble it should save us all!"

MR. WALTER MELVILLE.

"I think it shows great enterprise on the part of your journal, and likely to prove most useful and at the same time interesting to the general profession."

MR. ARTHUR MORRISON.

"The list you are publishing will be a most valuable work of reference to everybody taking an interest in the stage, and I have no doubt that when it is published as a book you will find its success warrant you in issuing fresh editions from time to time, with the information brought to date in each case."

MR. J. J. DILLEY.

"The idea is an excellent one, and there can be no question at all of the usefulness of such a summary. Cousin Grace has not been included. This is a little piece from the French, played at a matinée performance at the Gaiety Theatre, Dec. 4, 1884."

MR. COSMO HAMILTON.

"I think that your new feature is an excellent and most useful one. A list of plays produced during fifty years is interesting not only to the playgoer, but essentially so to the manager and the playwright. They will only have to consult it to be sure that a title has not been used before."

MR. CHARLES H. E. BROOKFIELD.

"My attention has been called to your list of plays produced between 1850-1900. I have no doubt it will prove interesting and useful to many."

MR. F. FRANKFORT MOORE.

"The list of plays produced during the past fifty years, now appearing in The Era, will, I am certain, prove, when completed, extremely valuable to everyone associated with the drama in England. I am convinced—and I have had a considerable amount of experience in this direction—that it will be especially valued by all writers upon stage matters. The advantage of being able to refer at a moment's notice to the criticisms upon the production of various plays in various newspapers must be apparent to everyone. If such a list had been in existence some years ago, I would have been saved a vast amount of worry and vexation of spirit. The Era has once again proved itself appreciative of the conditions under which the best interests of the drama in England are maintained."

Mr. SAMUEL JAMES'S
Magnificent Production of
"AS GOOD AS GOLD."

Extracts from the London Press:—
Daily Express:—
An instantaneous success.
Lloyds:—
An exciting melodrama, full of powerful situations. The explosion is most realistic and startling.
People:—
There are some cleverly devised situations and dramatic incidents in "As Good as Gold." It is a melodrama of a stirring nature. It was picturesquely staged.
News of the World:—
Was produced with considerable success. . . . is handled by the author in quite a skilful fashion. A hearty reception was accorded the production, which was well staged.
Chiswick Times:—
There is a startling episode in the third act. . . . even more so than when the earthquake used to so astound playgoers in Wilson Barrett's "Claudian."

N.B.—Every scene and property carried.
One of the most complete Productions ever Toured.
Address, re dates,

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking engagements, or turns not re-booked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows :—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALAN W. YOUNG,
Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. W. LEA,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS,
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

A DETECTIVE'S TOUR ROUND THE WORLD.

A Detective's life is full of ups and downs, and many exciting incidents are faithfully portrayed in this excellent film, which shows a detective's pursuit round the world of a fraudulent bankrupt.

The flight in disguise. The detective just misses the train. At the Suez Canal. Scenes on the banks. A narrow escape. Bankrupt drugs the detective's drink. False arrest of the detective. A festival in Calcutta. Brilliant procession of elephants &c. Bombay Pagoda. Close pursuit and another narrow escape on horseback. Chased on an elephant. In an opium-smokers' den. Visions of the bankrupt and his pursuer. In Yokohama. Missed by a hair's breadth. Flight to America. The detective is foiled again through getting mixed up with a procession of citizens advocating the election of President Roosevelt. The detective is captured by redskins, bound to a tree, and badly wounded. Rescue by the bankrupt. Pursuer and pursued are now close friends. The bankrupt saves the detective's life, and the latter tears up his warrant. Leaving New York. A friend in need. An unexpected partnership. About 1150ft.

Colouring extra; net, 3 0s. 0d.

SAN FRANCISCO DISASTER. Taken on the Spot.

Now ready. This is a fine film, giving a panoramic view of different parts of this stricken city. Most of the principal buildings can be seen in ruins, and the whole film gives a splendid idea as to what terrible straits a fine town can be reduced by the terrible forces of nature, over which man has no control. About 246ft.

The Subject, £6 3s. 0d.

APARTMENTS TO LET.

Lady and gentleman in search of apartments. The rival landladies. The right house at last. Viewing the rooms. Gentleman has the tail of his coat torn off by the door of Room No. 1. His wife will not listen to his tale of woe, but rushes him on, as she seems charmed with the apartments. A lovely outlook from the second room, but quite spoilt by a rug and flower-pot falling on old gentleman's silk hat. Examining the chimneys. A fall of soot. Encounter with the paperhanger. A seat in the paste. An involuntary shower-bath. Old gentleman, taking a last look out, falls out of window, but is luckily saved by a cart which is standing underneath. The couple are not so pleased with the rooms as they were, and walk off without further word to the landlady. About 230ft. The Subject, £5 15s. 0d.

THE TARGET.

The boy and the rifle. A shot at the candle. The willing helper. Breaking an egg with disastrous results to the boy underneath. A paper target is now made and pasted, and laid on a seat while the pot of paste is put away. Old gentleman sits on seat, and the target sticks to the seat of his trousers. Bending down to do a bit of gardening, he gives a full view of the target, and a boy scores a bull's-eye on it. Capture and punishment of the wrong scorer. About 164ft.

The Subject, £4 2s. 0d.

THE FIANCE'S BOUQUET.

A porter is hired to carry a bouquet, but on the way to his destination he unfortunately drops the bouquet in the road, where it is run over and quite spoilt. Wondering what he can do, his eye lights on a leg of pork, which strikes him as being the same shape as the bouquet. He steals this, with the assistance of a friend, and together they cover the pork with a few flowers, tie it up in paper, and duly present it at the lady's house. The pleasure of the lady and her father quickly changes to anger when they discover the make-up of the bouquet, and the poor lover has an unpleasant time. About 200ft. The Subject, £5.

(Code Word—FRISCASTER).

We have ready for delivery a Series of Films showing the Sections of the City devastated.

The Views are as follows:—

PANORAMA OF 4th AND MARKET STREETS.
PANORAMA, from Motor Car, DOWN MARKET STREET, ending at Palace Hotel and Call Building.
PANORAMA NEAR PALACE HOTEL, showing President Roosevelt in a carriage.
PANORAMA OF UNION SQUARE, showing thousands of people in this spot. Were it not for the flags this would readily pass for an actual scene showing confusion incidental to the earthquake.
PANORAMA OF CLIFF HOUSE.

Total Length 500ft. Price £12 10s.

Full Particulars of the Pictures of the Disaster—as announced—on application.

A DAY with the DERBY FAVOURITES.

IN THE SUMMER TIME.

No. 1046.

The warmer weather is appreciated by us all, and brings many happy incidents in its train, love matches occur more frequently, and numbers of young people fall in love at first sight. This film depicts a young lady strolling out with her Ma, who in passing a young gentleman steals a glance at him, and in that one short moment both are seen to become enamoured of one another. The young lady, with ready wit, and, with a view to an introduction, drops her chatelaine bag and strolls on, leaving her would-be wooer to follow up the cue. The young man, seizing eagerly the opportunity offered, runs back, and picking up the bag, returns it gracefully to the ladies, and, introducing himself, offers his escort, which is promptly accepted. The young Adonis pays more attention to the daughter, although keeping a careful and watchful eye on her parent. They stroll down towards the river, and rest upon a seat beneath a low-hanging tree. The mother is seen to protect her offspring from the too eager efforts of the young man to sit beside her. Love, however, with persuasion wins over the old lady, and she shifts to make room for the excited young wooer, who is for a time in quite a dilemma as to how he can gain a few moments alone with the object of his affection. At last he hits upon a plan, takes from his pocket a piece of tape, tying this to a low bow of the tree behind the mother, he holds the other end while sitting between the two; pulling his end of the tape, the leaves of the tree tickle the mother's neck, and she naturally turns to see what it is that troubles her. The lovers soon arrange matters between themselves, and both are seen to be quite enraptured with one another, and, as is usual, show those signs of affection which lovers will The artful trick of the young man answers very well once or twice, but the parent, rising from her seat, at last discovers how she has been cheated, and at once takes prompt measures to cool the ardour of her daughter's suitor by pulling a branch from the tree and belabouring him with it. The daughter, however, promptly intercedes, and adds to the pleadings of her partner. The mother, remembering her young days, forgives the young people, and makes them happy with her consent and blessing.

SAN FRANCISCO DISASTER!

AN UNIQUE SERIES OF PICTURES

Depicting the terrible destruction which overtook this beautiful City. Skyscrapers stand there simply skeleton frames. Houses knocked over like a pack of cards. Ruins follow ruins in quick succession. Nothing like it has ever been seen on the screen before. It surpasses the power of the pen to describe the chaos and awful havoc wrought by the earthquake and fire. Our pictures give a graphic and vivid idea of this fearful calamity.

DESCRIPTIVE RUNNING TITLES IN EACH FILM.

Section No. 8025.—Panoramic view of Nob Hill.
Panoramic View of Chinatown (an awful scene of destruction).
A Looter being chased by the Sentry.
Thieves in the Refugees Camp at Golden Gate Park.
Views in Golden Gate Park Refugees Camp.
Refugees trying to enjoy themselves.
Length, 540 feet. Price, £13 10s. 0d. Code word, "Chinatown."

Section No. 8026.—View of the Ruins of the Fine City Hall.
View of Grand Avenue.
Searching for Valuables under Guard.
Length, 435 feet. Price £10 12s. 6d. Code word, "Hall."

Awe-Inspiring! Thrilling!! Startling!!!

N.B.—Please note these are NOT FAKE Pictures. WE do not stoop to such tactics. And what is more, our Pictures do not require faking. They are too good to add to. We have not included a lot of old FIRE Films, with men playing on the Flames WHEN THERE WAS NO WATER THERE for the use of the Firemen. Remember! the Exhibitor who shows "faked" pictures as actualities is breaking faith with the Public, and does the trade no good, but only harm. Why deceive your audience when you can procure

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Almanac and Annual for 1906, is not only a valuable collection of information and a history of the dramatic and musical year. It is also a very amusing and entertaining shillingsworth It contains contributions from many well-known actors and actresses. Mr. Frank Desprez, the editor, contributes a delightful story about an actress who sold her collection of Press notices in order to help a colleague in distress. There are numerous portraits. The lists of English, French, and German plays produced during the year are very useful. Altogether, "The Era" Almanack is indispensable to all interested in the stage.—The Star, Jan. 24, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
The thirty-ninth issue of "The Era" Annual has just appeared, and once more it supplies a useful record of the theatrical year. An editorial note reminds us that among the contributors to the first number, that of 1868, were E. L. Blanchard (its editor), Charles Mathews, T. W. Robertson, Andrew Halliday, H. J. Byron, Watts Phillips, and Dion Boucicault—a brilliant band indeed. The contributors to the present issue are almost exclusively actors rather than literary men, but upon the whole they make a very fair show; while the lists of plays produced in London and the provinces, and in Paris and Berlin during the twelve months under review are distinctly useful. There are a number of photographs including an exceedingly fine one of the late Sir Henry Irving.—Pall Mall Gazette, Jan. 22.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual, 1906, is welcome as containing carefully compiled lists of the pieces produced during the past year in London, the suburbs, and the provinces, in Paris, and in Berlin. The rest of it is curious and entertaining reading. There is the almanack with its "memorabilia of theatrical events occurrences, &c." There are besides a score of stories and other articles contributed by theatricals a very good one being Miss Louie Freear's set of verses, "Boy Bob" at Sea," which has humour, feeling, and swing. The book contains many theatrical portraits. As a book of reference the Annual is of great use and value, and while some of its contents doubtless appeal more keenly to the professional than to the outsider, any thoughtful person may derive from its study much amusement and no little insight into the conditions, the magnitude, and the complexity of the English theatre of to-day.—Morning Post, Jan. 22.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual appears once more in its familiar binding, a compendium of information and amusement for all who are interested in theatrical affairs. In the calendar will be found an array of anniversary dates, some recent, some recalling memories of old times and actors and actresses long passed away. The summary of new plays produced during the past year is admirably done, its value being increased by the alphabetical list which is appended. Well-known actors and actresses contribute stories in accordance with a custom justified by its success.—Daily Telegraph, Jan. 18, 1906.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER,
BY
ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).
Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.
Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr. Albert A. Strong's new work, entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr. Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his text-book on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases, what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, APRIL 24. — PRINCESS'S THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. William Anderson).—The ever-popular opera, La Fille du Tambour Major, was again witnessed by a crowded audience on Saturday evening. Signor A. Rebottaro made his reappearance in the part of Captaine Robert, and sang in excellent style. The opera is admirably played by Mr. Anderson's company, and the mounting is on a lavish scale.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. Geo. Tallis).—The romantic drama, Dorothy Vernon of Haddon Hall, has evidently captivated Melbourne playgoers, the theatre being packed nightly. The piece is excellently mounted, and the comedy business is most diverting. Miss Tittell Brune is a charming Dorothy Vernon; while Mr. Kingston as Sir John Manners has a part which suits him admirably. Miss Susie Vaughan makes a dignified Queen Elizabeth; and Mr. Athol Wood, Mr. Stavely, Mr. Mervale, Miss Ferguson, and others, acquit themselves well.

OPERA HOUSE (Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon). — An excellent programme is now being presented at this popular place of amusement. The Miles-Stavordale quartet party are the premier attraction at present, their remarkably clever manipulation of the banjo and harp nightly evoking great enthusiasm. Martinetti and Grosse give an amusing turn; the Scottish Meisters render some charming part songs; the Carmos give a sensational juggling act; Mlle. Omega astonishes all with her clever wire-walking; and the rest of the company contribute pleasing turns.

THEATRE ROYAL (Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Grant).—A large audience witnessed the stirring melodrama, The Midnight Mail, on Saturday evening. The play abounds in striking situations, and a number of excellent tableaux are presented during the performance.

GAIETY THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. Frank Clarke).—There was a complete change of programme on Saturday evening, the company including Miss Amy Blackie, Miss Lucy Levina, May Marlowe, Andy Roberts, Will Renton, and Zeno and Hall. Vulcan, the handcuff king, made his appearance, and obtained a cordial reception.

SYDNEY, APRIL 24.—The Cingalee is a trump-card for Mr. J. C. Williamson's Royal comic opera company, and it is an extra attraction now, strengthened as it is by Miss Florence Young as Lady Patricia. Then, again, it was the production in which Miss Margaret Thomas made her first theatre appearance, much to our enjoyment and her profit. On the 28th Mr. Williamson will revive The Orchid, and Miss Clara Clifton will make her reappearance after a long period of throat trouble.

"BESIEGED IN PORT ARTHUR," as served up by Mr. Bland Holt, is a savoury dish for the Royal's playgoers, who, so far, have shown no desire for a change of menu. Every incident and patriotic speech, for whichever side it is made, evokes a round of applause, and Mr. Bland Holt and his industrious wife keep the fun furiously going.

THE Brough-Flemming Comedy Company gave its final performance—Quality Street—on Thursday, the theatre being closed on the Friday on account of the death of Mr. Robert Brough. The company opened last night in Brisbane, Mrs. Brough and Miss Emma Temple remaining behind.

MESSRS. CLYDE MEYNELL AND JOHN GUNN brought a company to the Criterion on the 21st to give us an ultra-transpontine drama called The Fatal Wedding. Miss May Congdon and Mr. Charles Vane are the principals, and Miss Maisie Posner is engaged to play the ten-year-old girl, who unravels the plot and confounds most villainous villainy at the steps of the altar. These three are first-class artists. A troupe of street children indulging in varied antics in a gentleman's drawing-room adds interest, the singing of a hymn being the creditable outcome of the tuition of Miss Chambers, sister of Haddon, of dramatic fame. Miss Doria Cooper is an all-destroying adventuress in gorgeous costumes; and Mr. Herbert Leigh helps on all things evil until the child averts them all. Miss Amy Singleton and Mr. Tom Cannam have the comedy entrusted to them, and crime and comedy are dear to a Sydney audience. Mr. Olly Deering and Mr. C. R. Stanford, who also stage-manages, have minor but necessary characters. The Fatal Wedding is a veritable "boom," and justifies the two managers in their catering for our public

MR. HARRY RICKARDS' already plethoric bill was further fattened on Saturday by the coming of Miss Rose Cabani. This lady became at once an immense favourite, the audience joining in the chorus of her songs. Larola also came, and kept laughter and astonishment battling for the mastery all through his turn of song and acrobatics. Miss Alice Raymond is more popular every night, and flowers in abundance are handed to her. Slade Murray, the Two Bells and Eight Primroses, Harry Hart, Baby Watson, Fanny Powers, the Three Lees, the Dancing Gilberts, Fred Benett, Kitty Lenton, Clive Cooke, Harry Sadler, and Florrie Henderson all appear. On the 28th Homer B. Mason and Marguerite Keeley will appear in their comedy, Hooked by Crook.

WEST'S PICTURES and the Brescians turn money away every night from the Palace, and Mr. Edwin Geach has arranged for seven nights at the Town Hall after he finishes here on the 27th.

MR. GEORGE STEPHENSON opens at the Palace on the 28th with a new comic opera, A Moorish Maid, composed by Alfred Hill, the New Zealand musician.

WIRTH'S CIRCUS is having a good season. Albeit a long way out of town, and Martini's Buck-jumpers show no diminution of patronage, the tent having been nightly crowded for some months now.

COLE'S HIPPODROME is playing a bushranging drama written by the Hon. E. W. O'Sullivan to large audiences at most popular prices.

J. W. WINTON concluded his series of entertainments "for non-theatre-goers" at the Centenary (Wesleyan) Hall on Saturday night.

MR. HUGH J. WARD arrived on Saturday ready for the Willoughby-Ward season at the Palace.

MR. TOM FITZGERALD, the remaining brother of the two who owned the great circus, died recently at Burmah in India. Dan died last year, and both were most highly respected as straight-going managers and men.

THE San Francisco earthquake concerned the theatrical world here most seriously. Mr. J. C. Williamson had the Collier Dramatic Company and the tenor, Reginald Roberts, just about to leave the Californian capital; Miss Tittell Brune had a husband managing a bank in that city; Kubelik coming out for a tail season was there; and the Nellie Stewart company was somewhere thereabouts. Cablegrams have announced the safety of all these, and many visitors from this part of the world.

THE Marquis de Leuville is presenting Miss Ellen Terry with one of his pistol-target pictures containing a portrait of the gifted actress in one of her most queenly characters, and an equally excellent likeness of the late Sir Henry Irving. The picture has a green velvet mount and a frame of simple but artistic workmanship and original classic design. The initials, "E. T.," in silver are over the drawing, and there are one or two crests and escutcheons engraved and chased inside the frame. Sir Henry Irving possessed a large water-colour drawing by the Marquis, which was presented to the Municipality of Lyons, as it was a view in the neighbourhood.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Cavanah, C.A.—Uncle Tom's Cabin is being played this week by Mr. Charles Hermann's company. Eliza is acted with good effect by Miss Florence Trench; Mr. Charles Freeman gives a manly representation of George Harris; and Legree is sufficiently brutal in the hands of Mr. Frank Woodward. Mr. Hermann plays with marked ability as Phineas Fletcher; while Marks and Uncle Tom are capably interpreted by Mr. J. F. Millar and Mr. Harry Leander. Miss Cissie Carter shows much intelligence in the part of Eva, and Miss Nellie Shannon is an admirable Topsy.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—The greatest interest is taken this week in the Ju-jitsu turn of Yukio Tani, the Japanese wrestler, and contests take place nightly. Among the other artists who are well received are the Lyons Trio, pantomimists and dancers; the Henderson-Stanley Quartette in a vocal, instrumental, and dancing act; Miss Nell Hawthorne, a clever dancer and sweet singer; and Millstead and Bell in an extremely humorous and highly original interlude depicting the wooing of an Arizona maid by a British sailor. Included in this company is Mr. H. C. Catternach, a baritone vocalist of high merit.

COOKE'S HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. John Henry Cooke.—The principal attraction this week is the sensational equestrian Indian spectacle The Scalp-Hunters. Mr. Leicester Alfred Cooke appears in his smart historical act Rob Roy, and Miss Ernestine Rosa Cooke continues to charm the audience by her representation of a number of classical poses. Du Cailon shows much agility on the ladder, while Fynn and Haddie contribute some clever fooling with their automatic machine. Hinton and Wooton repeat their wonderfully expert bicycle act, and the Grovini Family evoke unstinted applause in their remarkably smart acrobatic turn.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. Harry Starr is here this week with two of his musical plays, Carl, the Clock Maker, and Otto, the Outcast. The author gives a clever and amusing delineation of Carl; Mr. Fred W. Graham plays Arthur Attwood in capable style; the heavy part, Maurice Helmore, is well played by Mr. Edwin Firth; Mr. W. Miller can be highly complimented on his Narkey Nabbs; Mr. Charles Cabe is suitably cast as Hans Conrad; Miss Madge Blundell is a distinct success as Madge Ryder; Miss Kati Noris gives a pleasing performance of Lena Harrigan; and Miss Ella Crossley is good as Jane Picklefinch.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Vandy, Potter and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. Campkin.—A first-class entertainment is provided here this week, including the Villions, a smart troupe of acrobatic cyclists; Lottie Lunn is well received; Renson and Waite merit applause for their clever patter and good singing; Bernard and Weston are amusing; the Two Neros are excellent; Miss Violet Morgan scores with her impersonations; Frances Heskoll gives an interesting electric illusory novelty; another good turn is Harry Bent; and the Bioscope completes the bill.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Williams.—The Night of the Party is an emphatic success as played here by Mr. Geo. Stephenson and company. Mr. Leslie Holland's impersonation of the irresistible Crosbie is excellent; Mr. Fred Rolph's clever acting as Flambert is greatly appreciated; Mr. George Stephenson displays pronounced dramatic ability as Mr. Frayne; Mr. H. V. Surrey contributed to the fun as Bogle; Mr. Geo. Sade is capital as Roundle; Mr. Allan Cunard as Sir C. Hampshire is equally successful; and Mr. Ernest Cresten does well as Hargen. Miss Vera Vere gives a bright and animated impersonation of Paulina; Miss Evelyn Howard is an excellent Lady Hampshire; the Gipsy is effectively rendered by Miss Evie Erskine; and Mrs. Young is ably played by Miss Maisie Jones.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Fairbairn.—Audiences have expressed their appreciation of the good points in the play entitled Her Lost Self presented here this week by Miss Frances Delaval and company. In the rôle of a woman whose nature has been warped by the betrayal and duplicity of a base scoundrel whom she trusted Miss Delaval is intensely dramatic and effective; Mr. Chas. Keene is cool and callous as the villain; Mr. Percy Carne Waram is impressive and pathetic as the husband of a minor heroine in the play; Miss Dora Hammersley is touching in her simplicity and innocence as the much-wronged wife, and afterwards as the daughter. Adequate interpretation is also given to minor rôles by Messrs. Adrian Lovett, Fred Lillywhite, L. W. Halfpenny, and by Mrs. Lyons, and others. The humorous element is admirably sustained by Miss Nell Ingram and Mr. Horace Buckley. Little Miss Johnson is also good as the child.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—This week the sketch The Demon of the Cellar, by the Six Brothers Luck, is the big feature of the bill. Field and Lewis, another "star" turn, score with their burlesque of melodrama, mimicry, and daring; the Sisters Allen, international dancers, have made a favourable impression; Farr and Farland, a couple of young artists, are successful as banjo duettists; Rayner and Reece are a good turn; Fred Mason, coster comedian and whistler, is well received; Stylo, the hoop juggler, gives a marvellous performance; Frances Lyric is a tuneful vocalist and high-kicker; and Little Rose Pink is a clever child singer and dancer.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. H. Beagle.—Messrs. E. A'Dell and Fred Chabot's company is appearing here this week in The Romany's Revenge.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Gibbons.—The programme presented here this week is headed by Miss Ella and her troupe of eight lions, a sensational and interesting item; Langton and Lane are seen in a mirth-provoking speciality act; Mr. Chris Masters, a singer of sailor songs, is successful; Mr. E. C. Clayton has an excellent selection of pictures; a welcome return visit is paid by the Brady and Johnson company in Turning the Tables; Queenie West finds favour as a comedienne; the Bonanzas give a clever act as hand-balancers and staircase performers; and the Bros. Zarno present an eccentric triple bar performance.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Frank Bateman's company in No Wedding Bells for Her is here. Mr. George G. Doughty does exceedingly well as Dick Delver; Mr. Stuart Lomath, as Frank Hatherley, has a congenial rôle; as Harold Trevelyan Mr. Edward E. Louis is convincing; and Doris Fane is winningly played by Miss Doris Lorraine. Miss Lizzie Montague draws a powerful character sketch of Lola Delaspierre; and Mr. Will Skelton, as Simkins, and Mr. Herbert J. Walton, as Adonis Tightfist, are humorous.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE. — Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge. — Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge are presenting the Furness Academy of Dramatic Art in the American comedy A Night Off at this theatre. The production is an excellent one, the students being exceedingly clever in their respective rôles. The performance is enthusiastically received, and the principal (Mrs. Calvert Routledge) must feel very proud of the society's first attempt.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr. Tom Whiting.—An excellent bill here includes the Kellinos, in their speciality act A Fête in Venice; Cherry Lass, comedienne and dancer; George Barron, eccentric comedian; Anthony, the mysterious gentleman in white; Girboy and Cross, in a comedy act; Will Driscoll, swell comedian and dancer; and Daisy Dormer, coon impersonator.

BATH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schubert.—The chief item of the bill here is the musical mélange The Prince of Monte Carlo, with the popular comedian Harry Roxbury in the diverting rôle of P.C. Longfellow. Excellent support is given by Miss Vashti Wynne as Lady Carr, and a strong chorus of energetic associates. The other turns are all paying welcome return visits, and include Mlle. Haydn's well-equipped miniature theatre; Will Van Allen, the smart tramp musician and raconteur; Mephisto, contortionist; the Two Bostons, in their well-known act as novelty showmen; Martin Henderson, the blind concertinist; and Lola Patey, the pleasing comedienne; Raymond's Bio-Tableaux conclude the entertainment.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—This week the boards are occupied by Mr. F. Douglas Wentworth and Mr. Charles A. Johnston's company in Henry Arthur Jones's play The Bauble Shop. Mr. T. W. Rawson submits a powerful rendering of Lord Clivebrook, and Mr. Leonard Booker makes an admirable Earl of Sarum. Mr. Raymond Thomas as Mr. Stoach, M.P., leaves nothing to be desired, while the Hon. Charles Teviot is capably represented by Mr. Hubert Dickeson. Mr. Wm. E. Passmore excellently portrays the part of Matthew Keber; Miss Lisa Coleman proves quite a success in her rôle of Lady Kate Hennell; Miss Lily Bertram charmingly depicts the trials of Jessie Keber; and Miss Muriel Barrington and Miss Mary Musden as Lady Bellenden and Gussy Bellenden respectively do justice to their parts.

BELFAST.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—A Royal Divorce, presented by a competent company, is the attraction here this week. Mr. Frederick Moyes furnishes a remarkably clever study of Napoleon, his make-up and acting being in the highest degree effective. It would indeed be difficult to equal Miss Edith Cole's delightful impersonation of the Empress Josephine, and with Mr. Moyes she deservedly bears the honours of the piece. In the rôle of the villainous Marquis de Beaumont Mr. George W. Cockburn plays admirably, and Mr. F. Joynsen-Powell is the crafty scheming Talleyrand to the life. Miss Elizabeth Watson's acting as Marie Louise of Austria is all that could be desired, and Mr. Alfred Wellesley is amusing as the drunken innkeeper Grimaud. Miss Clare Earle is a charming and vivacious Stephanie, and Mr. George Howard's impersonation of General Augereau has much to commend it. Other rôles are well portrayed by Miss Helena Meadows, Miss E. Wilsden, Miss Loyal Frere, Miss Maggie Cardiff, and Messrs. St. George Frere, Dennis Bryan, G. Hudson, T. O'Brien, &c. On Friday night a complimentary benefit was accorded Miss Cole.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Freece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Mr. Charles Majilton and his comedy company top the bill and present with every degree of success the musical comedy sketch called The Trippers. A sensation has been created by Theo Hardeen in his well-known handcuff performance, and the Three Romas, described as gladiatorial marvels, furnish an artistic and clever performance. Miss Belle Harcourt is a delightful comedienne; Mr. Harry Luck, a capital comedian, is well received; and other good turns are provided by Miss Gracie Lawn, comedienne and dancer; Vincent, acrobatic table expert; and the Palace Pictures.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LIMITED.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—Nelson's Newsboys top the bill and have been most successful with their capital vocalism and smart dancing. Much amusement has been created by the comedy sketch The Professor and His Pupil presented by Amann and Hartley, and Bernard's Fantoches provide an exceptionally attractive entertainment. Mr. Jas. H. Cullen is a clever comedian, and the dashing Sisters Lunelle delight the audience with their catchy songs and smart dancing. The Brothers Corcoran, "the musical shipbuilders," furnish a capital musical act; and also here are Miss Agnes Hanson, comedienne and dancer, and the Bioscope with new pictures.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The Waldrons top the bill, and have been most successful with their comedy act The Silly Burglar. A fine reception has been extended to Harry Russell and company in their amusing skit Bink's Blunder, in which Miss Verna Reed appears to much advantage. Mr Sydney Garden and Miss Lulu Zesch, Australian vocal entertainers, do well, and Mr. Harry Wright upholds his reputation as one of the best of comedians; Miss Nelly Gannon is a delightful comedienne with good songs; and also appearing are Miss Peggy Fame, comedienne; Allsop and Beckworth, the comedy duo; Alberto, magician; the Brooklands, vocalists and dancers; and the Alhambra Bioscope.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's company are meeting with considerable success. On Monday and Tuesday A Wife's Triumph was presented, with Mr. Abbott as Frank Wilson, a rôle which he portrays with incisiveness and effect; Mr. W. H. Garbois gave an excellent rendering of Ellis Jordan; Julius Hartman was well impersonated by Mr. Weedon Ross; and the humour of Mr. Ben Bradford, the village constable, was admirably depicted by Mr. Edwin Keene. The heroine, Bessie Dewhurst, was finely played by Miss Ada Abbott; Alice Wilton was efficiently represented by Miss Kathleen Stewart; Miss Marjorie Tennant was a sprightly Margery Cribb; and Miss Elsie Jones displayed considerable intelligence as Little Frank. Mr. Douglas C. Phelps gave a fine rendering of Robert Dewhurst, J.P. During the week Trilby and Sapho have also been produced.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr D. J. Clarke.—Mr. George Abel, Miss Ethel Arden, and company in the entertaining sketch Three of a Kind are prominent in an excellent company. Mr. Wal Pink, a comedian of infinite resource, is also a favourite turn; Mr. Jack Lorimer, a capital Scotch comedian, is on a welcome return visit; Miss Sadie Simpson is an accomplished burlesque artist; and Miss Florrie Moore, serio, has many admirers. Barrett and Knowles, amusing patter comedians, are an attraction; and Mr. Chris Richards, a versatile comedian, and Mr. Arthur Slater (the man in white) also strengthen the programme. Mr. Ernest Denny is musical director.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Phillip Rodway.—The promenade concerts here grow more and more popular every week. The season closes to-night.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnson.—Miss Elizabeth's Prisoner has enjoyed a hearty reception on its return here this week with Mr. Lewis Waller's clever company. Miss Cynthia Brooke as the mettlesome Elizabeth has won the unqualified praise of all by her excellent grip of the character; Mr. Frederick Victor as Captain Peyton has risen to all exigencies; Mr. Sidney Young has impressed all with his finely drawn picture of Valentine; Mr. Elliott Ball fills the rôle of Major Colden in dramatic style; Miss Leonora Braham acts with fine comedy as Mistress Williams; and Mr. A. C. Grand as Edwards, Mr. Douglas Young as Carrington, Mr. Tom Taylor as Black Sam, Mr. J. Thomas as Cuff, and Miss Phyllis Back as Molly all do well. Domestic Bliss precedes the above.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Victor Turner.—The Three Musketeers, by H. A. Saintsbury, has here proved a most popular and highly creditable production. Mr. Saintsbury undertakes the rôle of the gallant D'Artagnan in fine style, and his congeners are played with capital spirit by Messrs. Henry Bute, Vincent Clive, and Ernest Allen. Miss Irene Rooke portrays the cunning of Miladi with a fascination that has added immensely to her reputation; Miss Edith Turner charms the house by her sympathetic acting as Constance; Miss Lorna Lawrence acts in a coquettish style as Kitty; and Miss Annie Hill, Mr. George Steel, Mr. Milton Rosmer, Mr. E. Vanderlip, Mr. Arthur Soames, and Mr. H. M. Vanderfelt play their rôles with distinction.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—Wep-Ton-No-Mah once more reveals here the talented and popular Miss Go-Won-Go-Mohawk in her dashing assumption of the brave young Indian carrier.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—The Rich and Poor of London has elicited excellent support on its representation here this week by Sidney Dench's company. Miss Dora Dench proves a highly pleasing May Braithwaite; Mr. Sidney Dench pervades the drama with his rich humour as Spider Jack; Mr. Robert Grahame is much admired as Dr. Morton; Miss Ethel Denville wins much favour as Seadrift; Mr. Edward Arinall avails him of his opportunities as Mark Stanley to the utmost legitimate effect; and Mr. Temple Ellis as Mathew Grabbam, Miss Violet Lytton as Ruby Redgrave, Mr. M. R. Gascoigne as Gussie, Mr. H. C. Gilpin as Billy, and Miss Molly Hackett as Polly secure popularity.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—A London Actress, by Miss Emma Litchfield and company, under the direction of Mr. Stuart Cleveland, fills the boards here with much success. Miss Litchfield's appearance in her well-known and cleverly-drawn character of Hilda Mannering is most cordially recognised; Mr. S. Cleveland for his well-studied acting as Clive Crawford has a like reception; Mr. Richard Vane is applauded for his agreeably natural performance of Lieut. Kingston; Mr. Jno. Worth scores as Captain Mannering; Miss Maud Steeple acts in a pleasing way as Phyllis Crawford; Miss Milly Hayward shines as Rosie Blyth; and Mr. John Hitchins, Mr. G. H. Doyle; and Miss Nelly Stern are clever in their rôles.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Georg Hackenschmidt is exhibiting his skill as a wrestler to crowded houses this week. Lew Lake and company present their absurdity, The Bloomsbury Burglars, which is most amusing; the Hadj Abdullah Troupe of Arabs and the Four Skandias are expert gymnasts; the Violas have a second sight act, which is highly interesting; Colby and May, a ventriloquist and dancing doll, are loudly applauded; the singing and dancing of the Sisters Morgan are much appreciated; while Daisy Mayer and Charles Lilburn are encored for their songs.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—The Royal Tokio Troupe of Equilibrists head the bill here; the Paulastro Troupe are smart; Ernest Montefiore and company present a musical scena, The Little Colonel; Tom and Marie Motramo have a scena which is far above the average; the Sisters Caselli sing and dance in their usual happy manner; other prominent turns are the Three Delaires, Fanny Erris, Beaty and Blanch, and Bert Brantford.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—George Leyton is starring here in his latest military scena, The Scamp of the Regiment; Carlotta Levey has made a big hit with her songs; Kelly and Gillette have a smart billiard table act; the Four Harveys are daring in their wire act; Ethel Loftus is a dainty comedienne; the singing and dancing of the Sisters Tinsley and the Floradora Girls are most attractive; Dan Thomas and Arthur Elvy, comedians, add to the mirth of the audience.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—The Brothers Egbert are delighting large houses this week with their Happy Dustmen sketch; Gwennie Hasto has had a big reception; Drew and Alders keep the audience in a continual roar of laughter; Fred Russell, in his ventriloquial act, is humorous; Bert Byrne, the Jurgens Trio, Unthan, and the Bioscope complete a capital programme.

BLACKBURN. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Yorke; Manager, Mr. Reginald C. Yorke.—Walter Howard's drama Under the Russian Flag is the attraction this week, Mr. Jack Haddon's company giving an excellent representation of the play. Mr. Haddon himself showed exceptional ability as Captain Demetrius, and he was ably supported by Miss Marie Rayner, who acted finely in the rôle of Luka; Miss Elaine Vanbrugh was a sympathetic heroine; Mr. Fred Hanning was amusing as Alexis Skopolopki. The other parts are also well played.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank McNaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—An excellent entertainment is provided by the Six Brothers Luck in their pantomime sketch The Demon of the Cellar; Grace Merton, the original street singer; Fred Bronte, actor vocalist; Ted Farrar, comedian; the Sisters Varley, duettists; Dan Conroy, comedian; Lily Esplin, comedienne; Otto and Olga, comedy instrumentalists; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page.—Mr. Will White's company, in the American drama The New World, is drawing crowded houses here.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company is paying a return visit here this week with The Freedom of Suzanne. Miss Beatrice Lindley has previously proved her exceptional capabilities for the part of Suzanne Trevor, and her embodiment of the character this week could not easily be improved upon. Mr. Herbert J. Bentley does well as Charles Trevor; Mr. F. G. Thurstans is well placed as Fitzroy Harding; Mr. William Mallalieu suits the rôle of Sir Horace Hatton; Miss Violet Ley makes a charming Lady Bury; and other parts are also in efficient hands.

GRAND THEATRE.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—The New Clown is once again proving a good attraction here, and the various members of the company (Mr. Frank Bertram's) are thoroughly acquainted with their work; Mr. Ernest Spalding scores a success as Lord Cyril Garston; and Mr. Alec Flood gives a capital representation of Mr. Dixon. Thomas Baker finds an able exponent in Mr. A. M. Moore; Mr. Cyril Vernon cleverly enacts Captain Jack Trent; sweet and charming are Miss Celestine Bertram as Rose Platt; Miss Connie Merton as Maude Chesterton; and Miss M. E. Ellis as Winnie Chesterton. My Lady Help is the curtain raiser.

PALACE. — General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—A capital programme is provided here this week by Harry Tate's company in Fishing; Lena Dudley, comedienne; Master Ralph Moore, aptly described as the boy Patti; Charlie Jerome in a vocal scena; Sinclair and Whiteford in a sketch, entitled Getting Even; the Haverleys, song illustrators; Lady Mansel and her juveniles in their comedy speciality, A Concert Rehearsal; Marie Reeve, comedienne; Mlle. Lumière's fairy grotto, and Vernon's imperial bioscope.

BLYTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Variety is again being provided here by the energetic manager who has got together an attractive combination, which includes the Pasquali Bros., head-to-head balancers; the Karno trio, in an amusing sketch, The Traveller's Rest; Addie Dorina has an interesting duologue, How It Is Done; Ida Ross, Tyrolean vocalist; Maud Vera, coon songstress; Starr and Jerome, vocalists and dancers; Oliver Conroy, comedian; Natalie and Diana, aerial gymnasts—all of whom come in for a most enthusiastic reception.

TUDOR'S CIRCUS.—Under the management of Messrs. George and Edwards.—Strenge, the Berlin Hercules, supported by a strong variety company, have drawn good houses. Allan also displays wonderful powers as an athlete; George and Edwards, old favourites, give a good turn; Amy Bell, Ewart and Bryant, Bob Stephenson, Fred Howard, and the Bioscope complete a capital programme.

BOOTLE.—MUNCASTER THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Manager, Mr. H. Pennington; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert E. Wilson.—Mr. Fred J. Kirke and company opened here on Monday with In Old Madrid, for three nights. Miss Annie Brunotte was good as Violet Lyndhurst; the part of Lola was effectively played by Miss Loui Fontaine; Mr. Fred J. Kirke gave a manly representation of Frank Lyndhurst; and Mr. Frank Beaulieu was responsible for a good performance of Fernando; the Sisters English gained hearty applause by their refined songs and dances. Our Sailor Lad was billed for three nights by the same company, commencing on Thursday.

BOSCOMBE.—HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fred Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Ball.—Charles Baldwin's Comedians and Pantomimists in an up-to-date absurdity entitled The Bank Clerks are providing a merry entertainment here this week. A dainty tune is that of Helen Charles, her whistling being particularly good; Victor Travers causes laughter with his quaint sayings and dancing; Pete and Juno's sand dancing gains for them a hearty recall. Other turns include Johnny Fuller, the cat on the wire, and Flo Somers, comedienne and dancer. The Hippodrome pictures are excellent, as usual.

BOURNEMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—Mr. Norman V. Norman's répertoire company, which is paying a return visit, opened on Monday with The Adventure of Lady Ursula. Mr. Norman, as Sir George Sylvester, plays the part in fine dashing style, vigorous, manly, and tender, as occasion requires; the Lady Ursula Barrington of Miss Beatrice Wilson is a finished study of the wayward lady, and her scenes with Sylvester are capitally played; to Mr. Brember Wills must be accorded a special word of praise for his excellent rendering of Mr. Dent; and others who deserve mention are Mr. Francis Hope as Mr. Blimboe, and Mr. Dennis Clough as the Earl of Hassenden. Other productions during the week are David Garrick and Nell Gwyn of Drury Lane.

BRADFORD. — THEATRE ROYAL — Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—A large audience on Monday greeted with applause Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's production of the late Wilson Barrett's play, Lucky Durham. Mr. Edmund Kennedy in the rôle of John Durham has just the required repose and restraint; Miss Phyllis Relph is a charming and convincing Helen Vallerton; Mr. Benson North's Lord Mountfallon is an able performance; and as the Hon. Reggie, Mr. Leigh is particularly entertaining; Mr. W. F. Clitherow in the rôles of Ben Verstein and Mr. Lubenham, does conscientious work; Mr. Vallerton is capably played by Mr. A. E. Walker; Miss Louise Gourlay's Mrs. Durham is a performance brimful of tenderness and feeling; Miss Frances Wolviston is excellent in the part of Lady Mountfallon; and a winsome performance of the candid and artless Hon. Margaret Steighton is submitted by Miss Florence Dalhunty.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Considerable interest is centred here this week in The Little Breadwinner. Little Emmie Thomas is entirely successful as Meg, the little provider; Miss Lissa Young is capital as Bobby Trott; the author is impressive in his assumption of the Quaker, Lord William Dorrington; and Mr. David Gordon commands sympathy as Richard; Joseph Prior has an effective exponent in Mr. Scott Leighton; and Charles is well played by Mr. Allen Charles; Miss Mary Fulton acts with power and feeling as the unfortunate Margaret Daventry; Miss Maud Buchanan is effective as the wayward Kate Cherry; Miss Emmie Litchfield plays Ruth acceptably; and Miss Jenny Bostock is good as Bridget O'Flanagan.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Resident Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—Solbrig's Automata provides a very exhilarating and clever turn here this week, and there is a capital exposition of American song and dance by Hays and Suits, a smart pair; Leonie Dixon is a bright and pretty soubrette; Mr. John Lawson is once more stirring the pulse with his realistic and dramatic sketch, Humanity; and Venie Clements is bright and winsome; Flo Deighton is heard to advantage in ballads; in The Society Burglar, Booker and Narbis are entertaining; Alf. Holt is a clever mimic, and some capital films are shown by the American Bioscope.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Arnold, jun.—In a comedy act, Mary and the Squire, Harry Dent (an old favourite) and his partner, Harris, provide amusement; Barrington is vastly entertaining as a musical expert; Lily Black makes a welcome re-appearance. In His Birthday, Mr. and Mrs. Royston-Dene are eminently successful; Allis and Cassati submit an amusing turn; George Rapley's burlesque comedy, with scenic effects, finds favour. In their turn as coster and dude, Fyne and Hurley are entertaining; Astley's American circus, with its riding platform and quaint trick mule, "Sloper," elicits hearty laughter; and Raymond's bio-tableaux show some highly entertaining films.

BRIGHTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl.—The distinguished American actress, Mrs. Russ Whytal, and company opened here on Monday with Lady Clancarty. Mrs. Russ Whytal gave an impersonation of Lady Clancarty which was marked by graceful acting and dramatic fervour; and Mr. Claude King achieved complete success as Earl Clancarty. Mr. Charles Combe was impressive as King William III.; Mr. J. J. Bartlett submitted a capital character study as Scum Goodman; Mr. Leslie Palmer's Earl of Portland; Mr. Arthur Hardy's Lord Woodstock; and Mr. Edward Beecher's Lord Charles Spencer were sterling representations; and Miss Mabel Knowles made a vivacious and charming Lady Betty Noel. The remaining characters were ably sustained. At Thursday's special London matinée Mr. Martin Harvey and his Imperial Theatre company, including Miss Kate Rorke, appeared in Boy O'Carroll.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—How London Lives occupies the boards here this week, and is doing good business. Miss Daisy Halling is artistic and sympathetic as the heroine, Gladys Ferrers; and Mr. Ronald Adair is manly and popular as the hero, Jack Ferrers. Mr. Paul Barry Lewers, as the villainous Stephen Grainger, is forcible and convincing; Miss Lydia Mannington is capitally suited as Lady Ferrers; and excellent acting is submitted by Mr. H. C. Lanceley, as Col. Sir George Ferrers; Miss Lily Grey, as Maudie de Lacy; and little Miss Bella Finlay, as Kate Maxwell. The comic element is admirably sustained by Mr. George H. Asquin, as the Microbe; Miss Lucy Murray, as Molly Crockett; Mr. Sam T. Pearce, as Bertie; and Mr. Charles Henley, as Gus.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard. — A varied and attractive bill of fare is presented here this week. J. W. Rowley, the original "Over Rowley," wins hearty applause with his latest successes; Jordan and Harvey, American Hebrew comedians, are amusing; Russell Carr is distinctly effective in his clever ventriloquial entertainment; Syd Gregory sings himself into favour, and is a smart mimic; the Sisters Slater are well received in their singing, dancing, and banjo-playing turn; the Marlo and Dunham Trio are in the front rank as bar and trapeze performers; James Prior, comedian, is as entertaining as ever; Marie Blythe is a charming comedienne; Bosanquet, the violin virtuoso, is very successful in an illuminated scena, in which he introduces the singing violin, and his novelty instrument, "Bosanquephone"; and the Alhambrascope pictures are, as usual, interesting and amusing.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Arthur Roberts and company provide unbounded fun in the sketch The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife; Leo Dryden, the actor-vocalist, submits a turn which is warmly appreciated; the Brothers Redmond, acrobatic comedians, are clever and humorous; the Two Errolls introduce some wonderful somersaults in their interesting leaping act; the Cabiacs, acrobats, execute some difficult feats; the Two Kays, in a trick-change scene, contribute some pleasing songs; Marion Scott, comedienne, is well received; Austin and Cowan are able vocal entertainers; the Sisters Cora are attractive duettists and dancers; Fred Cary is a good comedian; and the Barrascope pictures are interesting.

WEST PIER. — Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Miss Ina Royle and company opened here on Monday with One Summer's Day. Miss Ina Royle makes a charming Maysie; Mr. Arthur Goodsall gives a capital enactment of Major Dick Rudyard; Mr. Percy Goodyer is an amusing Tom; Mr. Arthur Curtis is successful as Theodore; Master Cyril Bruce is well suited as the Urchin; and the gipsy parts are very cleverly sustained by Mr. Eric Mason, Miss Katherine Stewart, and Miss Ada Potter. The programmes for the week also included The Merchant of Venice.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—Mr. Henry Austin's company opened here on Monday with Jane. Miss Cicely Wade gave a delightful impersonation of Jane; Mr. Fred Inwood was very entertaining as the bachelor Charles Shackleton; Mr. Henry Austin achieved great success as Mr. Kershaw; Mr. F. Morland made a capital William; Mr. Gerald Henson was a smart Claude; and effective acting was displayed by Miss Grace Clifton (Mrs. Chadwick), Miss Violet Lytton (Lucy), Miss Clare Elstob (Mrs. Pixton); and Mr. Herbert Dickeson (Pixton). The farcical comedy was preceded by Cupid's Dream.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. J. Sallmayer; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry De Groot.—A capital programme is sustained here this week. Mr. William Kingsley is an expert performer on the hand-bells; Dr. Seaton is a very smart conjurer and illusionist; Miss Margaret Lisle displays charming vocalisation; Miss Enid Fane wins well-deserved applause for her transformation and serpentine dances; and the animated pictures of the wrestling match between Hackenschmidt and Madrali, and incidents in the Russian War, are very interesting.

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. Charles Otley's company is here with Our Boys, the comedy being staged in an effective manner. Mr. Charles Otley presents a careful and amusing exposition of Perkyn Middlewick; Mr. Stephen T. Ewart is sufficiently dignified and aristocratic as Sir Geoffrey Champneys; Talbot Champneys and Charles Middlewick are carefully taken by Mr. W. B. Beltram and Mr. Herbert Robinson; Violet Melrose and Mary Melrose have pleasing exponents in Miss Olive Palmer and Miss Edith Heron Brown; Miss Phyllis Manners is amusing as Clarissa Champneys; and Miss Marie Jonquil makes a clever character study of Belinda. The performance commences with the curtain-raiser A Case for Eviction, which is smartly played by Miss Edith Heron Brown, Miss Maxim, and Mr. Herbert Robinson.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe.—Here we have the old favourite, East Lynne, satisfactorily staged, and well played by Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company. Miss Julie Kinnaird presents a stately and sympathetic study of Lady Isabel; Mr. Alfred Beaumont is decidedly good as Archibald Carlyle; Mr. Eric Mayne plays Levison on historic lines, and is throughout effective; and the remaining characters are all very carefully and satisfactorily taken by other members of an efficient company.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Herbert Darnley's company is here with the amusing sketch Moving In; the Five Astleys obtain applause for their speciality The American Musical Farmers; George Prince, comedian, is appreciated; as also are Dale and O'Malley, comedians; Wright and Elton do a good speciality turn of song, dance, &c.; the Brianos amuse with their acrobatic monkeys; Clemart is an expert ventriloquist; and Teresa De Sylva, comedienne, sings in pleasing style. The performance concludes with a good display of Vernon's animated pictures ences. Mr. Harry Nelson, the Tyneside comedian, is appearing this week, and meets with a good reception.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—The Royal's attraction this week is the drama, by Miss Hildyard and Russell Vaun, entitled The Great Awakening, the leading character, Lola Selby, being represented in powerful style by Miss Hildyard herself.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Here we have Nellie Dunbar, a serio with plenty of life and confidence; the Two Leslies, juvenile serios; Bonette and Corri, in an eccentric juggling act; Will Souls contributes some laughing songs; a flattering reception is awarded G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon; Zangrette and Napio, musical eccentrics; and pictures by Mr. Lacey's Erascope afford pleasure, while the tit-bit of the evening is the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. H. Lucas in cleverly enacted representations of characters from David Copperfield.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor Capt. H. E. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Donne.—Captain Davis' bill of fare includes Harry Phillips, comedian; Ada Twibell, burlesque artist; the Kimberley Boys, comedians and patterers; trapeze and feats on the slack wire by the Rhoda Bros.; Ted Young, comedian; Miss Florence, who appears with much success as the Jolly Dutch Girl; and Pictures by the Edisonograph. Mr. Alec Hurley and Co. are in their second week, giving in lively style The Coster's Friendly Lead.

CHELTENHAM.—OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Messrs. Lionel Glenister and Wood-Ingram's company is here in Sweet and Twenty. Miss Ethel Weyburn is well suited as Joan Trevelyan; Mr. Gus. Wheatman presents an acceptable and laughable study of Prynne; Mr. Stephen Wentworth's acting as Eustace Floyd is quite admirable, and is well contrasted with Mr. Lionel Glenister's equally clever presentation of Douglas; Mr. Drelincourt Odium plays with individuality and dignity as the Rev. James Floyd; Miss Isabel Grey is a comely and "comfortable" Ellen; and little Miss Zeta Russell is delightfully childlike, pretty, and graceful as the boy, Chris. Two neat and well-defined studies are the Blacksmith of Mr. Gus. Wheatman and the Mrs. Trevelyan of Miss Dorothy Carrington. The play is preceded by In the Strand.

MONTPELLIER GARDENS.—Manager (for Cheltenham Corporation), Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—Mr. Paul Mill's party of Olympian Entertainers has possession of the pavilion this week.

CHORLEY. — GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé.—Another variety company is here this week. The Arizona Troupe are clever acrobatic tumblers and contortionists; Witty Watty Walton causes much amusement in his latest funniosities; Sisters Clive, duettists and dancers, are well received; Mr. Will Percival, comedian and pedestal clog dancer, provides an acceptable turn; another bright and attractive turn is that of the Royal Quintette, dancers and vocalists. The remaining attractions are Mons. de Ora, in his clever aerial act; Dea Karo, equilibrist; Walter Levalle, coster comedian; and Miss Nellie Belmore, comedienne.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—On Monday evening Mr. Jerrard Grant Allen presented his company in that successful farce The New Boy. The title-rôle was in the hands of Mr. Leon M. Lion, and he played the part capitally, keeping his audience in a ripple of laughter throughout the evening. Mr. A. Corney Grain well sustained the part of Dr. Candy, whilst the rôle of Felix Roach was effectively portrayed by Mr. Talbot Homewood. Mr. A. Weston showed himself a capable student of French mannerisms in the character of Theodore de Brizac, and Mr. Stanley Logan was decidedly forcible as Bullock Major. Miss Katherine Harrington was a graceful Martha; and the parts of Nancy and Susan were capably depicted by Miss Maud Macgrath and Miss Margaret Farleigh respectively. The farce was preceded each evening by the one-act sentimental comedy, entitled The Borrowed Uncle.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Frederick Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Alen.—Pat Rafferty heads the bill this week. Orpheus, in a musical mélange, is a great success; the Paolias prove themselves efficient in hand-balancing and gymnastics; the Sisters Reno are clever transformation dancers; whilst a distinctly popular item is the acrobatic dancing of Florrie St. Roy. Amy Elcock gives a smart exhibition of heel-and-toe dancing; and the bioscope concludes the programme. Quite a feature is the applause accorded the orchestra, who this week are rendering overtures and selections composed by the popular conductor, Mr. James Hargreaves.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. Lawrence Brough's company in The Lady of Ostend opened here on Monday. Miss Kate Milford as Dorothy Whortles was satisfactory; the part of Matilda Carbury was well filled by Miss Eleanor Gilbert; Mr. Lawrence Brough as Baron de Longueville was decidedly clever, and caused much laughter; as Dick Whortles Mr. Henry Hampson was most successful; as was also Mr. Charles Groves as Joseph Carbury; and Mr. H. Gomer May was a formidable Toby Krockitt. The Cruise of the Saucy Sally was billed for Thursday night.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—The attraction here this week is the play, entitled Current Cash. Miss Gwennie Harcourt has a very good company (under the direction of Mr. R. Sullivan). On Monday evening Miss Harcourt, in the part of Delia, had an excellent reception; Mr. Tom Conway is humorous as Private Booles; Mr. Chas. Sequin appears as Capt. Mark Milton; and Miss Ducie Anderson as Sybil. The other characters are well sustained, and the scenery is specially deserving of mention.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor.—An entertaining variety programme here is headed by the Revell Troupe in their absurdity Mischief, wherein their antics create continuous laughter. The Howards, mystifiers, are clever; Fanny Robina is heard to advantage in her songs; Arielello, the mystic maiden, gives a sensational performance; Billy Bint, character comedian, has several taking songs; Florry Cooper, the possessor of a very fine voice, is much appreciated; Gravetta and Parr do some smart work, introducing sand pictures, clay modelling, and impersonations of celebrities; and good turns are also provided by the Fountains, marionettes; the De Roys, comic conjurors; the Two Dinias, American comedians and acrobats; Harry Bickley, comedian; and Zaro and Arno.

CROYDON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—Miss Mary Austin and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds's company is staging here, in a creditable manner, The Golden Ladder. Mr. John Clyde acts with much earnestness as the Rev. Frank Thornhill; Mr. Joseph Rowlands is a whimsical Samuel Peckaby; Mr. J. Milne Taylor is of sterling service as Michael Severn; Mr. Graham Winsford is well placed as Mr. Peranza; Mr. Harry Belford is adequate in the part of Jim Dixon; and useful aid is rendered by Messrs. T. Lionel Ellis, Edward M'Lean, William Clarke, Eric Thompson, and Frank Martin in smaller rôles. Miss Eva Moss plays with skill and ability as Lilian Grant; Miss Nellie Graham touches the right note as Mrs. Peckaby; Miss Teresa Haynes is convincing as Mrs. Dixon; Miss Kate Haslewood is applauded as The Tearer; and Misses Jessie Gillette and Holly Haslewood are natural as Victoria Alexandra Peckaby and Lily.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—The musical drama, What a Woman Did, is being successfully played here by Mr. W. A. Armour's company. Mr. William A. Armour is satisfactory as Raffaelle Duroc; Mr. Fred Rignold humorously entertains as Perfect Peter Pippin; Mr. Jim Wood is well received as Fritz von Hoegitheim; Mr. Charles Earle cleverly enacts the part of the hunchback, Pitou; and Mr. Edward Rawlinson powerfully represents the chracter of Conrad de L'Orme; Miss Dora Price is commendable as Elise de L'Orme; Miss Amy Ellam is rightly placed as La Papillon; and Misses Tina Shaw and Bertha Clifton charmingly enact the characters of Fanchou and Nannette. Mr. Charles Herrick, acting manager, is always attentive to visitors.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace H. Jay.—The amusements here are excellent. Very funny is the sketch, Mr. There's Hair, as played by Kitty Clover, R. Courtney, and Conn Allister. The Three Sisters Sprightly are merry and sparkling comediennes; Joe Archer is a humorous patterer; Bertha Winder, an inimitable dancer; King and Benson are great in their comedy act; Rastus and Banks meet with a grand reception in The Major and the Maid; Edith Courtney, ballad vocalist, is appreciated; Tray and Rich, black and white comedians, have some excellent patter; "The Snow Sports in Switzerland," on the Bioscope, are good; Claude Ginnett and company are amusing in the sketch, Rejected Remounts; and Mr. A. Huly capably leads his orchestra.

DARWEN. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, Mr. A. M. Loader; Acting Manager, Mr. F. J. Robinson.—A capital variety show this week is headed by Chung Ling Soo, the great Chinese magician, whose clever manipulation astounds everyone; Frank Keegan and company provide ample fun with their laughable absurdity, Everyday Cyclists; the Five Zerbinis, in the musical fantasia, Fairyland, are an undoubted success; the Three Schaffers are a fine troupe of gladiatorial acrobats; Lestree is a smart juggler; Cissie Curlette a clever mimetic comedienne; and Lilian Trevelli, vocalist; Bob Hamilton, Scotch comedian; and Sam Dalton complete the programme.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and General Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Albert Orton.—Mr. A. Hamilton Warden's company in A Woman's Past occupies the boards here this week. Miss Maisie Hanbury plays Bessie with a restrained power and gentle pathos; Uriah Craven is extremely well presented by Mr. Oswald Gray; David Heath is in the capable hands of Mr. Horace E. Herbert; the adventuress Clara Darrel is impersonated with success by Miss Gertrude Harrison; and Mr. Chas. V. Sandford is in every way acceptable as Frank Dellanoy, being ably supported by Miss May Dallas, a bright and vivacious Dorothy Heath. Mr. A. Hamilton Warden enacts Dr. Clement Harper satisfactorily, and efficiently combines with this the duty of stage-manager. The play is exceptionally well mounted.

PALACE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Taylor.—The Daunton Shaw trick cyclists are the star turn here this week. Their performance is exceedingly clever. Janet Howard-Reynolds, a pleasing vocalist, deserves special mention, and the same may be said of Billy Burns, the singing pit lad, whose vocal qualifications are duly recognised. The Woolhaffs are amusing vaudeville artists; Arthur and Ashby are clever in Fantasies of the Fiz; Harry Hayton is a diverting comedian; the Katos, with their automatic theatre, are entertaining; and the Palace Bioscope is responsible for several amusing films.

DONCASTER.—NEW GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—The Midnight Wedding was well received here on Monday. Paul Valmar was capably embodied by Mr. Alfred Paumier, and able assistance was afforded him by Mr. Frederick W. Freeman as the Crown Prince Leopold, and Mr. Sydney Lynn as Lieut. Eugene Von Strelsburg. Suitable recognition was accorded Mr. Clinton Bardsley in his assumption of Capt. Rudolph Von Scarsbruck. Mr. Arthur Radford was clever as sub-Lieut. Kulmann, and Mr. W. S. Hardy's presentation of Father Gerrard was excellent. Kathie, of the Golden Dragon, was daintily played by Miss Ada Champion, who with Miss Prudence Laurance as Marie, and Miss Florence Hunt in the rôle of Rozel, alias Satanella, was well received. Miss Annie Salter was powerful in the dual rôles of Second-Lieutenant Karl Helsbury and Princess von Strelsburg.

DUBLIN. — GAIETY THEATRE. — Sole Representative and Patentee, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—A large audience was present here on Monday night to witness The Merchant of Venice, as presented by Mr. Allan Wilkie's company. It is difficult to speak too highly of the charming and finished performance of Miss Haidee Gunn as Portia, her acting throughout being of the highest order of merit. Mr. Allan Wilkie gives an effective rendering of Shylock; Mr. George Lambton gave a humorous impersonation of Gratiano; and Miss Ine Cameron was commendable in the rôle of Jessica; the Duke of Venice was played in good style by Mr. B. Sullivan, and Miss Lizzie Maddock was successful as Nerissa. The part of Antonio had an able exponent in Mr. George T. Creig; and Miss Grace Townsend was acceptable as Stephano; Mr. James Willoughby made a capital Prince of Morocco; and Bassanio, Salinio, Salarino, and Lorenzo were well sustained by Messrs. Clifford Rean, Malcolm Tearle, Martin Sanas, and Alfred Gray respectively. On Tuesday evening The Corsican Brothers was produced, and was well received. Othello, The Lady of Lyons, The Fool's Revenge, and The Merchant of Venice are also billed.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The last week of the musical season opened here on Monday, when an interesting programme was presented. Mr. Mark Hambourg gave some charming pianoforte selections; Miss Evangeline Florence, soprano vocalist, rendered her songs in a most artistic manner; and Mr. John Coates also sang in finished style; Mr. R. J. Forbes accompanied, and the band of the 11th Hussars supplied the orchestral music.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Whitbread; Acting-Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson.—Mr. Miller Anderson's company is appearing here this week with the domestic drama, When Woman Hates. Miss Mabel Mannering's rendition of Cora Daintry is a creditable performance; and Mr. Charles Herberte acquits himself well as General Sir Henry Rokeby; Miss Maude Townsend is seen to advantage as Marie Rokeby; and Mr. Frank Litchfield gives a humorous impersonation of Patrick O'Brien; Godfrey Lawton is in the able hands of Mr. Miller Anderson; and Miss Gladys Lloyd is effective as Edith Rokeby; Lieutenant Frank Rokeby is played in a capable manner by Mr. Jerrold Heather; and Miss Violet Leal is excellent as Nellie Rokeby.

PAVILION, KINGSTOWN.—Manager, Mr. C. Irvine Bacon.—The So and So's variety company is appearing here this week. Miss Maude Sandemann executes some difficult dances which meet with approbation; Mr. Harold Johnson and Mr. Will Jordan's humorous songs are a feature of the programme; and Miss Dorothy Grandorff and Miss Maude Davis contribute their vocal numbers in an admirable manner. The Bioscope is, as usual, attractive.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Topping the bill here is Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas in a musical absurdity, Her Birthday. W. F. Frame sings his songs in his usual quaint style, and the Dorrells, duettists and dancers, have many admirers; the New Macs, Irish comedians and dancers, cause roars of laughter; and Miss Maud Courtenay, comedienne, scores a success; Frank Bertram and company's sketch, The Chaperon, is highly amusing; and Walter Munroe is as popular as ever; Puldow, Dublin's athletic marvel, is deservedly successful, and the Empire pictures are up-to-date.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The top of the bill here is occupied by Miss Dorothy Clarke, comedienne, who achieves a distinct success; the sensational acrobatic act of the Pichel Troupe merits applause; and Mlle. De Rose sings in a pleasing manner; Wyndham and Waters, comedy vocalists, are well received; and May Geraldine is an excellent comedienne and dancer; Harlem Brothers are versatile artists, and Ted Cowan is a smart comedian; the De Breans, sciographists, supply an interesting turn; and Mr. C., comedian; and Kyoto, in a Japanese act, complete the programme.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The following artists are appearing here:—Eric Thorpe, humorist and banjoist; Harry Cookson, descriptive vocalist; Mlle. Dorothy, vocalist and elocutionist; and Teddy Lennon, comedian and dancer.

DUDLEY.—EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Deputy-Acting-Manager, Mr. Rhodes Wells.—Helene and Emilon are the principal attraction here this week, and receive well-merited applause for their astonishing act; Hall and Wilson, trick cyclists on rollers, give a clever turn; the Guyons act in a powerful manner in their sketch His One Great Sin; the Sisters Grenville, vocalists and speciality dancers, are well received; Nellie Adrienne, burlesque artist and whistler, is always sure of a welcome; and Veronique is a dainty juvenile vocalist and dancer; George Raper is a good character comedian.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—That fine old play The New Magdalen, founded on Wilkie Collins's powerful story, is drawing good houses here this week. Miss Lucy Wilson plays the character of Mercy Merrick as only a great actress can; Miss Jessie Winter is exceptionally good as Grace Rosebery; and Miss Mary Morrison is a dignified and sympathetic Lady Janet Roy. Mr. E. Stanton Sharp gives an impressive rendering of the part of Julian Gray, the broad-minded clergyman; Mr. Austin Melford, jun., plays well as Horace Holmcroft; and Mr. D. Marsden submits a fine study of a servant.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—The principal attraction here this week is Princess Lucie, who claims to be the heaviest girl in the world; Charles Williams has made a big hit as a coon comedian; Helen Duncanson and Marie Gibson both sing well; J. K. Macfarlane, Charles Ousley, and Earle and Melville are good comedians; Cavallini, a smart ventriloquist; and Beaufort, a wonderful contortionist, are also successful; while the pictures shown by Vernon's bioscope are up to the usual standard.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—The Kingston Dramatic Company is appearing here this week in a round of popular pieces. Robert Burns was produced on Monday evening, the title-rôle being very powerfully played by Mr. A. W. B. Kingston. The part of Soutar Johnnie gives Mr. Harry Egan unlimited scope for the display of his quaint humour; while Mr. J. T. Dale as Tam O'Shanter adds much to the enjoyment of the audience by his fine singing of Scottish ballads.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—The chief item on the bill of this popular house is the W. F. Jury Imperial Bioscope, presenting a fine series of pictures; Peter Bermingham, fresh from his musical comedy triumph; and Charles Valvo, the military ventriloquist, are also well received.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. S. Triggs.—Mr. F. R. Benson's company is appearing here in a number of Shakespearean plays. On Tuesday evening Hamlet was staged in a complete and satisfactory manner. As Hamlet, Mr. Henry Herbert deserved the lavish praise he obtained, and his performance was delicate, thoughtful, and impressive; Mr. Alfred A. Harris was a capital Claudius; Mr. Ross Shore a diverting and skilful Polonius; Mr. Lionel Bevans a pleasing Horatio; Mr. Darch a satisfactory Laertes; and Mr. C. Francis and Mr. Plinge did excellent work as Rosencrantz and Guilderstern, Mr. Montagu Wigan being a very good Osric. Mr. Gerald Ames made an efficient First Player, and the parts of the Gravediggers were well taken by Messrs. Ross Shore and Henry Morell. Mr. James Annand was a dignified ghost, and smaller parts were well played. Miss Dorothy Green was a sweet, appealing Ophelia, Miss Kate Turner a conspicuously successful Queen of Denmark, and Miss May de Launey a praiseworthy Player Queen. Twelfth Night, As You Like It, Macbeth, Merry Wives of Windsor, the Merchant of Venice, The Taming of the Shrew, and She Stoops to Conquer were to be played during the week.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. Esmond Bramley's company is appearing here during the week in a round of standard plays. On Monday evening Richard III. was played, and as the Duke of Gloucester Mr. Cyril Este worked hard and well. Mr. Baliol Holloway made an interesting Duke of Clarence and Earl of Richmond; Mr. F. Owen Chambers was an able Duke of Buckingham; Mr. Frederick Scarth an animated Lord Hastings; Mr. David Beattie an excellent Henry VI., and Mr. C. Doyle and Mr. A. L. Evans were very good as Stanley and Catesby, Mr. Phillip Gordon being responsible for capable work as the Lord Mayor and Second Murderer. Miss Maud Garth is to be highly commended for her admirable Elizabeth; Miss Millie Ford was a most successful Lady Anne, and Miss Bernard Parkin gave good help as the Duchess of York; Miss May Beatrice and Miss Nightingale did very well as the young Princes.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Smith.—Miss Annie Purcell is gifted with a very fine voice, and she renders her songs in a delightfully artistic manner. Mr. Frank Elliston and company remain from last week, and appear in a cleverly-played costume sketch, My Lady Betty. Mr. Luis Hardt gives a neat exhibition of strength and muscular development. Adams and Rouse have a novel and funny singing duologue; Mr. Culpitt is clever and diverting as a conjurer; the Sisters Melba sing and dance in good style; Mr. Nat Watkins dances and sings in an original manner; and the pictures conclude the programme.

EDINBURGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. William Whitehead.—It is no small praise to say that in Dan'l Peggotty, the adaptation of David Copperfield, which Mr. Charles Cartwright and company are playing here this week, Mr. Kellett Chalmers has preserved much of the flavour of the original. Mr. Charles Cartwright makes a fine study of Dan'l Peggotty. The rough exterior of the man with his underlying tenderness and innate nobility of disposition are shown with consummate art. Mr. Charles Collette hits off, with happy humour, the glibness and geniality of Mr. Micawber, and Mr. Ivan Berlyn's study of Uriah Heep is exceedingly good, alike in make-up and acting. Mr. Arthur Royston is an effective, if rather meto-dramatic, Steerforth, and Mr. Humphrey Warden is a capital David Copperfield. Mr. Alfred Woods gives a powerful rendering of Ham. The reading of the letter telling of Em'ly's flight is extremely well done. Mr. Ernest Mozar as Littimer and Mr. H. Carter Bligh as Mr. Wickfield are distinctly clever. Miss Molly Pearson, a young Edinburgh lady, who has made a rapid advance in her profession, looks the part of Little Em'ly to the life, and plays with sweetness and pathos; Miss Maude Williamson is forcible as Mrs. Steerforth, and Miss Mabel Luxmore, as Miss Trotwood; Miss Gordon Walker, as Agnes Wickfield; Miss Mary Smith, as Mrs. Gummidge; Miss Scott Lauder, a pathetic Martha, and Miss Ruby Wyndham, as Mrs. Barkis, are all excellent. Miss Edith Cartwright attains distinction in her impersonation of Rosa Dartle. The appearance of the actress is as if the character had stepped from the pages of Dickens's work, and perfect finish pervades her intelligent performance.

ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. G. T. Minshull.—Charley's Aunt, with its author, Mr. Brandon Thomas, in his original rôle of Colonel Chesney, and Mr. Stanley Cooke in his old part of Lord Fancourt Baberley—admirable impersonations both—is once more providing mirthful entertainment at this theatre. The two undergraduates, Jack Chesney and Charley Wykeham, are smartly represented by Mr. Hastings Lynn and Mr. R. B. Mason, who help to keep the fun going furiously through the three acts of the play. All the feminine rôles are in good hands; Miss Lena McNaughten appearing as Donna Lucia, with Miss Dorothy Deacon as Amy, Miss Marian Ripley as Kitty, and Miss Gladys Storey as Ella. Spettigue is capitally played by Mr. Walter Beaumont; and Mr. Sidney Compton gives a good character-sketch of Brassett, the college scout. The very enjoyable little play, entitled A Highland Legacy, also the work of Mr. Brandon Thomas, is put on as a curtain-raiser.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting - Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton.—Mr. Harry Lauder is the bright particular star at the Empire this week. The clever Scotch comedian is always a safe draw, and overflowing houses have marked his present visit. The programme has many other entertaining features. Miss May Edouin and Mr. Fred E. Edwards act brightly in a sketch entitled The Bachelor's Dream; Mr. Harry Sloan gives a smart and amusing juggling act; and Mr. Hermann Melot mystifies the audience with his conjuring tricks. The Jack Theo Trio of Acrobats perform several daring feats; the Labakans and their clever little dog "Folly" contribute a droll and dashing act; the Mariano Sisters are brilliant trapeze performers; Miss Maud Mortimer sings tastefully; the Dimond Minstrels play and sing with much effect, and the Four Olympian Stars dance very neatly.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. John A. Thomson's No. 1 Modern and Costume Comedy Répertoire company is appearing here this week. On Monday David Garrick was played, the title-rôle being well taken by Mr. Hamilton Deane; Miss Margaret Watson sustained the part of May Golding in a capable manner; Mr. Edgar Kent made a capital City merchant. A Pair of Spectacles, She Stoops to Conquer, and The Ticket o' Leave Man are included in the répertoire.

FARNWORTH.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. Morton Powell.—Variety holds sway here this week, and it is a welcome change from the usual run of drama. The American Pierrott Troupe provide a capital turn with their sketch On the Sands at Brighton. Kavados is a clever juggler and cannon-ball worker; the Brothers Hannaway are responsible for a good turn as comedians and dancers; Miss Lottie Holland sings some excellent illustrated songs; Tom Hulme is a funny comedian; Miss Violet Rivers meets with success as a male impersonator; the Marvellous Pardoes in their turn do a little of everything and cause roars of laughter, their acrobatic work being very smart.

FLEETWOOD. — QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—Mr. Snelson commenced his summer season on Monday with a good stock company, who appeared in The Streets of London. The villains of the play have able representatives in Mr. Aylmer J. Williams as Gideon Bloodgood and Mr. Herbert Lewis as Badger. Mr. Harwood Cooper did full justice to the rôle of Captain Fairweather and Mr. F. Wilson Lowther to that of young Fairweather. Mr. H. J. Snelson was an admirable Mark Livingstone, and Mrs. Snelson sustained the part of Mrs. Puffy very well. Mr. J. Carle Lyle and Mr. Bert Albert were amusing as Mr. Puffy and his son Dan. Miss Effie Crawford was pathetic as Lucy Fairweather and Miss Olive Lloyd appropriately haughty as Alida Bloodgood.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. Norman Macowan's company in Monsieur Beaucaire and A Soldier of Fortune is here this week. In the first-named piece Mr. Norman Macowan is seen to the greatest advantage in the title-rôle; Mr. Murray Hathorn as the Duke of Winterset acts well; Mr. Arthur Somers as Major Molyneaux gives a good rendering of the part; Mr. Conybeare Gough is an amusing Mr. Rakell; Mr. P. Ramsay Forman is well placed as Captain Badger; and Mr. Hans Schiesinger cleverly doubles the parts of Marquis de Mirepoix and Francois. Miss Marguerite Cellier acts with tenderness the part of Lady Mary; Miss Annie Windsor charmingly portrays Lucy Rellerton; and Miss Mabel Adams renders able assistance as Miss Mabsley.

GATESHEAD.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—Packed houses have been the rule here nightly, the attraction being the return visit of The Village Blacksmith. Mr. Sam Livesey enhances his already big reputation with a powerful depiction of the brawny "smith." Another noteworthy performance is that of little Miss Bertha Hanbury, whose portrayal of the child receives unstinted praise. Mr. Joseph Carter plays with unbounded vigour as Captain Leo; Mr. Edwin Maydew is satisfactory as Lucas Marlow; Mr. Geo. V. Campbell as Billy Twigg creates a great deal of laughter; Miss Laura Walker is a charming Kate Strong; a capital interpretation of Ruth Parkins comes from Miss Maggie Edwards; Mrs. T. C. Livesey as Sal Parkins, Miss Edith Giddens as Martha Mopps, and Mr. T. E. Marshall as Jeremiah Parkins do well in their respective parts.

KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. M. S. Hammond; General-Manager, Mr. Joe May.—A strong variety company occupies the boards here. Heading the bill are Gipsy Woolf and her Six Sunbeams in the scena entitled Fun in a Forest, which is well suited to the popular taste. Doody and Wright are seen to great advantage in some excellent fooling; Frank Sherlock and Jean Van Dalle give an amusing sketch, The Mummy and the Undergrad.; the cycling and motoring exhibition of Davis and Gledhill are an interesting feature; Ray and Calden are comedy artists of the first order; very entertaining is Florence Watson, a dainty comedienne; Linton is a clever performer on the tight wire; Scotch humour of the best quality is admirably portrayed by Jock Walker; Franz A. Crisp is a pleasing vocalist; and the King's Bioscope shows some interesting pictures.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Starring here is Mr. Sidney Bacon's excellent company in the sensational episode The Maniac. In the title-part Mr. Melville Bickford achieves a triumph and receives capital support from the other members of the company. J. A. Cassels, a clever Scotch comedian, is very entertaining; Lachie Thompson's "top-weights" contribute a capital gymnastic act; Halma is a young juggler of considerable promise; also appearing are Fred Horsfal, mimic; J. T. Scatter, comedian; and Winnie Scott, coon impersonator. Downey's Pictures conclude the entertainment.

GLASGOW.—KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—An attractive programme is offered here this week by Mr. M. Russell Rosse, his company appearing in She Stoops to Conquer, The School for Scandal, A Marriage of Convenience, and The Lady of Lyons. On Monday a pleasing performance was given of the first-named play, with Miss Muriel Godfrey-Turner in the part of Miss Hardcastle, in which character this charming actress is seen to advantage; Mr. A. T. Hilton was the Hardcastle, and gave a characteristic and convincing rendering of the part; Mr. Robert Minster proved an acceptable exponent of the part of Young Marlow; in the rôle of Hastings Mr. Frederick D. Daviss acted with considerable spirit; while the boisterous humour of Tony Lumpkin was well depicted by Mr. Charles R. Hann; Mr. Norman Clark made a dignified Sir Charles Marlow; and the parts of Diggory, Stingo, and Rodger were ably sustained by Messrs. A. J. Harding, Ernest W. Mason, and Henry Martin respectively. Miss Eugenie Vernie gave an excellent portrayal of Mrs. Hardcastle; Miss Lilian Locke was a satisfactory Miss Neville; the part of the maid being adequately filled by Miss Sybil Wyse. The comedy was preceded by Jerry and a Sunbeam, in which Mr. Rex B. Foote and Miss Elsie Howard Ross appeared with success.

ROYAL PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—Hearty and continuous laughter was evoked by the amusing situations in Lucky 'Liza, the new farcical play, written by Fred Locke, and played by Mr. Dickie Clare's company. Miss Madge Brownie makes a charming 'Liza Bird, acting with sprightly humour, and singing her songs with good effect. Mr. Dickie Clare as Silas Slim ably helps the fun along, and with Miss Brownie, gives a topical song; Mr. Willie Reid is intensely fanny as the gardener Biffins; Miss Madge Locke makes an attractive Virginia Blatherwick, and receives hearty recalls for her various songs; Miss Belle Russell acts with quiet effect as Marie Pettitoe; Mr. James Chippendale cleverly hits off the eccentricities of Mr. Pettitoe, whose son, as played by Mr. Leonard Maitland, is an amusing study of the inane dude type. Mr. A. W. Thompson as Blatherwick, Mr. George Minto as the amorous old judge, and Mr. James Quinn as the Court Usher, all add their quota to the fun.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Limited; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Mussett.—The Harmony Four top the list this week, and give a high-class entertaining blend of vocal harmony and side-splitting fun. Alexandra Dagmar gives graphic illustrations of different kinds of singers, and some witty patter, which keeps the house in a titter; Celeste twirls his glittering bâton with dazzling rapidity; Henry Helm is a French baritone, who sings with such dramatic effect that one longs to listen to him again; Conn and Conrad begin their turn as two noisy burglars, but end as very clever trapezists; Tom Owen is an entertaining Welsh comedian; Duse Mohamed and his company act a powerful scene called The Jew's Revenge; Mons. Albany gives clever illustrations of sleight-of-hand and ventriloquism. From the overture at the beginning to the final Bioscope the time passes pleasantly.

ZOO HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Mr. Theo Bouwmeester gives a clever sketch entitled Who is Guilty? and his impersonations of the various witnesses whose evidence leads to the dramatic finale, are wonderfully good; Ferguson and Mack give a lively patter and knock-about turn; the Avolos, with their upright bar performance, prove a distinct novelty, and do extremely well; the Empire Comedy Four are clever vocalists, and their funny business helps to make the turn a most enjoyable one; the Three Prestons give their amusing sketch The Liftman's Rise: Gold and Sterling contribute a smart singing and painting novelty turn; Derenda and Green are neat in their club-swinging feats; G. W. Walker and Arthur Kingston are vocalists of much ability: and the Bioscope gives some thrilling pictures of the San Francisco ruins.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—A big hit has been made here by securing Marie Lloyd, after a long absence from Glasgow, as the star this week, and the popular comedienne comes provided with clever new songs, and also gives as a special item, "The Coster's Wedding." Clark's Nippers contribute a smart turn, introducing dancing, boxing, and ball punching, and prove themselves clever juveniles; another enjoyable item is the song and dance turn of the Virginian piccaninnies; Stanley and Greenop, expert banjoists, give both classical and popular selections; George D'Albert's happy style catches the public fancy at once, and his songs are much enjoyed; Barbara Babington is a sweet-voiced vocalist; Kuroki, illusionist in some mystifying feats; and Ella Lane, serio, with some smart ditties, complete a first-rate programme.

PALACE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—There is a really varied programme here. Prof. McCann's dogs display the acme of canine training; Haley's juveniles please everyone; Lillie Souter is a smart comedienne; juggling of a "travelling" nature is the principal item of a good performance by Wisper; and the Musical Palmers repeat their artistic and refined musical show. Clare Greta sings and dances charmingly; Merton and Rydon in song and dance dispel dull care; Arthur Reece is a favourite comedian; Beattie Bloom has many admirers; and the black and white business of Cline and Clarke is also most enjoyable.

COLISEUM.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan.—In the excellent programme here, the Casey Circus is the principal draw; another interesting turn is that of Mlle. Olive, juggler; Harding and Ah-Sid, American eccentrics, also make a highly-creditable appearance. Other notable turns include Newhouse and Ward, daring trick cyclists; Manning's Entertainers, in an amusing sketch; Florence and Lillian, clever instrumentalists; Ernest Tilbury, vocalist; Jimmy Shields, comedian and dancer; Gladys Mavius, comedienne and dancer; and the Bioscope.

TIVOLI.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. M. Armstrong.—The chief attraction here is an amusing sketch entitled Bertie's Birthday Party. The cast includes such GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—Sam Elton heads the bill this week, and is as amusing as ever; Diamond and Beatrice, in their refined musical act, contribute a most acceptable and pleasing turn; the Haytors in their comedy sketch are most diverting; Miss Elsie Roby, as the "comedienne at the piano," is most successful; James Howard and Fanny St. Clair have a smart sketch; Rich and Rich on their return are heartily welcomed; Mr. F. Terry is appreciated; and Charles Whittle mets with success. The pictures are most enjoyable.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock.—On Monday evening Mr. Arthur Branscombe and Chevalier Scovel's company commenced a six nights' engagement. For the early part of the week the attraction was the new musical comedy The American Heiress. As Lord Stonyhurst Mr. Frank Barclay rendered his various numbers admirably; Mr. Paddy Dupres as the Irish Captain O'Clancy provided abundance of mirth; Mr. Walter Westwood's Jack Grey was a clever portrayal, his automatic figure dance in Act 2 being undoubtedly the hit of the piece; Stuart McNab as played by Mr. John Wilkinson was also smart; Little Tony was well to the fore as the Hon. James Fitz-James; Mr. E. O. Freshwater proved his ability as Colonel Windbag; Miss Margery Gray sang and acted admirably as Sadie Brooklyn; as Cora Brooklyn Miss Minnie Walsh looked the part; Mrs. Strongmynde was well placed in the hands of Miss Gipsy Touzeau; and as Marie the French maid Miss Dolly Harcourt danced gracefully. The chorus is large and well trained, and reflects great credit on the conductor, Mr. Herbert Simpson. For the latter part of the week Morocco Bound is the attraction.

THE KURSAAL.—Manager and Musical Director, Mr. C. L. Naylor; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. F. R. Yeulett.—Mr. Fred Dale's English Opera Singers are with us once more, and are daily delighting the audences with their bright and clever entertainment. A novel and welcome side-show is provided by the Kodak Exhibition.

HARTLEPOOL. — EMPRESS. — Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—The programme here this week includes Lambert and Hands, vocalists; the Bros. Obo, exceedingly funny in a laughing song; Mack Olive, whose abilities as a whistler are indisputable; W. J. Churchill, who, in a style quite his own, perpetrates patter; the Bros. Lillian, with a performance on the silver chains; the Emlyn Jones Quintette of Welsh singers; and Curtis and Leo, in a cleight-of-hand exhibition. The pictures on the Bioscope are exceptionally good.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt. This week we have a visit from Messrs. Wm. Fraser-Brunner and Gilbert Heron's company in The Superior Miss Pellender. The comedy part of Mrs. Pellender is amusingly sustained by Miss Jessie Danvers, and the title-rôle is successfully embodied by Miss Alice Esther Belmore. The misunderstood Mr. Tister is well played by Mr. Gilbert Heron; and the other members of the Pellender family are ably presented respectively by Miss Jessie Ramsey (Edith), Miss Alice Bowes (Nancy), and Mr. Geo. Belmore (Noel). The comedy is preceded by Kit's Atonement, the dramatic incident being finely sustained by Mr. Wm. Fraser-Brunner in his impersonation of Kit Denver; Marie is pleasingly played by Miss Queenie Fraser-Brunner; Mr. George Belmore is a manly Dick Russell; and Mr. W. H. Gainsford is the conventional Boer officer.

HIPPODROME. — Resident and General Manager, Mr. Albert Mathams.—A capital programme is opened here this week by a pleasing singer and comedienne, Miss Theresa Moore; Mr. Walter Wallis is a genuine comic singer; a contralto possessing an excellent voice is found in Miss Gladys Whitton; the films shown by the Hippodrome Bioscope are very attractive; the dancing of the Two Sprays is quite a feature; Harry Lawson, comedian, does well; a sketch by Cosgrove and Burns is delightfully piquant; and a ripple of merriment always accompanies Fred Neiman's troupe of black figures and his clever ventriloquism.

ST. LEONARD'S PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Mr. Harry Sinclair's No. 1 Musical Comedy Company is appearing here in The Octoroon. Mr. Hall Eldon enacts the part of George Peyton with quiet decision; Jacob McClosky is remarkably well delineated by Mr. James Stirling; Pete is naturally impersonated by Mr. Fred Hart; Miss Maggie Sinclair as Paul submits an admirable performance; Mr. Harry Sinclair's is a good piece of acting as Wah-no-tee; Miss Gladye St. Leger does justice to the rôle of Mrs. Peyton; Miss Lottie Kendal's representation of Zoe is interesting; Miss M. Blackmore plays the part of Dora Sunnyside with much intelligence; and Mr. Horace Lionel deserves commendation as Salem Scudder.

HORWICH.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessees, The Provincial Theatres Co.; General-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Bradley; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben Hawke.—Mr. G. H. Le Wist's exceptionally good variety combination is the attraction this week. It includes Mons. Armiors, strong man, whose weight-lifting forms a very attractive feature; the Melias, vocalists and dancers; Le Wist, in a smart ventriloquial entertainment; Harry Albery, whose songs and dances receive well-merited applause; Miss Sheila McNeil, a Scottish comedienne; Miss Lill in some good contralto songs; Henry Reno in a conjuring performance; Staffo, the comedy butcher boy juggler; and Tom Ashley, Irish comedian and dancer.

HUDDERSFIELD. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Andrews.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company is playing here this week his drama The Sin of Her Childhood. The leading parts are filled by Miss Ruth Sheppard as Mary Haysel, the repentant sinner of the title; Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes as the callous brother Stephen; Mr. Charles Fancourt as the Rev. Alan Grey; Mr. Hugh Brady as O'Reilley; and little Dot Moss as Hannah Spry.

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The bill includes the Regal Operatic Quartette in a judicious selection of the most popular numbers from Maritana; Miss Lena Verdi, a clever lady mimic; Tom Hughes, comedian; Albert German, baritone; Queenie May, juvenile serio; Verno and Voyce, duettists; Collins and Rice, a comedy couple; Jack Truman, tenor vocalist; the Three Merrills in a daring and clever cycling act; and the Hippodrome Pictures.

HULL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Wm. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Mr. Morton has not resorted to the use of a "boomster," to use Fredk. Ware's clever definition in Lucky Miss Dean, which is so successfully holding the boards of the Paragon-street playhouse. Nor will it, for the matter of that, need any booming to secure its full share of recognition. To the charm of the comedy must be added some delightful acting by a capable company, headed by Miss Dora Gray, whose impersonation of the lucky little lady is delightfully natural, whilst in her boomster companion, with whose efforts in that particular line so much of the play is concerned, Mr. W. E. Ashcroft has a rôle for which, in every sense, he is admirably adapted. The character of Lady Ashmole is one for which Miss Estelle Despa is very happily cast. In the rôle of the uncle, Mr. W. T. Elworthy finds abundant opportunities. With lesser calls, Mr. Vivian Gilbert and Mr. Cyril Price-Evans add to the comedy's interest. Lucky Miss Dean is preceded by an amusing one-act farce, My American Admirer in which in addition Messrs. Elworthy and V. Gilbert, Miss Estelle Despa and Miss Beth Elliott, attain success.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Local-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—After a lapse of years, Hoodman Blind figures on a local playbill, due to the visit of Mr. Arnold Bell and his capital company, who are playing a répertoire which includes, in addition to the first-named, Called Back and The Ticket-o'-Leave Man. The efficient manner in which Hoodman Blind has been presented adds no little to the interest of the revival, both the staging and mounting reaching a high standard. The rôle of Jack Yeulett, upon which so much depends, is invested with heroic qualities by Mr. Arnold Bell; Miss Frances Campbell plays the dual rôle with fine effect, and whether as the nurtured gentlewoman or the wandering gipsy the artist is ever apparent; the comedy of Miss Violet Campbell as Polly Chibbles and Mr. John Belton as Ben Chibbles is a pleasant foil to the more tragic side; villainy has excellent exponents in Mr. Frank Carlile (Kridge) and Mr. Cuthbert Imrie (Lezzard). A pleasant touch is given to the two juvenile parts by Miss F. Maddock (Kit), and Miss L. Vyner (Tom Tit).

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—Mr. John F. Preston's company is playing répertoire here, and with plays as diverse as Jane Shore, Lady Godiva, and Nell Gwynne enough variety is provided. It was with Lady Godiva that the engagement opened on Monday, and all the company met the demands made upon them, specially suitable being Mr. F. B. Woulfe's Peeping Tom. The Lady Godiva of Miss Josephine Colona was in keeping with tradition, and full of dramatic force. Miss Gwen Stuart successfully represents the sister, whilst Miss Edith Lorraine is a capital Elfrida.

THE PALACE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Jno. S. Barnett.—Dr. Carl Hermann in his electricity healing and mesmeric act is a popular turn here; Arthur Gill, a man of many voices, is a favourite. Other artists appearing include the Jagos, duettists, dancers, and bâton manipulators; Alice May and company, in a sketch entitled Tranquillity; Will English, who is very funny; Athas and Collins, amusing comedy artists; the Bostonians, singers and dancers; and the Barowsky Trio.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham.—A capital top turn is that of the Smart Set, vocal entertainers; Alf. Gibson is a big favourite in some popular songs; Edie Gray and Covas in some harmonious songs make a hit; Jack Pleasants is a popular comedian; May Fallowfield sings some smart songs; Angeline is a clever lady juggler; and Harry Cotton and Gus Le Clerq contribute to the comic element.

THE CIRCUS.—Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—A capital series of animated pictures are being shown here.

ILKESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensée and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—The United English Opera Company, directed by Mr. F. S. Gilbert, occupies the boards here. On Monday was presented Maritana. In the title-rôle Miss Kitty Brownless displayed much ability; Don Cæsar de Bazan was cleverly played by Mr. Gilbert himself; Miss Vera Vizard was an attractive and successful Lazarillo; Mr. H. Brindle was well placed as the King of Spain; and Mr. H. Blagrave as the Marquis de Montefiore, and Miss Kate White as the Marchioness were effective. As Don Jose Mr. J. Kneale Campbell acquitted himself well. Il Trovatore, The Bohemian Girl, The Daughter of the Regiment, and Faust have also been billed.

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Knightall.—Monti Santos heads the bill here with a polished juggling show; English and Edwards give a clever duologue; Renee Walon sings and dances with much effect; Arthur Richards is a comedian of merit; Nellie Clarke pleases as a serio; and Arthur Edwards, vocalist, and Miss May English, serio, also provide good turns.

IPSWICH.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Jennings.—Sergeant Brue was presented on Monday by Mr. E. Lockwood's company. The humour of the eccentric sergeant is in the capable keeping of Mr. Arthur Reynolds; Crookie Scrubbs is capitally acted by Mr. Charles Maclagan; Miss Lily Lingard is an accomplished and attractive Lady Biekenhall; Miss Eva Weigh a charming Aurora Brue; and other characters have efficient representatives.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—A strong and varied programme is being provided here. A turn of exceptional merit is that of the Six Æolians, whose quartettes, solos, and duets are received with every sign of appreciation; an artist of special merit is Mr. E. P. Ling, who scores heavily as a mimic; another attractive turn is that of the Glenroy troupe of dancers, whose Scotch reels, Irish jigs, &c., evoke a storm of applause. Other items include Prince Bendon, a clever ventriloquist; W. H. Downs, a coloured vocalist; Tate and Tate, agile tumblers; and Counsell and Mills, who cause much merriment.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jerold E. Reed.—Miss Marie Menzies' company is here this week with A Rogue's Daughter. The title-rôle is caerfully handled by Miss Menzies; Mr. Roy Gordon gives a good account of Sir George Mynard; Mr. F. V. Fenn is an excellent Frank Tyler; and Mr. Richard Ferris a satisfactory Colonel Forster, being ably assisted by Mr. William Pimm as Isaac Isaacs. Mr. T. Taylor is very good indeed as Ebenezer Dunnem; Mr. A. Hall Menzies causes amusement as John Gibbs; Miss Madge Devereux is well placed as Letty Grey; and Miss Violet Leader is quite at home as Dicky. Miss Marie E. Robertson is a capital Priscilla Jenkins.

KEIGHLEY.—QUEEN'S THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall; General Manager, Mr. R. S. Kendall.—Mr. Lingford Carson's répertoire company is this week seen to advantage in that sterling play The Ticket-of-Leave Man. Mr. Charles Draycott ably portrays Bob Brierley, and Mr. Ernest J. Fare's Hawkshaw is a powerful performance. James Dalton is in the capable hands of Mr. J. Dobson Clyde, Mr. Arthur Byron is well placed as Walter Moss, and Mr. Sidney C. Cranston's Green Jones is very amusing. Sam Willoughby is ably played by Miss Daisy Norman, Miss Laurie Pardy is a charming Emily, Miss Hettie Lemon plays with grace and ability, Mr. Morley Carrol and Miss Louise Millward complete an excellent cast.

LANCASTER. — ATHENÆUM. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Hy. Wilkinson.—Another variety programme is presented this week. At the head is Scottie's Waifs and Strays in a humorous ballet Whilst London's Sleeping, which has a capital reception. Miss Nellie Nora is very clever with the banjo and other instruments, and Watty Griffen is justly described as the flexible marvel; Soros, the great mystifier, is staying another week, and fairly baffles the audience; and Whizzing the Whirl is another attractive item. Miss Marie Foster, comedienne, King Alexander, raconteur, and animated pictures complete the bill.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—Mr. Harry Yorke brings a talented company with the thrilling detective drama Sherlock Holmes. Mr. Henry Renouf plays the resourceful detective to the life; the vengeful Moriarty is effectively portrayed by Mr. W. F. Stirling; Dr. Watson has an able interpreter in Mr. Francis Hawley; Mr. Ernest Gray does excellent work as the villainous James Larrabee, whose female confederate in crime, Madge Larrabee, is a very fine effort by Miss Violet Lewis; Miss Vera Longden makes a sweet and charming Alice Faulkner; Mr. J. Poole-Kirkwood as John Forman acquits himself with distinction; Mr. Philip Renouf submits a clever study of Sid Prince; the ubiquitous Billy is in the capable hands of Mr. Walter Hicks; and other leading parts are ably interpreted by Mr. Milo M. Loomis; Mr. Chas. Gray, and Miss Rosalie Notrelle

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—The Prodigal Parson, a powerful dramatic story, is well played this week by Garrod and Northway's company, and good business is being done. Mr. W. V. Garrod presents the title-part in a style which leaves little to be desired, and he has good assistance from Mr. A. Northway as Churchwarden Jaggins and Mr. Alfred Dallas as Ben Jaggins. Some welcome humorous relief is afforded by Mr. P. Dawson and Miss May Grayce. Miss Bertha Kingston displays ability in her portrayal of the prodigal's wife, and other prominent members of the company are Miss Gladys Conover and Mr. Walter Vincent.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—This is a Shakespearean week at the popular Queen's, Mr. Ian Maclaren with a talented all-round company presenting a répertoire of the Master's plays to enthusiastic houses. Mr. Maclaren's Hamlet is amongst the best we have seen here, and his audience on Monday evening was stirred to demonstrative appreciation by his fine work. Miss Gertrude Gilbert is a promising leading lady, her portrayal of Ophelia being very well done. An effective impersonation of the king is to be credited to Mr. Aubrey Mather; Polonius has a capable representative in Mr. Gordon Philliott; and the parts of Laertes and Horatio are well handled by M. Francois Cellier and Mr. Wilton Ross. Much good work is also done by Miss F. Glossop Harris, Mr. Claude Haviland, and Mr. Stafford Dawson. The Merchant of Venice, As You Like It, and Othello have also been presented.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—Those fine athletes and acrobats the Wille Brothers are a leading feature in the week's bill here, their marvellous feats arousing great enthusiasm. A striking athletic turn by the Klos Sisters is also vociferously applauded; a musical comedy sketch by those accomplished artists the McConnell Trio proves a very popular item; the New York Nippers are again presenting their vocal entertainment; good success attends the efforts of Ernie Mayne, comedian; and a pair of charming comediennes, Eily Adair and Nellie Martell, are in the bill; Ray Wallace succeeds admirably in vocal mimicry of star variety artists; and an intelligent dog show is engineered by Clown Barker and Miss Rozsika.

TIVOLI. — Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; General-Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—Star comedians again predominate here, Dan Crawley and George Gilbey being particular favourites. Sable Fern scores her usual success with vocal contributions; Halter and Ray are a clever comedy couple; that expert pair of equilibrists Yamamoto and Koyoshi are again doing wonderful feats; Wallau, the clever juvenile juggler, is successful; Adams and Ward find favour and entertaining turns are also submitted by Daisy Morrell, comedienne, Rowland Hill, comedian, and May and Miles, the merry huntsmen.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—An exceedingly attractive programme is headed by Wal Pink's company in the farcical sketch Repairs, and the presentation arouses uproarious merriment; Stewart and Morgan have a high-class musical and vocal entertainment, which is much enjoyed; that popular comedian Frank Coyle is very successful; as also are the St. Johns with clever patter and neat dancing; and Vosper, facial mimic; Agnes Krembser secures plaudits for a clever juggling act; and Polly Heath and Mollie Doon are each successful with comedy items.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; General and Business Manager, Mr. Henry Dundas.—On Monday a fine reception awaited Mr. Edward Compton in the part of Davy Garrick. At the end of the second act, in response to loud calls, the popular actor-manager spoke a few words of thanks. He said: "You and I are old friends, but I cannot help feeling that there is an added warmth in your reception to-night, which is due to the fact that this is my first appearance in Leicester since I became, in company with Mr. Milton Bode, part proprietor and manager of your beautiful Opera House. We shall use our utmost endeavours to merit, and I am sure we shall receive, your warm encouragement and support, for, be assured, that in every respect, 'Our true intent is all for your delight.'" Mr. Compton's remarks were punctuated by frequent outbursts of applause. Miss Mackenzie was in every way charming as Violet Gresham, and high praise must be accorded Mr. H. Crocker as Alderman Gresham. Mr. A. B. Imeson made an excellent Hon. Tom Tallyhaut; and both Miss H. Hassell as Mrs. Rumbelow, and Miss Muriel Meek as Selina, filled their parts admirably. Mr. Herbert Pigot as Rumbelow; Mr. Arnold Lucy as Sowerby; and Mr. G. W. Johnson as Simkins, did justice to their respective parts. The one-act comedy, A Desperate Lover, preceded. On Tuesday evening Mr. Compton made his 913th appearance as Charles Surface in The School for Scandal.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—A return visit is being paid here this week by Messrs. Armadale and Warren's company, in The Face at the Window. Mr. E. Hoggan-Armadale repeats his powerful impersonation of Le Loup; Mr. T. W. Dunscombe, as Paul Gouffet, is most effective; Mr. Alfred Warne is well placed as Henry de Brisson; Mr. Gilbert Hall makes a good impression as Lucien Cortier; Mr. George Phythian displays ability as Le Blanco; Miss N. Thorn-Hallam is clever as Marie de Brisson; and Mr. C. Alan Hineson arouses hearty laughter as Peter Pottlebury; Miss Gwynne Warren does well as Babette; and Miss Elaine Grant is effective as La Pinau.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Andrews.—Wilkie Bard's infectious humour keeps audiences here in continued roars of laughter; Boswell's stage circus, in which ponies, dogs, and a donkey are introduced, provides a clever and amusing entertainment; the Morton Trio, comedians and vocalists, are responsible for a popular turn; the Holles and Goldman Trio are a success in their versatile musical comedy mélange, The Little Charwoman; the Maples create hearty laughter in How to Treat a Burglar; the Canary Company presents an entertaining comic pantomime, of which juggling is a prominent feature; Miss Bessie Butt, who takes the place of Nellie Stratton, is a sparkling soubrette and delightful dancer; the Six Lancashire Lasses are smart clog-dancers; Harry Bedford is an excellent comedian; and the American Bioscope is showing a new series of subjects.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—The leading attraction here this week is Mr. J. G. Johnson and company with Loyal Hearts and In An Old Country Lane. Grant and Allen are entertaining comedians; the Lessors excellent vocalists and dancers; Henri Bekker does some smart conjuring tricks; Edna Latonne is a vivacious vocalist; Clara Sefton dances in an attractive manner; and Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope throws on the screen the usual up-to-date films.

PIERROT PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Abell, Johnson, and Unsworth.—The following artists are contributing to a refined and pleasing entertainment here: Dan Lyndon, the well-known Pierrot comedian; Arthur Bearle, society jester; Edna Grey, soprano; Syd Carlton, descriptive vocalist; Frances O'Reilly, soubrette (of Geo. Dance's opera company); and Jeff Lytton, pianist and musical director.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Rousby.—The boards here this week are occupied by Mr. Fred L. Connynhame's company in the powerful drama entitled A Mother's Love. Mr. Connynghame gives an exceptionally good rendering of Mat Ruddock; Mr. Geo. Child plays with much force the part of Geoffrey Mannering; Mr. Arthur Rose does full justice to the rôle of Paul Wingate, Miss Violet Macaree gives a creditable study of the somewhat trying rôle of Winnie Wingate, Ellaine Mervin is capitally portrayed by Miss Marjory Murray, and Marjorie Wingate is pleasingly played by Miss Bertha Christobel.

LINCOLN. — ROYAL. — Sole Owner, Mr. Frank King.—Mr. Junius Booth, as Edmund Dantes, in Monte Cristo, is once again proving his ability; the part could hardly be better played. Mr. Alfred Terris, who plays Danglars, is responsible for an incisive piece of work; Mr. E. H. Templeton as Noirtier, and Mr. Laurence Grove as Mordego, also act effectively; Mr. W. Uridge is satisfacotry as Villefort; and Miss Joan Ellis is a praiseworthy Mercédes.

PALACE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Sydney Arthur.—Radford and Valentine, jolly jesters, at the head of the bill, are funny; the Pender Troupe appear in a droll acrobatic sketch; the Four Burnells are good knockabouts; Kit Keen sings and dances smartly; Lily Sharplin and Charles Norton each excel in mimicry; the Continental stilt-walkers present a merry entertainment; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux provide an attractive entertainment.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—The new comic opera with the title The Girls from Utah; or, the Gold Diggers, made its first appearance in Liverpool this week. Laughter held sway throughout the three acts, the artiste principally responsible for such a happy state of things being Mr. Fred Eastman, whose troubles while filling the worrying rôle of a matrimonial agent get him into many ludicrous scrapes. Miss Kate Vesey sang sweetly, and danced gracefully as Suza; Miss Florence Parfrey showed much capability in the rôle of Mrs. Bumble, the match-making widow; an exceptionally good character is that of Terence Rainford, submitted by Mr. Harrison Brockbank; Miss Nora Brocklebank's Mildred proved exceedingly acceptable; and the fun of the evening was largely contributed to by Mr. W. H. Powell as the amorous greengrocer, Alphonse. Mr. Brockbank's songs were given with pleasing effect, and the several choruses by the widows, wives, and gold miners were harmonious and delightful.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Lessees, The Shakespeare Theatre Company, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—Another play new to this city has occupied the stage here this week. A Queen Without a Crown, presented by Messrs. Howard and Wyndham's company, met with unmistakable success on Monday. Miss Geraldine Olliffe, as Theresa Maria, and Miss Ruth Mackay in the part of the unfortunate Countess Melrosa, acted with such distinction as to win unstinted applause. Both ladies showed high dramatic power. Gracious and charming was Miss Helen Grenville as the young king; Mr. Wellesley Smith as the droll Irish tutor, Dr. Daly, was eminently good; Mr. T. Holding handled the part of Colonel Michael with much satisfaction; Mis Emma Rainbow was acceptable as Ilga Branski; the General Dominica of Mr. Eric Hudson was a well-filled rôle; and Mr. Wallace Stranack did justice to the character of Petrofski.

ROTUNDA THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—A False Wife paid its first visit to the popular north-end house this week, and attracted large audiences. The piece was presented by Mr. F. Marriott-Watson's company. Miss Florence E. Florence assumed her original rôle of Estelle de Lussan, playing with dramatic effect; Mr. Frank Strickland was a particularly villainous Jean Berand; a manly Lieutenant Mansfield came from Mr. W. Howard Barlow; Miss Ellen Armor was pathetic as Agnes Weyland; Mr. Elton Morgan was a rollicking Ben Rattler; Mr. Owen Edwin as Constable Tee, and Miss Nita Imeson in the character of Jessie Blazer, made the most of the comedy; and Mr. George Langham presented a good study of Sir Colin Mansfield.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—Tom Foy and company top the bill here this week with the funny sketch, The Lancashire Lad in London. Sam Mayo is a favourite here. The Five Foys in "The Excursion Depot" are funny, as are Bennett and Martell, comedians of no mean merit; the songs rendered by the Steinway Quartette are greatly enjoyed; the Three Zaracs are amusing in their sketch; the Ladderites are good, as are the Cecilias; and Jenny Johns receives due recognition.

STAR THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Mr. John Power's capable company have this week been playing here the drama Man's Enemy; or, the Downward Path, which has afforded much satisfaction. Mr. Norman A. Overton played with sound discretion as Harry Stanton; the Tom Drake of Mr. John Power was a capital piece of acting; praise is especially due to Miss Marie McAuley for her portrayal of Sarah Drake; General Stanton was well presented by Mr. E. W. Bretton; Mr. Cecil Vernon Proctor gave every satisfaction as Fred Lisle; the Isaac Barnett of Mr. J. Newton-Cowling proved very humorous; Miss Clara Reid was a winsome Polly Harris; and Mr. Harold White handled the part of Count Lanski with discretion.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. Fred. L. Arthur.—A third play new to Liverpool has been staged here, and witnessed by delighted audiences. Her Luck in London is an admirable drama, well staged and well acted, the company bright. Mr. George Kirk and Miss Mary Neil being eminently capable. As the unfortunate Nellie Harborne, Miss Mary Neil displayed her histrionic accomplishments to the fullest degree; Mr. Charles A. Leicester, an actor of undoubted ability, submitting a fine portrait of the Hon. O'Connor; Mr. Alfred D. Alams was effective as the villainous Richard Lenowen; Miss Florrie Groves was particularly amusing as Maud Shovepenny; a deal of humour was provoked by Mr. Charles Digby as Algia Kircumbrie; and Miss Ada Roscoe played with much feeling as Madame Gabrielle.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Dr. Walford Bodie, who always attracts enormous audiences in Liverpool, opened a fortnight's stay here on Monday night, and had a big reception, the vast Hippodrome being filled in all parts. In addition to this expensive engagement was a long list of excellent turns. The Holloways repeated their remarkable wire act, for which they were loudly applauded; the Vernon Troupe of xylophone players, vocalists, and dancers were eminently satisfactory; some funny Scotch songs came from Mr. J. B. Preston; Barlee and Smith provoked considerable laughter with their duologue, A Rehearsal; as duettists and dancers, M. and S. Wood were a particularly good line; Dandy George and his dog proved interesting; and the list included Herbert Madden, comedian, and Sidney Dolf, the "vocal trickster."

NEW PARTHENON. — Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—This cosy little hall continues to enjoy a good measure of public patronage. Foremost this week are Frank and Alice Lurins, who, for the first time here, present a smart trifle, The Curate's Dilemma, which was much enjoyed; as comedy artistes and clever dancers Gilroy and Gross distinguish themselves; some comedy juggling of more than average merit is supplied by Peatman and Walsh; James Lowrey, the singing furnaceman, has several popular songs; Bertha Collins presents some good character-pieces; and George Liston is a comedian and dancer who affords much satisfaction. Some charming coloured moving pictures shown by the Bioscope are a feature of the evening's entertainment.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—Secrets of Paris is the seven-tableaux dramatic sketch being played here this week by the "Royal" Stock company, headed by Mr. Percy Boucher, who undertakes the part of Jacques. Mr. Harry Tresham plays ably the rôle of Paul; Mr. Cecil Ravenswood makes an impressive Sabritache; as Gaston, the panther, Mr. Sydney Grant has a part which suits him well; Miss Sara Blumenthal, an experienced actress, affords every satisfaction as Therese; Miss Nina Nazeby shines as Demise Dumaresq; an excellent Juan Mimos comes from Mr. E. D. Allen; and Miss Beryl Ravenswood acquits herself as Lucille la Franche. The Bioscope shows some interesting pictures, and during an interval, Miss Minnie Fenton, specially engaged, renders Scotch songs.

PADDINGTON PALACE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred. Willmot.—The big line here this week is a five-tableaux dramatic sketch, An Oath of Vengeance, presented by Mr. J. Wright Aitken and company, including Miss Una Wright. The work has proved acceptable. Maidie Scott displays much ability as a comedienne; Marion and Byrne, coon vocalists and speciality dancers, are loudly applauded, and the Bioscope has several attractive pictures.

PARK PALACE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Wilmot.—Los Rupertos, smart equilibrists, are at the top of the bill this week; an especially pleasing exhibition on the tight wire is submitted by the Gilberts; some pretty songs and dances are introduced by Cissy Astbury and Miss Lillian; an uncommon turn comes from A. P. Boswell, a black-face burlesque actor, and furniture balancer; Jennette Latour sings several sweet soprano songs; as an eccentric comedian Jack Hylton makes everybody laugh; Walker and Lake keep their audience in a merry mood with their patter; and Mlle. Eldee has a beautiful and artistic turn in posing.

HAYMARKET.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Cullen and Carthy, a popular couple of comedians and dancers, top the bill here; the remarkable whistling of Shawlene, along with his eccentricities, earn for that artiste much applause; the Sisters Hall are neat vocal duettists and dancers; some smart work as a contortionist is done by Pablo Diaz; as a juvenile coon vocalist and dancer Miss McNab shows much promise; and Joe Dale renders several acceptable descriptive songs.

WESTMINSTER. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Miss Mabel Thorne, a favourite lady in Liverpool, is paying a return visit here with her latest songs; J. H. Wakefield finds favour for his coon ditties and dancing; Sandes and Vincent, vocalists, dancers, knockabouts, etc., are an exceedingly lively pair; smart and bewildering conjuring is performed by Godfrey; Myra Love shows herself to be a dainty comedienne; Will Saunders, comedian, raises many a laugh; and Will Jennings has an acceptable turn as a buck and wing dancer.

OLYMPIA, LTD.—Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—An attractive programme is arranged here this week, the principal item being the thought-reading dog "Pilu," introduced by Ancillotti. Johnson and Dean, the coloured "fashion plates," pay a welcome return visit; much merriment has followed Wanted, a Divorce, an absurdity provided by Stine and Evans; Charles Fisher and company have come in for a cordial reception by reason of the admirable manner in which they give excerpts from Maritana; Mark Merry aroused much laughter; a graceful trapeze performance is gone through by the Lios Alfa Sisters; some well-rendered picture songs are given by Eloise Brinsmade; Katie Traill, seated at the piano, gives several delightful numbers; and Dora Lyric, comedienne, also appear. The destruction of San Francisco, shown by the Bioscope, is an interesting picture.

LLANDUDNO.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. R. Chaplin.—On Monday the season opened at this theatre, which has been thoroughly renovated from floor to ceiling by the new lessee and manager, Mr. Chaplin. The boards were occupied for the first three nights by Messrs. Hardie and Von Leer's company in Two Little Vagabonds. Mr. William Fazan as George Thornton was capital, and was well supported by Miss Valerie Crespin as Marion Thornton; Mr. John F. Traynor as Bill Mullins evoked much laughter; the Misses D. Rosalyn Vayne and Josie Beltram as Dick and Wally sustained their parts admirably. On Thursday and Friday Perry's Minstrels, including the old favourite Billy Richardson, appeared.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—A noteworthy feature in this week's programme of the Royal Pierrots is the inclusion of Miss Mattie McNicol, a remarkable vocalist; Eva Barlow, vocalist, is a general favourite; and Marjutti, "the Flexible Venus," is greatly appreciated. Marti and Julietta contribute a speciality act successfully; Little Eugene is encored; Taylor Snowball is as funny as ever; and Arthur Crane in character sketches is entertaining. Illustrated songs by Kilpack and Cobley are well received; the Sisters Robin, in refined duets, are good; and a comic sketch by the company brings the entertainment to a close.

MAIDENHEAD.—PAVILION PLEASURE GARDENS. —Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gude.—The nightly entertainments by the Cadets continue to attract good audiences. A commodious marquee has been erected round the stage, so that the show is not dependent on the weather. Mr. Chris. Baker has joined the troupe this week, and bids fair to be an attraction; and the high-class contributions of Miss Adelaide Twort are thoroughly appreciated.

MAIDSTONE.—HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. G. H. Watson.—Appearing here are Nelson Hardy and Miss Grace Moore, in a ventriloquial sketch, The Deputy, which is cleverly worked; Newham and Lattimer, duettists; Arthur Goodman, who causes great laughter with his tramp juggling; Eugene is a clever musician; Miss Lillie Lassah is a smart dancer; Miss Ettie Cinders, comedienne; Walmer Young, comedian, and the bioscope, are also included in the bill.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra

Beatrice Willey, a charming vocalist, in a medley of old flower songs. The Bioscope is interesting, as usual.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—Dronza, the wonderful talking head, is one of the attractions here this week, and causes quite a sensation; another big attraction is George Gray and company in The Road to Ruin; the Sutcliffe family of Scottish pipers, acrobats, and dancers, provide an entertaining turn; Ross and Grayson at the piano are successful; and Esta Stella, a dainty artist, makes a big hit in some tricky dancing; the Finneys (James and Elsie) give their clever tank performance; Lennie and Hast are good in a poetic phantasy, entitled The Nymph; and very amusing are Carney and Armstrong, comedians. Mr. F. J. Headlam, supported by the choir, sings an illustrated song, "Will you love me in December?" the choir render a madrigal in fine style, and some pictures of local interest are shown on the Bioscope.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. A. Wilkes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Signor and Madame Borelli head the bill here in their popular, humorous, and musical Tit-Bits; and Katie Butler, a talented comedy artist, scores in several capital songs, particularly one, "A Tale of Woe." Clifton and Hartman are good in an eccentric musical sketch; the Sisters Kilner are smart acrobatic dancers; and enjoyable items are those of Edward Ind, comedian; Simosa San in juggling and balancing act; Fred Erick, comedian; Flo Velma, comedienne; and Raymond's Vivagraph. On the occasion of our visit Miss Alma Jones, the well-known contralto, did not appear, owing to indisposition, her place being taken at the second performance by Rena Grahame, serio.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—An excellent programme is provided here this week, including The Demon Chef, presented by Picitt and Lizette, with success; Theodore Jones and company in Jack Sheppard; Sam Jesson's clever little merry-makers in a musical sketch, Minnie's Birthday; and Mannon's Merry Maids in A Motor 'Bus Outing. Other good turns are those of the Bollingers, artists in rags; the Two Whites, American comedy artists; and the Three Seymons, equilibrists and jugglers.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Here this week a clever legerdemain performance is given by Gustave Fasola, who receives well-deserved applause; George Martinengo, baritone and 'cellist, contributes a pleasing scena; Tennis and Laune sing pretty duets in a delightful way; the Marsumas are able and amusing trick cyclists; and Will Harvey, novelty comedian; J. Hughes, Lancashire baritone; and Alex Leo, comedian, give satisfactory turns. In addition, interesting and diverting sketches are capably played by Harry Glynn's comedy company, and by Ben Harris and his famous Nippers.

HIPPODROME, HULME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead. The Sarnthalers, who are the top star attraction here this week, entertain with melodious singing and Swiss national dancing; and Moon and Morris, patter comedians and eccentric double dancers, are highly successful; Wee Mona, in song and dance, is greatly appreciated. A distinct success is scored by Greener, the Salford pit lad, who renders his songs in good voice and style. Other entertaining turns are given by the Violet Whitworth Cycling Girls, in a novel racing act, open to competition by local amateurs; Harry Lee, comedian and mimic; the Three McDonalds in a musical act; Carson Hicks, vocalist and buck and sand dancer; the Three Wades in a comedy skit; and the Dainton girls, character duettists.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles North.—Arthur Randall's Middies and Maids, in their sparkling and up-to-date entertainment, are proving a big attraction here this week, the show going with a rare swing from start to finish, and encores being very frequently demanded. The company includes Arthur Randall, light comedian and raconteur; Nellie Taner, soprano; Millicent Davies, contralto; Walter Forder, sketch and monologue artist; Vere Mathews, baritone; J. E. Sutton, entertainer; and Bert Williams, laughing and whistling comedian.

MANSFIELD.—HIPPODROME.—Under the management of Mr. T. Jennings.—Mr. Herbert Barr's company presented here on Monday and Tuesday the evergreen play East Lynne. Miss Dorothy Oswald played the part of Lady Isabel with great pathos and artistic effect; Archibald Carlyle was in the capable hands of Mr. Herbert Barr; Lord Mount Severn was admirably portrayed by Mr. George Beal; Miss Maudie Vincent played the character of Joyce with credit, and sang several songs, to the evident delight of the audience. Miss Agnes Collier in the part of Barbara Hare charmed the audience with her singing of "When other lips." On Wednesday night The Sorrows of Satan was presented, and on Thursday the comedy-drama Life was the attraction.

MARGATE.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—The contributors to this week's programme include Little Salvino, a clever juvenile musician; Agnes Hazel, comedienne; Walter Wade, mimic; Max Duffek, musical contortionist; Rose Reval, a smart young character comedienne; and Mezetti and Mora, comedy triple horizontal bar performers.

METHIL.—TOWN HALL THEATRE.—Mr. Hamilton's Alhambra Company opened on Tuesday with The Corsican Brothers. Mr. Charles Edgar effectively doubled the parts of Fabien and Louis; Mr. J. Hamilton made a capital Renaud; Mr. J. Broadfoot was excellently suited as Montgiron; Mr. A. Ashton played well as Colonna; and capable support was given by Messrs. Will Henderson (Martelli and Maynard) and J. Jessamine (Orlando). Miss E. Dukinfield was a stately Savilia; Miss Ellen Collins was satisfactory as Emilia; Mrs. J. Carrack as Marie and Domino did well; and Miss Agnes Hamilton was a pleasing Griffo. East Lynne, Jane Shore, Titus the Tipster, and The Stave Hunt are also in the week's bill.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—Mr. Frank Ayrton and company are playing here this week in The Power of Gold. Mr. Chas. Whitlock is prominent with a skilful interpretation of Hadji Zambra; Mr. Richard Oliver submits a thoughtful rendering of Paul Judson; a vigorous Mark Harley is found in Mr. Albert Sefton; Miss Lilla Wilde, in the rôle of Lady Brandon, acts with dramatic skill; and Miss Georgina V. France is an excellent Meg Judson. Comedy is cleverly supplied by Mr. Frank Ayrton (Sammy Smudge) and Miss Madge Seymour (Norah Donnelly).

MIDDLESBROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—The Provincial Syndicate presents its military melodrama, The Prodigal Son, here this week. Good audiences are the rule, and the play is much appreciated. Mr. J. P. McBride, as Jack Fanshaw, the prodigal, is decidedly successful; Mr. John S. Chamberlain, as Larry M'Geham, is amusing; and Mr. F. Dudley's Sir John Fanshaw leaves nothing to be desired. Miss Nellie De Lacy gives a fine impersonation of Dick; Mr. Guy Morville, as Bill Burke, does well; Miss Marion Forrester pleases as Margaret Marsden; and Mr. J. Ballard, as Webster; Mr. Ernest Lovatt, as Corbett; Mr. John Brice, as Ralph Marsden; and Miss Maude Western, as Mary, are good.

OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—The Sleigh Bells, a play which the late Sir Henry Irving made peculiarly his own, is being presented here this week. Mr. Ellerslie Pyne, who appears as Mathias, has a most exacting rôle, but acquits himself admirably; Miss Grace Jones, as Annette; and Miss Josephine Leigh, as Catharine, are exceedingly good. Mr. Arthur Mills is most effective as the mesmerist; and Mr. Norman Tracy does well as Christian. Mr. Frank Nelson gives a fine impersonation of the Judge; and Mr. Robert Grahame is excellent as the Doctor.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—An exceptionally good programme is provided here this week. Lonnen, Meadows, and company, in an amusing sketch, heads the bill; Harry Champion and Herbert Rule are excellent comedians; the Cee-Mee troupe are exceedingly clever in their aerial stage act; and Hayman and Franklin are most amusing in their skit, A Suit for Divorce. The Mayvilles and Fred Clements and Francis and Melli also contribute to the programme.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Alfred Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. L. Griffiths.—An interesting programme is being submitted here. Carl Mysto heads the bill, and is well applauded for his smartness with the handcuffs; Joe Mac creates roars of laughter by his comic songs; and the Eight Lancashire Lads provide an excellent singing and dancing entertainment. The Mezzettis contribute a clever gymnastic act; and Keith and Merson are interesting in their absurdity, The Meet. Marie Collins, comedienne; and Shirley and Ransom, comedy artists, also contribute.

MORECAMBE.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee Lieut. Julian Malvern; General-Manager, Mr. Chas. M. Julian.—The Court Comedy Company has during the present week presented Tom Taylor's Ticket-of-Leave Man in excellent style. Mr. Yorke Hatton has been admirable as Bob Brierley, his dialect being excellent; Mr. Ernest Percy has given a good interpretation of James Dalton; as Melter Moss, Mr. Grahame Herington has scored heavily; Mr. Robert Whyte, jun., has made a capital Hawkshaw; and Mr. Stanley Harrison's Gibson has been a careful piece of work. Miss Mabel Durrant has been much appreciated for her study of May Edwards; and Miss Mary Wymond has been a sufficiently garrulous Mrs. Willoughby. Miss Ella Daincourt has made an excellent Sam Willoughby. Scare the Skunk, by E. Nolan O'Connor, which has preceded the drama, depicts an episode during the Boer War, Mr. Stanley Harrison and Miss E. Nolan O'Connor taking the characters. The piece was produced for the first time on any stage and was well received.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—A welcome return is made to the boards of the Royal this week by Mr. George Musgrove's company in the bright and mirthful American musical comedy The Prince of Pilsen. In this typically Yankee production, with its many eccentric and quaintly-amusing characters, the part of the Cincinnati brewer travelling abroad is ably played by Mr. Edwin Adeler, a sound comedian; Mr. Stuart Alexander, the real prince, sings with capital effect; while as the French concierge, an English tourist, and a United States lieutenant, Mr. Alfred Selby, Mr. Lawrence Wensley, and Mr. G. Villiers Arnold all give able interpretations of their parts. Daintily and tunefully is the part of the daughter of the Cincinnati brewer capitalist played by Miss Rubi Verdi; and others deserving mention as able contributors to the success of the piece are Miss Nelly Cozens and Miss Nell Emerald. In addition the company is especially strong in dancing, and the chorus is an excellent one.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—The military drama, entitled At Duty's Call, opened a week's visit here on Monday, and is submitted by an able company under the direction of Mr. John Gerant, who again enacts with all his own skill the part of Harold Allison. Mr. Leonard Williams gives a most intelligent interpretation as George Allison; and Mr. F. R. Gwyn Richardson was a humorous exponent of Jack Spence. Miss Edith Wallis and Miss Edith Knight sustained with credit the leading feminine rôles.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—The popular musical comedy-drama, Somebody's Sweetheart, has been presented here this week with considerable success by Mr. W. H. Kirby and company. As Martin Blabbs Mr. Kirby proves irresistibly droll; Mr. E. H. Bertram successfully sustains the rôle of Stavin Ashleigh; and Mr. J. Pyne Warburton proves an able exponent of Lem Lee. Miss Dot Reeve is a dainty and fascinating Lulu; and Miss Cordelia Knight is a stately and impressive Zora. The musical specialities introduced are highly acceptable.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Leslie Conroy.—The "big" item in this week's programme is the Russian giant Machnow, whose enormous height has astonished large audiences here this week. One of the cleverest comedy musical acts we have had here is contributed to by the Warsaw Brothers, whose success is well deserved; George Brooks rattles off funny songs in his own funny style; and Tom Woottwell is decidedly amusing with a ditty entitled "In the little shirt that mother made for me." As a siffleur Guy Ryder is as clever as ever; the Harrison Brothers are a pair of diverting comedians; Mignonette Kokin is a talented soubrette and dancer; Harry Weldon creates much hilarity with his patter and skit on the coon singers; Galletti's monkeys evoke vehement applause; the Two Raies, speciality dancers; and Lizzie Daniels, comedienne and dancer, are received with evident approval.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Donaldson Brothers and Ardell keep the fun going fast and furious with their merry absurdity depicting scenes at the Zoo; Foreman and Fannen are a pair of excruciatingly funny patter comedians; the Australian Twin Sisters Anderson would be hard to beat as speciality and skipping-rope dancers; and the Herald Comedy Four harmonise their singing with pleasing effect. Geoffreys and Benson, in a smart duologue, act with finish and humour; Tiny Arnold, comedienne and dancer, creates a good impression; as a comedy juggler Rebla contributes a clever act; Nora Emerald, serio, is very smart; Bishop and Vale and Edna Groves are also prominent in the bill, which concludes with some vivid scenes of the effects of the earthquake in San Francisco on the Barrascope.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Mr. Alfred B. Cross's company in The Manxman is paying a return visit here. Mr. A. B. Cross plays Pete with simplicity and sincerity; Miss Minnie Watersford as Kate Creegen wins sympathy; and Miss Nancy Michell's Nancy is a bright piece of acting. Mr. David Phillips capably depicts the hard-hearted Ceazer Cregeen; Miss Mona Spearing makes a dignified Miss Christian; and Mr. Sydney C. Kearns does well as Philip Christian.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Limited.—Managing-Director, Mr. O. Stoll.—Madge Grey's dialect songs are popular; the Wessems perform some clever feats of head balancing; Lilian Warren sings a couple of melodious songs, illustrated by dissolving views; and the Norman-Leonard Trio provide a clever sketch. Chinko, the boy juggler, performs some very difficult tricks; Will Vokes, an eccentric dancer, is popular; and Marba and Verity give some whirling dances. Brooks, Dale, and Blitz, with their mule, are responsible for much amusement; and the Bioscope shows some good pictures.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Sunday is this week's welcome attraction. Miss Emilie Polini now plays the title-rôle, in which she is both natural and convincing; Mr. Leonard Pagden is admirable as Colonel Brinthorpe, acting throughout with tact and finish; Mr. Ernest A. Douglas gives a fine touch to the part of Tom Oxley; Mr. Cecil Duncan as Arthur Brinthorpe is very good; Towzer, Davy, Lively, and Jacky are consistently portrayed by Messrs. Wm. Lockhart, Sidney Rennef, T. Norman Walter, and Arthur Vezin; Mrs. Naresby is capitally played by Miss Rosalind Ross; and Miss Muriel Pope makes an impressive Nun.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Robert Barton.—Amy Anderson and company take the premier position here this week, and are very amusing in their coster sketch, The Banana Girl. Another capital turn is that supplied by Maxford and O'Neil, whose efforts are rewarded by hearty applause. Other interesting items are provided by Mark Lane (comedian), Vesta Fay (male impersonator), Bert and Dora (comedy artists), Mantell and Oval (acrobatic knockabouts), and the Three San Remo Girls (comediennes and speciality dancers), which, with the popular Palace pictures, make up a varied programme.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—A Modern Adventuress, presented by Mr. Lingford Carson's company, has attracted good houses here this week. As Pietro Donelli Mr. Leonard Aardale plays the part with much finish; Mr. Louis Edmonde gives a satisfactory portrayal of Harry Delby; Mr. Leonard Montgomery is well suited as John Crompton; Mr. Frank Orchard submits a good impersonation of Steve Meredith; Mr. A. G. Polson-Turner is capital as Walter Beal; and Mr. Harry C. Rutland makes the most of William Delby. Miss Kate Froude as Violet Meredith presents an effective interpretation of the character; Miss Alice Dofoe is an admirable Vivette Delby; and Miss Ivy Chandos makes quite a hit as Sally Hodges.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—The stars here are Messrs. O'Malley and Brown, comedians and dancers, who have made a great success; Messrs. Caselli and James, banjoists, are enthusiastically received; Miss Elsie May, descriptive vocalist, is greatly relished; and the Five Casino Girls, in their musical act, have made a great hit. Miss Clara Victor, soprano; the Paulo Brothers, speciality artists; Mr. Aldro Lukos, perch performer; and the Bio-Photoscope also meet with favour.

NORTHWICH.—CENTRAL THEATRE.—Proprietress, Mrs. S. Golden.—Mr. Alf Bery's No. 1 Vandeville company is going strong, and this week there is an entire change of programme. Miss Gert Martine sings in an attractive style; Mr. Alec Alexander, actor vocalist, presents a highly appreciated turn; Walter Shenley, grotesque, is extremely humorous; the Bradleys, in their refined speciality act, met with a hearty reception; Gilroy and his happy family submit a good ventriloquial entertainment; Wambo, trick cyclist, is clever; and the Baltimore Sketch Company presents a laughable farce. The Animated Pictures bring an enjoyable entertainment to a close.

PIERROT PAVILION.—Proprietors, The Royal Pierrot Co.; Manager, Mr. Arthur Smethurst.—The Royal Pierrots continue to attract good houses. Several of the old favourites have gone, but they are replaced by others who promise to become as popular as their predecessors. Miss Mabel Ashton sings in an attractive and fascinating manner; Miss Evelyn Barrie possesses a sweet soprano voice; Mr. Glanmore Jones's songs are as popular as ever; Mr. Alf Bishop is an amusing comedian of the diminutive order; Mr. Will Netta and Miss Dot Netta's duets are decidely above the average; and Mr. Phil Rees, a double-voiced vocalist, is a departure from the usual run of pierrots.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan. Closed.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. F. W. Fitt.—A capital programme is presented this week. Mr. Arthur Rigby is very successful with his "March of the married men"; Simms and Simms give a clever exhibition as banjo and mandoline duettists; the Balsamos, comedy gymnasts, are much appreciated; the Greys, operatic vocalists, are well received; Poole and Poole amuse as a comedy couple; Herbert La Martine is successful in his songs, dance, and bâton manipulation; and the Will Vay's Juveniles, in a comedy scene, Life in the Slums, are a good turn. Burley and Burley, with quaint acrobatic conceits, are well received. On Monday evening the first performance was under the patronage and presence of Lieut.-Colonel Sir Kenneth Kemp, Bart., and the officers of the 3rd Battalion Norfolk Regiment of Militia, who are now under camp here, and at their expense the whole regiment was present. Much enthusiasm was aroused when the portrait of the commanding officer was shown on the screen.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The company of Mr. Cyril Maude is paying another visit this week with Beauty and the Barge. Mr. Harry Ashford as the amorous James Barley provokes the audience to unrestrained merriment; Mr. Walter Pemberton well simulates the peppery and irascible Major Smedley; the juvenile lovers are capitally played by Miss May Fairclough (Ethel Smedley) and Mr. Percival Knight (Lieut. Seton Boyne); Mr. Percy Marmont (Herbert Manners) and Miss Mary Pemberton (Lucy Dallas) are responsible for a lot of humour; the phlegmatic John Dibbs has an able exponent in Mr. J. Wheatman, whose love passages with Miss Mary Griffiths (Mrs. Baldwin) are highly humorous. Mr. Charles Goold contributes to the fun as Tom Codd; and Miss Ethel Stalman is entirely successful as Mrs. Smedley. Mrs. J. W. Braithwaite submits a cleverly-drawn portrait of the village landlady; and the landlord of Mr. Charles Caffrey evokes hearty merriment. Mr. Forrester Harvey, as the love-lorn Augustus, makes a truly laughable figure.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Charles P. Cooke.—A Soldier's Revenge fulfils all the requirements of an up-to-date drama, being well provided with sensational incidents. Mr. Montague Beaudyn displays artistic merit and judgment in his portrayal of Ironhand; Mistress Judith is demurely played by Miss Gloria Hill; the malevolent energy of Sir Marsden Mardyke is strongly accentuated by Mr. Robertson Foulis; good work is done by Mr. Howard Hardy as Matthew Mardyke; and Mr. Jack Gray submits a satisfactory impersonation of Walter Clifford. Miss Irene Munroe gives an impressive and refined impersonation of Ruby Avondale; and praise is also merited by Misses Jane Massey, Annie Glunn, and Messrs. Edward Carter, T. R. White, and Harry Momber.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edgar O. Waller.—Sweeney Todd, a drama of striking interest, and a pathetic little playlet A Father's Love, are being presented here by Mr. Edward Banner, who is capitally supported by Mr. Arnold Palmer, Mr. Tom Wilton, Miss May Roberts, and Miss E. Mayne France. The company of Miss Alice Maude supplies a side-splitting comedy entitled The Sleep-Walker; and Vera Mayne proves a mercurial comedienne. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux create roars of laughter.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—The premier place on the bill here is occupied by the Boisset Troupe, who contrive to show remarkable agility while provoking roars of laughter by their oddities; the musical ability of the Anartos is greatly appreciated, and the comedy element deservedly rewarded; Walter King, who styles himself the doleful comedian, adds to the merriment by a humour all his own, his patter being exceedingly smart; the juggling of the Seddons is carried out with skill, neatness, and comicality; the Sisters Bosanquet render duets in a spirited manner; and the ventriloquial item by Vernando is capitally done. The vivacity of May Henderson evokes applause; Cora Casselli, comedienne and dancer; Charles Gardiner, comic singer; and the American Bioscope, with local films, add to the general enjoyment.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE AND ENTERTAINMENTS' CO., LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr. John Leopold's company is here on a return visit with New Frivolity. The piece has been replenished with new songs, new dresses, and pretty scenery, and is proving as attractive as ever. Mr. Watson Hume makes a good Oliver Buckwheat, and Mr. Barry Lupino produces roars of merriment by his comicalities in the rôle of Sammy. The Leopolds are as popular as ever. As a curtain-raiser, The House proves an exceptionally good one, and a coon song and dance in the second act by Miss Amy Hall and Mr. John Leopold, jun., is deserving of praise.

OLDHAM.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—Mr. Fred Karno's comedians, in the musical farce, His Majesty's Guests, occupy the boards this week. Mr. George Hestor keeps the merriment going as Sergeant Lightning; Mr. Walter Purvis is a capital Lord Easem; Miss L. Castelle plays Lady Maud in an excellent manner; Mr. Charles Usher is very good as Mr. Miffin; Harry is well played by Mr. Jack Melville; Miss May Vernon does effective work as Dolly; and Miss Manley is ably portrayed by Miss Kitty Brunton. Mr. S. Bolton makes the most of the part of Mr. Minks; Mr. Fred Rigby as Bunker is very good; and Mr. T. Manardo is a capital Selina.

COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Clifford and company in the military drama, On Circumstantial Evidence, opened here on Monday. Jack Ogilvy is represented in manly fashion by Mr. Wilson Brash; Mr. A. M. James is good as Sir Lawrence Kinloch; Mr. Chas. Clifford is successful as the villain Captain Hamilton; Mr. J. Keane makes a good General Garibaldi; Mr. Newton Pearce and Miss Amy Stewart as Jeremiah Tobin and Polly Smithers provide the humour; Tim, as played by Miss Gladys Clifford, is pathetic; Mrs. Clifford is clever in the rôle of Violet Ogilvy; and Miss Hilda Hatton does well as the twin sisters, Olga and Mary.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.—An excellent programme is submitted to the patrons of this popular house this week. The Three Renards are starring here in their aerial act; another capital turn is provided by James de Voyes' educated horse Billy; the Bensons are well received in their comedy act; Ford Williams is a melodious basso; and Smith and Johnson, the coloured duo, are also good. Fred Peake and company are highly successful in the sketch, The Hypocrite; Bert Woodward is a smart cycling coon; Mlle. Kloet is very neat in her Continental speciality; and Fred Curran, comedian, also appears.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Nuttall.—The Three Richards as the Giddy Golfers are capital comedy acrobats; Les Louberis are smart in their comedy act, Uninvited; Mabel Kesslet takes well in her cornet and post-horn solos; Stanley's Urchins have a good reception in their refined harmony and dancing; Florence Wood is a pleasing comedienne; Mlle. du Roche, operatic vocalist, sings her songs in a finished manner; and Charles Ulrick is neat in his barrel act. The Dottoscope is presenting an interesting series of pictures.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—This week Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson are paying their welcome annual visit, and are nightly experiencing the heartiest of welcomes from full houses. They opened on Monday with Twelfth Night. On Tuesday Richard II. was finely acted, Mr. Benson in the title-rôle delighting his numerous admirers beyond measure; the King's uncles were done ample justice to by Messrs. B. A. Gittar and H. O. Nicholson; Mr. Philip Sanders was an admirable Northumberland; and Mr. Clarence Derwent played Bolingbroke with a vigour and earnestness that carried the house with him. Miss Tita Brand gave a powerful and sympathetic rendering of the Queen; and the remaining parts were all in safe hands. The week's bill includes The Taming of the Shrew, Hamlet, Much Ado About Nothing, Henry V., and Macbeth.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albany Ward; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. G. P. Wells.—Mr. Hugh Dempsey's Stars of the Night company is appearing here this week. Mr. Hugh Dempsey is accorded a hearty reception for his Irish songs and dances, including a Hungarian dance; Walla Sanger is also well received with her songs and kaleidoscopic dances; Fred Terry is a skilful conjurer and illusionist; the Saker Harlows, Continental grotesques, and Les Geraldos, pot-pourri artists, contribute some highly successful and clever performances. The Walter Daw's comedy company is responsible for the farce A Warm Reception, in which the characters are all well sustained.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—The play staged this week by Mr. Herbert St. Clair and Miss Violet Maitland's stock company is The Ticket of Leave Man. In the title-rôle Mr. St. Clair takes a sympathetic part, and plays it admirably, while Miss Maitland's May Edwards is finely and effectively rendered. Mr. Harry Glenney, as Jim Dalton, acts with ability; as Melton Moss, Mr. Harry Rich submits a characteristic portraiture; Mr. Fred Sidney essays with considerable success the part of Mr. Gibson; Maltby is ably impersonated by Mr. Jack Mentis; Mr. Sam Allen scores in his depiction of Hawkshaw; and Mr. W. May, as Brunton, is to be commended; Miss Doris Brandon is exceptionally clever as Sam Willoughby, and as Mrs. Willoughby Miss Flo Stansfield is distinctly good.

PORTH.—POOLE'S OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr Walter Bynorth.—Messrs. Poole have arranged for a fine variety company to appear here this week. The programme includes the following:—Charlie Green, heavy-weight wrestler; Eva Frere, vocalist; Abex, the miniature Hercules; Mlle. Florence, globe-walker; Louie Dallas, serio; Hugh Lister, comedian; Lieut. Chard, with his cleverly trained hounds; Will Lindsay, patter comedian; and Edie Bracewell, comedienne and dancer.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J.W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. Lionel Rignold and Miss Ada Blanche and their excellent company are here this week in the successful farcical comedy, What the Butler Saw. Mrs. Barrington is charmingly personated by Miss Ada Blanche; Mr. Lionel Rignold, as Pink, the Butler, has a part that suits him to a nicety; the genial Irishman, Jack Barrington, has a capable exponent in Mr. Charles Fawsett; Mr. Reddick Anderson, as Sir Charles Foden, makes the very best of his part; the excitable General Dunlop is capitally taken by Mr. George Ascott; Mr. Harry H. Rignold submits an excellent character-sketch of Abraham Weinstein; Miss Marie Daltra as the exacting maiden lady, Miss Foden, is extremely good, and Miss Edith Blanche plays Mrs. Fleming-Smythe very successfully.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Broughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Mr. Geoffrey Fulton's principal company, with the popular drama The Poor Must Live, opened here on Monday. Miss Olive Fulton's impersonation of Olga D'Eyncourt, known as The Vengeance, is an exceedingly capable one, and shows great dramatic power; Mr. Charles O'Connor gives an able delineation of the aged Earl of Marswood; Mr. Harold Macartney shows histrionic ability as Donald; Mr. Walter Spinner, as the society blackguard Clifton Manville, is clever; Sam Sully, a loafer, is well played by Mr. Arthur Trail, and Hooker Holdsnitch has a good exponent in Mr. Shaun Glenville; Miss Violet Hammersley sympathetically embodies Dorothy Murdock; Mr. Herbert Clifton, as Dick Sully, and Miss Alice Buckland, as Moya Darling, a lavender girl, are successful in their respective parts.

—EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—A capital bill is submitted here for the week. Edie King, a pleasing comedienne and graceful dancer, has had a flattering reception; a clever gymnastic balancing act on the horizontal bar is given by the Donnas Trio; Tom Yorke, character-coster comedian, meets with approval; Frank Dunlop is a mirth-provoking patter comedian; Woodhouse and Wells, comedians and dancers, are favourites here; Conway and Leland, the merry monopedes, give an amusing turn; the Royal Six, a bevy of smart lady bicyclists, vocalists, instrumentalists and dancers, have had a cordial greeting; Sauteron, the jumping expert; the Two Roses, duettists and acrobatic dancers, and Payne's Bio-Photoscope complete the programme.

RAMSGATE.—AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—Capital programmes are submitted, consisting of Bioscope exhibitions and a variety entertainment. Chief among the variety turns is that of Gillin, the ventriloquist; Eddie Clay, tramp musician, is a favourite; and the Three Sisters Grosvenor, refined vocalists, add considerably to the attractive character of the bill. Little Zola is a wonderfully droll comedian; and Percy Victor's dog orchestra gives evidence of much canine cleverness.

RAWTENSTALL.—GRAND THEATRE.—Co-proprietors and Lessees, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller.—Mr. F. H. Neville's company opened here on Monday with a fine performance of the sensational drama A Silent Witness. As Jan Vedder, Mr. F. H. Neville was very effective, giving a powerful impersonation; Mr. Bradford Crosby as Philip Meredith showed great ability; Miss Glory Clarence displayed talent of no mean order as Estelle Meredith; Miss Mildred Monteath as Anita gave a vivacious interpretation, and introduced some well-rendered songs. Miss Fanny James was excellent as Polly Lockwood; and the same can be said of Mr. F. Kelland as Joe Jorum, &c. Mr. H. Claremont was a thoroughly capable Dandy Dick, and had excellent support from Mr. A. Carrington as Tom Lockwood. The Octoroon is billed for Thursday and Friday evenings.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Milton Bode; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. E. Barnett; Secretary, Mr. Reginald Taylor.—Miss Winifred Maude and Co. are appearing here in The Sins of a City and The Stowaway. Miss Maude is the leading lady, and takes the principal part in each play very effectively. She is well supported by Mr. Victor du Cane, Mr. Royce Carleton, Mr. Norton Shields, Mr. Austin Milroy, Miss Jenny Hackett, Miss Manie Lyons, Miss Lily Mason, and Miss Jessie Mason.

ROCHDALE.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—Darkness is the title of the play presented for the first time here this week. It is well staged, and has many thrilling situations. Mr. T. A. Shannon is powerful in his portrayal of the Rev. Basil Gortre; Mr. Bonhote Wilson as Constantine Schwabe is prominent with a clever delineation of the evil genius; Mr. Edward Valentine is a very acceptable Sir Robert Llewellyn; and Mr. Louis Lingard does well as Harold Spence. Mrs. Morton Powell feelingly enacts the part of Helen Byars; Miss V. St. Lawrence is exceptionally good as Gertrude Hunt.

CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Smith and Lee.—Pringle's North American Animated Picture Company continues a second week's engagement here with a change of views. Variety turns are submitted at intervals by the Spanish Goldinis, with carpet spinning; Sill and Silicott, sketch artists; and others.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Augustin and Hartley present here a novel and daring turn of somersaults in barrels, backward and forward, and blindfolded; the Bros. de Wynne have a cordial reception, their equilibrist act being cleverly executed; and other items on the programme include:—Jack Ross, double voiced vocalist; Will Letters, comedian and patterer; W. G. Webber, basso; May Levey, comedienne; Gus Balsiger, trick vocalist; and the Empire Bioscope.

RUGBY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Drew Mackintosh.—This week Mrs. Walter Bentley and company are presenting A Queen's Vengeance. Mrs. Bentley as Queen Eleanor has a part well suited to her abilities; Miss Lilian Deane as Fair Rosamund is well placed; and as Janet Jessop Miss Adele Harvey is quite successful. Mr. Arthur Chisholm as Henry II. is dignified and effective; as Sir Rupert Warriner Mr. J. D. Stevenson gives a rendering full of energy; and Mr. B. Croucher as Gilbert Ormonde is very good. The Court Fool, as represented by Mr. A. Trieve, causes much amusement; and Mr. M. A. Kealey as Rafe Rudolphe is also responsible for laughter.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—The Trail of the Serpent, by F. Marriott Watson, is being played here by Mr. E. Oswald Brooks' company. Gerald Kingston was well presented by Mr. A. Campbell-Kenny; Miss Marjorie May made an excellent Ethel Maynard; Miss Ethel Stuart successfully portrayed Rachel; Mr. Wilford Cheetham succeeded in his endeavour to show the evil nature of Ralph Hammond; and Gipsy Jake was very well played by Mr. Booth Conway. The comedy element was well sustained by Miss G. Newcombe as Rosie Wilson; and Mr. V. Kelway as William Higgins; and Sir Gerald Kingston was in the capable hands of Mr. Henry P. Ken

Cuckoo, admirably played by the Kitts-Windrum company, was provocative of great hilarity; those expert banjoists, the Howard Bros., were enthusiastically applauded for a capital rendering of Von Suppé's "Poet and Peasant" Overture; the Three Cape Girls did some good big-boot dancing; and other clever artists were Mr. Max Yorke, Miss Gracie Grahame, of "Come to me, Charlie," fame; the Casino Comedy Four, in a novel vocal entertainment; Mr. Fred Lincoln, comedian; &c.

GRAND PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—Mr. Harry Pleon and his company head the bill this week; and other artists are Helms and Cozens, in a laughable skit, The Doctor; the Sisters Ford, vivacious comic duettists; Miss Ray Royal, vocalist; Mr. Harry Briggs, and Miss Madge Morley and her company, in a bright little farcical sketch; Pallister's Bioscope continues up-to-date.

CENTRAL HALL.—In addition to the animated pictures, there are appearing Leon and Leoni, in "Music, Mirth, and Dance"; Preston and Holmes, speciality artists; and Playfair and Nicholls, in a novel entertainment.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—PIER PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager Mr. H. E. Angless; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—A capital programme is being submitted heredaily by the Dagonets. Miss Mildred Wrighton, in her soprano selections, gains considerable applause; Miss Lily Beaton renders her contralto ballads with much charm; Mr. Henry Stockwell is heard to advantage in his tenor solos; a capital baritone is Mr. Robert Hyett; Mr. Reginald Mountfield is a humorist at the piano who pleases immensely; and Mr. Joseph Blascheck also makes a refined droll.

THE KURSAAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. P. T. J. Bacon.—Last week's diversified programme is being almost exactly repeated, and amongst the special favourites is Fred Field, who sings in capital style, his songs being illustrated with pictures on the Bioscope. The sketches are well depicted, and gain well-earned merit. Wrestling matches are one of the chief attractions, whilst "slipping the slip" causes much amusement. The Café Chantant also has a good programme of vocal and instrumental selections.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietors, the Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Company, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—A capital entertainment is provided here this week by the special engagement of Miss Florence Baines's company in Miss Lancashire, Limited. As Mary Ellen Thompson Miss Florence Baines is charmingly vivacious; Miss Pattie Groves submits a clever portraiture of Bridget Thompson; Mr. David Donaldson is a commendable representative of John Higgins; Mr. Payne Fletcher characteristically impersonates the farmer William Henry Thompson; and Mr. Robert Turley as Harry, Miss Jennie Hallworth as Eva Lancashire, and Mr. Allan M. Servington in the part of Moses Goldberg present good character sketches.

ALBERT HALL, WINTER GARDENS.—General-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—The excellent programme submitted here this week is headed by the Musical Schafers in The Garden of Melody. The turns include Ralph Moore, the boy Patti; Messrs. Hector and Sultan, acrobatic comedy grotesques; Ike Scott and Son, in comedy; Harry Bickley, eccentric comedian; James Stewart, tramp pianist; Les Voces, duettists; the Sisters Hula, expert dancers; and Millie Payne, comedienne.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Parker; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Mertz.—The premier attraction at this hall of varieties is supplied by Mr. Walter Curtis, the popular humourist, described as the "merriment merchant"; a dainty turn is given by Little Ada Merry, comedienne and dancer; the programme also includes Hesketh Meade, basso; Tom Moore, comedian; the Sisters Brenton, comediennes and dancers; York, Mac, and York, with Widow Mac's Troublesome Boys; Ned Graydon, musical entertainer; Lavelle Bros., comedy acrobats; and the Bio-Tableaux.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson. — Mr. Charles March and company are here in The Gamester of Mets. Mr. March, who acquits himself capitally in the arduous part of the hero, Paul Baldot, is well received; Miss E. Lyndhurst favourably enacts the Countess Baldot; and Miss Una Lane creditably sustains Lucie. Mr. Fred Aldworth ably handles General de Monparasee; the villainous Captain Badaire of Mr. J. B. Murray is exceedingly good; the Curé D'Artis is represented with becoming dignity by Mr. P. Wentworth.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—That popular comedian and raconteur Mike S. Whallen is very popular here; Spry and Monti appear to advantage in comedy; and Rex King proves to be a smart character mimic. Amusing sketches are submitted by the J. Alexander's Pantomimic Company, and Mr. and Mrs. Finden in Two to One; Lily Langtry, comedienne, is as popular as ever; and the dancing of the Northern Troupe of International Dancers arouses enthusiasm. The Bioscope, with interesting films, concludes a good bill.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. K. Hall and Jos. Sweeney.—King's College Boys, in excerpts from grand opera, give a refined entertainment, meeting with well-merited applause; Mazzetto, a clever juggler, has a cordial reception; and the Musical Keiths score heavily. The Coolvilles are successful in coon songs and dances. Other turns contributing to the general enjoyment are Master Nat Blair, pianist, and Herbert Jackson, vocalist and dancer.

STALYBRIDGE.—GRAND THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Mundill.—An excellent combination is appearing this week, comprising Will Rain and Co. in a novelty sketch, The Motor Maniac; Chester and Lee's Marionettes; George Hilton, light comedian; the Sisters Volbecque, duettists; Miss Violet Beatrice, a dainty delineator of Irish melodies; Brothers Onda, grotesque gymnasts; Matt Wilkinson's Co. in a laughable sketch, The Registry Office; Edison Bioscope, &c. A benefit was announced for Thursday on behalf of the sufferers from the recent floods.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—Miss Adria Hill and Mr. Robert Ayrton's company in A Gambler's Daughter occupies the boards here this week. In the dual rôle of Mildred and Miriam Grant, Miss Hill shows considerable ability, and as Desmond O'Dare Mr. Ayrton is a distinct success; Mr. Alfred Saunders as Solomon Solomons is excellent; Mr. Richard Pitt gives a good performance as John Grant; Mr. Victor Millard does well as Grant's son; Mr. Harry Barham is advantageously placed as Dick, the Weasel; and others deserving of mention are Miss Saunders, as Carita; Mr. James Skea, as Ralph Gilman; Mr. L. Calthorpe, as Stephen Brand, and Mr. George Vinning, as Tom Brand.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Willmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Vic Carnell.—Miss Hettie King is paying a return visit here, and is proving more attractive than ever. Ara, Zebra, and Vora, in "Indian Pastimes," present an original and clever turn. Les Belles Americaines, a quartette of vocalists and dancers, win enthusiastic applause; Regan and Ryan convulse the house with their comicalities, and others in an excellent programme include Miss Patty Yole, Miss Lily Lonsdale, Mr. Ernie Myers, Haig and Novel, and Weisker's Bioscope.

STOCKPORT. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. William Revill. — Mr. Morton Powell's company is appearing here this week in The Woman who Gambles. Mr. Edward E. Ashby gives a manly impersonation of Count Otto Steinbach; as Baron Cratzlaw, Mr. Horatio Sinclair acts with power; Mr. Reginald Fox impersonates the character of Lieutenant Karl Ctzarteryski ably; and Mr. Charles Calvert is pleasing as the Hon. Bertie Bray. Miss Gertrude Hunt infuses much feeling into the part of Countess Natelie Steinbach; and Miss Violet Sims acts delightfully as Cora Gouldhart.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Mr. George Chanti, who is the "star" here this week, has well deserved the hearty plaudits greeting his interesting quick-change act; Silbon's miniature circus is entertaining; Tony Iveson as the "ragman at the piano," is a distinct success; Dave McNeill, comedian, gives clever imitations; and Wallace Whitney, character comedian, is amusing. Beattie Foster is a versatile artist; Mons. Detil an expert card manipulator; Marie Weston a pleasing vocalist, banjoist, and dancer; Rappo and Ella accomplish some marvellous balancing feats; and Professor Hulbert's ventriloquial entertainment is an acceptable one.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—The Matweef-Hugostan Troupe, who top the bill this week, are an exceptionally clever turn. J. W. Rickaby is still the same old favourite; Conan and Doyle are capital vocalists and dancers; Bonnie Goodwin and her piccaninnies do well; the Henres present a good juggling act; Dolly, Agnes and Maud, the "Factory Nightingales," who sing songs and perform their work of making boxes, are a pleasing turn, and Will McIvor possesses a good voice.

HIPPODROME THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. George and Robert A. Nicholson; Manager, Mr. William Ainsworth.—Mr. Nat Clifford evokes hearty merriment; Lillian is an exceptionally clever turn, with her cycle tricks; Spencer and Marks, speciality comedians, are good; Kisbey, as the "call boy," is well received; Craig, Roze, and Craig, gymnasts, make a notable hit; Flo Warner, vocalist; Adey Spencer, speciality artist, and Ray and Miles, eccentric jugglers, complete a good programme.

STOKE.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Manager, Mr. H. Miller.—Max Sterling heads the bill with his wonderful illusions; the Four Geraldos are jugglers of much merit; Marlow and Manton's sketch Other People's Babies is very amusing; H. B. Raven sings admirably; Walter Adams is a capital comedian; and Mabel La Blanche is successful. J. K. Reynolds and Miss Maud Yarrell are seen in a good sketch, The Bigamist.

SWINDON.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Responsible Manager, Mr. Alfred Manners.—This week the Bath and West of England Counties Agricultural Show is being held in this town, for the first time, and Mr. Manners must be highly complimented on his enterprise in securing Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's comedy company, under the business direction of Mr. Sandon Perkins, to entertain local playgoers and the numerous visitors. On Monday was presented that interesting comedy Cousin Kate. Mr. Percy Hutchison's conception of the part of Heath Desmond is admirable in all points, and Miss Lilias Earle's study of the title-rôle is particularly fine, these talented artists fully deserving the applause showered upon them throughout. They are strongly supported by Miss Hilda Honiss, remarkably pleasing and earnest as Amy Spencer; Miss Amy Coleman, natural and convincing as Mrs. Spencer; Mr. George Mallett, very effective as the Rev. James Bartlett; and Mr. S. Irwin Barrett and Miss M. Marshall doing good work in smaller parts.

TON-Y-PANDY.—ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ridgewood Barrie.—Mr. E. Lockwood's company is here in Sergeant Brue. Harold Carson as the sergeant is extremely amusing, and is ably seconded by Miss Amy Vivash as Daisy, the servant. Miss Reydon Dallas is eminently successful as Lady Bickenhall. The parts of Michael Brue and Aurora Brue are safely entrusted to Mr. F. Wilson and Miss Gertie Fawcett. Crookie Scrubbs is played in a masterly manner by Mr. A. James, and Mr. F. Laceby does well as Mr. Crank, the magistrate.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS. — OPERA HOUSE. — Lessee, Mr. Charles Carey; Acting-Manager, Mr. Gunnell.— Mr. J. D. Hunter and company are appearing this week in The Ruby Ring. The parts of the two valets are admirably played by Mr. J. D. Hunter and Mr. A. B. Tapping; Miss Alice Farleigh gives a sympathetic rendering of the heroine, Helen Neville; and Mr. Frederick Sargeant as the Squire of Collingwood Manor, Mr. Walker Selby as the Family Solicitor, Mr. G. C. Murray as the Colonel; and Mr. H. Pollock (the Colonel's cousin) all submit capital interpretations. Miss Farleigh is also well supported by the Misses Bayley, Miss Clarissa Selwynne, Miss Edith Mott, and Miss Bella Parkin.

WAKEFIELD.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—An admirable performance of A Midsummer Night's Dream is given here this week by Mr. Leigh Lovel. Messrs. T. A. Shannon and Francis Chamien ably fill the respective rôles of Lysander and Demetrius. Mr. Leigh Lovel gives a clever and effective rendering as Bottom; Mr. Wilfred Beck is good as Theseus; Miss Mary Lovett is a charming Hermia; and Miss Octavia Kenmore highly successful as Helena. Miss Alys Rees is an imposing Oberon and sings well; Miss Mary Bessle is capital as Rick; and Miss Gertrude Tate delightful as Titania.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. A. Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Henry Lucas.—The Three Royal Temples, operatic vocalists, head the bill this week, and display excellent vocal ability; the Schallers (Arthur and Pain) contribute a clever gymnastic turn; and the Deroneys, comedy sketch artists; Mr. P. J. Durney, globe walker; Wyman, trick skater; the Lovelaces, song illustrators; Dan Noble, comedian; and Miss Marie Yorke, comedienne, fill an attractive programme.

WALSALL. — HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, LTD. — General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—The Craggs, in their comedy sketch, Billy, head the bill here this week, and are well received; James Brady is highly successful with his funny songs; Mr. Harry Carsdale is excellent in his imitations; Ian Colquhoun is a good baritone; Constance Bellamy wins great favour as a vocalist; Farley, Rennie, and Farley present their comedy act, Fun at a Railway Station; Howard and Collinson in a novel absurdity create much laughter; and the American Bioscope displays some interesting films.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Mr. P. Howard Sturgess's company is here in A Queen of Villainy. Mr. Ern Carlton does well as Sir John Desborough; Mr. Ernest G. Batley scores as Alec; and Miss Edith Blande displays ability in the part of Cora Granville. Other characters are well sustained, and the piece is excellently staged.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—Mr. Charles Edwardes's company is here this week with The New Barmaid. Mr. Leslie Austin, the possessor of a well-trained voice, enacts Captain Lovebury in excellent style; as Colonel Claymore Mr. James Grant does well; and a dignified personage is made of Lady Moulton by Miss Winifred Preston; Mr. Charles Adeson submits a humorous rendering of Bertie White; and Mr. Alexander Loftus as William White is all that can be desired. Mr. W. E. Chewd scores as Bonsor, dancing excellently; and Mr. Frank Melroyd is well placed as Braddy. Miss Violet Osmund delineates the lady journalist Dora Heather with much cleverness, and Miss Maisie Ellinger displays ability as Ethel Joy. Miss Maude Nichols deserves commendation for her Brenda Louth. The cake walk by Miss Violet Osmund and Mr. Frank Melroyd is very popular. Mr. Michael Dwyer is the conductor.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. F. Willmott.—George Formby is one of the quaintest comedians who has been seen here for some time; the Sisters Marion are charming duettists; and Professor MacCann's concertina entertainment is a musical treat. Blanche Marie, comedienne, is successful; and the Zampi Brothers, with their potpourri act, Randi and Carl, knockabouts, and Dolly Harmer, who wins all hearts by her excellent songs, are also entertaining. The Bioscope pictures are a delightful assortment.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. J. A. Lewis.—The Orphan Heiress is here again, and is being favourably received. Mr. Charles Boult, in the heavy title-rôle of Douglas Kingston, exhibits unmistakable talent; the Rev. Edward Ayrton is played with naturalness by Mr. George Handel; Mabel Ainslie is effectively portrayed by Miss Rosalie Heath; and other characters have able exponents.

PALACE.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—The drollery of the eccentric novelty, Casey's Court is indescribable. The youngsters—some thirty in number—are one and all clever artists. Ross and Lewis, in Yankee Tomfoolery, are exceptionally clever; Mersano is an adept at card and coin manipulation; fun is kept going fast and furious by the Elvio Comedy Trio in an act, Those Troublesome Slaveys; an instrumental entertainment by the Hessey soloists is charming; the Elgars make a big hit as vocal entertainers; and the bio-tableaux are especially novel and interesting.

WESTON - SUPER - MARE. — KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—The Elster-Grime Opera Company is here this week, and on Monday presented Maritana. Miss Marie Elster was excellent in the title-rôle; and as Lazarillo Miss Madge Quilliam did good work; Mr. Gilbert King acted and sang artistically as the King; Mr. Payne Clarke made the most of Don Cæsar de Bazan; and Mr. Frank Land was decidedly good as Don José; Mr. J. Partridge did well as the Captain; as did Mr. E. C. Howitt as the Marquis and Miss Constance Russell as the Marchioness. The week's bill includes Faust, Carmen, The Bohemian Girl, and The Daughter of the Regiment.

WEST STANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Stanley Theatre Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—Mr. Henry Bedford and company are paying a return visit with Gipsy Jack and The See Saw of Life. Gipsy Jack was produced on Monday night. Mr. Henry Bedford, who appears in the title-rôle, is an old favourite here. Mr. Skinner and Gerald Skinner are finely portrayed by Mr. W. H. Domoney and Mr. Alex. Alexander; Mr. C. B. Churton is capital as Francis Harvey; Mr. Sid Bedford and Mr. J. H. Damer are able representatives of soldier and sailor characters; Miss Violet Alwyn embodies the part of Dorothy Dexter in a charming manner; and May Harvey is admirably portrayed by Miss Bessie Bedford. The part of Hagar, the gipsy, is in the able hands of Miss Frances Foley; Mr. Geo. H. Hewitson gives a fine impersonation of Sir John Dexter; Miss Jennie Risley as Jennie Huggins causes much laughter; Miss Ada Antley scores as the forsaken gipsy girl, Nan.

WEXFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. E. P. Ronan.—Mr. Roy Jackson's company is here this week with a good selection of dramas, and is meeting with success. Trilby was presented on Monday before an appreciative house. Mr. Roy Jackson gave a powerful character-study of Svengali; Mr. Edwin Beverley made a sympathetic Taffy; and Mr. E. Lynn, as Sandy, was also good. Mr. Clifton Earle's impersonation of Little Billie was all that could be desired; Mr. A. Beaufort made an amusing Rev. Mr. Bagot; Mr. Henry Deane was an efficient Gecko; and Miss Kittie Douglas an ideal Trilby, her singing and dancing being thoroughly enjoyed; Miss Florrie Hayes was very chic as Madame Vinard, and Miss Doris Cameron made the most of the part of Mrs. Bagot. Oliver Twist, The Bells, and The Lyons Mail have also been staged during the week.

WHITEHAVEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Clark; Acting - Manager, Mr. Fred Clark. — After a long absence, the popular play, The Curate, is being presented here by Miss H. Jeffries' company, under the direction of Mr. Whitmore Ledger. Mr. Ledger appears as Gilbert Westwood, and submits a smart performace; Mr. Arthur Mervyn as John Audley (the Curate) is very good; and Mr. Sydney Clarvon is funny as Simon Muggs. The character of May Verner is pleasingly acted by Miss Rosa Mervyn; and the part of Dick has a clever exponent in Miss Hettie Jeffries.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Messrs. Stillwell and Teulon's company, including Miss Zana St. George is presenting the romantic drama The Branded Woman, by F. Wybert Clive. Mr. James Stillwell enacts capably the dual part of Philip Maurice and Zarka, and Miss St. George fills ably the title-rôle—Geneviève Larouche. Mr. Beckett Bould as Dick Brown, Miss Kitty McPherson as Jacqueline, Miss K. Barnett as Marie, and Miss M. Parry as Rudolph acquit themselves creditably.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Pringle's North American animated pictures, with scenes of the eruption of Mount Vesuvius, form a large part of this week's programme. The Bouncing Dillons are a great attraction, and the Sisters Williams, duettists; Miss May Young, ballad vocalist, and Ben Houldsworth, Yorkshire comedian and mimic, complete the bill.

WORKINGTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Manager, Mr. Falconer Jackes.—On Monday Mr. Horace Moseley's company presented The Betrayer to a good house. Mr. F. S. Bromley was successful as the hero; as Lord Kenny Mr. Moseley displayed ability; Mr. John Soden was satisfactory as Renard; Mr. J. W. Forrest delighted his auditors with his songs and his portrayal of the character of Doyle; Mr. H. Martin was vigorous as Brian; Miss M. George was graceful as Deela; Miss Ella Forrest made a capital Nellie; and Miss Alice May a suitable Peggy.

WORTHING.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Mr. Bert Albert Rutley's company is here this week, presenting An English Belle. Miss Jessie de Grey is good as Jack Trenant; Mr. Dan Whitley deserves high eulogy as Consul; Mr. A. Rutley ably fills the part of Squire Hardacre; Miss Gerty Wasley is winsome as Alice Oldfield. The remaining characters are well placed. On Thursday Mr. J. Bannister Howard's No. 1 Co. appeared in Florodora.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. Herbert Nicholls.—This week the following are appearing here:—The Bensley Evans Sketch Company, in a funny act, entitled, Sally's Dilemma, with Miss Olive Lanty as Sally; Mr. T. B. Talbot, a favourite comedian; Koe and Koe, singers, who introduce some clever dancing; Mr. Charles Moore, an eccentric comedian and dancer; and Miss Carrie Leslie, a refined comedienne; while the animated tableaux has proved a pleasing feature.

YORK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington and Sons; General-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—Miss Emily Huby's company is here in The Price of Pleasure. Gilbert D'Armand is well played by Mr. H. B. Ross; Mr. Howell Webb's Sir James Featherstone is sufficiently villainous to be effective; and Mr. Charles E. Howell appears as Charles Mordaunt; Mr. Larry Clements as Tatters is a comedian of merit; Miss Emily Ruby fills the rôle of Biddy O'Flanagan from Ould Ireland with touches of Irish humour, and Lilian has a clever exponent in Miss Lily Barley Clarke; Miss Mara Collings as Alice Rivers is a great favourite; Miss Dot Russell as Polly Wilson introduces a song and some pretty dancing.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—The programme this week is headed by Phil Ray, a comedian of an original style of humour; Mr. Bert Williams is a ventriloquist of considerable ability; Harry Grey causes laughter by his female impersonation; Miss Olive Armadale, a dainty comedienne, wins favour with her singing; the Sisters Stratton's singing and dancing are much appreciated; the singing of Brothers Mellot is well received; and Mr. Percy Farrimond, the Lancashire singing collier, uses his voice to great advantage; Mlle. Von Etta's transformation fit-up is very clever, and her quick changes are marvellous. The programme is brought to a close by some humorous Bioscope pictures.

THE DRAMA IN ROTTERDAM.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

ROTTERDAM, MAY 29.—Since my last correspondence we have had two performances in this city of the "Meiningers," this far-famed dramatic company having been on tour through the Netherlands. These two performances were given on off-nights at the Grand Theatre, the programmes being respectively Schönthan's comedy, Countess Guckerl, and Sudermann's powerful play, Johannisfeuer. The "Meiningers" were seen to their best advantage in Countess Guckerl, the parts fitting the members of the company now on tour like a glove, and the entire comedy being acted with great animation and spirit. The honours of the evening were carried off by Jenny Nachbaur in the title-rôle, and by Kurt Grösser as the dashing officer, both artists being very happy in their interpretations.

MESSRS. VAN LIER'S Dramatic Company of Amsterdam gave a special performance at the Tivoli Theatre last week, the play being a version of Sardou's Fernande. Messrs. Van Lier have reorganised their company, which is now a strong one. The leading attraction of the company is Mrs. Van Lier, one of the best emotional actresses of the Dutch stage, who enacted the rôle of Clotilde and brought out all the strong and telling phases of the character with force and intensity of expression. Mr. De Vries was very efficient and earnest as Pomerol; and Mrs. Erfmann sympathetic and winning in the touching part of Fernande.

THE regular season at the Grand Theatre being now virtually at an end, Manager Van Eysden has not put on any new production, these last two weeks being devoted to a revival of this year's successes, such as De Referendaris Titularis, Het Duel, and Haar Terugkeer (the Dutch version of Le Bercail). The first-mentioned play, De Referendaris Titularis, is an original Dutch comedy which was a decided go when it had its initial production, the authoress being Cornélie Noordwal, a popular novelist and writer in this country.

THE professionals of this city, and particularly those of the younger generation, betook themselves one and all to Amsterdam last Thursday, the 24th inst., the occasion being the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the career of Mr. S. J. Bouberg Wilson as director of the Dutch Dramatic Conservatory. Of course the entire theatrical profession was represented, as also the leading managers, critics, and literary persons of note, Mr. Wilson being a man of repute and standing, not only for the work he has achieved as director of the Conservatory, where he has fostered and encouraged all the young actors and actresses who have had their schooling and preparatory instruction there, but for his own personal merits and literary capacity. The festivity in honour of his silver jubilee went off in a very informal and delightful manner. The large class-rooms of the Conservatory were thronged with friends, pupils, ex-graduates, and admirers, all bent on making the day a memorable one for the hero of the occasion. Speeches were made, presents and floral offerings of all sizes and shapes were tendered, and as a fitting conclusion of the event, the Nassau order was handed to Mr. Wilson, this high distinction having been conferred on him by Her Majesty Queen Wilhelmina. Of course all present manifested their unmistakable approbation by loud cheers and applause, the whole affair winding up to everybody's satisfaction, and reflecting great credit on the committee under whose auspices it was carried out. The members forming this committee were Mesdames Holtrop and Tartaud, and Messrs. Smith and Van Der Horst, all four ex-graduates of the Conservatory, and at present among the most prominent and popular representatives of the Dutch stage.

The scene at the opening of the drama is laid at Squire Kennion's country house in Ireland, where the bluff old man and his two pretty daughters keep open house to all the country around. Moira, the eldest girl, is about to be married to Fergus McNaughten, a young neighbouring squire, who is secretly beloved by the youngest daughter, Sheila. Moira is the victim of morbid fancies and depression, and is heartily tired of the country and sea, and longs for the city life, with all its artificial gaieties. To relieve her of these fits of depression she takes drugs, and is gradually becoming a slave to morphia. A stranger whom she has been warned of by the "Wise Woman" of the village, appears in the person of Dr. Marcus Dread, who has been sent for to tend a crippled child. It is soon apparent that he is a cynical woman-hater. He discovers Moira's secret, and having himself suffered from the sins of his own mother, and being embittered against the world in general, he conceives the idea of dragging her down to degradation, with the object of being able to point to her as "a warning to women." He informs her that he has discovered that her mother was a dipsomaniac, a fact afterwards admitted by her father, and on the eve of her marriage with Fergus warns her against the awful and hideous consequences of such a union. The girl, incensed by his taunts, seizes a bottle of vitriol from the doctor's medicine chest and hurls the contents at him. Her lover, however, coming between them, receives the discharge in the face and is blinded. Distracted, the poor girl leaves her home, and temporarily resides with a peasant woman, endeavouring to forget her miseries in morphia. Here the doctor pursues her, and finally succeeds in persuading her to accompany him to London, where the work of destruction begins, and is carried on until the third act, when Moira is released by the death of the doctor. Throughout Moira's troubles she has a constant friend and lover in Shaun, an Irish minstrel, who comes at times to her assistance, and the two are united. Fergus McNaughten recovers his sight, and marries Sheila, who has tended him with loving care throughout his blindness, and thus the drama terminates happily.

Mr. C. Watson Mill, as Dr. Dread, made a fascinating character of the villainous type, and played the part impressively and with a certain amount of power. He was well supported by Miss Rosalind Tate, who showed marked ability in the trying part of Moira. Mr. Henry Lonsdale was manly and vigorous as Shaun; and Mr. Wingold Lawrence did well as Fergus McNaughten. The Squire Kennion of Mr. Henry Rutland was a sound performance; and Mr. N. Carter Slaughter was amusing as Lord Eversleigh. Other characters which should be mentioned are Miss Emmie Barton as Sheila Kennion, Miss Ita Fane as Hildred, Miss Edith Rutland as Myles O'Moore, and Messrs. Norman B. Cannon, George Scully, and W. Palliser Adcock. The scenery was most elaborate, and all the characters were in good hands. The drama was well received by a large audience, who were at times roused to a high pitch of enthusiasm by the various sensational incidents.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR.

Your book will, I am sure, be a valuable aid to all managers and actors.—SIR HENRY IRVING.

Mr. Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News

Should be found very useful.—Pelican.

Should prove perfectly invaluable.—Weekly Sun.

Contains in a handy compass and in a clear style the law relating to theatres and music halls. The book is well up to date.—Law Times.

Furnishes useful information.—Daily News.

The work succeeds in making plain the thorny legal path that every manager and artist must tread, and by a timely consultation of its pages they may avoid much misapprehension and trouble.—Star.

Mr. A. A. Strong has compiled an exceedingly useful volume dealing carefully, intelligently, and fully with the law bearing upon things theatrical. As a book of reference this excellent digest will be found invaluable.—The Era.

CLERICAL CRITICISM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—After reading the article in a Manchester weekly contemporary by the Rev. H. W. Webb-Peploe, giving the reasons why he shuns the theatre, one was inclined to question whether one was awake, or dreaming bad dreams of the bad old times, when uncharitableness and intolerance with regard to the stage were the vogue, and when such unsupported statements became "confirmation strong as proofs of holy writ."

The views expressed are so amazing and so contradictory that, but for the position occupied by the reverend gentleman, it would not be necessary to point out the absence of logic, of fact, and, above all, of charity, evidenced thereby.

One may pass over the opening sentence, "It is not a question what benefit or injury I, as a clergyman, might receive by going to see a theatrical performance," although, taken in conjunction with "I do not stay away from theatres because I might suffer from what I should see and hear," it savours somewhat of the pharisaical. But what follows in both cases is remarkable:—"It is when you reach the back scenes of some theatres that you understand why Christian people who know of the details do not care to visit such places, because we realise that while we continue to give them our countenance we are injuring the lives of many of our brothers and sisters." To which he adds:—"Think of your brother, think of your sister, and in every way possible seek their deliverance from danger."

It will be observed that no hint is vouchsafed as to where or how the information was obtained on which this wholesale condemnation is based; for, although the words 'It is when you reach the back scenes of some theatres" imply personal knowledge, this naive cleric afterwards says, "Not since 1854 have I entered a playhouse"! He might well have preserved silence on a subject of which he admits hopeless and persevering ignorance. What, for instance, would be said of a critic of the Army who had not even seen a regiment of soldiers since the Crimea?

Hearsay evidence is proverbially unreliable; it is inadmissible in any Court. Yet, on the strength of mere hearsay—which has obviously reached him through devious channels and prejudiced channels—the Prebendary has published a gross libel upon an entire profession. An individual would have redress, a class is denied such. "I am told," (!) proceeds the article, "that in many cases the robing and disrobing of women is carried on behind the scenes under conditions which cannot do otherwise than lower the tone of modesty and morality." But, as anyone with the least knowledge of the playhouses is well aware, there is not the faintest foundation for what the reverend gentleman has "been told," and—of course—believes. Furthermore, in support of his "indictments," he only advances (except in one instance) vague and reckless generalisations—of all methods of attack the most cowardly.

The one instance is where it is gravely stated that "in no other profession are the number of divorces so large as in the theatrical." Now, what are the facts? For the period 1900-1904 the annual average of divorces is:—Gentlemen and esquires, 85.2; engineers and architects, 37.8; soldiers and naval seamen, 34.4; physicians and surgeons, 22.5; actors and musicians, 21.8. This information can be supplemented by referring to the "Civil Judicial Statistics" made up to 1904. Seemingly the Rev. Webb-Peploe has, in common with so many others, been misled by the prominence given in certain journals to anything which will permit of an "Actress" or "Actor" headline.

What can one say to "You will never see such a grouping of sin and all its encouragement as you see near to the theatre centre of London"? It is well known that the class here referred to does not attend the play, where intervals are few, the audience held by continuity of interest, and where there are no facilities for promenading. There are no "playhouses" in Regent-street, for instance.

The report of "a missionary" is merely further hearsay, and vague at that. But the curate's story, so graphically told, of the gentleman who shamefacedly admitted that he was the manager of a theatre in London, is deserving of some attention. "'And,' said the curate, 'are your three daughters whom I have met engaged upon your stage? The gentleman's reply must be taken as terrible evidence in support of my case. Closing his fist, he answered, with great earnestness, 'Sir, I would cut off this right hand of mine before I would allow one of my girls to go behind the scenes in my own theatre.'" This is obviously a traveller's tale—a picturesque invention by someone who, evidently aware of the sort of thing which was acceptable, promptly provided it. Not wishing, however, to be either uncharitable or dogmatic, if only by way of contrast, the present writer will pay twenty-five guineas to any charity the Rev. Webb-Peploe will name if the truth of the story can be substantiated as meaning what is clearly intended.

It will be observed that, while turning his own back upon "our brothers and sisters," and advising "Christian people" to do so likewise, this Christian teacher liberally besprinkles his libel with "charity," "tenderness," "courage," and so forth. But where is the charity? Even if the conditions were as he describes them, surely his plain duty would be to help this legion of the lost, instead of permitting it to pursue the broad road to perdition. The "courage," however, will be readily admitted—courage which so boldly departs from the Master's teaching, who said:—"They that are whole have no need of the physician, but they that are sick; I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." And "Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful." "The disciple is not above his Master."—

Yours faithfully, J. B. MULHOLLAND.

This powerful and attractive drama was performed here on Monday night for the first time on any stage, by Mr. Fred Darcy and Mr. Fred J. Little's company. A better all-round combination could not be desired, and the play was well received by a large audience, who testified their appreciation by frequent applause. The new production has many bright and amusing moments, and is very well acted. There is little doubt that the piece will suit the popular taste, its humour is so sparkling and its pathos so delicate and effective.

The first scene represents the parlour at the back of a chandler's shop. Everything is in disorder, as Mr. Brown and the servant-maid Sarah are busily packing up boxes, preparatory to Mrs. Brown taking the children for a fortnight to Margate. Mr. Brown, a thoroughly henpecked and submissive individual, has a friend named Todd, who suggests to him that, during the absence of his wife, they shall take a trip to Dover, to which Brown agrees. Lodging with the Browns is Loyale Norman, secretly married to Ralph Esmond, who has lost the third finger of his left hand. He, it appears, set his affections upon Judith, the daughter of Sir Edward Bullington, and to remove the legal obstacle in the way of his marriage with her, he makes an unsuccessful attempt to murder his wife. In the next act we make the acquaintance of Jim Murdock, a young fisherman, whose sister Winnie has, some eighteen months previously, been murdered in a smuggler's cave at Dover. Certain marks on the dead girl's neck indicated that the murderer had apparently lost the third finger of his left hand. Jim swears to have revenge should he discover the man who committed the dastardly crime. Jim is also the brother of Sarah, the Browns' maid-servant.

Harry Bullington, a naval officer, has fallen in love with Loyale, and asks her to marry him. She informs him that she already has a husband, but refuses to say any more. Harry does his best to warn his father, Sir Edward, against Ralph; but the old man, being kind-hearted and unsuspecting, will not believe Esmond to be a bad character. Jim acts as conductor of a party to the smugglers' cave, which they explore, and he gives an account of the murder of his sister Winnie. All leave the cave except Loyale and Ralph, who, after confessing that he was the murderer of Winnie, attempts to strangle Loyale, leaving her, as he believes, dead. Jim then enters, discovers Loyale, and also picks up a left-handed glove with a finger padded. Loyale is missing, and is supposed to have been washed out to sea. Ralph receives a note from Jim Murdock, asking him to meet him, upon which Ralph tells Sir Edward Bullington that he has to leave by the midnight train. Jim Murdock and Ralph meet on the cliffs over the cave where Winnie was murdered. A desperate encounter ensues, Ralph in the end hurling Jim over the cliff, the fall causing fatal injuries. Harry suddenly appears, and claims Ralph as his prisoner; but he manages to escape. In the fourth act, a month later, Jim dies; but before his death the events of the awful night are recalled to his mind, and he dictates a letter to Sir Edward Bullington accusing Ralph of murder. Loyale, who has been all the time an inmate of Jim's cottage, and suffering from brain fever, is restored to health through the devoted nursing of the kind-hearted Sarah. Her principal object now is to discover Ralph, and bring him to justice. The final scene takes place in the conservatory of Sir Edward Bullington's house in London. It is the wedding-day of Judith and Ralph Esmond. The party are about to depart for the church, when a strange event happens. Loyale, disguised as an old woman, forces her way into the house, exclaiming that she must see Judith, it being a matter of life and death. Ralph is about to have Loyale removed from the premises, when, to his dismay, Harry makes his appearance and protects the intruder. Judith, in her bridal dress, appears. At first sight Harry thinks he is too late; but, finding he is not, at once forbids the wedding, and announces to the bridal party that he witnessed Ralph hurl Murdock over the cliff. Loyale, throwing off her disguise, declares that Ralph is her husband, and she has come to prevent Judith from entering into a false marriage. Sarah then informs those present that Ralph was the murderer of her brother and sister, handing to Sir Edward Jim's letter, written on his death-bed. Ralph then commits suicide by stabbing himself; and Loyale cheers Harry's spirits by informing him that she will be waiting for him at the end of his next voyage.

Mr. W. Ruddle Brown is very natural in his impersonation of Harry Bullington; as Sir Edward Bullington, Mr. John H. Manley is dignified and aristocratic; Mr. Juan di Alberti as Ralph Esmond does the villain's part ample justice, acquitting himself admirably; Jim Murdock as played by Mr. Stephen Crossley is a true and manly young fisherman; Miss Nellie Moore plays the character of Judith Bullington in a charming manner, and showing conspicuous ability throughout; Miss Nellie Howitt amply justifies her selection as the heroine by the force and grace she exhibits; the part of Loyale Norman could scarcely be more sympathetically played than it is by this accomplished actress. Mr. E. W. Avery is an excellent representative of the henpecked husband, Mr. Brown's differences with his wife evoking much laughter; Jim Todd is a part well acted by Mr. W. E. Richards; Miss May Rosina as Mrs. Thomas Brown plays with dash and freedom, and acts throughout with bright and merry humour. A brisk and vivacious representative of Sarah is found in Miss Bertha St. Ruth.

The scenes of Dover are an especially realistic feature, and include the Promenade Pier, with the noble old castle in the background; whilst the conservatory of Sir Edward's is most picturesque, and quite a charming artistic achievement.

A DINNER was given on Sunday at the Star and Garter Hotel, Liverpool, to Mr. Fred Holliday, the popular musical director of the Queen's Theatre. In the course of the evening a silver cigarette case, subscribed for by the members of the orchestra, was presented to him by Mr. Fred Arthur, the manager.

MISS MARGARET ILLINGTON.

Miss Margaret Illington, the American actress who made her English début on Tuesday, May 22, at the Duke of York's Theatre in The Lion and the Mouse, was born nearly twenty-five years ago in Bloomington, Illinois, not far from Chicago. She has been on the stage nearly five years, though not playing constantly. Early determined to earn her own living, she studied at a dramatic school in Chicago for two years, and, at the end of her term, she won the Joseph Jefferson diamond medal for her proficiency and success in Shakespeare. She came to New York to seek an engagement, and applied directly to Daniel Frohman, the manager of a splendid stock company—a company which produced plays by Pinero, Jones, Grundy, Jerome, and other English as well as American writers. She was given a small part—the French maid—in Grundy's Frocks and Frills. Afterwards she appeared in the part of a gipsy in The Pride of Jennico, a dramatisation of Egerton Castle's novel. She was soon promoted to the second rôle, and afterwards the leading part. Her next engagement was with E. H. Sothern, with whom she played in McCarthy's If I were King, made popular here by George Alexander at the St. James's Theatre. In this play she appeared as the Abbess, and afterwards as the Princess, playing nearly two seasons with Mr. Sothern.

MISS MARGARET ILLINGTON.

New York, a drama based on the novel of that name, she was engaged for the leading rôle—that of a Japanese girl. Her success in this part was so gratifying that she was "starred" in the piece subsequently At the conclusion of its season, she decided not to travel, and remained in New York city, appearing in special parts in local productions. She created the leading part last season in Pinero's Wife Without a Smile, and her success in the rôle was so complete that she was selected by Augustus Thomas, the well-known author, to play the comedy rôle, Mrs. Leffingwell, in Mrs. Leffingwell's Boots, during its long New York season, under Charles Frohman's management.

She has also appeared in the States in her present rôle in The Lion and the Mouse.

Miss Illington a little over two years ago became the wife of her first manager, Mr. Daniel Frohman.

Miss Illington as an actress has not only temperament, but art. She has a pulsating, vibrant, emotional quality, which in great moments stirs and arouses an audience, and, from the occasional touches of comedy in her part in the present play, she is doubtless a clever comedienne as well.

"FANNIKIN."

A Musical Comedy in a Nutshell.
Book and Lyrics by H. F. Maltby, Music by Katherine Barry and H. F. Maltby, Dances Arranged by Mr. Wyn Weaver.
First Performed on any Stage at the Pier Pavilion, Hastings, on May 24.

Hon. Harcourt Herrington ....MR. WYN WEAVER
Archibald Thwaites .....MR. H. F. MALTBY
Otto .....MR. ERNEST NOBLE
Fannikin .....MISS MARA MALTBY

The scene opens in the grounds of the Cosmopolitan Hotel, Bathtown, of which Archibald Thwaites is the proprietor. The plot mostly revolves round the Hon. Harcourt Herrington, who has held somewhere abroad the position of a diplomatist, but, being so clever, he was thought too intelligent for the post. Taking Thwaites into his confidence, Herrington tells him that he is in an awful stew—a state of things most agreeably illustrated in a capitally-sustained song and dance—and that he is engaged to a lady now about twenty-one years of age, whom he has not met for seven years, not, in fact, since she was a schoolgirl of fourteen. He now boasts of a moustache, a fact which makes him afraid that she will not recognise him. In their more juvenile days her pet name for him was Pansy, whilst his for her was Fannikin. This charmer eventually arrives at the hotel, and sings a song entitled "When I was about fourteen." Her fiancé, Herrington, fails to recognise her, but whilst waiting for someone to introduce them falls desperately in love with her. He nevertheless realises his difficult position, as Fannikin seven years ago was engaged to him, and now an apparent stranger has taken possession of his heart. During her absence Herrington speaks to the confiding Thwaites of his hopes and fears; but the period of doubt and difficulty ends upon Fannikin's reappearance, minus hat, and with her hair hanging down her back. Herrington at once recognises his old sweetheart. He is terribly afraid that his moustache will spoil matters, but this fear is dispelled, and Thwaites anticipates a wedding breakfast from the engaged pair, but in this he is doomed to disappointment. They have come only for the waters, a piece of news that is capitally told in the harmonised quartette called "The Hydropathic Cure."

The plot is thin and in some parts forced, but the lines are in many cases smartly written. Other musical numbers which are introduced are a trio and a dance by the three comedians, which find great favour. Fannikin and the Hon. Harcourt have also a brightly-sung duet, "May I say 'Yes'? You may."

Mr. Wyn Weaver admirably delineated the Hon. Harcourt Herrington; as the hotel proprietor, Archibald Thwaites, Mr. H. F. Maltby was quite at home; Otto as the foreign Englishman could not be in better hands than those of Mr. Ernest Noble; and Miss Mara Maltby was a graceful and pleasing representative of Fannikin.

The Scarlet Clue, which was produced at the Theatre Royal, Windsor, on March 30, 1905, is frankly sensational, as its title would lead one to suppose, with sharp contrasts of character, and a story strongly impregnated with vice and crime of the most lurid kind. The leading character is Sal Scarlet, better known as Scarlet Sal, and the mistress of Michael Stanton, a gentleman who lives in luxuriously-furnished chambers in Warwick Mansions, and gets a living by card-sharping and in other dubious ways. One of the victims of "Flash Mike" is young Harry Esmond, who, hoping to recover recent losses at gambling, robs his maiden aunt, at whose house he resides, with his twin brother, Jack. Revisiting Stanton's rooms, and playing for high stakes, he again loses, and leaves the house without a penny, vowing vengeance against the man who has ruined him. Elsie Dane, a Sister of Mercy, who has been exposed to the odious attentions of Stanton, pays a visit to a house in Houndsditch, where Scarlet Sal lodges with an old hag called Mother Scrooge, to offer her services as nurse to Sal's sick child; but Stanton declares that the young woman has followed him there. This excites the jealous rage of Sal, who is only prevented from doing Elsie Dane serious injury by the entrance of Harry Esmond. He in turn is savagely attacked, and, at the instigation of Stanton, Sal stabs him to the heart. The crime is witnessed from an open window by Crazy Jim, a waif, who, it appears, has been driven to the verge of madness by directions of his uncle, Michael Stanton. The youth's property has not only been fraudulently seized by the villain, but on Jim's bare breast is an ugly-looking red weal, caused by a savage cut from Mike's whip. Sal wears, according to her usual custom, a red gown, and when the murder of young Esmond is committed, Jim manages to secure a strip of the dress and get away with it. At the same time he bears the unconscious Elsie to the residence of Miss Tabitha Esmond, and she and her nephew Jack learn of the murder of Harry. Discovering that she has been robbed of £1,000, his aunt accuses Jack of the crime, which he, to shield the memory of his dead brother, admits, and is banished the house. Crazy Jim entrusts him with the scarlet clue, and Jack, disguised as a Jew old-clothes man, obtains the torn dress from Sal; but she and Stanton then take their departure for Monte Carlo, the woman assuming the name of Madame Lune. A series of sensational events occur at the Hotel Splendide, Monte Carlo, Stanton adding to his crimes by the murder of his accomplice, Jack Croker. Mike is denounced by Sal as a sneak and a coward, and after Elsie Dane has had another narrow escape of falling a victim to her jealous hate, the play closes with a sensational fire scene, and the death of Sal after rescuing her child from the flames.

In the leading character of Sal Scarlet Miss Grace Warner presents a clever study of a woman whose bringing-up and vicious surroundings have made her what she is. Sal's love for the villain Michael Stanton, and the fierce jealousy which his attentions to another woman excite, are expressed with much power. Scarlet Sal, as depicted by Miss Warner, is a desperate, dram-drinking, vicious creature, who, however, has not quite lost the natural instincts of the mother. In the thieves' kitchen scene, in the first act, Miss Warner gives an excellent rendering of the convivial song, "Woman and Wine," which on Monday was greeted with much applause Michael Stanton belongs to the gentlemanly type of villain—good-looking, always well groomed, and suave of manner; but ever ready for a desperate deed. This man, known amongst his associates as Flash Mike, has an admirable representative in Mr. George Gordon, who succeeds in showing that the gentlemanly exterior and the quiet, easy manner, conceals an evil nature that has not even its redeeming feature in the shape of pluck; for Flash Mike, like most bullies of his type, is a coward at heart. Upon Mr. J. Leighton Leigh devolves the task of impersonating the twin brothers, appearing first as the reckless young gambler, Harry Esmond, and, after his murder, as Jack, who is remarkably like his dead brother in form and feature, but a complete contrast to him in disposition. Mr. Leigh proves quite equal to the work assigned him, cleverly distinguishing the characteristics of the twin brothers, and meeting with success all through. Mr. J. Campling is good as Jack Croker, who, because of Stanton's knowledge of his past life, finds himself compelled to obey the villain's orders. Mr. J. Tomlinson gives an impressive embodiment of Crazy Jim, the victim of Stanton's brutality. Mr. Jack Clarence ably represents Sir Desmond Lisle; and Mr. Edgar Bruce graphically depicts Cockney Evans. Mr. Victor T. Raymond puts much vigour into his representation of Billy the Rotter, a burglar who beguiles his leisure moments by singing songs. These include "Then he shifted lower down," "A pal of mine," and "Hello, little girl," in which he is assisted by the Misses Dean, Massey and Little Nellie. Miss Lizzie Palmer makes good use of her opportunities as Elsie Dane, the kind-hearted Sister of Mercy, who innocently excites Sal's jealousy. Miss Lottie Wentworth plays naturally and effectively as Miss Tabitha Esmond, aunt to the twin brothers; Miss Esther Dean is a lively representative of Musette, Sal's French maid; and Miss Mowbray is well-placed as Mary Smith, a maid-servant. Miss Kathleen Cranston scores as the repulsive old hag, Mother Scrooge; Little Phillis Massey is a smart Reggie Carstairs, an Eton boy; and Little Nellie wins sympathy as Sal's child, a flower-girl, cruelly treated by Mother Scrooge. In minor rôles commendable work is done by Messrs. J. Magrath, Peter Parsons, and Reynolds.

"THE MARRIAGE TRAP," a new four-act romantic drama, by Myles Wallerton, will be produced at the Avenue Theatre, Sunderland, on Monday.

MISS ELLEN TERRY and the company playing Captain Brassbound's Conversion, at the Court Theatre, paid a highly-sucessful visit to Brighton on the afternoon of the 24th ult. Miss Terry's part for that evening was played by Miss Madge McIntosh.

"OTHELLO," at the Lyric Theatre, is such a pronounced success that Mr. Lewis Waller and Mr. H. B. Irving announce two extra matinées for Tuesday and Thursday next.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

MR. ALEX. ALEXANDER.

Mr. Alex. Alexander was originally intended for a lithographic artist, his apprenticeship being served with Mackenzie and Co., theatrical printers, of Glasgow, portrait work being his speciality. But having a strong inclination for the stage, his first appearance was in The Span of Life, under the stage-management of Mr. Allen Thomas, understudying Mr. Thomas's part, Joshua Gurnet, which he had an opportunity of playing for four weeks; and, considering it was a first attempt, was very successful. Then followed a series of "fit-up" tours with the Alexander Dramatic Company, Mr. Alexander playing such parts as Nick Vedder in Rip Van Winkle, De Cou-Cou in The Grip of Iron, Crispin St. Jones in Master and Man, George Peyton in The Octoroon, Mark Livingstone in The Streets of London, the swell in My Sweetheart, Paul Judson in The Power of Gold, Lucien Cortier in The Face at the Window, Tom Cooper in The Shadows of a Great City, Louis Muscarot in The King of Crime, the Rev. Nathaniel Hope and Old Joe in In The Shadow of Night, &c. A stock season with Mr. T. Morton Powell, juvenile business, was followed by a tour of forty weeks with Mr. Horace Stanley as Seth Coombes in The 10.30 Down Express. His recent engagements have been:—February, 1904, was engaged by Mr. Henry Bedford for the Rev. Francis Harvey in Gipsy Jack and Sandy Macpherson in Mafeking, a summer tour with Miss Winifred

MR. ALEX. ALEXANDER.

Maud, juvenile lead in The Sins of a City. Mr. Alexander was re-engaged for the autumn tour, heavy lead in Gipsy Jack and juvenile lead in Mafeking; appearing also as Capt. Molineaux in The Shaughraun. He created heavy lead in Arthur Shirley and Henry Bedford's play The Straight Game. Mr. Alexander, under Mr. Bedford's stage-management, excellent tuition, and example has gained invaluable experience. He is now on tour playing the heavy lead in Arthur Shirley and Henry Bedford's successful drama The See-Saw of Life, and Gerald Skinner in Gipsy Jack.

"OLIVER CROMWELL."

An Historical Drama, in Five Acts, by John SUMMERS. London: The International Copyright Bureau, Ltd., 34, Norfolk-street, Strand.

Mr. John Summers's five-act drama, written in blank verse, gives the history of the Commonwealth until the accession of Charles II. The play is written in a plain, unaffected style, without any attempt at fine writing, and might indeed serve the purposes of a poetical school history for the period of the eleven eventful years, beginning 1649 and ending 1660.

The play opens with a discussion between Sir Harry Vane, Sir Thomas Fairfax Marten, and Oliver Cromwell, who expresses himself in favour of the dissolution of Parliament; but his proposal finds no support from the other members of the party. After Oliver's departure, Sir Matthew Hale, who has joined the others, complains that Cromwell has taken upon himself too much of late, but admits that their thanks are more due to him than to any of them for what he has done in their cause.

The first scene of the second act is the Council Chamber, where Cromwell makes a bitter attack upon Parliament, alleging that it has done nothing but promise all along, while home affairs are almost at a deadlock, and there is no excuse for it all. Sir Harry Vane speaks warmly in defence of Parliament, attributing to the war the retardment of business. At the mention of the word "progress," Cromwell exclaims: "What of the progress now, when nothing's done?" Vane: "We make it by divisions." Cromwell: "Ay, divisions! Fifteen divisions on a petty bill! And thus the time is frittered all away." This quotation may be regarded as peculiarly appropriate at a time when a proposal to amend the present system of taking divisions in the House of Commons is under discussion

Cromwell takes a firm stand, exclaiming:—

Well, gentlemen, I will have done with you
Till in the Parliament we meet together,
When, bear in mind, I'll prosecute my purpose,
And take strong measures to attain it, too.
I will exhaust all means I can conceive
To bring the present Parliament to end.
Keep to your line, and I will keep to mine,
And stand both to my promise and my ground.

The famous historical scene, where Cromwell calls in a number of musketeers and dissolves Parliament, compelling Mr. Speaker to quit his seat, is introduced in the third act. Sir Harry Vane, who has all along shown strong opposition to Cromwell and his policy, cries:—

This outrage is beyond all precedents,
All sense and reason, and all toleration.
No action of the late beheaded King
Went half so far as this ungallant act.
What! have we slain a king for despotism
To suffer one of our own commoners
To play the tyrant with us in his stead?
It shall be answered, yea, and acted on;
But since we can do nothing here and now,
Come, let's away.

Cromwell is duly proclaimed Lord Protector of the Commonwealth, and in the last act we see the great leader on his death-bed. A storm is raging without; and ere Cromwell draws his last breath, he nominates his son Richard to succeed him as Lord Protector

The drama concludes with a spectacular scene, showing the arrival of King Charles II. at Whitehall, the Royal procession being received with the joyful ringing of bells and the shouts of the populace. The characters in the play include Prince Rupert and other distinguished members of the Royalist party. A mild form of comedy is introduced by the courting of a handsome Puritan maid by two young men who are rivals for her hand.

BERLIN, THURSDAY, MAY 31.—The newest play presented to us by our Viennese guests met with a very cordial reception. It is more of a farce than a comedy, its characters all verging on caricature, but it is possibly intended as a satire upon the hyper-"modern" Bohemian life, as we are led to believe exists in Munich and Bavarian artist circles. With the exception of a few drawn-out scenes—which should be shortened—and some exaggerations of language—which might be omitted with advantage—the piece is entertaining and amusing, as the frequent applause and calls for the author proved. The painter, Richard Landsberg, who has dropped his proper prefix of "von," is in love with a fellow-artist named Centa, who for some occult reason will have none of him, either platonically or matrimonially. Yet we know she loves him all the time in secret, and her indignation when Landsberg engages himself to another is therefore quite unjustified. Properly speaking, however, the young man was caught in a weak moment by the elderly daughter of a Berlin magnate, who is as eager to bestow his daughter's hand upon anyone as she herself is. Fräulein Lulu has not been successful with the men in her native city, so she is fishing in Bavarian waters, and Landsberg proved the victim. He fights against his fate with might and main, and during the banquet with which the betrothal is being celebrated he shakes off his fetters. His heart belongs to Centa, and life-long separation from her is too great a price to pay for a thoughtless kiss. So Lulu goes a-fishing again, and finds another artist willing to take her, and after the danger of losing her lover is over Centa confesses her affection for him, her words on this occasion being more spontaneous and hearty than refined. We are, however, in Munich art circles, and must not be squeamish. The padding of this thin plot is amusing, if coarse at times, and the acting was particularly bright. Herr Hans Fischer was so smartly humorous that all his old admirers here regretted more than ever his removal from our midst. This clever actor was for many years a member of the Deutsches company. Excellent renderings, too, were those of Fräulein Lange and Herr Meinhard, one of the directors of the company.

THE summer opera season at Krolls—the new Royal Opera—is doing well in both a business and artistic sense. Herr Hofrat Koebke is the director again this year, and he has got together a thoroughly good all-round company with a star or two into the bargain. Herr Koebke has been very fortunate in gaining the services of Dr. Kunwald (of Frankfort), who has the musical management, and who proved himself to be a conductor of unusual skill at the recent Philharmonic concerts. Ambitious works are not attempted at this theatre, neither are they desired, the public during the summer months being quite satisfied with the lightest of opera. Blech's musical work, Alpenkönig und Menschenfeind, has given place this week to Verdi's Maskenball and Suppé's Boccaccio, the former being the better interpreted. Herr Werner Alberti sang the part of Manrico in Il Trovatore on Sunday, earning much applause. Der Fledermaus, Strauss's merry little opera, is announced for Saturday evening.

IN connection with the Grand Review—always more or less a public holiday here—a performance of Lortzing's opera, Der Waffenschmied ("The Armour-bearer"), will take place at the Royal Opera. This has been specially selected by the Kaiser, who will be present with the Kaiserin, the Crown Prince, and a number of distinguished guests. It is so-called "théâtre paré"—a modification of the gala nights of still more important occasions.

HAUPTMANN'S fantastic play Und Pippa tanzt has now been produced at Vienna and Hamburg. In neither city has the success been anything like equal to that obtained by the work here.

OUR most enterprising East-End theatre, the Carl Weiss, changes its bill with astonishing rapidity, pandering to the taste of every portion of its audience. The latest piece is one calculated to wring the heart-strings of an emotional spectator, and its reception was one bordering on the enthusiastic. The title is Der Weg des Märtyrers, the author is Horst Rolf, who has drawn his five-act play from a novel by Konrad Remling. A few words will suffice for a sketch of the plot. Erich Steinert, a business man, is wrongfully accused of defraudations; the evidence is against him, he cannot prove his innocence and is sentenced to penal servitude. On coming out of prison he endeavours to hide his disgrace by removing to another town, but a so-called former friend levies blackmail. Not all the devotion of Steinert's noble wife can console the persecuted man, who, driven to desperation, shoots the blackmailer and is again sentenced. His final act is to take his own life. The play is skilfully written, and, being adequately acted, will certainly attract good audiences for some time.

OSCAR WILDE'S play Ein idealer Gatte is occupying the boards of the Kleines Theatre to the exclusion of all else, and judging from appearances will continue to do so. The Lord Goring of Herr Harry Walden is a good piece of acting, the only one in the cast to which no exception can be taken. All the remaining rôles are unsatisfactorily rendered; while the "ensemble" conveys anything but the right impression of London society.

AT the Schiller O. Wilbrand's comedy Jugendliebe has been revived with best possible results. It is but little known, and undeservedly so, its pleasant dialogue and harmless humour being really refreshing. The plot is a kind of modern "taming of the shrew," the shrew being a spoiled child of fortune. Both acting and mounting were capital. The laughable farce, Dienstboten, by the ever-popular Benedix, concluded a thoroughly enjoyable evening, and a large audience testified its appreciation by much applause and frequent calls for artists and manager.

DAS NEUE SCHAUSPIELHAUS, the handsome new theatre in Nollendorf Platz, W., is making enormous strides towards completion. Director Hahn has now definitely decided to open the New Schauspielhaus with Shakespeare's play, The Tempest. The costumes—which are exceedingly beautiful—have been specially designed by Professor Leffler, and are to be exhibited at Vienna during the summer. Professor Humperdinck is writing the incidental music.

LELIAR'S operetta, Die lustige Witwe, is being attended with so much success at the Berliner that the season of the Hamburg Company will be prolonged until the middle of June. Other novelties that were planned will have to be discarded in favour of this popular work.

THE Royal Opera and Royal Schauspielhaus close on June 14 and 17 respectively for the summer holidays. The Opera House will reopen on Aug. 15, the Schauspielhaus three days later.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

Mr. Mulholland announces the present week's entertainment as a bold experiment, and it certainly is a decided innovation. Whether it will be altogether welcomed by the regular patrons of the King's, who are for the most part firm adherents of musical comedy, is open to question, and it would be interesting to know if the results are as satisfactory as anticipated by the management. Of course, no fault can be found with the entertainment, we only speak as to its fitness for an important theatre. Poole's Myriorama is in the nature of an education, taking us all over the world, and giving pictorial and instructive glimpses of places of which we hear, but very rarely see. The old-fashioned panorama is not improved by the introduction of the modern animated pictures, but they seem to intrude everywhere nowadays. The pictorial representations of the different countries of the globe, together with "Trafalgar, 1805," and "Japan Sea, 1905," are very creditably realised. At various times in the evening various artists appear, all of whom give satisfaction, namely, Miss Daisy Graham, with her trained birds and dog; Little Doretta, vocalist and dance artist; Mr. Harry Stewart, an exceedingly clever protean artist; the Avondale quartette, with some excellent part songs; Miss Kitty Woodford, who introduces the latest American illustrated songs, and possesses a comical canine orchestra and chorus; and Messrs. Leonard and Mac, eccentrics. The guides, Messrs. William Stewart and Alfred Leonard, ably describe the pictures and events.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, May 28,
the Romance, in Four Acts, entitled
"MARY STUART, QUEEN OF SCOTS."

The engagement for the present week of Mrs. Brown Potter in the romantic story of the unfortunate Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, is crowding the Holloway Theatre, and the audiences have reason to be well pleased with the powerful acting and elaborate scenery. A heavy responsibility rests upon the shoulders of Mrs. Brown Potter, whose study of the unhappy Queen is forcible without being overdrawn, and sympathetic without being too sentimental. Her performance elicits the warmest and heartiest applause, especially in her strong scene in the last act, where she discovers the treachery of her brother, in whom she had placed her entire confidence. Mrs. Brown Potter is ably supported by Mr. Edward Sorley, who gives an excellent embodiment of the treacherous Lord James Stuart. Mr. Alec Frazer is also conspicuous for a capital study of Lord Darnley; and Mr. Godfrey Tearle is good as the Earl of Bothwell. Mr. George Ide furnishes a realistic impersonation of the bluff Earl of Huntley; and in the minor parts of Lord George Gordon, Sir John Findlater, and Sir Adam Gordon, Messrs. Frank Drane, Edmund Barker, and Master Robert Alliston are well placed. Mr. C. Croken-King gives a successful assumption of Lord Ruthven, and Mr. John Cabourn is to be commended for his Mr. Secretary Maitland. Mr. Frank Dunn, who represents David Rizzio, renders his song in Scene II. of Act III. in capital style. Miss Vera Carfax is well placed as the Countess of Argyle; Miss Thalma Archer, Miss Dora Maitland, Miss Kate Worth, Miss Lilian Tweed, and Miss Sarah de Groot are all capable in minor parts, Miss Kate Worth gaining a host of admirers for her fascinating old-time dance in Act I. The large audiences that have patronised the theatre during the week have had courteous attention from Mr. J. Murray Herriott.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, May 28,
Shakespeare's Tragedy, in Five Acts, entitled
"OTHELLO."

Mr. Edmund Tearle and Miss Kate Clinton, with a specially-selected company, are, during the present week, delighting large audiences at this theatre with a répertoire of legitimate plays, including Othello, Macbeth, Merry Wives of Windsor, Julius Cæsar, and The Three Musketeers. Othello was chosen for the opening night, and a well-filled house followed the performance with keen discrimination and testified their interest by loud applause at each fall of the curtain. Mr. Edmund Tearle was seen to great advantage in the title-rôle, to which his fine presence and commanding manner are well suited. Speaking his lines very distinctly, and faithfully portraying the varying moods of love and jealous rage, Mr. Tearle scored a decided success, and was accorded a great reception. Another good performance was given by Mr. Wilson Gunning, who displayed considerable ability in his impersonation of Iago, fully impressing the audience with the sincerity of his acting. Mr. V. O. Crabtree was satisfactory as Cassio; and Mr. Spencer Geach did all that was possible with the part of Roderigo. Mr. John Victor as Montano, Mr. Richard Melton as Antonio, Mr. Saxon Thomas as Gratiano, and Mr. Herbert Tawse as Lodovico were all thoroughly efficient in their respective parts. Brabantio had an excellent representative in Mr. T. W. Benson; and Mr. J. A. Keogh was a dignified Duke of Venice. Miss Esther Tearle acted with quiet feeling and delicate pathos in the part of Desdemona, and acquitted herself with great success. Miss Mary Campbell was excellent as Emilia, favouring the audience in the last scene with an exceptionally fine piece of acting.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, May 28,
the Play entitled
"SAPHO."

This week Miss Annie Bell and company are appearing in a version of Alphonse Daudet's novel, the play having been adapted in this instance by Mr. Birkett Winning. Miss Annie Bell appears as Fanny Legrand, and gives a forcible delineation of the character; Jean Gaussin is capably played by Mr. Pringle Roberts; Jean's uncle, Cesaire, is capitally portrayed by Mr. G. Antley, who is quite amusing in the rôle, and causes many a laugh by his clever acting; little Miss Doris Graham is greatly applauded for her natural acting of Joseph, a turbulent young person; Mr. Oswald Lingard presents a neatly-sketched picture of Father Legrand, a drunken cabman, who is extremely diverting without being in any way objectionable; while Miss Florence Graham is very good as Legrand's wife, Machaume. Paul Dechelette is carefully played by Mr. Laurence Kingsley; and Caoudal is well embodied by Mr. R. A. Greene. There are a few other minor characters, which are suitably filled. The play is adequately staged. Mr. James Bell is the general-manager for the company, and Mr. R. A. Greene is responsible for the stage-management.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, May 28,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Rokove, entitled
"THE WISE MAN."

On Monday evening, Rokove's drama, The Wise Man, was played at the Pavilion, and although the action of the piece is often delayed by the superabundance of talk, yet the interest and sympathy of the audience were throughout well maintained, and the efforts made by the members of the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company rewarded by an enthusiastic reception. At the same time, due honour must be given to the management for their enterprise in providing good plays with such admirable casts, and with such excellence in effects, scenery, and mounting. The well-known American Yiddish actor, Mr. Natansohn, sustained the character of Alfee, the wise man, and, although somewhat deliberate, gave a performance of sterling merit which was more remarkable for power than subtlety. Mr. Schapira was as satisfactory an Abraham Maibloom as could be wished; and equal praise must be awarded to Mr. J. Scherman for his rendering of Motel. Mr. Schoor gave prominence to the part of Zemach Lamden; and Mr. Gusofsky was spirited and energetic as Brunin. Mr. Schilling, badly made-up, was well suited as Mordchy, and extracted all the fun possible out of the opportunities, and caused roars of laughter whenever he was on the stage. Too much praise cannot be given to Mme. Natansohn for her capital portrayal of Sopia; while an admirable exponent of Chaie is found in Mme. Kayzer. Mme. Goldstein acquitted herself well as Zelde; and Mr. Katz was a competent Rudnik. During the week success has attended the performances of Ben Hador, The Viceroy, Mrs. Tartakoff's Revenge, Uriel Acosta, The Jewish Minister, The Emigrants, and The Princess as Beggar, which have been played to large audiences on account of the Jewish holidays.

GRAND, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, May 28,
the Drama, entitled
"THE SAILORS OF THE KING."

This week melodrama again holds the boards at this theatre, and the exciting adventures and hair-breadth escapes of The Sailors of the King and their friends, as portrayed by Mr. Charles Harrington's company, have been followed with much interest. As Felicia Phrynne Miss Sylvia Stella submitted a careful and refined rendering of the young heiress, and was notably successful in the dream scene in the third act, and again in the final struggle in the last act. Miss Maud Digby was well suited as the housekeeper, Rebecca Crosby, and skilfully delineated the feline ferocity of the woman culminating in a perfect frenzy of revengeful passion when all seems lost. Miss Gertrude Sterroll gave a touching rendering of Daisy Dent, and easily enlisted the sympathy of the audience with this poor girl's troubles and her brave attempt at reparation. As Penelope Penn Miss Helo Hathaway acted in the vein of true comedy, and was worthy of more opportunity for the display of her talents. Mr. Charles Harrington played Admiral Drake in a quiet, easy style which was very acceptable, and delivered several long speeches with the skill of the practised actor. In the rôle of Orrel Drake Mr. F. V. Travers both looked and acted the character admirably. Mr. Harry Douglas had comparatively little to do as Dick Drake, but played the part in commendably straightforward virile fashion. Mr. Walter Farnsworth submitted a clever character-study of Rufford Dent; Mr. Kenneth Black, jun., was amusing as Barnet Fair; and Mr. Fred Owen was responsible for a good deal of laughter as Harris Wilkinstein. The drama is particularly well staged, the scene showing the deck of H.M.S. Storm being realistic to a degree.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 28,
the Drama, in Six Acts, by Charles Reade, entitled
"DRINK."

The estimation in which Mr. Charles Warner is held by playgoers in all parts of the metropolis is being fully proved by the large audiences which have assembled to greet him during the suburban tour on which he is at present engaged. Kennington has this week been given an opportunity of witnessing Mr. Warner's impersonation of Coupeau, in Drink, and crowded houses have testified by enthusiastic cheers their admiration of one of the most remarkable portrayals in the gallery of dramatic art. Mr. Warner has achieved distinction in many memorable rôles since he first created the unfortunate hero of Charles Reade's famous adaptation from the French; but his impersonation remains as vivid and as striking as ever. The sunny humour of the part is brought out by Mr. Warner with his customary skill, and the scenes of sentiment with the child are treated as tenderly as of yore. The passion of the part has perhaps grown in intensity with the lapse of years, and the actor's denunciation of his enemies waxes fiercer, while the delirium scene, which perfects the assumption, is still as artistically presented, the haggard face and frenzied appearance of the drunkard, worn out by illness and distraught by pain, being fearfully real. The audience at Kennington has been thrilled again, and the curtain has had to be repeatedly raised, in acknowledgment of the recalls in all parts of the house. Mr. Warner's support is of the strongest, each character being carefully allotted. Miss H. Grœme is well in sympathy with the part of Gervaise, presenting the rôle effectively. Her gentleness and natural grace fit her admirably for the part, and her rendering of the lines has a ring of sincerity which makes a thorough appeal to the hearts of all. Miss Mary Allestree is a prepossessing Virginie; but of her vindictiveness and spite there is no doubt, while the vulgar tone of the character is well caught by clever inflections of the voice. The unscrupulous Lantier is moulded in realistic fashion by Mr. C. Herbert Hewetson, who skilfully assumes the callous nature of the part, and plays with a lightness and sang-froid that adds to its effect. The Gouget of Mr. Norman Wrighton is presented in straightforward fashion, and is well varied in expression and gesture. A droll conception of Mes Bottes is furnished by Mr. Alfred Phillips, a comedian of proved ability, who arouses continuous laughter by his droll exposition of the part. A comely Phœbe Sage is found in Miss Frances Day, who enacts the cheery cantatrice with agreeable vivacity and humour. Little Nana possesses all the charm of juvenility as played by Miss Flossie Hale Davies, who speaks prettily, and acts with unusual intelligence and care. Miss Ada Ray gives a good character impersonation as the superintendent of the washhouse; Mr. G. Coutry deserves praise for his impersonation of Bibi; Mr. A. Dubourg is an acceptable landlord of a wine shop; and other characters are adequately rendered by Misses Davies, Somers, and Chambers, and Messrs. Charles Schmidt, Roland Daniel, Routledge, M. A. Smailes, and M. Cartinge.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, May 28,
the Farce, by G. W. Elton and E. S. Petley, entitled
"THE OTHER MAN'S BUSINESS."

The attraction at the Fulham is a very favourable specimen of its kind. The main idea of the plot lies in the endeavour of a young man to deceive his rich and overbearing uncle by the process of borrowing a tobacconist's shop and passing it off as his own business. Complications ensue from the facts that the owner's leave has not been obtained, and that the police have occasion to execute a raid upon a club held in the room over the shop, and run in the owner, the pseudo-owner, and his uncle at one fell swoop. The piece does not put too violent a strain on one's credulity, but is kept within the bounds of reasonable probability. Mr. Frank Stanmore enacts the deceitful nephew with considerable success. He is not exactly the accomplished and imperturbable stage liar that Mr. Hawtrey is wont to show us; but, still, he lies with great spirit and frequency. Mr. G. W. Anson is well suited with the part of Ratilechip, the uncle. Mr. Anson is an actor of wide experience and established reputation, and his performance as the irascible uncle is delightfully funny. Mr. G. W. Elton is a great success as Horatio Bloggett, a refreshingly slangy and quite incorrigible schoolboy. Mr. Frank E. Petley plays the part of the choleric and jealous Simpson with great energy and success; while Mr. A. Hornby Warburton, as his assistant, Henry Hill, is also very amusing in a quiet way. The representatives of "the force" may also be congratulated on the smart and effective way in which they carry out their raid. Of the ladies, the chief honours go to Miss Lilian Hubbard as Topsy Temple, an exceedingly modern young lady, who brings her elderly lover to book with great skill. Hers is a brightly humorous performance of exceptional merit. As Emma, the Bloggetts' servant, Miss Adie Boyne shows a good sense of humour, and acts cleverly; while the quiet charm of Miss Nina Osborne as Bloggett's wife is in effective contrast to the more plebeian humour of the other characters. Miss G. Price is satisfactory in the small part of Miss Challow. Altogether it is a bright and amusing piece, well written, and ably presented. The Other Man's Business is preceded by a sketch by George Sheldon, entitled Monsieur le Marquis. It is just a simple little study of a woman's love and a man's nobility, set in the effective framing of the period of the Reign of Terror. In this the parts were satisfactorily taken by Mr. Petley as the Marquis, Mr. E. T. Preston as a Deputy, with Miss G. Price as a Norman fisherwoman, and Miss Hubbard as her daughter.

THE TERRISS.

On Monday, May 28,
An Adaptation of Charles Dickens's Novel, entitled
"OLIVER TWIST."

A capital rendering of Charles Dickens's immortal story is to be seen at the Messrs. W. and F. Melville's popular theatre. The novel is very closely followed, and the leading events of the chequered career of the poor little waif, Oliver Twist, are cleverly brought to the footlights. There is only one drawback to Oliver Twist, and that is, it possesses no love interest; but this defect is counterbalanced by its many exciting incidents, and its quaint and clear-cut characterisations. Miss Minnie Waller makes a pathetic Oliver, and thoroughly realises the character of the forlorn little orphan, as drawn by the author. Mr. John Nolan causes laughter as the pompous Bumble—the individual who assures us that "the law is a hass." Mr. Leyton Canceller contributes a most powerful character-sketch of the villainous Jew "fence," Fagin, and is especially effective in his dream scene. Mr. Tubby Edlin is so amusing as the young rascal, the Artful Dodger, that his abundant humour almost makes us forget the depravity of the scamp. Bill Sykes is capitally played by Mr. Eric Campbell, who looks the burly ruffian to the life. He does not spare himself in his presentment of the brutal aspect of the character, and his scene where he murders the unfortunate Nancy thrills the house with its realism. Miss Nell Oliver gives an excellent and pathetic representation of the wayward but devoted Nancy, the cockney accent being well maintained. Miss Flora Macdonald is a sweet and interesting Rose Maylie; and Miss Nellie Jackson an amusing Mrs. Bumble. Mr. William Wallace scores well as the eccentric Mr. Grimwig; and the benevolent Mr. Brownlow is well looked after by Mr. Frank Denis. The sneaking Noah Claypole is an effective character-sketch in the competent hands of Mr. Allan Davenport; and Mr. Fred Terriss makes all that is possible out of the character of the gloomy villain Monks.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE, POPLAR.

On Monday, May 28,
the Play, in Four Acts, by G. R. Sims, entitled
"FOR LIFE—AND AFTER."

Appreciative audiences have been the rule at Poplar this week, the attraction being a sterling good drama of the Adelphi type, presented by an excellent company, got together by Messrs. Hardie and Von Leer. Marion Grey, the sorely-tried heroine, is ably represented by Miss Grace Heywood, who is especially good in the finale of Act 3, where Marion refuses to give up her child to her husband. Of the daughter, Dora Grey, Miss Muriel Dean presents a winsome and delightful portrait; Miss Marion Fawcett is well placed as Jenny Huggett; and Miss Emily Leslie does good work as Loo Hexham, a trying part. As Mrs. Grimper, Miss Evelyn Shaw causes much amusement; Mr. Vernon Sansbury, a capital Richard Grey, gives a polished performance of the weak-willed man, cursed with the drink craving; Mr. Ernest K. Nelson makes a forbidding and crafty villain of Rube Hexham; and as the surgeon, Gilbert O'Neil, Mr. Arthur E. Melborne can scarcely be bettered. Mr. Henry Hare doubles the parts of Jack and Jim Huggett, both characters being exceedingly well presented; as the old showman, Joe Grimper, Mr. Chris Mason is excessively amusing, and presents a delightful study of the kindly old man. The character of Zeke is in the safe hands of Mr. H. G. Wright. Mr. Stanley Field, Mr. Mayor Cooke, and Mr. H. Munro make three very effective "mysterious musicians," and the smaller parts are all in capable hands.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, N.

On Monday, May 28,
the Comic Opera, in Three Acts,
by H. B. Farnie and R. Reece,
Composed by R. Planquette, entitled
"LES CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE."

The ever-popular Les Cloches de Corneville is this week paying a welcome return visit to the Alexandra. The company which Mr. E. St. Alban has organised for the presentation of the opera is in every way a capable one, and in their hands this delightful work, which has for so many years given pleasure to playgoers, loses none of its attractiveness. Mr. St. Alban himself appears as Gaspard, and gives a finished study of the old miser, his playing in the big scene at the conclusion of the second act reaching a very high level of excellence. Mr. Geo. A. Fox is a handsome and imposing Marquis de Corneville, and bears himself gallantly throughout. The music allotted to the rôle of Grenicheux is admirably rendered by Mr. William Everard; and Miss L. Rhodes is a smart and alert Christophe. To Messrs. Fred Dark and Richard Martin, who appear as the Baillie and Gobo respectively, falls the task of providing the bulk of the humour of the piece, and if the material provided for them be now a little old-fashioned, every credit is due to them for the amount of fun they manage to extract from it. Miss May Bradbury infuses a considerable amount of brightness and vivacity into her impersonation of Serpolette, working with unflagging energy. A dainty and engaging Germaine is found in Miss Marion Ayling, who sings and acts with equal charm. There is a large and useful chorus, the musical arrangements being under the direction of Chevalier Legrand.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, May 28,
the Romantic Play, in Four Acts,
by William P. Sheen, entitled
"THE TEMPTRESS."

Mr. W. H. Hallatt's company is appearing at the Royal County Theatre this week in this stirring play, which, on its production on Monday evening, had a most favourable reception from a well-filled house. Miss Blanche Steele, who plays the title-rôle, gives evidence of dramatic powers of more than ordinary merit; Mr. George D. Daiper makes a capital Philip Welford, thoroughly ingratiating himself into the sympathies of the audience; Mr. Fredk. Ross as Lucas Denbigh is a typical villain; and Mr. W. H. Hallatt wins approval for an earnest and convincing impersonation of the part of Pedro Gonzales. The low comedy of the play is ably sustained by Mr. Tom E. Sinclair as Bob Tanner, and by Mr. Allan Carruthers as Francis Fitz-Fluke. The parts of John Gregory and of Rhoda Brown are ably filled by Mr. Oscar Power and Miss Lizzie Chambers. A clever portrayal of the persecuted Marion Fordyce is given by Miss Mabel Scudamore; and Miss Florence Palmer plays effectively the part of Madge Denbigh.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 28,
the Drama, by George R. Sims and Henry Pettitt, entitled
"MASTER AND MAN."

Most effective renderings of the interesting drama Master and Man are being given this week at the Dalston Theatre, and are attracting fairly good houses, despite the near approach of the Whitsun holidays. The play is produced under the personal direction of Mr. Harry Esden. Mr. William Mathews plays cleverly as Jack Walton, a young engineer, whose fortunes are allied with Hester Thornbury (a village schoolmistress, who becomes his wife), this character being effectively sustained by Miss Florence Creagh. Robert Carlton, an ironmaster, is capably represented by Mr. Frederick Harker; Humpy Logan is admirably embodied by Mr. Harry J. Crane. "Humpy," thus designated owing to a deformity caused by an accident, is a vindictive creature, who, however, is not proof against the shafts of Cupid, and the way in which Mr. Crane impersonates his varying moods of love and hate proves him to be a capable actor. Mr. Louis Hector as the rugged forgeman Jem Burleigh presents a capital character-sketch; and Mr. Monson Thorpe is amusing as Crispin St. Jones. Mr. Tom Reynolds as Joe Robins is entertaining; Mr. Edward Swinton as Tom Honeywood gives an amusing sketch of a jealous lover; and Miss Daisy Stone does well as Letty Lightfoot.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, May 28,
the Drama, in a Prologue and Four Acts,
by Hall Caine, entitled
"THE CHRISTIAN."

Mr. Wentworth Croke's No. 1 company, in Hall Caine's The Christian, has been secured by Mr. J. M. East to fill the programme this week. A strong play and an exceptionally good company combine to make a great attraction, full houses being the result. The chief interest of the piece is centred upon, and is most adequately sustained by, Miss Grace Chalmers as Glory Quayle, and Mr. Frank Tennant as the Hon. John Storm. In many stirring scenes wherein the young priest endeavours to persuade Glory that she has adopted the wrong life listeners are much affected, and so much are the efforts of these two appreciated that at the end of each act they are recalled again and again. Polly Love is pathetically played by Miss Vashti Wellborne; Miss Molly Hayden makes a capital Mrs. Callander; as the maidservant Liza Miss Lottie Chesterton is very successful. Mr. Stanleigh Radcliffe acts in a convincing way as Father Lamplugh, his robust lines being excellently delivered, and well deserve the loud applause with which they are greeted. Mr. T. Renaud Lockwood lends distinction to the part of Lord Robert Ure, and makes the character just sufficiently repulsive; Mr. Jackson Wilcox is eminently successful as Horatio Drake; Mr. Wilfred Blumberg, as the young priest Paul, plays effectively; Parson Quayle and Archdeacon Wealthy are well placed in the hands of Mr. Charles Hill and Mr. C. F. Derring; while Mr. Bert Conway and Mr. Oswald Marshall make the most of their opportunities as the Faro King and Mr. Lorimer. Minor characters are quite safe in the hands of Mr. A. E. Kingston, Misses Bella Moody, Dorothy Clifton, Edith Huntley, and May Weir. A word of praise should be given to the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. J. Nurnberger, which very ably supplies the necessary incidental music.

LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, May 28,
the Drama, Adapted by Arthur Shirley from "Le Porteur aux Halles," entitled
"THE BOOM OF BIG BEN."

Drama always appeals to the patrons of the Lyric, and the successful production of The Boom of Big Ben this week is proving no exception to the rule. Perhaps the name of Mr. Harry Scott on the bills as Gilbert Galloway is stirring up the less-frequent visitors; at any rate, the house is being filled each evening with an audience which appreciates his clever acting. One of the finest characters is Captain Joe Galloway, taken by Mr. Fred Powell, who portrays the old salt to the life. The rôle of Henry Siegenbach is given to Mr. Stanley Bedwell, who does full justice to an extremely difficult part. Special praise is due to Miss Mildred Cottell for her clever study of Olive Lorette, a woman of pleasure, the death scene being rendered with decided power. Miss Hilda Baynton makes a charming, yet pathetic, Marjorie Galloway; Mr. Geo. Denham in the part of Marjorie's lover is full of gallantry and spirit; Mr. John Brittian as Tony Prebble evokes much laughter; Miss Nellie Fletcher makes a gentle and winning Judith Galloway, playing with much feeling; Miss Alice Francis and Miss Florrie Palmer as Baby Frill and Lottie Leverett deserve a word of commendation for their useful aid; Dandy Wisk is played with ability by Mr. Harry Agar Lyons; and Messrs. Leonard Howe, George Child, and Henry Villiars, together with Misses Gwynne Spencer and Dorothy Dean, give capable assistance.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, May 28,
the Play, in Five Acts, adapted from Mrs. Beecher Stowe's Novel, entitled
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

On its return visit to Marylebone Mr. Charles Harrington's company was warmly welcomed at Mr. Bailey's comfortable Church-street house. Uncle Tom finds a most capable exponent in Mr. J. Carr, whose voice, gestures, and methods combine to make the impersonation a most realistic one. Mr. J. H. Renney does exceedingly well as Phineas Fletcher; Mr. Stanley Howard enacts Mr. St. Clair with great earnestness; Mr. Leslie Beaufort is impressive as George Harris; and Mr. J. Henry Rogers is vigorously stern as the slave-owner Legree. The pathetic rôle of Little Eva is sustained by Little Minnie in a natural, easy way; Miss Hettie Johnson is refined and gentle as Eliza Harris; Miss Jennie Malcolm is most emphatic as the straight-laced Aunt Ophelia; Miss Zerlina Zerbini is imposing and dignified as Cassy; whilst Miss Annie Watson scores a big success as Topsy by reason of her quaint characteristic utterances. The rest of a long cast all do well, and everything runs with ease and smoothness. Mr. Charles Harrington, jun., is the courteous general-manager.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, May 28,
the Drama, entitled
"LIFE'S SWEETEST SINS."

The attraction here this week is Mr. T. Arthur Jones's company in the above popular drama. The play is full of exciting incidents, but the chief sensation is the sinking, and the subsequent raising to the surface, of a submarine boat, an episode which is very cleverly managed. Mr. T. Arthur Jones makes a manly and sincere sailor hero as Captain Harold Marston; Mr. Oswald Douglas gives a powerful rendering of the character of the unscrupulous Doctor Colbrooke, whose companions in crime, the Rev. Edward Grey and Kimberley Coutts, are done full justice to by Mr. Clem Horlock and Mr. Robert Sawen. Mr. Charles Sewell gives a good character-sketch of the weak-minded Ernie Wodstone; Mr. Edgar Morgan is amusing as Bob Tanner, and introduces successfully a song and dance; Mr. Bertram Lee also contributes to the comedy of the piece as the old salt Martin; Miss Marie Daventry presents a forcible reading of the wayward but true-hearted heiress, Doreen Rivers; Miss Sara Dudley is vivacious and amusing as Bess Grayson; and Miss Mary Ainslie was excellent as the guardian angel of the heroine Fay Colbrooke.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, May 28,
the Four-Act Comedy, by Stanislaus Stange, entitled
"THE SCHOOL FOR HUSBANDS."

After many years' absence from the metropolis, Miss Jessie Millward reappeared at the Scala Theatre in The School for Husbands, a comedy which conjures up visions of Sheridan and Goldsmith, and a hundred romantic plays of the dandy period, and, above all, it treats essentially of "that great duel of sex, that ancient strife, which is the very central fact of life." Miss Jessie Millward as the devoted wife, Lady Manners, whose timely inheritance of a fortune determines her to play Sir John at his own game, and win back his lost love by arousing his jealousy and chagrin, and who betters her instruction in the success which she achieves socially and in domestic rehabilitation, acts with delightful archness and naïveté. Her sudden assumption of all the inconsequent gaiety and insincerity of a woman of fashion, and the way she sets everyone by the ears with her woman's wit and resource, are admirably depicted by Miss Millward. Mr. A. Scott Craven as the dissolute, but good-hearted, Sir John Manners, plays the part with just the necessary touch of exaggerated bravado and impetuosity, and puts in many telling little touches of his own. Miss Maud Noel is very charming and lovable as the ingénue Clarissa Huntleigh, and acts with a freshness and spontaneity that carry conviction. Mr. Philip Cunningham as the mystic Prince Assam (Nawab of Calicut), with his constant rapturous invocation of Allah, invests the part with a certain subtlety, and makes it not only amusing, but characteristic. Miss Mona K. Oram does well as the fashionable widow lady, Airish, whose pride of coquetry experiences such a bad fall, and she hits off very cleverly the idiosyncrasies of the spiteful, backbiting devotee of fashion. Mr. T. Wigney Percival is intensely funny as the self-sufficient, over-weeningly conceited Lord Foppington (the glass of fashion and the mould of form), whose inordinate vanity places him in such dire straits. Miss Emma Chambers and Miss Maud Leslie as gossiping women of fashion, whose names speak for themselves, do good service as Lady Speakill and Lady Tattle; little Hazel Weeks is funny in dumb-show as my lady's Ethiopian page, Jocks; and Mr. J. T. Manning as Lord Drinkwell and Mr. A. E. Greeraway as the staunch and loyal friend of Lady Manners, Captain Lovel of the Royal Guards, are well-in the picture. The part of Betty, the maid, is satisfactorily played by Miss Maud Abbott; and Messrs. Cyril Wolsely, Albert Goddard, and Stephen Woodward enact minor rôles. The piece was very well received, and should have some success "on the road."

THE CARLTON, GREENWICH.

On Monday, May 28,
The Drama, in Three Acts and a Prologue, entitled
"THE SORROWS OF SATAN."

In this interesting piece Mr. Edward Neville appears with considerable success as Prince Lucio Rimanez, and is supported by a good company, who all do their very best, and with excellent results, to make the play a success. Mr. W. H. Wilson gives an admirable interpretation of the character of Geoffrey Tempest; Mr. J. Le Fleming is very good as the Earl of Elton; Mr. J. Nelson Turner is a clever and amusing Morris; Mr. R. Hope is excellent as Amiel; and Mr. Cumming is well suited to the character of Mr. Bentham. Miss Rosie Neville is a bright and charming Mavis Clare; Miss Lina Chesney makes a typical American heiress; and Miss C. Byrne is capital as the lodging-house keeper, Mrs. Grimbes. Miss Flora Leslie gives an attractive and powerful representation of Lady Sybil Elton; Mr. Gus Bowerman is good as Lord Lynton. The Anarchist Terror, played by the same company, was billed for Friday.

BROADWAY THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, May 28,
the Play, in Five Acts, entitled
"EAST LYNNE."

Miss Lilian Dundas is paying a very welcome return visit, and is, as usual, winning golden opinions for her artistic and powerful rendition of the rôle of Lady Isabel. Miss Dundas is an altogether admirable representative of Mrs. Henry Wood's popular but most unhappy heroine. Miss Leslie Dane is an attractive and clever Barbara Hare; Miss Esther Carthew is an amusing Corney Carlyle; Miss Florence Melville is well-placed as the faithful Joyce; Miss Sara Alleyn is a bright and vivacious Suzanne; Miss Lilian Adelle is a pleasing Affy Halijohn; and Miss Jessie Goodman is all that can be desired as Wilson. Little Mabel May plays very naturally and prettily as Willie Carlyle; and the same may be said of Little Jessie Goodchild as little Isabel. The Captain Francis Levison of Mr. Hamilton is an artistic and finished portrait; in this kind of part Mr. Hamilton Stewart has few equals. Mr. Trueman Towers is very good as the hot-tempered Justice Hare; and the Lawyer Dill of Mr. Arthur G. Brown is excellent. Mr. Adam Alexander is a dignified and imposing Lord Mountsevern; Mr. James Jarritt does all that is possible with Richard Hare; as Archibald Carlyle Mr. George Mitchell is manly and earnest; the remaining male parts are in competent hands.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The chamber concert given by the students of the Royal College on Friday, May 25, began with Tschaikowsky's Quartet for strings, in E flat minor, the third movement, Andante Funebre, being the most successful effort of the young performers. The executants were Mr. Arthur Beckwith, Mr. William Armstrong, Mr. Frank Bridge, and Mr. Charles Warwick-Evans. Miss Daisy Turner sang two songs of Albert Mallinson, "O, thank me not" and "Eleanore"; but the music did not do justice to her evident ability as a vocalist. Of the two songs, "Eleanore" was the best. In Clementi's delightful Sonata in E flat, for the piano, Miss Lucy Polgreen was entirely successful in her rendering of the work by the fine old master. Miss Polgreen at the close was heartily greeted by the audience. Mr. B. Merlin Davies sang two songs, "Neugierige" and "Ungeduld," by Schubert, in an artistic manner; and Miss Beatrice Jones and Miss Winifred Gardiner bravely attacked R. Strauss's Sonata for violoncello and piano, producing a full, rich tone, and fairly-successful execution, considering the difficulties of the work. "Home" and "I love the jocund dance," by Walford Davies, sung by Miss Theresa Lightfoot, and the organ solo, Toccata and Fugue in D minor, by J. S. Bach, played by Mr. Stanley G. Stubbs, concluded the concert. Miss Clara Smith and Mr. Harold Howell acted as accompanists

A determined attack upon the matinée hat has been organised by a Paris newspaper, which on Friday arranged a plebiscite among playgoers. Audiences at the principal theatres were invited to answer the three following questions: "1. Are you in favour of maintaining the status quo—that is to say, the large hat at theatres? 2. Do you prefer the small hat? 3. Are you in favour of the complete suppression of the hat?" We await the issue breathlessly.

ACTORS' DAY.

INDEPENDENCE FROM CHARITY.

It is a very commendable enterprise to which the Council of the Actors' Association are now giving their attention. To set apart one day in the year as an Actors' Day, a day on which actors and actresses shall give their services free, authors waive their fees, and managers give their total receipts, not merely in the cause of Sweet Charity, but in the sounder and less humiliating cause of independence, is of course an ambitious undertaking; but it is not an impossible undertaking. Looked at from the point of view of mere sentiment, the scheme is a noble one; looked at from the point of view, as the Americans say, of a business proposition, it is a scheme that no member of the profession should hesitate to support; while looked at through the spectacles of commonsense, it is wholly admirable.

And the scheme, so far as it has already been formulated, is simplicity itself—"that in every theatre in the United Kingdom, on one night in every year, actors should combine to make provision for their Funds and Charities." You give up your salary for one night. You give it up for your own benefit, if need be, for, having given your services in the manner indicated, you can claim as your right, and not as charity, in the event of misfortune overtaking you, some share of what you have yourself helped to accumulate. There will be no question of the amount of your salary becoming known to anyone connected with the management of the Actors' Day Fund, for only the total receipts of the night's performance will be sent to the London offices, the sum total alone of all contributions being made public. The sums of money sent from each theatre will be known to the trustees only, and no details of individual salaries will be furnished. And those who do not happen to be playing on Actors' Day can, if they are in a position to do so, send a proportionate contribution to the trustees, and secrecy will be maintained as to the amounts forwarded.

The precise manner in which the Fund is to be administered can only be decided at a mass meeting of members of the profession, which it is intended shall be held when affairs in the preliminary organisation of Actors' Day have progressed sufficiently. As it is, some fourteen hundred actors, actresses, authors, touring and resident managers, have signified their approval of the proposals of the committee of the A.A., and have expressed their willingness to co-operate towards the desired end. The organising committee, appointed by the A.A., consists of Mr. Acton Bond, Mr. A. E. Drinkwater, Mr. Norman McKinnel, Mr. Cecil Raleigh, and Mr. Brandon Thomas, all of whom are at present devoting themselves strenuously to the work in hand. But, conscientious and whole-hearted as these gentlemen are in what cannot but be regarded in their case as a labour of love, it must not be presumed that they can do everything. They ask that brother and sister artists shall lend a helping hand. Who will volunteer to assist in the distribution of the booklets containing the early proposals as to the establishment of Actors' Day? We trust there will be a good response, and here it may be mentioned that all communications respecting the Fund should be addressed—The Organising Committee, Actors' Day, 10, King-street, Covent Garden, W.C..

In the gentlemen who have undertaken to act as trustees, several branches of the profession are represented—actors and managers in Sir Squire Bancroft, authors in Mr. George R. Sims, and the legal aspect of affairs in Sir George Lewis. The fact that Sir Squire Bancroft is a retired actor-manager, and that he would therefore be a thoroughly disinterested party in matters of doubt that might arise in the management of the Fund, makes him particularly well qualified to sit in impartial judgment in the disposition of what will undoubtedly be an enormous sum of money.

It cannot be too strongly pointed out that, when Actors' Day becomes a permanent institution, the revenue available will be more than sufficient not only to meet, and meet generously, all emergency claims from actors and actresses who are in immediate want, but to provide pensions for those who have had their names regularly registered in the books of the Fund. It is impossible to precisely detail how the annual income resulting from Actors' Day will be distributed; but it may be taken for granted that the existing theatrical funds will not be left out of the reckoning, and, according to their respective requirements, these institutions, which have done such good work in the past, will undoubtedly receive favourable treatment under the new scheme.

There is an old saying about help being afforded those who help themselves. The truth of the saying has been illustrated in practical form over and over again in the life-stories of thousands of men and women, and it will unquestionably be illustrated, perhaps to a greater extent than you imagine, if not in your own case, in the case of brother and sister players who have recognised the wisdom of making what is really the insignificant sacrifice—considering the ulterior object, it is scarcely right to use the word sacrifice—involved by this admirable scheme of insurance against the vicissitudes of life. The dramatic profession is undeniably to many of its disciples an exceedingly precarious means of livelihood and, that being so, it is all the more necessary to take precautions well in advance, so that should a dark cloud make its unpleasant advent you will feel secure in the knowledge that at any rate it has something in the nature of a silver, if, indeed, not a golden, lining.

Let it be understood that what we have here set down partakes not of the character of an appeal for charity. You are invited to enter into a kind of insurance scheme, the yearly premiums attached to which are ridiculously small, and the benefits to be gained exceedingly great. And you have the pleasurable satisfaction of knowing that you are not begging or even accepting the charity of the public, but are making provision for the future in the honourable and dignified way in which the self-respecting members of a self-respecting profession can only take delight in doing. The institution of Actors' Day will be a goodly Fellowship of Players—a Fellowship which bears its own burdens, and proudly asserts its independence in the eyes of the world.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Whilst being entirely in sympathy with the idea for an "Actors' Day," I fear that the scheme as proposed by the Council of the Actors' Association will be found unworkable, for the simple reason that the committee in inviting managers for one night to give their total receipts are asking far more of the resident-manager than they are of the actor. I will say nothing of the travelling-manager, who may or may not be quite willing to give up his share of the receipts. He receives, according to his attraction, anything from 45 per cent. to 70 per cent.; and of course if the artists give their services for this one night, and the authors and composers go without fees, the loss to the travelling-manager would not be great. But in the case of the resident-manager, besides finding theatre, gas, limelight, &c., he has to pay orchestra, and all the staff before and behind the curtain, and as these matters of local expense, together with advertising, &c., will have to be paid for, how can he reasonably be asked to give up the total receipts?

On looking over figures, I see that during the last ten years, by a strange coincidence, I have on the particular date—the third Thursday in October—for three years had the same attraction, the Scottish national drama, Rob Roy, and the Thursday nights' receipts have been respectively £55 7s. 8d., £66 2s. 10d., and £58 9s. 6d., averaging £60 total nights' receipts. The travelling company in this case received 60 per cent., leaving me £24, to get which, however, I had to be at the outlay of between £12 and £13 the one night's local expenses.

I do not wish anyone to imagine that the figures I have quoted are the receipts always to be expected at the Paisley Theatre. We have our good and our bad times, and unless it is some special outstanding attraction, about £27 might be taken as a fair average third Thursday in October, and I daresay the touring company share would average about 57½ per cent., leaving the theatre at 42½ per cent. (£11 9s. 6d.), with local expenses for the one night anything from £11 to £12, or £13 to £14, according to the drawing power of the attraction playing, and especially whether musical or otherwise. Under all the circumstances, can the resident-manager be expected to approve of the proposal to give up his total receipts? If so, the committee, I say, are asking far more of the manager than of the actor, as the one night's salary of the latter is as nothing to what is expected from the former.

I am in sympathy with the idea of the profession combining to do something for our funds and charities, and I quite agree that all actors and actresses in employment the date fixed should hand over their night's salary; but as never in my fondest dreams my one night's salary, either as an actor or a manager, has ever approached what may reasonably be expected to be taken as the total receipts at either of my theatres any Thursday in October, I am afraid it can only be a proportionate contribution that can be looked for from yours faithfully,

JOHN HENRY SAVILE.

THE AVENUE THEATRE ACCIDENT.

In the Court of Appeal on Tuesday, before Lords Justices Vaughan Williams, Stirling, and Moulton, came up the cases of Gordon-Lennox v. Curzon and Scott and another v. Gordon-Lennox. These two actions, which were tried together, were brought by the respective plaintiffs to recover rent of the Avenue Theatre, which was destroyed in December last by the fall of the roof of Charing Cross Station. Mr. Justice Lawrance decided in favour of the plaintiffs, being of opinion that the clause in the lease and sub-lease respectively, which the defendants pleaded rendered the rent not payable in the circumstances—as the theatre was "closed by order of a superior authority"—did not apply The defendants appealed from that decision, and the Court on April 25 reserved judgment.

Lord Justice Vaughan Williams, in giving judgment, said that these two cases arose out of damage done to the Avenue Theatre by the fall of a portion of Charing Cross Railway Station. Since the date of the accident the theatre had been closed, and had not been opened for any theatrical representation. The question in each case was whether by the leases of Sept. 28, 1894 (Leaks and others to the Theatrical Syndicate, Ltd.), and of July 1, 1899 (Lennox to Curzon) respectively in the first case, and the sub-lease of Scott to Gordon-Lennox in the second case, the payment of the rent reserved had been suspended by the proviso in the clause referred to. Mr. Curzon was a sub-lessee, and he had granted a further sub-lease to Mr. Cyril Maude; but the latter's liability for rent was not before the Court.

Reference was then made by his lordship to the clause in the leases, which was to the effect that if, and whenever, during the term the theatre and premises should be closed by order of any superior authority, or be destroyed by fire, or so damaged by fire that the same could not continue to be used as a theatre, the rent should as from the date of such closure, or from the day following such fire, be suspended. Another covenant in the leases provided that the costs of structural alterations ordered by the London County Council should be borne by the lessors. There was in fact no order closing the theatre by the London County Council. Indeed, it seemed that they had no power to close such a building, except on the ground that it was structurally defective; but steps were at once taken by them before the magistrate to get an order to pull down the walls as being a dangerous structure, and after the theatre was rebuilt, a certificate of fitness would have to be obtained before performances could be given there. It was contended by the apellants that in the circumstances the magistrate's order constituted a "closing" by a public authority that relieved them by reason of the proviso from the liability to pay rent. Mr. Justice Lawrance did not take that view, and he gave judgment for Mr. Gordon-Lennox in the first case for £1,210 and costs, and for Mrs. Scott against Mr. Gordon-Lennox for £750 and costs. Both defendants appealed.

In his lordship's opinion, in the events which had happened there had been by the magistrate's order a closing by a superior authority, and therefore the payment of rent by the defendants was suspended. The appeal would, therefore, be allowed.

Lords Justices Stirling and Moulton gave judgment to the same effect, and both appeals were accordingly allowed, with costs.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The students' concert of Wednesday evening began with a piano solo, "La Truite," by Heller, played by Miss Daisy Walker; and Mr. William Lee had a fair amount of success in his song, "To Anthea." Uncertain intonation somewhat marred Miss Wynnie L. Rumsey's 'cello solo, "Wiegenlied," by O'Zapff; and Miss Edith Ellis would have done greater justice to her executive ability if she had played Mendelssohn's pianoforte solo, "Caprice in A Minor," with a lighter and more elastic touch. Miss Eveline Hill was heard in two songs by Couldery, but she would do well to try and avoid a tendency to vibrato. In Gounod's valse ariette, "La Messagera d'Amore" (Mirella), Miss Dorothy Cummings acquitted herself admirably, and gained hearty applause. Two violin solos were neatly executed by Miss Edith Clapham, who chose Weiniawski's "Romance" and Popper-Halir's "Elfentanz"; and Mr. H. A. Petty used an agreeable tenor voice with skill in "I seek for thee in every flower," by Ganz; but Miss Frances Langton was hardly equal to the difficulties of Mozart's recit. and aria, "Non mi dir," from Don Giovanni. She, however, had a pleasing voice and style. Miss Florence Jones showed great facility in her piano solo, "Menuetto Capriccioso and Rondo," from Sonata in A flat of Weber. As a pleasing contrast, Miss Violet Coombs (a clever pupil of Mr. Allen Beaumont) greatly distinguished herself in a recitation of Nesbit's, "The Singing of the Magnificat." The last two items of the concert were a pretty song by Adela Verne, "For Me," remarkably well sung by Miss Muriel Clark, the possessor of a fine mezzo-soprano voice; and a lively orchestral selection, "Cloches de Corneville," arranged by Frederick Grix, and played on mandolines by the pupils of Mme. Waldahoff, who conducted. Miss Kate Richards was the accompanist.

A CHAT WITH MR. EADE MONTEFIORE.

"I have not had a summer holiday since 1892. I have directed seventeen stock seasons, produced over one hundred plays, and thereby found summer employment for over ten thousand people. I was not handed down from the old stock days, but as 'a man of forty' I am sure there is not a manager in the three kingdoms with a similar record."

Thus speaks Mr. Montefiore, whose telegraphic address "Busily" is typical of this quick-speaking, volatile, and hard-working manager. We asked for his views on stock seasons, and if he believed in them.

"Yes and no," was the answer. "If you can gather around you a band of enthusiasts who will work for the glory of the work, the love of experience, with an eye to the future—yes! a hundred times; for they will communicate their enthusiasm to their audiences and will be followed and admired by still susceptible playgoers; but if the manager is supported by the actor-man-who-knows-all-about-it-dear-boy-before-you-were-born and actually sells his Art at the commensuration of a summer salary, then no! a thousand times; for one would have a perfunctory performance, which, in the meagre time at disposal for rehearsal, is bound to fall short of organised touring performances."

"But Mr. Montefiore, do you think theatre-goers appreciate stock seasons?"

"Yes, under certain conditions; but I abjure

MR. EADE MONTEFIORE.

the word 'stock': it enjoys an ominous reputation in nowaday management; it suggests the old free-from-fee plays that did duty before I was born ('a man for forty')—the old scenery—in stock; the old properties—in stock; in fact, any old thing, because, forsooth, it is the summer. Now, that system I consider distinctly ruinous, and at the bottom of many an ill-starred venture. In fine, we many times sicken a theatre audience and, willy-nilly, drive them to the empires of variety. Give the playgoer reasonable value for his money—tell him so, too—and he will support effort even in the dog-days, with a little wet."

"What is your panacea for this dramatic sickness?"

"Make every play a production—that is the word—and if at the outset you do play to 'the wood family' principally, remember that the faithful few have an unequivocal right to your best in return for their money, however little, unhappily, the combined total may be. It may be demoralising, but one must not weary. Have the word 'thorough' streamered in capital letters in your cabinet of memory; beg, borrow, or steal, but have your mise-en-scène reasonably in keeping, be it a palace, a drawing-room, or a parlour. Do not allow a butler to play a duke, nor a sonsy (Scotch) lassie to die in the streets of London. Hard, doubtless, to avoid in répertoire, but have thought for the morrow when you start out."

"And your artists—do you have much difficulty in getting the work done, the continual changes carried out, by young actors experienced only in long runs?"

"Well, I must admit, speaking as a provincial manager dealing primarily with provincial people, that I prefer the younger school. They try: they make surer provision for the detail of the thing. The old actor, of course, is admirable when he can rise to modernity, but the 'all right on the night' method is harassing. On such bases it never is 'right,' especially on Mondays and Saturdays. But by encouragement and hard work, it is wonderful, with the lack of training, how well the difficulties are surmounted. And my first rule—a golden one—is to have no prompter: if the performer falls, he must pick himself up, and I find that that dependence upon self has much virtue."

"And what about the commercial side of these summer seasons?"

"Often heart-breaking, if one is earnest. Your pet production possibly scorched by azure skies, mown down by annual flower shows, rivalled by leviathan picnics, and upset by moonlight bicycle rides. But, considering that custom—a dangerous taskmaster—closeth the Temple of Thespis often three months in the year—alas, for the mummer and myrmidons!—I do, on the whole, consider that the chances of reducing the standing rent is worth the worry. And, then, are we not philanthropists to the actor—and to ourselves, when it rains on a Saturday night? Taking one consideration with another, a manager's lot is not a happy one in the summer; but through the kindly help of many old actors and the joyous optimism of many young ones, I have been able to present much goodly fare to many summer audiences, from Hamlet, Othello, Romeo and Juliet, Much Ado About Nothing, As You Like it, to pantomime, burlesque, and farce; from Drury-lane drama, with its multitudinous and elaborate paraphernalia, to Good for Nothing in its humbleness. And when one can see arising many of our best young actors to-day from a provincial servitude under my banner, when I can number amongst them an Irving, a Terry, and many a one that now adorn the London theatres, I can but rejoice that though sorrow is oft endured in the night of a summer season, joy cometh in the morning of after years."

SENTENCE of eighteen months' hard labour was passed at the Central Criminal Court on the 24th ult. on William Cecil Watson, who was convicted of obtaining various sums of money by fraud. The prisoner was alleged to be the manager of the "Northern Dramatic Touring Syndicate," and the evidence showed that he had for many months, under pretence of finding engagements for aspirants to theatrical fame, been guilty of heartless frauds, in some cases upon young women who were almost without money for the necessaries of life.

PRESENTATION TO MR. DUDLEY BENNETT.

To mark the first anniversary of Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett's management of the Alexandra Theatre, a presentation was made to him on Tuesday evening, subscribed for by a number of residents of Stoke Newington and neighbourhood.

The presentation took place on the stage at the end of the second act of Les Cloches de Corneville, which is being played at the Alexandra this week.

Dr. Montague Miller, as chairman of the committee, said that their intention was to show their appreciation of Mr. Dudley Bennett's worth by making him, on the first anniversary of his management of the theatre, a small presentation. Mr. Bennett had done good service by allowing the free use of the house for a benefit performance on behalf of the Metropolitan Hospital, in Kingsland-road, by which the sum of about £100 was raised. He had also granted the use of the theatre for a special entertainment in aid of the Metropolitan Police Orphanage. He would now call upon the Mayor of Stoke Newington to make the presentation, which took the form of an illuminated address, inscribed on vellum, and handsomely framed.

Mr. W. H. Savery, J.P., Mayor of Stoke Newington, said that a rumour reached him about a year ago that there was a prospect that the Alexandra would close. If this had happened it would have been a bad thing for Stoke Newington, not only because the inhabitants would have been deprived of much excellent amusement, but also because the lessee of the theatre was one of the largest ratepayers in the borough. The Mayor then read the address, which was as follows:

"H. G. DUDLEY BENNETT, ESQ.

"Dear Sir,—A number of residents of Stoke Newington and neighbourhood, representing, it is to be believed, the feeling of all theatre-goers in North London, desire to mark the first anniversary of your management of the Alexandra Theatre by conveying to you on this special occasion their sincere congratulations upon the result of your exertions during the past year. It is felt that the brilliant way in which you have sustained the reputation of this popular theatre, and the zeal you have exhibited to ensure the comfort and enjoyment of the public, deserve some recognition. We therefore trust that you will accept this illuminated address, not only as a mark of our appreciation of your work in the past, but also as a token of our best wishes for your future prosperity.—Yours sincerely,

"Committee—F. Montague Miller, L.R.C.P. Lond., M.R.C.S. (Chairman), H. Gee Moore, L.D.S. Dublin (Hon. Treasurer), Henry Woodcrson (Hon. Secretary), B. Dardenne, W. Herbert Bishop, Henry Dean, H. Sheffield, H. Dacres Smith, W. Dunks Sievey, J. R. Spratling."

The address was also signed by the Mayors of Stoke Newington and Islington, Messrs. T. Hart-Davis, M.P., Claude G. Hay, M.P., Alderman W. B. Trick, and many others.

The Mayor of Stoke Newington, in making the presentation, complimented Mr. Bennett upon having so well sustained the reputation of the theatre. It was considered that he deserved some recognition for what he had done; and they desired him to accept this illuminated address as a mark of their apreciation, and also as a token of their best wishes for his future prosperity.

Mr. Dudley Bennett, in reply, said he was afraid he was not able adequately to thank them for this magnificent testimonial. In it he recognised the kindly and generous expression of their appreciation of his work during the past twelve months. All he could say was that he should endeavour to maintain, and if possible, to raise the high standard to which the Alexandra had attained. A working man was useless without his tools, and a theatrical man could do little without a good staff. He was pleased to say that his staff was one of the best in London, and had greatly assisted him in the management of the theatre. More particularly did his remarks have reference to his hard-working manager, Mr. T. J. Robinson, whom he desired to personally and publicly thank for his loyal and energetic support. Having mentioned several important engagements which he had made for the coming season, Mr. Bennett expressed his obligations to the Mayor of Stoke Newington for his attendance, which, by reason of his office, had added dignity to the proceedings. One could not command success, but he could promise to do his best to deserve it; and he relied upon their generous patronage in the future.

"CUPID'S DREAM,"

A Fifteen Minutes' Interlude, by Henry Austin, Produced at the New Palace Pier Theatre,
Brighton, on Monday, May 28, 1906.

Edwin ..... MR. HENRY AUSTIN
Christina ..... MISS CICELY WADE

The scene is laid in a flat in Mayfair, occupied by Edwin, a bachelor. Edwin is engaged to Christina, an actress at the Loyalty Theatre, and they are to be married next day. As the curtain rises Edwin is seen getting his things together, but he is soon agreeably surprised to receive a visit from Christina. He had fallen in love with the young actress while she was playing in Cupid's Dream, and Christina wishes him to go to the theatre that evening to see her final appearance in the piece. Edwin refuses, and Christina makes a bet with him of £50 to a farthing that she will make him see her "act" for the last time. They part, and Edwin soon afterwards hears a knock at the door. He is short-sighted, and cannot find his glasses, Christina having taken them away with her. His visitor is a French dancer (Christina in disguise), who makes him flirt and drink brandy. Another knock is heard at the door, and the dancer says her husband, a German officer, has come to demand satisfaction. Christina pretends to hide in the lift, but rushes from the room, appears again disguised as the husband, and, fighting a duel with Edwin, is defeated and apparently wounded. On the sham husband's retreat Edwin is further surprised by a smart messenger boy (Christina once more disguised), who brings a note from Christina telling him all is over between them, as she has heard that he has revived his old habits of flirting, drinking, and fighting. Edwin finds his glasses, which Christina has brought back. He realises that he has been duped, and that he has seen his intended "act" for the last time. Christina wins her bet, and all ends happily.

The interlude proved very interesting and amusing. Mr. Henry Austin gave a capital portrayal of Edwin, and Miss Cicely Wade displayed great skill in her treatment of the character of Christina.

MR. FRANCIS H. BULL, a clever scenic artist, who during the last few years has made rapid strides in his profession, has opened a new department in theatrical and music-hall advertising, and is able to supply managers with beautiful and original art posters (pictorial or letterpress) for London or provinces. These posters (transparent if necessary) may be changed weekly at reasonable rates by contract. The new department is under the direction of Fredk. H. Strachan, to whom all applications should be addressed at 289A, Brixton-road, S.W. Mr. Bull's head office and the painting rooms are at 4, Lower Bland-street, Great Dover-street, S.E.

"EAST LYNNE" will be the Whitsuntide attraction at the Fulham Theatre. A powerful and carefully selected company includes Miss Lillian Dundas.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, May 31.—The Nouveautés have produced a farcical comedy which, during the summer months, may please strangers and provincials visiting the capital, whilst the good Parisian has fled the hot city and is cooling himself in the country or at the seaside. The somewhat complicated story could have easily been condensed into one act, but the authors have spun out the plot in order to enliven it with the necessary quid pro quos and imbroglios. Simone Herbelot, a pretty woman, has run away with Mérivel, her chauffeur, and her husband is after her. Unfortunately, the runaways' motor-car breaks down, and Simone and Mérivel put up at a country inn, where they find themselves in the midst of a wedding. It is not a country wedding, and has been brought about in rather a strange manner A certain Vicomte Prunier, a ruined nobleman, advertised for a heiress, who, in exchange for his title, would bring him her money. The lady who offered herself is Mlle. Loulou de Croix-Marie, a pretty girl, possessed of a big fortune, and of a first-class family. But she accepted the Vicomte because, being stage-struck, she wanted to marry a gentleman to whom she would give the disposal of all her money provided he would let her do as she pleased. The Vicomte having accepted all her conditions, it was further agreed that once married he would let her depart at once without trying to see her again. As to claiming marital rights, there could be no question of such a thing, as, immediately after the marriage ceremony, the bride would disappear for ever. It so happens that Simone Herbelot and Loulou are old friends, but they have no opportunity to exchange many confidences, inasmuch as both are terribly excited, one by the dread of seeing her husband turn up, and the other because it is her wedding day. For all that, Loulou finds time to save her friend. Her marriage will only be a legal formality, for the Vicomte has even promised not to raise her veil after the ceremony.

At Loulou's suggestion Simone therefore, dons the former's bridal dress, and when Herbelot arrives he does not recognise his wife with her face hidden behind the thick veil. He even offers to act as the Vicomte's best man. It is further arranged that Mérivel will wait with his motor at the door of the town hall, and whilst pretending to carry off the bride it really is Simone whom he brings back to her home, where her husband will find her in the next act. The story might well finish here; but there are many amusing incidents that fill the next two acts. Everything ends happily. Herbelot thinks his wife a paragon of virtue; whilst Loulou's madness for the stage having considerably abated, she is delighted to live with her husband, who turns out to be a clever, amusing man, likely to make her happy. It was brightly played by M. Torin, an ideal chauffeur; by M. Colombey, the mystified husband; by Mlle. Milo d'Arcylle, a sweet Loulou; and Mlle. Gense, intensely funny as the good-natured woman with a tendency towards flirtation

"LE REFORMATEUR,"

Play in three acts, by M. Edouard Rod,
Produced at the Œuvre, on May 28.

Jean-Jacques Rousseau ..... M. CAMILLE BERT
Le Professeur Montmolin ..... M. JEHAN ADES
D'Ivernois ..... M. J. MAREY
Moultou ..... M. TRAMONT
Daniel Muller ..... M. LUGNE-POE
Le Colonel de Pury ..... M. MARC ROLAND
Thérèse Levasseur ..... MLLE. DASTY
Isabelle d'Ivernois ..... MLLE. CARMEN DERAISY

In this fearlessly written play M. Rod asks us to solve the problem whether we are justified in condemning a man who does not follow the precepts he preaches. M. Rod had already published a volume dealing with the same subject, called "L'Affaire Jean-Jacques Rousseau." Compelled to leave France, despite the protection of the Duc de Luxembourg, Jean-Jacques hoped he would be safe in the Republic of Geneva. But the authorities there became alarmed at the advanced ideas expressed in "Emile" and "Le Contrat Social," and the unfortunate author was obliged to seek refuge in Motiers, which belonged to the King of Prussia. It is from there that in his "Lettres écrites de la Montagne" he replied to the Geneva authorities. But a clique attacked him and drove him to Saint-Pierre, whence he had to go to England and seek protection from his friends in London. In his play M. Rod shows us Jean-Jacques Rousseau at Motiers in 1765. Everybody thinks he has been leading the life of a saint and that he was slandered by his enemies. Thérèse Levasseur, however, knows better, and in a terribly painful scene she reproaches him with being a hypocrite. He passes her off as his servant, and she has been his mistress for over twenty years. He advises mothers to nurse their own children, and he has sent his five children to the Foundling Hospital. Thérèse does not want to make these facts known, which would injure his reputation; but the parsons, and Voltaire, Rousseau's inveterate enemy, undertake the work. This conflict between Rousseau's teachings and the life he led constitutes the interest in the piece, but this interest is potent. We are deeply moved when we hear the great man replying to the reproaches levelled at him by the indignant Thérèse, and listen to his answer to Daniel Muller and to the infuriated mob who besiege his house. "Do not think of me," he says, "but of my works. Ah! do not condemn them. They will guide your sons, and prevent them from falling into the same errors that spoiled my life. My books will dispel the darkness kept up by fanaticism and superstition, they will open a new road to the future generations." But the multitude cannot make the subtle distinction between the morality of an author and the morality of his work. Rousseau is obliged to flee, but Rod, the author, gives him his absolution. "Alas!" he says, "when we see great men compromise their ideas by their actions; when we see their faults exposed to the world; we can only pity them . . . and love them nevertheless." The work, which created a deep impression, was admirably acted.

The Palais-Royal have added to their nightly programme a little one-act "revue," by MM. Rip and Paul Ardot, which raised roars of laughter. A young nobleman writes to his family that he has been sent to prison for one month for having resisted the police during the church inventories manifestations. The truth is that he spends a quiet four weeks with Mlle. Liane. And we assist at a conversation in which the Roosevelt marriage, King Alfonso's wedding, the 1st of May incidents, the new plays, &c., are passed in review. It is intensely funny, and met with a deserved success.

"THE YOUNG LIEUTENANT," a new comic opera (music by R. A. Smith, jun., and libretto by Herbert Dawson), was produced by amateurs at the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on Monday.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

MR. J. L. TOOLE is lying seriously ill at Brighton, but a reassuring telegram received from his nephew on Friday stated that there is no immediate danger. Mr. Toole, who has for some years past suffered severely from trouble with his eyes, sought a return to health both at Margate and at Brighton, and up to recently was frequently to be seen taking a ride in his bath chair on the parade of the latter seaside resort. The veteran comedian undoubtedly felt the loss of his life-long friend, Sir Henry Irving, very acutely, and in his present illness he will have the heartfelt sympathies not only of his professional comrades but of the British public in general.

ALTHOUGH various strictures have been passed by some of our contemporaries upon the L.C.C. Theatres Committee, no spirit of resentment has been manifested by that body to the profession at large. Proof of this statement may be found in the fact that the chairman was among those present at the dinner given in aid of the Royal General Theatrical Fund on the 24th ult., at which Mr. Arthur Bourchier so ably presided. The sum of £1,000, the amount realised by the dinner, is a magnificent contribution to the Fund's resources, and a tribute alike to Mr. Bourchier's personal popularity and the generosity of his supporters.

MR. E. S. WILLARD has brought to a close his brilliantly successful tour in America and Canada, and sailed on Thursday from Montreal for England, being timed to arrive in Liverpool on Saturday next. Audiences throughout his tour have been large and demonstrative, and social honours have been literally showered upon the eminent actor, whose services as a lecturer were eagerly sought after by the leading schools and colleges in the States.

THE matinée of Captain Swift, given by Mr. Beerbohm Tree at His Majesty's Theatre on the 22nd ult. in aid of the Royal Free Hospital, resulted in a sum of over £1200 being added to the funds of that institution. Mr. Tree not only, with all the other artists, gave his services, but also placed his theatre, entirely free of expense, at the disposal of Princess Louise Augusta of Schleswig-Holstein, and the ladies' association of the hospital, by whom the entertainment was organised.

THE Ellen Terry Matinée, at which the King and Queen have promised to be present, is assuming such vast proportions as to threaten to extend from mid-day until far into the evening. To the phenomenal list of attractions already announced in this column, other unique features have been added, including the representation of Trial By Jury, in which the twelve good men and true will be impersonated by leading dramatists, with Mr. A. W. Pinero as foreman. The bridesmaids will include Misses Louie Pounds, Adrienne Augarde, Kate Cutler, Zena Dare, May de Sousa, Agnes Fraser, Gertie Millar, Mollie Lowell, Gertrude Kingston, Olive Morrell, Denise Orme, Florence Smithson, Gabrielle Ray, Olive May, and Ruth Vincent.

BY Miss Terry's express wish Madame Melba will sing the Mad Scene from Lucia, and Madame Clara Butt and Signor Caruso, accompanied by the Maestro Tosti, will also take part. Madame Duse has wired, saying that within the next two or three days she hoped to arrange to appear.

THE souvenir programme is to be of a permanent character, and takes the form of a book which could be included in any library. It will be under the art editorship of Mr. W. Nicholson, who will design the cover. A number of reproductions will be given from pictures and sketches of the well-known characters in which Miss Ellen Terry has appeared, namely, "Imogen," by Sir Alma Tadema, R.A.; "Lady Macbeth," by Mr. John Sargent, R.A.; "Olivia," by Mr. Edwin Abbey, R.A.; "Beatrice," by Mr. Bernard Partridge; "Nance Oldfield," by Mr. James Pryde; the "Much Ado About Nothing" dance, by Mr. Byam Shaw; "Lady Teazle," by Mr. William Orpen; and "Mamilius," by Mr. W. Nicholson. The title page and the headings of the various items will be designed by Mr. Walter Crane. A biographical sketch, giving in sequence the many parts Miss Terry has played, is supplied by Mr. Austin Brereton.

THE Executive Committee would like it to be known that this tribute of the dramatic profession to Miss Ellen Terry is being entirely arranged by them, and, therefore, would suggest that Miss Terry should not be personally applied to, as it is impossible for her to answer the very large number of letters she receives.

MR. ARTHUR BOURCHIER has kindly lent the Garrick Theatre for the annual Charterhouse matinée, on Monday, June 25. Mr. Alan Mackinnon is supervising the entertainment, which will include Mr. Bourchier as Shylock in the Trial Scene from The Merchant of Venice and Mr. Forbes Robertson in a short scene from Hamlet. Mr. Cyril Maude will appear as Dr. Pangloss, and in an excerpt from The Clandestine Marriage; and among other items will be the first public representation of a one-act play entitled Gran'fer Coquesne, by Mr. Aubrey Smith, who will appear in the principal part.

MISS MARY MOORE has just returned from a short rest on the Continent, and will make her welcome reappearance in her original part of Mrs. Gorringe in Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace, at the Coronet Theatre, on Monday, to be followed by a week at the Camden Theatre. Miss Moore will be supported by Miss Marie Illington, Miss Lilias Waldegrave, and Mr. Yorke Stephens in the part originally played by Sir Charles Wyndham.

MR. EDWARD TERRY has been elected Upper Warden of the Turners' Company. We are unable to discern any immediate connection between the art of turnery and that of the stage, but Mr. Terry has many social activities apart from the practice of his profession, and each position he successfully adorns.

MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER'S production of His House in Order at the St. James's is so greatly successful that an uninterrupted run until the end of the year may be anticipated. Mr. Pinero's play will be followed by a new dramatic version by Mr. Stephen Phillips of Faust, in which Mr. Alexander will play the title-rôle.

MISS FAY DAVIS and MR. GERALD LAWRENCE were married on Tuesday at Dorchester, Massachusetts, U.S.A. The wedding took place at the home of Miss Davis' sister, and was witnessed only by members of the family. On the following day Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence sailed for the Mediterranean.

THE bride, who is an American by birth, established herself as a favourite in London at the Criterion, where she made her appearance in The Squire of Dames on Nov. 5, 1895. Shortly afterwards she went to the St. James's, to take up the part of the foreign girl in The Princess and the Butterfly. Subsequent appearances were made in The Prisoner of Zenda, The Tree of Knowledge, and Old Heidelberg; while her performance in Iris, which constituted her last assumption at the St. James's, may be numbered amongst her most brilliant achievements. Mr. Lawrence will be well remerbered for his excellent work at the Haymarket and His Majesty's. For some years past he was leading man for Sir Henry Irving, and played the King in Becket on the night the great actor died

MR. T. P. O'CONNOR introduced his Bill to amend the law relating to musical copyright in the House of Commons on Monday, when it received its first reading. The Bill provides that every person who sells, exposes, offers, or has in his possession for sale, any pirated music, shall be guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction, and be liable to imprisonment with hard labour for one month, or to a fine not exceeding £5, or on a subsequent conviction, to two months' imprisonment, or a fine not exceeding £10. Any constable may take into custody, without warrant, any person who sells, exposes, offers, or has in his possession, for sale, any pirated music. The remarkable feature about the proposed measure is the unanimity with which it is supported in all parts of the House. The Bill has been favourably received in both Ministerial and Opposition circles, and is backed by Mr. Balfour, Mr. J. Redmond, Sir Alfred Thomas, Mr. J. W. Crombie, Mr. Enoch Edwards (chairman of the Trade Union group), Mr. Keir Hardie (chairman of the Labour Party), and Mr. T. W. Sloan. The second reading is provisionally fixed for Thursday next.

THE Musical Publishers' Association, whose efforts towards securing this necessary reform have been unceasing, are doing all in their power to assist the passing of the Measure. "The Government are favourable to the Bill," said one of the officials of the Association, "and, though they could not see their way to make it a Government measure, they will do what they can to facilitate its progress through Parliament. In the event of the Bill being blocked by some obstinate member who is opposed to it, a deputation will wait on the Premier, and urge him to adopt the measure as a Government one. So strong is the feeling in the House in favour of this Bill that I believe he would agree to the deputation's request. Let us hope, however, that the Bill will not be blocked."

MISS BATEMAN (Mrs. Crowe) found her dressing-room full of flowers on the first night of Colonel Newcome at His Majesty's Theatre. Some of the most beautiful were sent by past and present students at the Academy of Dramatic Art, who chose this charming way of welcoming Miss Bateman back to the scene of her many triumphs.

THE Secretary of the Actors' Benevolent Fund has received from Mr. Beaumont, of the Lyceum Theatre, Sheffield, the sum of £1 18s., being the amount collected in the Fund's box at that theatre. Miss Ellen Terry has forwarded a further sum of five pounds, which she has collected by means of her autograph, and Mr. Lewis Waller a further amount of £3 16s. 3d. from the same source.

MESSRS. SCHUBERT have obtained from Mr. William Greet and Miss Lena Ashwell the American and Canadian rights in Messrs. Claude Askew and Edward Knoblauch's successful play, The Shulamite, now being performed at the Savoy. Miss Ashwell is to appear, under the Messrs. Schubert's management, in the part of Deborah Krillet throughout the United States, and will sail for America towards the end of September, after a limited tour with the piece in the principal provincial towns.

AMONG the successful pupils of Miss Kate Flinn who are achieving fame at the present time are the Misses Hebe Dennis and Ruby Cobbett. Mrs. Lane-Joynt, who will be remembered as having played in the Drury Lane pantomime, has recently joined Miss Flinn's Academy.

MESSRS. SHINTON AND GREENWOOD conclude, at the Royalty Theatre, Chester, next week, a tour of forty-five consecutive weeks with Mr. Wm. Hibbert's successful military drama, The Price of Her Soul. The autumn tour opens at the Grand Theatre, Brighton, on August Bank Holiday.

"COUNT HANNIBAL," the powerful historical play, adapted by Messrs. Freeman Wills and Frederick Langbridge from Stanley Weyman's novel of the same title, is meeting with the greatest success as presented by Mr. Norman V. Norman and Miss Beatrice Wilson. Last week at Brighton the house was crowded at every performance, and the play was greeted with great enthusiasm on all sides.

MR. F. R. BENSON and his No. 1 company will be the Whit week attraction at Tunbridge Wells Opera House. This is now an annual visit, and every year the business is increasingly satisfactory.

PERHAPS the most successful primary tour of any unknown musical comedy will come to an end at Aldershot next week, when Mr. Carey calls in his No. 1 After the Ball company. The piece is to be still further improved by reducing the number of acts to two instead of three, and new dresses and scenery will be provided. Managers who have booked this production will find themselves in luck.

MISS ADA REHAN, who was to have sailed for England from New York last Saturday, was prevented by sudden indisposition. Happily, the celebrated actress's illness is not serious, and the doctor anticipated that she would not be confined to the house more than a week.

MR. HUNTLEY WRIGHT will be the principal comedian of the new Chinese comic opera which Mr. George Edwardes has now in rehearsal for early production at the Prince of Wales's Theatre. The cast will also include Miss Adrienne Augarde, Miss Denise Orme, Mr. Fred Emney, Mr. W. H. Berry, and Mr. Maurice Farkoa.

SIR CHARLES WYNDHAM AND MR. T. P. O'CONNOR, M.P., were among the distinguished company present at the reception given on Tuesday by the Society of Women Journalists, at 47, Brook-street, Grosvenor-square, the beautiful home of Mrs. Bland Sutton. Mrs. T. P. O'Connor (president), Mrs. Charles Greenwood (vice-president), and Mrs. H. T. Bulstrode (hon. secretary) assisted the hostess in receiving the guests.

MR. ARTHUR LAW RAYNOR, who has just completed booking Mr. Bert Coote's autumn and spring tours of The Fatal Wedding, has been re-engaged by him for business-management for another year. This makes Mr. Raynor's eighth engagement with Mr. Coote.

MR. BALIOL HOLLOWAY, who made a most successful first appearance as Hamlet at the Coronet Theatre last Saturday night, may claim to be one of the youngest leading men in the profession, having but lately turned twenty-three years of age. Commencing at the age of sixteen, Mr. Holloway has since played close upon 140 parts.

MR. FREDERICK JARMAN'S new musical comedy, entitled The Lucky Girl, will be produced at Weymouth on July 12, with a short tour to follow. The music is by Mr. Harry Richardson and Chevalier Legrand.

MR. HILLIARD VOX will tour Alaska in the autumn, commencing Aug. 6 at the Theatre Royal, Stockton-on-Tees. Alaska, which has made a great success in America, has a startling volcanic effect in Act III. Mr. Vox has selected an excellent company, chosen for their knowledge of American drama, and has a capital tour booked. Mr. Albert Rogers will produce and stage-manage the piece.

MR. H. N. WENMAN, who has just concluded a successful tour in America with Richard Mansfield, sailed from New York on Wednesday last by the ss. Teutonic for a brief visit home. Mr. Wenman played in San Francisco only the night before the terrible earthquake; the hotel in which he resided being completely devastated only a few hours after his departure.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY has arranged several flying matinées of Boy O'Carroll during his brief season at the Imperial, and the first of these took place on Thursday, when the company journeyed to the Theatre Royal, Brighton, returning to London in time for the evening's performance. Brighton theatre-goers, who up to now have only seen the more serious and dramatic side of Mr. Harvey's acting, were curious to learn how so different a character as that of the witty, boisterous young Irishman would suit him, and the ovations at the end of each act soon showed that there was no doubt as to the verdict. Mr. Harvey and his company will take a trip to the Richmond Theatre on Wednesday next, and a week later the Crystal Palace Theatre will be similarly favoured. As originally announced, the season at the Imperial will terminate on June 16, in order to allow Mr. Harvey to take a holiday before starting on his autumn tour. Boy O'Carroll, it is announced, now commences every evening at 8.30 instead of 8.15.

"DOROTHY O' THE HALL" registered its 50th performance at the New Theatre on Monday, and, judging by the enthusiastic applause that greeted the piece, it is likely to rival its predecessor, The Scarlet Pimpernel, in popularity. Mr. Fred Terry is an ideal lover, brave, reckless, and convincing, whilst Miss Julia Neilson's performance is characterised by all the beauty and charm with which she is so well endowed.

AN amusing incident occurred at the Grand Theatre, Islington, on Monday evening, when the new play, The Scarlet Clue, was presented by Miss Grace Warner and company. At an exciting moment in the second act, when the hero is falsely accused of theft, a tabby cat walked on the stage with an inquiring air, as if asking for information as to what all the trouble was about. The audience laughed, but the cat, who exhibited no signs of stage fright, walked deliberately across the boards and made a dignified exit on the prompt side.

MR. JOHNNIE DANVERS, who is playing with much success the part of Paul P. Stanford, the American millionaire in Castles in Spain, at Terry's Theatre, will, by permission of Mr. Arthur Collins, appear in a special rôle in the Christmas pantomime of Mother Goose at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, but will return to Drury Lane the following season

MME. ALICE BARTH, the veteran operatic vocalist, who for six consecutive seasons has stage-managed the musical recitals at the Royal Victoria Hall, Waterloo-road, will take her farewell benefit on her retirement from that position at the Victoria Hall on Thursday evening, June 7. A feature of the performance will be the production, in operatic form, of Sterndale Bennett's cantata, The May Queen. Selections from Faust and The Daughter of the Regiment will also be given, and a concert, which will include Dr. Reid's overture to The Tempest, will be contributed to by many well-known vocalists and instrumentalists.

MR. WILLIAM HAVILAND sails for South Africa to-day by the Kildonan Castle, and will open at Cape Town on July 9 for a twenty-four weeks' tour. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Haviland (Miss Edyth Latimer), and Mr. Louis Mercanton, who will join Mr. Haviland as stage-manager. The company, which includes Mr. Kenneth Rivington, Mr. Edmund Waller, Mr. Cecil Calvert, Mr. J. Hampton, Mr. Cecil Brooking, and Miss Lola Duncan, will sail for Cape Town a fortnight later.

THE towns to be visited are Cape Town, Durban, Johannesburg, and Pretoria, and the plays presented will include Mr. Comyns Carr's version of Oliver Twist and Mr. Kinsey Peile's adaptation of The Man Who Was, revivals of Macbeth and Othello, and the production of a new play of the Restoration period, specially written by Mr. G. R. Sims. On Mr. Haviland's return to England, in the early part of next year, he intends to tour Mr. Sims' play in the English provinces.

MR. FRANK WITHERS has been engaged by Mr. Charles Macdona as business-manager for the autumn tour.—We are asked to state that The Dean's Dilemma, the little play recently performed at the Garrick, was taken, with the consent of the author, from a story by Mr. Halliwell Sutcliffe.—Mr. Fred Knight has been engaged by Mr. Charles Steuart to play his old part of Mr. McCullum in Our Flat at the Kennington Theatre during Whit-week.

MR. ARTHUR VEZIN has been engaged by Mr. Leonard Pagden to play Simeon Strong in the Idler at Brighton, commencing June 17, after which he will rejoin Mr. Louis Calvert's Sunday company, playing his old part of Jacky.

MISS EDNA MAY, who was out of the cast of The Belle of Mayfair at the Vaudeville for a few days last week owing to a severe cold, resumed her rôle on Monday, and received a hearty greeting. A new scenic arrangement has been provided for one of Miss May's songs in the first act, the balcony of a summer-house now being utilised for its delivery. The second act contains a new scene for Miss May, who now also takes part in the song, "I know a girl."

MISS ITALIA CONTI has arranged an entertaining programme for the dramatic and musical recital which she will give at Stafford House on Thursday afternoon, July 5, by permission and under the special patronage of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland. Miss Marie Tempest, Madame Irma Saenger-Sethe (violinist), Mr. Harry Fragson, Madame Marie Brema, and Mr. Haydn Gunter, the Welsh violinist, will appear, and the programme will include a new duologue by Mrs. Craigie, in which Miss Conti and Mr. Graham Browne will take part; and a masque, entitled The Princess and the Stranger, written by Lady Alix Egerton, with music by E. Overbeck. The cast of the latter production will comprise Miss Lily Brayton, Miss Edith Wynne Matthison, Miss Pattie Hornsby, Miss Evelyn Marthèze, Mr. Harcourt Williams, and Mr. Henry Ainley.

MR. EADE MONTEFIORE is to introduce his "summer seasons" in Suburbia, having entered into arrangements with Mr. Robert Arthur to supply the programmes for the Camden, Coronet, and Kennington Theatres, commencing on June 18. Mr. Montefiore will organise three companies to present Drury-lane and other spectacular plays in sequence at each theatre. The headquarters of the enterprising entrepreneur will be at the Kennington Theatre, where letters to him should be addressed. This year completes Mr. Montefiore's twentieth summer season, and it is to be hoped that his work may earn general encomiums, and reap a rich reward.

THE King honoured the performance of Madama Butterfly at the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, on Saturday night, and on Monday was present with Princess Christian, Princess Victoria, and Princess Louisa Augusta of Schleswig-Holstein, at the performance of Tannhäuser, this making His Majesty's eighth visit during the current season.

MR. ALFRED SMYTH-PIGOTT, general-manager of the F. R. Benson companies, and London manager of the Ipswich Lyceum, Ltd., who has been booking the attractions at this theatre for the past eighteen months, has now relinquished this work, owing to the fact that the directors have appointed a resident general-manager in the person of Mr. Leonard Grey. The directorate have congratulated Mr. Smyth-Pigott on having introduced to Ipswich so many excellent attractions during his connection with the theatre.

THE honour of a State funeral was conferred upon Ibsen, whose interment was arranged to take place yesterday (Friday), King Haakon being present. The King of Denmark was to be represented by a special envoy, the British Government by Mr. S. Leech, the Chargé d'Affaires, and Sweden by the well-known author, M. Geijerstam, and the famous Shakespearean and Ibsen actor, M. Lindberg. The funeral cortège was to proceed from the Church of the Trinity, beautifully decorated for the occasion, to the Church of Our Saviour, in the graveyard of which the remains will rest. A memorial representation of three acts of Peer Gynt, with a prologue especially written by M. Collett Vogt, was announced for the evening in the National Theatre.

IN the Storthing at Christiania on the 25th ult., before the business on the paper was entered upon, the President made the following statement:—"Since the last sitting of the House our country has suffered a great loss by the death of one of her best sons, Henrik Ibsen. The people of Norway will ever feel deeply grateful to him for all he has given and taught us, and for the world-wide honour which through him has descended upon our country. In agreement with the Premier, I propose that Henrik Ibsen shall be buried at the expense of the State." The motion was unanimously carried.

BUSINESS and pleasure are to be agreeably combined this summer by a number of well-known players, who have organised a "commonwealth" with the object of touring Captain Robert Marshall's fantastic comedy, His Excellency the Governor. The company, which will start on June 11 at the Kennington Theatre, will include Mr. Lionel Mackinder, Mr. Lennox Pawle, Mr. Loring Fernie, Mr. H. Marsh Allen, Miss Janet Alexander, and Miss Ethel Matthews. It is interesting to learn that Mr. Mackinder, after such a long career as a Gaiety "hero," will play a "straight" part. After a week at the Coronet the company go to the Theatre Royal, Brighton, and in the course of the itinerary a new one-act play by Mr. Gerald Du Maurier will be produced. Mr. Arthur Bertram is the manager for the tour.

MR. MARSH ALLEN, who is one of the members of the "commonwealth," could not make up his mind, in the days of his boyhood, whether he would be a professional cricketer or an actor. That he was wise in choosing the latter profession is shown by the fact that he does not have to wait for the season to play, but keeps in work nearly all the year round. Although he had acted in London before, it was his appearance in Mr. Edward Terry's Sweet Lavender company, in the character of Clement Hale—a character created, by the way, by the popular draughtsman, Mr. Bernard Partridge—that made Mr. Allen's name as a really young juvenile lead. He has been called "the ideal stage lover."

MR. LENNOX PAWLE, another member of the enterprising little group, tells a good story against himself. Years ago, when he was the favourite comedian at the Pavilion Theatre, Mile End, he invited some friends from what Mr. Arthur Law calls "the only end of London"—the West End—to travel east to see him play. After the performance, as he took the ladies to their carriage, a small crowd of the patrons of the "Pav." gathered round and gave him a cordial greeting. Mr. Pawle smiled graciously, and accepted his friends' congratulations on his popularity with becoming modesty. As the carriage door closed, however, a shrill voice was heard from the middle of the crowd: "Good-night, ol' puddin'-face!"

A NEW thrill was added to the exciting episodes of Sherlock Holmes at the Grand Theatre, Leeds, on Monday, when a slight accident occurred which momentarily placed the daring detective in the power of his arch-enemy Moriarty. Mr. Henry Renouf was playing the part of Holmes, and while toying with his revolver in the scene with the "Professor" the weapon fell heavily upon the table and thence on the floor close to Moriarty. Holmes got his foot upon it, but had Moriarty chosen he could easily have seized the revolver and overpowered the detective; but Mr. W. F. Stirling, who impersonated the Professor, obligingly refrained from seizing his chance, and the situation was saved.

MR. HUGH FLEMING, who completes to-day his ninth year's engagement as advance director with Mr. George Musgrave's Belle of New York and Prince of Pilsen companies, returns from a brief recuperative visit to the Austrian Tyrol to take command of Mr. Frank Lawton's concert tour.

MR. FRANK LASCELLES, who has now thoroughly recovered from his long and serious illness, has found time, in spite of his engagement as Mr. Tree's understudy—by virtue of which he has played Nero with much acceptance—to continue his portrait-painting and sculpture, and is now at work on a bust of Lady Forbes of Inverernan in Coronation robes. Mr. Lascelles has recently completed a fascinating presentment of Miss Ethel Irving as Millamant in Congreve's The Way of the World, and his beautiful "Portrait of My Mother" in last autumn's exhibition will be remembered by many. Mr. Lascelles, who played Laertes to Mr. Tree's Hamlet in Shakespeare Week, is an old Oxford man and an enthusiastic rider and golfer.

"A GENTLEMAN OF ENGLAND," the romantic play by Ernest E. Norris and Fewlass Llewellyn, originally produced at the Elephant and Castle, is to be toured again in the autumn by Mr. Bernard J. Liell and Mr. F. C. Berridge. It may be remembered that this play had a successful tour of the suburbs last autumn, visiting, amongst other theatres, the Camden, the Grand, Fulham, &c.

CHIEF among the attractions at the Grand Bazaar which will be held in aid of the Great Northern Central Hospital at the Royal Albert Hall on June 26 and 27 will be the stall presided over by Mrs. Beerbohm Tree and Mrs. George Alexander. These ladies will sell hats and tulles, and will be assisted in their generous efforts to assist the hospital by Miss Ellen Terry, Miss Marion Terry, Miss Violet Vanbrugh, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, Miss Dorothea Baird, Miss Gertie Millar, Miss Constance Collier, Miss Edna May, Miss Lillian Braithwaite, and Miss Mary Moore.

MISS MARGUERITE CELLIER is just concluding a tour with Mr. Norman Macowan's company, in which she has been playing Lady Mary Carlisle in Monsieur Beaucaire and Lady Phyllis in A Soldier of Fortune.

MR. CLARENCE BURNETTE, who died on the 24th ult. at Salford Hospital, of Bright's disease, and was buried on Monday at Salford Cemetery, belonged to an old school of actors fast dying out, who were associated in their younger days with the stock company system. He was a member of the old Marylebone Theatre company, subsequently joining Mr. Arthur Vaughan's company in the well-known drama Under Two Flags. Mr. Burnette was the author of The Gambler's Wife, When a Man Hates, A Man in a Thousand (produced at the Royal, North Shields, Aug. 11, 1890, and first staged in London at the Surrey Theatre on March 7, 1892), and other plays with which he toured the provinces. Mr. Burnette was an excellent actor, and by reason of his kindly, genial disposition he was very popular with the members of his own profession.

MR. ADDISON BRIGHT died at Lucerne on Tuesday. One of the kindliest and cheeriest of men, an excellent critic, and a bright and attractive writer, he will be greatly missed in London theatrical circles, where he was very popular.

MR. CHARLES MACDONA, one of our most enterprising managers, is entering upon his autumn campaign in the country with a determination to succeed with his latest acquired piece, Mr. Popple of Ippleton, and (in addition to the special engagement of Mr. G. P. Huntley) has arranged for Miss Millie Legarde to appear as La Bolero. Other members of the cast are Miss Eva Kelly and Miss Nellie Hodson The latter artist, who has recently been starring in The School Girl, is the niece of Mrs. Labouchere (Miss Henrietta Hodson), who will be remembered by many present-day playgoers. Not only will this very strong cast be toured with the piece next autumn, but the entire London production has been secured, and will go on the road with them.

TWO companies of Mr. Popple will tour next autumn, and in addition to these there will be two companies of Three Little Maids, one company each of Mr. Hopkinson, The White Chrysanthemum, A Country Girl, The Toreador, A Chinese Honeymoon, Are You a Mason? and The Gay Parisienne. The entire production from the Criterion of The White Chrysanthemum will be travelled, and those who remember the beautiful scenes in this charming musical piece will have many opportunities of renewing their acquaintance with this delightful and most entertaining attraction. With such a batch of contributions to the "gaiety of the provinces" Mr. Charles Macdona will make a bold bid for public support.

A MAGNIFICENT week's business was done by the Moody-Manners Opera Company last week at the Crystal Palace. 10,560 people paid for admission to witness these performances, and hundreds were turned away last Saturday evening, when Mr. Charles Manners was called before the curtain to say a few words. Mr. Howard's spring season has now terminated, and it is a good omen that it should have finished with such splendid business after the successful opening by Sir Charles Wyndham. During the summer months it is Mr. Howard's intention to give one or two special flying matinées, the first being that of Mr. Martin Harvey and company on Wednesday, June 13th. The autumn season will commence in September.

MISS IRENE ROSS, the clever little actress whose physique and versatility enable her to play all sorts and conditions of boys' parts, has just been making a hit at the Lyric Theatre, Hammersmith, in the new melodrama, Good as Gold. Her part is called the Kipper, and she makes up most realistically—pale, shabby, woe-begone, with little grimy hands and bare feet. Irene Ross as herself is so unlike Irene Ross as the urchin in One Summer's Day, or Wallie in Two Little Vagabonds, that it is hard to believe it is the same person. She is gentle and diffident, but very ambitious and determined in her work. Her brother, Mr. Clive Ross, is travelling with Sherlock Holmes company.

MESSRS. VEDRENNE AND BARKER have achieved sufficient success with Captain Brassbound's Conversion to justify them in carrying on the run for an extra four weeks, so that Mr. Bernard Shaw's piece will now be played until Saturday, July 7. Miss Ellen Terry will appear at all performances in the part of Lady Cecily Waynflete

MISS MARY NEIL, who has been so successfully playing the star part in Mr. George Kirk's Her Luck in London, met with what might have resulted in a very serious accident on Wednesday at the Queen's Theatre, Liverpool. While taking a fourth call after a very trying act she came close to the footlights, and before warning could be given the act drop had descended on her head. The blow, however, was not so serious as it appeared, owing to the curtain being on a frame, and Miss Neil, after a few minutes, was able to reply to the repeated calls of the audience and to convince them that she had received no serious injury.

MR. ANDREW MOIR is taking a company on tour with a farcical comedy and a miniature grand opera, The Major's Double, in three acts, and The Gamester, composed by Aiulf Hjovard. A strong company has been engaged for the comedy, including Messrs. J. B. Gordon, Percy Marshall, James Danvers, W. B. Freear, Charles Hanbury, Misses Eily Helene, D. Roberts, Lilian Hallows. For the opera, which will be personally conducted by the composer, who is relinquishing his London season engagements for this purpose, Messrs. Andrew Ray, Charles Cautley, and Miss Dorothy Southgate have been secured. The tour, which is under the direction of F. Martin Morris, commences on Monday at the Theatre Royal, Belfast, after which Cork, Dublin, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Hull, and Brighton will be visited.

A PROFESSIONAL matinée of The Whirlwind, preceded by Undine, will be given at the Criterion on Tuesday, and applications for seats should be addressed to Mr. Arthur Whittaker. Mrs. Patrick Campbell has started rehearsals of the Hon. Mrs. Alfred Lyttelton's new play, The Macleans of Bairness, a romantic drama dealing with the Young Pretender, which is shortly to be produced. Mrs. Campbell's part will be that of an Italian girl.

THE vexed question of the moral character of Shylock has been taken up by Mr. Richard Mansfield, the eminent American actor, who has contributed to the discussion raised in a New York paper. "Shylock," says Mr. Mansfield, "was probably—presuming him to be an actuality—a good man and an honest merchant. He was all that until the wrongs suffered by his tribe in Venice and the personal abuse offered him warped his nature and engendered the desire for revenge. He then determined to square accounts with Antonio if he could. It becomes his one idea, his object in life, and when Lorenzo steals his daughter and, at the same time, robs him, and he falls, stunned by the magnitude of the disaster, this desire for revenge becomes thereafter a madness."

CONTINUING, Mr. Mansfield said: "Shylock is practically the only 'man' in the crowd. Antonio borrows money from the Jew and despises him whom he has wronged and reviled, but refuses to abide bravely by the terms of his contract. Shylock is Shakespeare's type and embodiment of revenge, and was so intended by him, just as Othello is his embodiment of jealousy, Macbeth, the murderer, and Romeo, the lover.

IN the Divorce Court on Monday, Mrs. Annie Field, otherwise Warner, an actress, asked that her marriage with Thomas Sutcliffe Field should be declared null and void. Plaintiff stated that she was married according to the Scottish law at the Royal Hotel, Coatbridge, Lanarkshire, when she had only been five days in Scotland. She said she was on tour with Mr. Kiddie's Bonnie Boy Blue company, and met Mr. Field at Blackpool in 1895. After touring the North of England, they arrived at Coatbridge with a pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, and plaintiff eventually consented to go through a form of marriage at the Royal Hotel, on Feb. 15, 1896. She was under the impression that she had been lawfully married till last year, when she came to this Court to ask for a judicial separation, and was informed that the ceremony was not lawful. A petition was then filed in order to get the question settled. Mr. Robert Campbell, a member of the Bars of Scotland and England, expressed the opinion that as the parties had only been in Scotland for five days when they went through the form of marriage, it would be null by Lord Brougham's Act. There was no defence, and Mr. Justice Bargrave Deane pronounced a decree of nullity, with costs.

Mr. Tree has scored yet another triumph; this time, not only over the difficulties of his task, but over adverse prophecies and hostile objections. His production of Mr. Michael Morton's version of "The Newcomes" at His Majesty's on Tuesday was an unalloyed success. Of course, in transforming the novel into a drama, the feelings of those to whom the book is an old familiar friend were certain to be wounded; but the majority of playgoers, not so reverent, will be able to take the play on its merits.

Into four acts is divided the phases of the Colonel's life. In the first he is flourishing in prosperity, rich in the possession of shares in the Bundlecumb bank, and surrounded by friends and flatterers. In this act, Clive Newcome's love for Ethel Newcome and his rivalry with the rich Lord Farintosh are "exposed"; and in it also takes place the episode of the Colonel singing "Wapping Old Stairs," and of Clive's indignant insult to Farintosh—who, in this case, takes the place of Barnes Newcome in the book. In the second act, at a ball at Lady Fareham's, Ethel, influenced by Lady Kew, refuses Clive; and Barnes Newcome, who has lied to the Colonel in order to keep his sister and Clive apart, announces her engagement to Lord Farintosh. The Colonel sternly reproaches Barnes with his treachery, calls for his carriage, and departs in dudgeon, Ethel fainting as the drop descends. The third act is concerned with the bank failure, and Clive's marriage with Rosey; and the fourth shows the martyrdom of the Colonel under the tyranny of Mrs. Mackenzie, Clive's mother-in-law. In the second scene of this act, in the courtyard of Greyfriars, the Colonel dies. Each of these acts is adorned with scenery which, elaborate as it is, is never excessive or obtrusive. Mr. G. Sackmann's interiors and Mr. Joseph Harker's ball-room and Greyfriars Courtyard are marvels of "building up"; but there is in them all an admirable harmony between the solid and the superficial, which gives a vivid sense of reality. In short, while nothing has been left undone to add to the effect of the production, there is no tendency to spectacle for spectacle's sake. All is in keeping with the general idea.

The same may be said of the acting all round. Mr. Tree's Colonel Newcome was an unanswerable reply to the anticipatory detractions which had appeared in print. Solvitur ambulando—the ability is proved by the performance. Our ideas of the Colonel's personal appearance are formed from the steel-plate illustrations to the early edition of "The Newcomes." Mr. Tree might have walked out of one of these, so exactly had he assumed the exterior of the personage. His fine reading was not without the touch of kindly humour with which Thackeray described the old warrior's character. The use of a picturesque bandana handkerchief, the dreadful seriousness with which the Colonel went through a set of the lancers, and other trivial touches, were admirably introduced; but these details never detracted in the least from the beauty and dignity of the embodiment. The keynote of the reading was a noble simplicity and elevation; and these were never so marked as in the pathetic scenes towards the close of the play. Irresistibly affecting was Mr. Tree's acting when the Colonel is harassed by the terrible "Old Campaigner"; and, in the concluding scene, in which he answers in imagination the call of the school-bell, the poignancy of sympathy created was almost painful in its intensity. The main merit of Mr. Tree's reading is its absolute freedom from caricature or "point-making." It is an absolutely natural creation; and in it Mr. Tree abandons every mannerism and every idiosyncracy. His Colonel Newcome is essentially and entirely artistic. To select any particular passage for special praise would be injudicious. It was the sustained "tone" of the picture that told—the unity and harmony of the conception that were precious. With all Mr. Tree's past achievements, his Colonel Newcome was a genuine revelation to his warmest admirers. Mr. Norman Forbes's Barnes Newcome had all the hard, base acuteness of the character of the novel, and was played with an effective emphasis and a deliberate decision which inevitably made their mark. Added to these qualities was a clever touch of pinchbeck dandyism, suggesting Barnes's attempt to imitate the exquisites with whom he mixed, and a venomous energy which was occasionally allowed to break through the surface polish of the worldling. Mr. Forbes had a critical task, and performed it with striking skill. It was a happy thought to entice Miss Bateman from her retirement to depict Lady Kew; and the performance which resulted was in every way admirable. The "precision of attack," which is one of the best virtues of the old school of acting, joined with the innate power of the artist, made her Lady Kew as strong, sharp, and cruel as could be desired. It was an embodiment not easily to be forgotten. Mr. Sydney Brough was cleverly cast as Lord Farintosh, and the rude exuberance of the stupid young nobleman was both sharply and amusingly emphasised. Miss Lilian Braithwaite treated the rôle of Ethel Newcome with delicate tact and just the necessary amount of feeling; and Mrs. Tree's Mrs. Mackenzie was very comical in the earlier acts, and very base and offensive later on when the real character of the mincing sycophant comes out. Miss Marion Terry's Madame de Florac was full of charm—sweet, gentle, and finely bred; and Mr. Lyn Harding's Fred Bayham was as boisterous, burly, and good-natured as the individual of the book. The remaining personages, more or less subordinate to the general interest, all had good representatives. Mr. James Hearn was duly overbearing and ill-tempered as Sir Thomas de Boots; and Mr. J. Fisher White gave a brisk embodiment of the Scotch surgeon, James Binney. Miss Marie Löhr enacted Rosey Mackenzie with marked intelligence; Mrs. E. H. Brooke was excellent as Mrs. Mason; and Miss Helen Robertson was a handsome and imposing Lady Fareham. One of the best performances of the evening was Mr. Basil Gill's Clive Newcome, full of youthful ardour, sentiment, and impulse; and Mr. William Day distinguished himself as Martin. There was great enthusiasm at the conclusion; and Mr. Tree, who was urgently summoned, said, "I do not make speeches on first nights as a rule. I will only say that I feel we have won." The audience heartily agreed with him.

We are informed by one of the leaflets issued in connection with Petronella that it is a "royal romance" on an up-to-date Spanish subject. We presume that this is a reference to the marriage of King Alfonso with Princess Ena, though we are bound to confess that, so far as the story of the play under review is concerned, it has but slight relationship, and can scarcely be said to have any bearing whatever on the Royal wedding in Madrid.

At the time of our witnessing the production the piece was suffering from the disabilities of a "first night," and perhaps all the members of the company have by now got into the hang of their parts, and that the author has seen fit to condense and make alterations in the play. On that assumption, this comic opera should attain a fair measure of success in the provinces.

Petronella, the daughter of the Governor of Fernando, is in love with Captain Phillippe Bravadura, of the Royal Dragoons. In the charge of the Governor is a prisoner of State, one Duc de Caceida, who is kept in custody in consequence of the suspicion that he is a Carlist leader. Captain Bravadura enables the Duc to escape from the fortress, and his efforts in this direction incur the serious displeasure of the Governor, who fears that when the Chief of the Secret Police asks for the prisoner, and finds that the latter has escaped from custody, he (the Governor) will be ruined. So, in order to save his fiancée's father from shame and disgrace, the gallant captain dons hat and cloak after the style of the recently-departed Duc. In that rôle he appears before and converses with the Marquis Circumvita, the chief of police. But the good Queen Cassilda has evinced an interest in the prisoner, and has further intimated her intention of visiting him at the fortress, one of her objects in so doing being, apparently, to induce him to realise the wickedness of the Carlist way. Well, of course she does not see the real Duc, but the disguised Dragoons captain. However, they get on very well, though it should be mentioned that the good Queen is herself acting in a somewhat similar manner, for she is hiding her identity while masquerading as the Duchess of Madrid. Later, they meet at the Royal Palace of Parragua, where all deceptions are revealed and all disguises thrown aside, and—all ends well.

Miss Zoe Gilfillan was graceful, affectionate, and vivacious in the rôle of Petronella, and two at least of her songs, notably "All My Life" and "The Old Moon," seemed to secure the wholehearted appreciation of the audience. Miss Marie Ault, as Step-Annie Flooretta Dossano, an "imported 'general' from a London 'ome," gave us a touch of Louie Freear, and tickled one's fancy immensely with her absurd antics and comical remarks. Her song, "An extra turn," was quite funny, and was rendered in good style. Mr. Broughton Black also brought humour into the play with his acting in the part of Sergeant Bodega, and his singing was distinctly meritorious, especially in the duet "All for the best." Mr. Harold Payne lacked—on the opening night, at least—those qualities of virility, youthful heartiness, and vigour which are required in the interpretation of such a part as that of Captain Bravadura. Possibly, however, by this time a better acquaintance with the character has conduced towards an improvement in Mr. Payne's representation. Mr. Payne has a tuneful, though not strong, voice, and he made a very fair attempt with "Shine on, night star," and in a duet, "Nothing," sung with Miss Alice René, who looked pretty, graceful, and majestic as the Queen. Mr. Harry Gribben gave us an admirable character-study in the part of the somewhat aged Governor of Fernando; and Mr. Fred Hill and Mr. Alfred J. Majilton suitably enacted the rôles of the Duc de Caceida and Marquis Circumvita respectively. The Four Arosas, described on the programme as a troupe of Spanish dancers specially engaged for the occasion, tripped the boards lightly and brightly and sprightly—the principal dancer being Miss Beatrice Ford—during the progress of the play, and there was a capable chorus. The mounting and dressing of the piece are praiseworthy.

MR. STEPHEN FISKE, the well-known dramatic critic, has contributed an interesting retrospect of the New York Stage in the Forties to the fiftieth anniversary number of Town and Country, a popular American periodical. An illustration of Madison Cottage, upon the site of which now stands the imposing Fifth-avenue, in Broadway, gives an excellent idea of the primitive state of New York City at that period. Since that time, says Mr. Fiske, "the prices at the theatres have crept up from seventy-five cent stalls and a sixpenny gallery to two dollar stalls and fifty cents in the family circle. Everything else has increased in price proportionately, and theatres are relatively no dearer than before, though they pay playwrights and actors much more liberally. The pit, to which English managers still adhere—giving the best part of the theatre at the lowest price—did not long survive outside the Bowery. I tried to introduce the all-stalls system at the fashionable St. James's Theatre, London, but the public and the Press protested."

AT Marlborough-street Police Court, on Saturday, James Preston, aged 51, a fruiterer, of Blackfriars-road, was charged, on remand, with having fraudulently obtained 1s. 6d. and 1s. 3d. in return for bogus tickets purporting to admit two persons to the New Theatre. Mr. Garrett, the manager of the theatre, said that five cases of the kind had come under his notice. The "tickets" were made from notepaper stolen from the theatre and cut down. A detective-inspector said that the prisoner was sentenced in January to a term of imprisonment for attempting to obtain theatre tickets by fraud. He declined to say how he became possessed of the theatre notepaper. Seven of the tickets had been sold. Mr. Kennedy passed sentence of six months' imprisonment with hard labour.

MRS. JORDAN'S letters, to the number of about 335, were sold at Sotheby's on Saturday for £335, just a sovereign apiece. Nine Shakespeare quartos, belonging to Mr. E. W. Hussey, made £2,086. "The Merchant of Venice," 1600, with the Roberts imprint, brought £460 against £315 for the finer Domville copy in 1897; "King Lear," 1608, the second edition, £395; and the "Midsummer Night's Dream," 1600, £280.

A NEW song entitled "John Bull's Babies," words by David James and music by Dr. Osmond Carr, will be introduced into the New Barmaid on Monday, at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester. The song will be sung by Mr. Leslie Austin.

A CHAT WITH CYRIL MAUDE.

It was only the other day, it seems, that everyone was wishing Mr. Maude well about his enterprise at the Avenue Theatre. Then down came the roof of Charing Cross Station on the theatre and the scheme, and Mr. Maude was immediately stricken with disappointment and heavy expenses. But, as he puts the finishing touches to his personal appearance as the kindly old Crimean in Shore Acres, at the Waldorf, he seems as cheerful and contented as if there were no such things as accidents.

"I am half Irish, you know," he remarks with a genial grin.

"Then you never suffer from nervous depression?"

"Oh, yes I do, sometimes. But it doesn't last long. Besides, you know, on the whole, I am lucky."

"You can say so, even after the Avenue accident."

"Yes, but mark what followed. Immediately after it occurred I was offered by the Waldorf management for my season here a handsome salary—I mustn't mention how much—and a liberal percentage on the receipts. Don't you call that luck? How I should have 'grizzled' if I had been walking about doing nothing."

MR. CYRIL MAUDE.

"Then there was my marriage. Wasn't that a piece of luck?"

"And there was your Haymarket success, when Under the Red Robe ran for 250 nights. And then there was The Marriage of Convenience, too—another success?"

"In which William Terriss played so splendidly. Poor Terriss. He had one peculiarity that is not generally remembered. He was very fond of lying in his dressing-room between the shows in a state of absolute nudity. Possibly his splendid health was partly attributable to these 'air baths.'"

"You had a good many successes at the Haymarket. There was The Little Minister, for instance."

"Yes—how well that went. We nearly killed poor Barrie at rehearsal. He and I were sitting as usual on a sort of little platform, built on to the front of the stage, from which we conducted the rehearsal. Unfortunately the railing that surrounded the platform was not of the strongest, and Barrie, who is fond of lolling about on chairs in extraordinary attitudes, leant heavily against it with his seat tilted up. Smash went the railing, and over he went with a crash, falling six or seven feet into the orchestra. We picked him up apparently lifeless, dismissed the rehearsal, carried him into my office, and laid him on the sofa. Happily he soon revived, and suffered no ill-effects. Hardly had this happened when we were visited by the reporter of an enterprising evening paper. 'I hear, he began, 'that Mr. Barrie has met with an accident.' 'Oh, it's nothing,' I replied, cheerily, 'only a severe shock.' 'What!' exclaimed the disappointed emissary, 'no blood!'

Mr. Cyril Maude gives rather an amusing description of his first theatrical performance. When he was a lad of eighteen his family took a house at Dieppe for six months, and he was sent every day to study French with one Monsieur le Pasteur.

"One day, when I had been working with him for three or four weeks, he asked me what I was going to make my profession.

"'Comédien,' I replied.

"'Comment! Comédien? Etes-vous fou? I am sure you have not the slightest idea how to act!'

"Of course I felt piqued, and as I walked home that evening I just wondered if there were not some way by which I could show the old man that I could act if I chose.

"The Pasteur had a resident pupil of the name of Bishop, a nice young fellow, and to him I related my indignation.

"'Of course you can act,' he said; so between us we concocted the brilliant idea that I should dress up as Bishop's aunt and go and call upon the Pasteur, with the ostensible view of sending another nephew to his excellent establishment. Overjoyed at the scheme I ransacked my mother's wardrobe, and finally dressed myself up to resemble a somewhat lean, cadaverous English old maid.

"I walked down the street to the house, and to my joy the servant did not recognise me. The old man received me with great cordiality and politeness. I told him in very bad French, with a pronounced Cockney accent, that I was thinking of sending another of my nephews to him if he had room. At this suggestion the Pasteur was delighted, took me upstairs, showed me all the rooms, and made quite a fuss over me.

"For two days I kept up the joke. Then it became too much for me, and as we were busily working at French verbs, in the curé's study, I changed my voice and returned to the old lady's Cockney-French intonations. The Pasteur glared at me, and then, clapping his hands to his head and bursting into laughter, he exclaimed:

"'Mais c'était vous, c'était vous la tante de Bishop?'

"It turned out he had written that morning to Bishop's real aunt, accepting her second nephew as a pupil, and arranging all the details of his arrival. How surprised the good lady must have been!"

FRENCH PLAYS AT THE ROYALTY.

Mr. Gaston Mayer, in his scheme for giving a summer season of French plays at the new and enlarged Royalty Theatre, will place upon the stage of that popular house a number of representative French pieces, and with them actors and actresses who have become famous therein. The répertoire of M. Coquelin aîné, who has in this country almost as large a following as Sarah Bernhardt or Réjane, is an extensive one, and, though the choice of pieces for his opening night on Monday was scarcely the best that might have been made, the programme, nevertheless, gave considerable pleasure to the famous comedian's many admirers. M. Coquelin first drew a warm tribute of admiration from Monday's large audience in the character of Noël, the faithful and tactful servitor in Madame Emile de Girardin's artless one-act drama, La Joie Fait Peur, which was adapted into English many years ago under the title of Joy is Dangerous. The idea of the little piece is to gradually break the joyful news to a doting mother that the sailor son she has mourned as dead is alive and well. He discovers himself to his sister and to the ancient servitor, who, with the help of his affianced bride, resort to a series of amiable stratagems to conceal the truth from his mater, who eventually discovers it for herself. Overcome with happiness, she finds relief in tears, but exclaims "Joy never kills!" The superb finish of M. Coquelin's art as a comedian, which is displayed in such plenitude in the part of Nöel, fully justified the revival of the old-fashioned play. Such a combination of humour and pathos is rare, and the performance was invested with a fidelity and naturalness that are entirely beyond praise. Mlle. Kerwich as the devoted sister Blanche was full of brightness and sympathy; Mmes. Bouchatal and Suzanne Devoyod were seen to advantage as the fond mother and the fiancée; and good support was forthcoming from MM. Maxime Capoul and Lefaur as Adrien and Octave.

Les Romanesques, the comedy, in three acts, by Edmond Rostand, was produced at the Comédie-Francaise on May 21, 1894, and established the fame of the author as a dramatist, whose brilliant gifts were recognised more fully later in his chef d'œuvre, Cyrano de Bergerac. Les Romanesques, it will be remembered, was adapted by "George Fleming," and produced at the Royalty on May 29, 1900, by Mrs. Patrick Campbell. The plot, briefly told, runs somewhat as follows:—Two middle-aged widowers, Bergamin and Pasquinot, who have been friends since boyhood, are next-door neighbours in the country, a hedge being the only separation between their estates.

One has a son, Percinet, the other a daughter, Sylvette, who seem to be made for each other, and their fathers have long since decided that the match is to take place. Being a very wideawake pair, however, the two chums come to the conclusion that, as the young people are "romanesque," like all of their age, they will probably kick against the marriage if it be forced upon them by their parents. So they devise a crafty plan of introducing the romantic element into the arrangement. When Percinet comes home from college, and Sylvette from her convent school, they find a wall built up in place of the hedge, and, to their further surprise, learn that Bergamin and Pasquinot have become bitter enemies.

Hitherto the youngsters had paid little attention to each other, but no sooner do they perceive that a feud as savage as the hostility of the Montagues and Capulets exists between their parents, than they take it into their heads to play Romeo and Juliet themselves. Perched on the wall, they fall in love, and roundly abuse the authors of their being, who laugh in their sleeve, while continuing to act the mutual hate business very naturally. To complete the stratagem, the old tricksters arrange an abduction, which will enable Percinet to reveal his heroism. An exactor called Straforel, with whom times are hard, is bribed to make a show of carrying off Sylvette, with the aid of a gang of ruffians, whereupon Percinet jumps over the wall, puts the ravishers to flight, fancies he kills their leader, and rescues his lady-love. The girl's father is so overcome by the young man's gallantry that he consents to give him his daughter, and becomes reconciled with his enemy.

In the second act the wall has been knocked down, both families live in the closest intimacy, and naturally soon begin to see rather too much of each other. Bergamin and Pasquinot resume the even current of their old friendship during the preparations for the marriage, but they tire before long of their reciprocal defects, fall out, and become enemies in earnest. Their animosity reaches such a pitch that they reveal to Sylvette the imposture of the pretended abduction, and the young girl, who has begun to be irritated by the dashing airs which her lover has given himself since that bold feat, is not sorry to tell him that it was all humbug. They fall out, and Percinet goes off in quest of amorous adventures to satisfy his taste for the romantic.

In the third act Straforel, who has not received payment of his little bill, sets matters right. The wall is being rebuilt, and he comes, disguised as a mason, to make fierce love to Sylvette, pretending that he is a nobleman, ready to carry her off. She is charmed with the prospect at first; but his protestations of passion take such an alarming form that she screams for Percinet, and her lover, who has been reduced to sad straits and rags by his romantic adventures, comes to her aid in the nick of time. Their marriage will take place immediately, and the two old friends will not fall out again. The piece is delightfully gay, sparkling with pleasant incidents, and highly entertaining, and is told in exquisite style.

As the actor-adventurer Straforel—a part originally created by M. de Ferandy—M. Coquelin swaggered with just the requisite air of bounce, and completely realised the comedy of the situations, especially in the last act. M. Jean Coquelin and M. Chabert made excellent comic capital out of the parts of the two fathers; Mlle. Fanny Aubel, who has quite a pretty way with her, won all hearts by her coquetry as Sylvette; and Percinet found an efficient exponent in M. d'Auchy.

Wednesday afternoon was devoted to Molière, the pieces selected being Tartufe and Les Précieuses Ridicules. M. Coquelin was seen once more in his favourite characters of Tartufe and Mascarille. He received excellent support from his son Jean, and from Mesdames Suzanne Devoyod, Bouchetal, and others.

Notre Jeunesse, the four-act comedy by Alfred Capus, was presented on Wednesday evening, with the following cast:—

Monsieur Briant ..... M. COQUELIN AINE
Lucien Briant ..... M. JEAN COQUELIN
De Clénord ..... M. DESJARDINS
Chartier ..... M. LEFAUR
Serquy ..... M. MAXIME CAPOUL
Davenay ..... M. D'AUCHY
Liverdon ..... M. CHABERT
Un Domestique ..... M. PERSON
Hélène Briant ..... MLLE. SUZANNE DEVOYOD
Laure de Roine ..... MME. BOUCHETAL
Lucienne ..... MLLE. GUERRAZ
Aline de Bernac ..... MLLE. KERWICH

The plot of Notre Jeunesse can be told in a few words. Lucien Briant, a rich manufacturer in Besançon, has accepted an invitation, with his young wife, Hélène, and his father, to spend a month at Trouville with Chartier, a bachelor, and Chartier's widowed sister. During their visit Lucienne, a young girl, comes to ask Chartier's assistance. Her mother, recently dead, always spoke of this friend of the girl's father as a good fellow, and Lucienne has come for advice. She tells him her story, and Chartier learns that she is the natural daughter of Lucien Briant, who has never seen the child. She must, however, be provided for, and Lucien consults his father as to what arrangement should be made. Briant père, who rules the household, arranges that a suitable allowance shall be made the young person if she will return to her native village. Lucienne is a charming girl, seventeen and sensitive. She refuses assistance so ungraciously offered, and decides to accept a berth in South America. Hélène Briant, Lucien's wife, who is tired of the torturing tyranny of her father-in-law, forces her husband to give his daughter a hearing. The girl's youth and sweetness conquer him, and with sincere emotion he folds her to his heart. Lucienne will henceforth brighten the home that has been so darkened by the influence of the elder Briant, who is henceforth powerless, and departs. M. Coquelin played the elder Briant—the disagreeable and tyrannical father-in-law—with his customary finish; M. Jean Coquelin was successful in his impressive study of the undecided Lucien; a powerful presentation of Hélène came from Mlle. Suzanne Devoyod; and of the well-intentioned and benevolent widow Laure de Roine, Mme. Bouchetal furnished a good study. As the heroine of the comedy, Lucienne, Mlle. Guerraz was bright and winsome; and Mlle. Kerwich made a charming Aline de Bernac.

As a matter of fact we should state Notre Jeunesse was first produced at the Comédie Française on November 16, 1904, and presented for the first time in London at the Shaftesbury on June 9 last year.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

On Thursday, May 24, instead of the second performance of The Barbier von Bagdad, a work that has aroused considerable interest, the syndicate gave the second and third acts of Faust, followed by Pagliacci. In Gounod's opera a newcomer, Mlle Frances Alda, from the Brussels Opera House, appeared as Marguerite. Mlle. Alda sang the music with sympathy and acted intelligently, but her voice proved unequal to the task of filling so large a theatre. For the rest, M. Journet once more gave a familiar rendering of Mephistopheles; and M. Altchevsky as Faust increased the good impression this artist has already made. Signor Caruso, in splendid voice, appeared as Canio in Leoncavallo's Pagliacci, and seldom has the part been so magnificently sung. His solo at the close of the first act aroused a perfect storm of applause. Hardly less successful was Mlle. Destinn, who made her first appearance this season as a powerful exponent of the part of Nedda, the cast being completed by that fine artist M. Scotti, in the character of the revengeful Tonio, M. Seveilhac as Silvio, and Signor Zucchi as Beppe. The chorus acted with intelligence, and the orchestra was thoroughly efficient under the bâton of Signor Campanini, who conducted both operas.

The first performance of Wagner's Die Meistersinger this season was given on Friday, May 25, before a very large audience. The representation of Wagner's comic masterpiece was in many respects superb. The splendid overture was grandly played by the fine orchestra, under the control of Dr. Richter, and all concerned took the utmost pains to render the occasion a memorable one. Herr Van Rooy again impersonated the genial and humorous cobbler-poet, Hans Sachs, in his unrivalled style. Another fine performance was the fussy Sextus Beckmesser of Herr Geis, played in the true comedy spirit and without undue exaggeration. Herr Anthes bore himself with distinction as Walter, but his vocal method in the Preislied was not entirely acceptable. Frau Gadsky, although giving the impression of a mature Eva, sang the music in a pleasing and agreeable manner; and Fraulein Grimm was satisfactory in the small part of Magdalene. Herr Sicwert as David, Herr Knupfer as Zeit Pogner, and Mr. John Harrison as Balthazar Zorn, were all thoroughly efficient. The chorus acted with more than the average ability, and the difficult finale to the second act went extremely well. Dr. Richter, as a tribute to the general excellence of the performance, was heartily cheered on taking his place at the opening of the last act.

Madama Butterfly was produced for the first time this season at Covent Garden, on Saturday last. The popularity of Puccini's charming work has increased since its first production last year, and its performance on Saturday was witnessed by an audience which filled every part of the house, and was further honoured by the presence of His Majesty the King. Mlle. Destinn again impersonated the heroine in her incomparable manner, giving a perfect picture of the poor little wife who is so basely deserted. Both in her acting and singing Mlle. Destinn captivated her hearers, and the tragic ending of the opera was given with intense pathos. As the contemptible Pinkerton, Signor Caruso's beautiful voice was heard to the greatest advantage in the lovely music of the first act; and Signor Scotti was again excellent as the kind-hearted Consul, Sharpless. Mme. Gilibert-Legrune impersonated Suzuki with ability; and the other characters of Kate Pinkerton, Goro, and Il Principe Yamadori, were intelligently filled by Mme. Paulin, Signor Zucchi, and Mr. Horatio Connell. The scenic effects and stage-management generally were excellent, and Signor Campanini again proved a most able conductor. The composer, who was in the house on Saturday night, was called on the stage at the close of the second act, and received, along with the principal artists, the warmest congratulations from the large audience.

Tannhäuser, one of Wagner's earlier operas, was performed on Monday night, and, if not resulting in a perfect representation of this most exacting opera, allowance must be made on the score of the enormous amount of work done since the opening of the season. The music also requires the greatest efforts of the vocalists, and the opera is one that demands the utmost care in mounting. The impression left by the performance on Monday was that more rehearsals were needed. Herr Anthes as the hero did not display any great vocal gifts, nor appear to be in good voice; but Herr Van Rooy again proved excellent in the part of Wolfram; and Fraulein Ternina made a sympathetic Elizabeth, even if her voice was not entirely satisfactory. Mme. Agnes Nicholls was heard to advantage in the character of Venus, singing with ample power and expression; and the "Shepherd's Song" was charmingly sung by Miss Gleeson White. Herr Knupfer appeared with success as Hermann; and the other parts were well filled by Herr Neitan, Mr. John Harrison, Herr Braun, and Herr Raboth. The chorus singing in the scene of the Hall of Song was somewhat rough and uncertain; but the finale was finely-rendered, and the orchestra, under Dr. Richter, achieved good results.

MADAME SARAH BERNHARDT has added to the list of her thrilling experiences that of a railway smash. A special train, carrying the famous actress and the members of her company, who have been performing in America, was wrecked on the afternoon of the 25th ult., near Mankato, in Kansas. The accident was caused by the tender of the engine leaving the metals. The succeeding carriages likewise left the line, and the train was partially wrecked. Mme. Bernhardt, who was taking a bath at the time, was thrown out by the sudden jerking of the carriage, but was practically unhurt. Fortunately, another train on the same track was stopped whilst still one hundred yards distant from the wrecked locomotive, otherwise it would have dashed into the special car occupied by Mme. Bernhardt. Much excited, and dressing very quickly, she left the train, demanding a fresh engine, and asking for an explanation of the cause of the accident. A new engine was eventually procured, and the journey resumed.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

ARRANGEMENTS for the theatrical sports are now completed, and, given a fine day, there is every prospect of a larger gathering than in previous years. The entries exceed those of last year, being over 460, the competitors representing most of the London and suburban theatres and music halls.

THE relay teams will include the Alhambra, Coronet, Crown, Duke of York's, Daly's, Holborn Empire, Grand, Fulham, Grand, Croydon, London Pavilion, St. James, and the Vaudeville. The tug-of-war teams include the Alhambra, Crown, Waldorf, Canterbury, Royal (Stratford), Holborn Empire, the Borough (Stratford), and the Empire (Dublin).

THE judges are Mr. Cyril Maude, Mr. Edmund Maurice, Mr. Horace Chambers, Mr. Frank Shorland, Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, Mr. Sam Fredericks, Mr. Fred Fredericks, Mr. Cecil Paget, Mr. F. W. Parker, and Mr. C. Aubrey Smith. The Reception Committee is represented by Mr. Herbert Waring, Mr. Dawson Milward, Mr. Robert Horton, Mr. C. A. Smith, Mr. H. R. Kimpton, Mr. James Cullen, and Mr. William Johnson.

PRIZES have been presented by Lady Bancroft, Sir Squire Bancroft, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, Mrs. Ellis Fredericks, and Dr. Bodie. Subscriptions have been received, in addition to those already announced in this column, from Mr. W. S. Penley £1 1s., Mr. Dion Boucicault £1 1s., Mrs. Tree £1 1s., Mr. A. Sutro £1 1s., Mrs. Raleigh £1 1s., Mr. Cosmo Gordon Lennox £1 1s., Miss Compton £1 1s., Miss Adrienne Augarde £1 1s., Mr. H. B. Tree £1 1s., Miss Tita Brand 5s., Mr. Fred Terry £1 1s., Miss Jessie Bateman £1 1s., Mr. Arthur Chudleigh £1 1s., Mr. Gerald du Maurier £1 1s., Mr. Robert Horton 10s. 6d., the Empire Theatre Company (Dublin) £1 1s., the Central Catering Company £1 1s., Messrs. Strode and Co. £1 1s., Mr. Cecil Paget 10s. 6d., and Dr. Bodie £3 3s.

ADMISSION to the ground may be obtained for 6d., and seats in the stand for 6d., 1s., and 2s. extra. Refreshments at moderate charges will be available at five refreshment rooms. Programmes may be obtained at the office of the committee to-day.

MR. ELMS-LESTER has had some correspondence with the Lord Mayor of the City with reference to the properties used in the Lord Mayor's Annual Show. The reply received intimates that, from enquiries made, "very few properties are used which are made abroad," and that while "foreign manufactures can be purchased at a much lower rate, they do not appear to give such satisfaction as the home products." The dress and properties were made in London for the last show, although some of the goods were supplied by foreign firms.

THE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

THE Special Committee of the Actors' Association held a meeting on Saturday last, there being present Mrs. Cecil Raleigh (in the chair), and Messrs. Clarence Blakiston, Arthur Holmes-Gore, M. R. Morand, C. Aubrey Smith, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary). The committee discussed the line of argument to be adopted at the next meeting of the Theatrical Managers' Association, and Mrs. Cecil Raleigh and Messrs. Clarence Blakiston, M. R. Morand, and C. Aubrey Smith were appointed delegates to attend, and the secretary was directed to be present and to ask Sir Squire Bancroft, as President, to introduce the deputation. Messrs. Arthur Holmes-Gore and Clarence Blakiston reported the result of the conference with the committee of the Professional Photographic Association

THE usual weekly meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association was held on Tuesday last. There were present Mr. C. Aubrey Smith (chairman), Mr. A. E. Drinkwater (deputy-chairman), Mr. Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Mesdames Carlotta Addison, Kate Bishop, and Kate Phillips, and Messrs. Cecil Barth, Clarence Blakiston, Burton Cooke, Lawrence Grant, Norman McKinnel, M. R. Morand, Algernon Syms, Spencer Trevor, Frank Vernon, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary).

It was agreed that in future no member be entitled to legal or medical aid until his or her subscription for the current year be paid. The secretary reported the names of the delegates appointed to attend the next meeting of the Theatrical Managers' Association, and further that Sir Squire Bancroft, as President of the Association, had agreed to introduce the deputation and open the proceedings, the matter to be discussed being one of general interest to the entire profession. The hon. solicitors were requested to take proceedings, if necessary, to enforce payment of a member's claim for salary, and the result of an action recently tried, in which a member was awarded substantial damages for breach of contract, was reported.

A member of the Association attended before the Council, and having stated the nature of his claim, the hon. solicitors were requested to write to the person against whom the claim was made, demanding payment, and, if necessary, suggesting arbitration. Another member attended before the Council, and, having agreed to arbitration, the secretary was instructed to make the necessary arrangements. The secretary reported that the claim of a member under a policy of insurance had been paid in full. Mesdames Fyfe Alexander and Ruth Nightingale and Mr. Fredk. C. Berridge were nominated for election.

A MEETING of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was held on Tuesday last, Mr. A. E. Drinkwater occupying the chair, supported by Messrs. M. R. Morand, C. Aubrey Smith, and Chas. Cruikshanks (the secretary). An interesting scheme for the tabulation of correspondence, suggested by a member of the Association in order to facilitate the delivery of letters, was under consideration, and ultimately referred to the sub-committee appointed to deal with the clerical duties of the staff and official routine. The secretary reported that, in accordance with custom, the offices of the Association would be open on Bank Holiday (Whit Monday) from 10 to 7, as on all other week days.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I feel sure that many of your readers will regret to hear of the continued very serious illness of Mr. Edward Rochelle. After undergoing several severe operations, he is now informed by his doctor that it is essential he should go into a hospital at once to undergo a further operation. A few of his friends have interested themselves on his behalf and made arrangements that he shall be received into a hospital, at which he will have to pay a certain sum per week. Unfortunately, his long illness in the past has drained his resources, and he is now in very great need of some practical assistance to enable him to meet certain pressing liabilities, and to pay the hospital fees. I therefore feel assured that I may on his behalf make an appeal to those who know him; and shall be glad to receive and acknowledge any amounts that they will kindly forward to

Yours faithfully,
JAMES W. MATHEWS.

Duke of York's Theatre, June 1, 1906.

MR. F. R. BENSON'S North Company, which has been playing to excellent and enthusiastic houses in the South of England, finished a most successful tour at the Devonshire Park, Eastbourne, this week. The autumn tour starts on Aug. 27.

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.

On Monday, May 28,
the Drama in Four Acts, by Walter Melville, entitled,

"A GIRL'S CROSS ROADS."

The return visit of Mr. Walter Melville's company in A Girl's Cross Roads is proving a strong attraction to the patrons of the popular parts of the Borough Theatre, and rapt interest is maintained in the lurid story of a girl's downfall through the drink evil. Miss Beaumont Collins depicts the misguided Barbara Wade with startling realism and intensity albeit handling the part with admirable restraint. Miss Nannie Meade portrays the callous nature of Nellie Meadows with much fluency and skill, and Miss Elsie Saville is a pleasing exponent of Constance Cornell; Mr. Charles Franmore, in the dialect part of the old Yorkshire farmer, John Meadows, plays in rugged, natural style, and in entire sympathy with the character; Mr. Frank R. Robertson makes a brisk and manly Jack Livingstone; and Mr. Roy Fortescue contributes a powerful embodiment of the villainous Cuthbert Lumley; Mr. Fred Ingram is a very amusing Toby Turvey (who has a "drink" scene all to himself); and is ably assisted in the "comic relief" by Miss Lena Delphine, bright and engaging as Tilly Vane. The remaining parts are all carefully played, and the piece is capitally mounted.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, May 28,
the Drama in a Prologue and Four Acts, by Frank Adair, entitled,

"A HEART'S DESIRE."

Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company are fulfilling the second week of their fortnight's engagement at the Stratford Theatre Royal with A Heart's Desire. The piece, which is new to Stratford, is well contrived, and diverges somewhat from the beaten track by relying for success at the hands of popular audiences on a story of strong domestic interest rather than upon the portrayal of sensational mechanical effects, and this welcome change met with the emphatic approval of those present on Monday night. Mr. Arthur Hinton handles the rôle of Lord St. Ives with considerable skill, his easy diction and excellent stage presence adding distinction to the part. Mr. Travis Green contributes a well-defined sketch of Luke Forrest, and a capital performance as David McCulloch comes from Mr. Frank Brunell. Mr. Gerald Byrne acts very incisively as Eric May; the Hon. Bertie Beresford is smartly portrayed by Mr. Fred Tenaur, and a quaint embodiment of Coombs comes from Mr. Pleons Gains. Miss Leila Zillwood plays with much dramatic power as Olga, and in the more tender passages her acting has the true ring of pathos. Miss Florence Zillwood is a very prepossessing and graceful exponent of Elsie Beresford, and Miss Lydia Audrey is a vivacious and charming Gwendoline Ross. The rest of the parts are portrayed with intelligence and care.

Peace, perfect peace.

FOR SYMPATHY.

ELLIOTT.—Mrs. J B. Elliott and family wish to thank all kind friends for their letters and telegrams of sympathy in their great loss.

IN view of the increased prominence lately taken in the public mind by the question of Woman Suffrage, the coming performance of Mr. Swinburne's Atalanta in Calydon, on June 7 and 9, at the Crystal Palace, will be very apropos. The story of Atalanta, it will be remembered, is that of the earliest advocate of woman's equality with man. The music has been specially composed by Miss Muriel Elliott, and, in accordance with the author's intention, only women's voices are heard in the choruses. Among the audience at the Crystal Palace will be the veteran conductor, Mr. August Manns, under whose bâton Miss Muriel Elliott made her first public appearance as a pianist, and H.R.H. Princess Louise has given her special patronage to the performance, which, it should be added, is in aid of the Society for Waifs and Strays.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

CURED IN A FEW HOURS.

Sir Morell Mackenzie, M.D., the Eminent Throat Specialist, constantly recommended Condy's Remedial Fluid to be diluted and used as a Gargle for speedily curing Sore Throat or Hoarseness.

Dr. Walford Harris, in his book entitled "The Throat and its Treatment," says: "I have found the 'Condy' and cold water gargle excellent, many cases being cured immediately."

The late Mr. Sims Reeves, the world-famed Tenor Vocalist, wrote: "'Condy' used as a Gargle clears the voice and braces up the uvula."

Condy's Remedial Fluid, sold by all Chemists at 1s. 1½d. Caution.—Insist on having "Condy's."

LADIES OF THE STAGE

A TALL AND GRACEFUL FIGURE IS ESSENTIAL TO SUCCESS.

THE demand for Tall and Graceful Women in the Theatrical Profession is to-day greater than ever. Those Ladies who wish to compete successfully with their more fortunate sisters should immediately enquire into the now well-known "CLEASE-EXTENSOR METHOD" of Body Culture, a Rational Method of INCREASING THE HEIGHT and giving Grace and Bodily Beauty to the Entire Figure. It is the invention of Mr. F. Meredith Clease, Ph.L.D., and the outcome of Seventeen Years Continuous Study of the Physical Side of Life.

The Clease Extensor Method is the Rapid Culture of Physical Beauty by novel and natural means; and will in a few weeks improve the personal appearance of Every Lady 100 per cent., with the satisfaction of knowing that it is real and natural, not artificial and unnatural (à la Gibson Girl). Mr. Clease's Method will give to Ladies a Beauty of Figure and Grace of Carriage unattainable by other methods. By it the Height can be Increased from 1 to 2½ in. (if required), the Bust Developed from 2 to 5 in. in a few weeks, the Hips and Waist Reduced and made more symmetrical, the Grace and Carriage of Body is made perfect. In addition to these physical advantages, the Clease Method will give Resonance to the Speaking and Singing Voice to a remarkable degree in a few lessons The Clease Method does not create knotty bunches of fibre; it develops and moulds the entire figure to a beautiful whole.

FREE AN ELABORATE & INTERESTING BOOK OF 64 PAGES.

Mr. Clease will also be pleased to give a Consultation and a Personal Demonstration of his Method at his Consulting Rooms, 74, New Bond Street, London, W., any day from 10 to 6 o'clock (Saturdays excepted). If not convenient to call, a Set of Selected Movements will be prepared for you by Mr. Clease and sent FREE OF CHARGE on Receipt of Letter, accompanied with the 64-paged Book. All Correspondence is Strictly Confidential.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual for 1906, 1s. 5, Tavistock-street, W.C. This useful little work, which brings nearly up to date the calendar of dramatic events which is so excellent a feature, is, as usual, full of stories over the signature of prominent stage lights. To those interested in the business of the theatre the work has become a necessity by reason of its valuable record of the progress of the drama.—Financial Times, Jan. 22, '06.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual is published from the offices of the old-established organ of the theatrical profession, 5, Tavistock-street, W.C. As usual, it is a carefully-compiled record of notable events of the year 1905. A pleasing feature is the selection of short stories, after recounting strange experiences, by "stars" of the dramatic and music-hall professions, these being in every case accompanied by photographs of the writers.—Newcastle Daily Journal, Jan. 27, 1906.

A BISHOP ON THE DRAMA.

The Royal General Theatrical Fund dinner last week was one of the most successful of the banquets which have been given by that excellent institution; and an agreeable novelty was given to the list of speeches by the admirable oration of His Grace the Bishop of RIPON. The Bishop was particularly earnest in his protest against the opinion of a dramatic critic that it would be small loss to England if all the plays since GOLDSMITH and SHERIDAN were swept away. He testified to the value of modern plays; and he pleaded strongly that the drama should be treated as serious art. Everyone of us who employs words for the inspiration and instruction of others, said the Bishop, had the power at command of directly appealing to the moral nature of man. The dramatic art, however, did not approach moral questions in a direct method. The force of the spoken word, as far as the dramatic art was concerned, lay in the indirect method, and that method was the most powerful. The best way of stimulating and helping the moral forces of mankind was through the suggestions which arose out of delineated characters.

We do not think that, as a rule, either actor or playwright are aware of the immense importance of their work, of the intense reality which is attached to the acted and spoken play by the young, unsophisticated, and the impressionable. But if everyone will cast back his memory to his first visit to the theatre, and to those which immediately followed it, he will remember what a powerful impression it made on his mind. It is true that the dramatic art does not speak directly to the individual auditor. But the implied sermon is much more powerful and impressive than the stated one. You cannot have a play which is non-moral. No matter how carefully the writer avoids anything didactic, the work will have a subtle tendency called "tone," which is as strong as it is insidious. We cannot hear a piece like The Merchant of Venice played without imbibing an admiration and a love of noble sentiments, and a hatred and contempt for those which are base. What we are made to admire and what we are made to laugh at is far more important than what we are told we ought to do. It is not necessary to inveigh against a principle; one has only to make it repulsive or absurd on the stage to preach a lesson much more effective than any homily.

For, as the Bishop says, it is the indirect appeal which tells. In The Merry Wives of Windsor the theme is the attempted seduction of two country ladies by a town rake. But the laugh is against the rake, and the husbands are let off with a little harmless raillery. How easily a different kind of author would have turned ridicule on Page and Ford, and made Falstaff one of the lively seducers who have so often embellished French comedy.

And if evil may be so easily imbibed from the indirect appeal of the stage, good can with equal ease be inspired. We ought, therefore, to congratulate ourselves that our English drama is so clean and so pure as it is at present. Who could witness Mr. BEERBOHM TREE'S beautiful version of "The Newcomes" at His Majesty's Theatre on Tuesday without feeling himself elevated above the mean and common things of life? Who could see The Man from Blankley's at the Haymarket without assimilating a sermon against snobbishness, hardness, and purse-pride; and a sympathy with the gentle, the simple, the kindly, and the courteous? And, in the defeat of the "fascinating" Mr. Vanderveldt at the Garrick, is not each of the audience, in being amused, insensibly elevated? What sermon of the direct order could be stronger than that contained in His House in Order, which Mr. ALEXANDER presents at the St. James's? And though, in pieces like Dorothy o' the Hall and Brigadier Gerard, there is no intentional moral aim, still the tone of the works, with their affectionate devotion, their honest courage, and their true lovers, makes for the best sort of righteousness, that which is full of energy and health. In The Lion and the Mouse at the Duke of York's, in The Shulamite at the Savoy, and in Shore Acres at the Waldorf, there is still the same intrinsic spirit of virtue; not an obtrusive or pedantic spirit, but one which steals into the heart unconsciously, and moulds and influences without the knowledge or realisation of the witness. On the English stage, evil of any kind is usually imported; it is not an article of home manufacture. It is pleasant to notice that, just now, there is so much on the boards that is native, and therefore healthy and honest. And even in the case of that very painful play The Whirlwind, at the Criterion, we do not find any offence, only horror and wholesome terror. No one is likely to be tempted to evil, many may be deterred from it, by the spectacle of the mental tortures of the wretched woman who, in circumstances which palliate her fault, has sinned against the Seventh Commandment. The "indirect" preaching of the English drama at the present time is as pure as it is powerful. Night after night from these theatrical pulpits come insinuated sermons; sermons not in one or two "stock" subjects, but on all that are concerned with the life of man. No wonder the Bishop of RIPON called the profession of an actor a serious one. To be one of the means by which the morals of a nation are moulded, the ideas of the rising generation formed, and the good feelings of their elders confirmed and encouraged, is, indeed, to be "seriously" employed. For there is nothing so important as the conduct of life; and that is just what the drama teaches.

THE MUSICAL COPYRIGHT BILL.

MR. O'CONNOR AND THE PIRATES.

The following is the text of the Musical Copyright Bill, which Mr. T. P. O'Connor introduced in the House of Commons on Monday:

A BILL
To amend the law relating to Musical Copyright.
Presented by Mr. T. P. O'Connor, supported by
Mr. Balfour, Mr. John Redmond,
Sir Alfred Thomas, Mr. Enoch Edwards,
Mr. Keir Hardie, Mr. Crombie, and Mr. Sloan.

Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. Every person who sells, exposes, offers, or has in his possession for sale any pirated music shall (unless he proves that he acted innocently) be guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction in manner provided by the law in force in that part of the British Islands where the offence is committed, and shall be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour for a term not exceeding one month or to a fine not exceeding five pounds, and on a second or subsequent conviction to imprisonment with or without hard labour for a term not exceeding two months or to a fine not exceeding ten pounds. Any constable may take into custody without warrant any person who sells, exposes, offers, or has in his possession for sale any pirated music.
2. Any constable authorised by an order of a court of summary jurisdiction made under section one of the Musical (Summary Proceedings) Copyright Act, 1902, to seize pirated copies of any musical work, may, between the hours of six of the clock in the morning and nine of the clock in the evening, enter any house or place named in such order, and, if necessary, use force for making such entry, whether by breaking open doors or otherwise.
3. In this Act the expression "pirated music" means any musical work written, printed, or otherwise reproduced without the consent lawfully given by the owner of the copyright in such musical work.
4. This Act may be cited as the Pirated Music Act, 1906, and shall extend to the British Islands.

"THE THIRD TIME OF ASKING."

A Rustic Comedy, by M. E. Francis,
Produced at the Garrick Theatre on Wednesday, May 30.

Bob Leatherbarrow ..... MR. BOURCHIER
David Allcock ..... MR. WALTER PEARCE
Joe Lovelady ..... MR. ARTHUR WHITBY
Catty ..... MISS PAMELA GAYTHORNE

This new rustic comedy by M. E. Francis (Mrs. Blundell) was produced at a matinée on Wednesday in front of The Fascinating Mr. Vanderveldt. It is founded on a short story by the author; and the scene is laid in a Lancashire village. The courtship of Catty Lovelady becomes naturally a matter of local importance. Bob Leatherbarrow is not the ordinary rustic lover. He carries things with a high hand. Having quite made up his mind to wed the pretty country maid he allows "nowt" to interfere with his intention. He does not go about his courting in the usual way, and appears to take it for granted that the lady is quite willing to become Mrs. Leatherbarrow. Catty's father, however, has his doubts on the subject, and in plain language tells Bob that he is not going the right way to attain his object. To the girl's astonishment and indignation the ardent swain has actually had their names "called" in church without her consent. Moreover, Bob, a big burly fellow, will not permit anybody else to pay homage to the girl he has chosen as his wife. David Allcock, who is in the milk trade, and is quite a "masher" in his way, is inclined to pay court to Catty. Her father has given Bob sundry hints in the art of courtship as practised in his young days, and has suggested that Bob should bring the girl some "falrals" as one of the obvious means of winning her favour. Bob takes the hint, but when he returns with the presents, which are of a cumbrous nature, he, on looking through the open window, sees his rival, David, seated on the couch with Catty, and evidently on very good terms with the young lady. Bob threatens dire vengeance, slowly takes off his coat, and, suggestively rolling up his shirt-sleeves, says he can wait. The milkman is evidently seriously perturbed at the idea of encountering the pugilistic Mr. Leatherbarrow, and endeavours, with the aid of Catty, to slip out unperceived. But Bob catches him, and at once proceeds to carry him to the village horse-pond and duck him. Having thus summarily disposed of his rival, Bob returns with his parcel of presents for his lady love. These include a showy-looking coal-scuttle, a hearth-rug, a table-cloth, a tea service, and other useful articles. But Catty, though evidently interested in the "falrals," is not so easily captured, and makes effective use of a woman's favourite weapon—tears. Of course, if she must not look at any other swain in the village there is no other course open to her but to wed her persecuting admirer. Bob, however, intimates that he has no wish to force the girl into a marriage, and with a melancholy expression of face sets about packing up the presents; finally bursting into tears. This is too much for Catty, who is really fond of her uncouth but generous lover, and a reconciliation is speedily brought about, to the huge delight of Mr. Joe Lovelady, who is by no means indifferent to the fact that Mr. Leatherbarrow's worldly position is infinitely superior to that of the gentleman in the milk business.

Mr. Bourchier represented with genuine humour and artistic merit the part of Bob Leatherbarrow, who is so very anxious to fight for his bride. The shy awkwardness of the rustic lover was very cleverly and comically depicted. Mr. Walter Pearce cut an amusing figure as the chicken-hearted David Allcock; and Mr. Arthur Whitby gave an admirably natural and effective embodiment of Joe Lovelady. Miss Pamela Gaythorne also deserves warm praise for her delightful impersonation of coquettish Catty, who all the time has an eye to the main chance and never intends that her determined lover shall seek a wife elsewhere. The new piece was well received, and Mr. Bourchier led forward the author in response to a call. In a note on the programme Mr. Bourchier expresses his obligations to Mr. Sidney Valentine for assistance in the production of the new piece.

MME. JANE HADING, who, with the members of her French company, is paying a round of flying visits to sundry provincial theatres before commencing her London season, gave a matinée performance at the Edinburgh Lyceum on Saturday last. The play was Ohnet's Le Maître des Forges, with Mme. Hading in her original part of Claire de Beaulieu, and the reception accorded to the distinguished actress was cordial in the extreme. On Tuesday Mme. Hading paid a flying visit with the same play to the Palace Theatre, Belfast, and the triumph scored by the celebrated French actress quite justified the enterprise of Mr. Fred W. Warden, the managing-director of the theatre.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor's Bill to amend the law relating to musical copyright, which was introduced into the House of Commons on Monday, contains the very necessary provision that "any constable may take into custody, without warrant, any person who sells, exposes, offers, or has in his possession for sale any pirated music." This is treating the "music pirate" in the same way as the pickpocket—a proviso that is entirely equitable. The full text of the Bill is given in another column. It is backed by Mr. T. P. O'Connor, and supported by Mr. Balfour, Mr. John Redmond, Sir Alfred Thomas, Mr. Enoch Edwards, Mr. Keir Hardie, Mr. Crombie, and Mr. Sloan.

Mr. Harry Rickards, the leading Australian variety impresario, in consequence of pressure of business, has had to postpone his departure for the old country, and will not sail by the s.s. Himalaya, as previously stated, but by the India, arriving in London on Saturday, June 23. Business on the Rickards circuit is excellent.

Mr. Tom McNaughton, who arrives in London to-day (Saturday) from South Africa, after a most successful time in Johannesburg and Cape Town, in conjunction with his charming wife, Miss Alice Lloyd, has just cabled the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. (in which, by the way, Mr. McNaughton is an energetic partner) that they may expect him at Berners-street with a bundle of agreements he has entered into with South African music-sellers to exploit that rapidly-growing publishing house's "Sixpenny Successes." Mr. Edgar Hyman has arranged to have copies of these sold nightly in his places of entertainment all the year round.

Owing to the serious illness of Mr. Edward Swanborough the directors of the Chelsea Palace and the directors of the London Pavilion are organising a matinée benefit to take place on Thursday, June 28, at the London Pavilion, kindly placed at the disposal of the committee. Among those who have volunteered to assist on the general committee are Sir Squire Bancroft, Sir Francis Burnand, Mr. Alfred de Rothschild, and Mr. George Edwardes.

Miss Vesta Victoria, fresh from her American triumphs, makes her reappearance at the Tivoli on Monday with new songs; and Mr. Gus Elen, after his triumph at the Law Courts, will be seen in his screamingly funny scena, The Unemployed. Mr. John Ford, the marvellous dancer from America, will also appear.

The London County Council is preparing to serve a notice on the owners of the Canterbury, requiring such drastic alterations as to amount to a practical reconstruction of the building. The work is to be begun in three months and completed in six. The subject is being much discussed in music hall circles in a spirit of sympathy with Mr. George Adney Payne.

In the Canterbury and Paragon £12,000 have already been spent to satisfy the requirements of the Council. During an experience of twenty years at the Canterbury Mr. Payne has never had an accident. He is as anxious to secure the safety of the public as the London County Council, and has taken every means to do so. The notice which hangs over his head by a thread he regards as an attempt to restrict the attendance of the public in the Canterbury balcony and gallery.

The Theatres and Music Halls Committee of the London County Council, in a report upon the case of the Canterbury, points out that "the owner can apply for an arbitrator to be appointed by the First Commissioner of Works to determine whether the Council's requirements are reasonable or not. The arbitrator's decision in such a case is final, and, in the event of the requirements not being upheld, the Council will be relieved of any responsibility for the safety of the public, so far as it may be affected thereby."

Quite a party from London of well-wishers will visit the Happy Valley at Southend to-day (Saturday), to give Mr. George Chirgwin's venture a good send-off, it being the initial performance of the season of the al-fresco entertainers, who, under the experienced lieutenancy of Chas. Osborne, will beguile the visitors for the next sixteen weeks or so. The genial "Kaffir" will himself appear at the afternoon show, and the entire proceeds will be given to a deserving local object—the Lifeboat Fund probably. Gus Elen, Charles Coborn, and Hamilton Hill have volunteered their services.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the Oxford, Ltd., was held at the Oxford on Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Henry Tozer (chairman of the company) presiding. The secretary (Mr. Ilford Ibbetson, F.C.I.S.) having read the notice convening the meeting and the report of the auditor, the chairman proposed "That the directors' report and accounts for the year ended April 30, 1906, recommending a dividend of 6 per cent., less income-tax, for the half-year ended April 30 last, also a bonus of 3s. per share, free of tax, together equal to 13 per cent. for the year, placing £6,000 to the general reserve fund, and carrying forward the sum of £3,624 10s. 7d. to the current year's accounts, be, and are hereby, adopted." Mr. G. Adney Payne (managing director) seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Miss Constance Moxon (Mrs. Tom Craven) has had a rare streak of luck, and the many friends of that charming burlesque artist will be glad to hear that she is now a landed proprietress, having been willed by a deceased uncle who settled in Canada some years ago a well-cultivated farm in that fine country. Miss Moxon will not give up her stage career, and will remain in England.

In consequence of the unsettled weather Mr. Alfred Butt has arranged, at a short notice, to give a special matinée performance of the full evening programme on Whit Monday at 2 p.m.

Since the first performance of The Daughter of the Mountain, in which La Guerrero has admittedly scored a considerable success at the Palace Theatre, the piece has been judiciously "cut," and Mr. Bertram Steer has been specially engaged for the part of the Spanish captain, who rescues Marquita from the brigands.

Mr. F. V. St. Clair, who has been spending a few days at his place on the shores of Lake Windermere, did a record week's business with the publishers last week, selling them no less than nine songs. One of the most original and one of the best he has ever written is named "The Courtship of the Shamrock and the Rose." It has been secured by Arthur and Co., of Rathbone-place. The air to this song is by Bowker Andrews, and there is already a big demand for it. It is a free song.

"The Belle of Barcelona; or, The Mummer and the Maid," will be produced by Mr. Jack Mackenzie and a carefully-selected company of comedians and a full chorus at the Surrey on Monday. The production has been secured by Mr. Fred Baugh for the whole of the Macnaghten circuit.

The latest quotations of Music Hall shares are as follow:—Alhambra, 1½; Canterbury, 1; Empire (15s. paid), 1¼; Ditto. (10s. paid), 1; London Pav. Ord., 4; Ditto. Pref., 4¾; London Coliseum, ½; Metropolitan, ⅞; Moss Empire, 4⅞; Ditto. Pref., 4; Oxford, 6¾; Palace, 9s.; Tivoli, 6¾; Varieties Consolidated Theatres, 14s. 6d.

Mr. Edwin Leslie, who made such a success of the Hippodrome, Southampton, and the Palace, Belfast, has been appointed district and touring representative for the De Frece Circuit.

To-day (Saturday) is a day to be marked with a white stone by the good people of Clacton, the magnificent Palace-by-the-Sea being opened for the first time, Mr. Geo. R. Sims performing the ceremony of declaring the building and grounds open. The fine band of twenty-seven picked instrumentalists, it is satisfactory to note, will be under the experienced direction of a British conductor, to wit, Mr. G. S. Thomas, late chef d'orchestre of Collins's. A special half-day trip for three shillings return leaves St. Pancras on Monday at 11.32, reaching Clacton at 1.58, and returning therefrom at 8.5 p.m.

The Leeds Tivoli will close from Saturday, June 16, onward, for a period of six weeks, during which the auditorium will be entirely remodelled and redecorated, reopening on August Bank Holiday under the same management, with an alteration in the name to the Leeds New Hippodrome.

The Coliseum, Leeds, was bought some years ago by Taylor's Drug Co., Limited, that firm's intention being to turn it eventually into a warehouse; but we are given to understand that the place is in the market, and various reports are afloat as to its reinstatement as a place of entertainment. No definite information, however, is to be obtained concerning any new enterprise.

Messrs. Pollard and Coventry open the Marina Hippodrome, Ramsgate, on Monday, June 18, for the season. This makes Mr. Pollard's twelfth season at Ramsgate. Al-fresco entertainments will also be given daily by their Scarlet and Blue Pom-Poms.

Some months ago it was announced in The Era that the Empire Theatre, Liverpool, was to be converted into a two-houses-per-night concern. The scheme, however, fell through for the time being. Two months back an application was made to the Licensing Bench for permission to introduce the system, "because it had been found necessary to go with the times." The Bench declined to allow the drink licence to be continued if the proposed change was effected, and also pointed out that the new condition of things would entail large crowds of people waiting outside for the second house, which could not be allowed. At all events, if the Excise licence was continued for a two-houses entertainment the other variety theatres would ask for a similar privilege. The application was thereupon withdrawn; but on Thursday was again renewed, and permission granted to have two performances nightly without a drink licence.

It was mentioned by the solicitor representing Moss' Empires, Ltd., that if they decided to revert again to one show per night they expected the liquor licence to be renewed. In fact, the Excise privilege would be brought forward at the annual Sessions next year. Regarding the people waiting for the second house, Messrs. Moss intended to utilise some extensive property they owned adjoining the theatre for waiting-rooms, so that the street traffic would not be obstructed. The present outside queue system would cease, and a new exit be added to the building. Two waiting-rooms to be opened would accommodate 700 people.

Thus every variety theatre in Liverpool will be on the two-houses-per-night principle. When the change was previously announced there was some considerable feeling expressed among the public, and it was regarded as a reflection upon the city that at least one hall could not be maintained for a full evening's entertainment. Competition, however, has become so keen in Liverpool, and such success has attended the cheap two-hours' system, that a variety theatre charging ordinary high prices may in future experience great difficulty in holding its position.

The struggle will be further increased when the new Tivoli, situated a short distance from the Empire, opens its doors in a few months. This place, which occupies the ground where Sam Hague's St. James's Hall stood, is rapidly approaching completion, but there seems little likelihood of its being ready for occupation on August Bank Holiday, as previously announced. It is situated in a principal thoroughfare, and promises, if properly managed, to receive a large measure of public patronage. There is a belief that the one-house-per-night system will now be adopted here. The property belongs to the Liverpool Palaces, Ltd., of which Mr. Walter de Frece is managing-director. Then, again, there are rumours of new developments in other parts of the city, so that the future will see a stiff competition among owners of theatrical enterprises.

The directors of the old-established Alhambra Theatre, Belfast, have decided to run a stock season of some weeks, commencing on the 11th inst., producing various well-known dramas with a competent cast. Rehearsals take place in Liverpool on Monday next. The experiment will doubtless be watched with much interest.

Mr. Otto C. Culling, general manager of the Theatre Royal and Circus of Varieties, Bury, took his tenth annual benefit in the theatre on Tuesday. The house was packed. Mr. Culling in a speech thanked everybody, and to prove his appreciation of the kindness shown to him, presented £10 to the Bury Cinderella Club and £10 to the Bury Ragged School.

The Liverpool Food and Betterment Association, an excellent institution which provides free meals for the poorest school children and arranges court concerts during the summer evenings, has benefited to the extent of £141, a sum resulting from the "pick of the pantomime" entertainment provided by artists engaged in Liverpool last January.

A most successful matinée was given in the Palace Theatre, Glasgow, on Tuesday, by kind permission of Mr. Richard Waldon, the proceeds being devoted to the building fund of the Convent of the Good Shepherd, at Dalbeth, Glasgow. The artists included Miss Marie Lloyd, Mr. George D'Albert, Miss Muriel Godfrey-Turner, and many others, in addition to the fine company appearing at the Palace. The house was crowded, and the entertainment was worthy of the excellent object and the artists assisting.

"The Masked Lady," a sketch which was so successfully produced at the Lyceum last week by Mr. Martin Adeson, was immediately booked for the Empire, Holloway, this week as a star turn; and by Messrs. Moss and Stoll, for their circuits.

Members of the Variety Artists' Federation and all bonâ-fide music-hall artists are invited to attend a meeting at the Horns (Lower Hall) to-morrow (Sunday) at 8 o'clock.

Dalton's Agency, in addition to arranging 34 weeks with Mr. Stoll for Miss Ruby Dahl and her Human Mannikins, has induced this gentleman to book the Narow Bros. This is the act that created such a furore recently in London, where their visit was unfortunately too short. Mr. Stoll has booked it for 53 weeks for the Moss-Stoll Tour through Mr. Will Dalton. This gentleman seems to discover new acts very often, and during the last seven years has placed and made a market for turns such as Tom Edwardes, Coram, &c., besides doing a deal of provincial booking for the "toplight" foreign acts.

The Whitsuntide novelty at the Canterbury will be The Smoking Concert, produced recently by Mr. Fred Karno at the Oxford. Since the first performance the sketch has been considerably strengthened, and has now become a bright and merry concoction.

Mr. Percival Spencer, the well-known aeronaut, has hit upon an original cure for those who are suffering neurotically, and each prescription costs £20. He asserts that a thirty-hour balloon trip anywhere will do more to restore the nervous system if run down than all the tonics in the world. Miss Godwynne Earle, now taking the part of Commere in the Coliseum revue, at the six o'clock performance, tried his cure last Sunday, taking an aerial trip with a lady friend and an aeronaut.

The voyagers ascended from the grounds of Mr. Spencer's Highbury balloon depot shortly before 6 a.m. Nothing more was heard of them until 11 a.m. on Monday, when Miss Earle stepped out of a train at Charing Cross, having made an aerial trip to Carteret, in Normandy, returning thence by train and boat.

In the holiday programme at the Standard a chief place will be found for Miss Peggy Pryde, who has now completely recovered her health. Other turns will include Miss Daisy James (the "Gibson Girl"), Mr. T. E. Dunville, Rosie Lloyd, Eadie and Ramsden, Vivian's Arcadians, Harry Leybourne, Selby and Myers, Crown Trio, Zampah Brothers, Calile and Walker, Harding and Preston, Harry Cook, the Clarion Trio, Dorothy Vell, and Fred Walker.

Mr. T. S. Lonsdale, of the Empire Palace, Portsmouth, whose novel composite picture of hundreds of faces of famous variety artists, past and present, has been in great demand by members of the profession and others, has now written and composed a song to which he has given the same name, "Faces Past and Present." The cover is a reproduction of the original picture. The song is a suitable one for those who can impersonate Eugene Stratton, Arthur Roberts, Harry Lauder, Joe Elvin, or Marie Lloyd. A parody on the well-known ballad, "Eileen Alannah," which is now being sung by Arthur Reece, is also included.

By the way, Mr. Lonsdale is the composer of such well-known songs as "Tommy make room for your Uncle" for W. B. Fair, "If I were only long enough" for Mr. Arthur Roberts, "We are a merry family," and numerous others.

Mr. Bert Clark (of Clark and Hamilton), who is appearing at the Holloway Empire, and is often hailed as a Yankee, was intended for the musical profession, and studied at the Royal College of Music and the Guildhall School, being regarded at both establishments as likely to take a very high place as a pianist. He gained the first-class certificate of the Society of Arts. However, he astonished everybody by suddenly "turning it up" and running off to America, where he came in contact with those well-known athletes, A. B. George and Cæsar Young, the latter being the famous sportsman in connection with whose death Nan Patterson was thrice tried for her life. Cæsar Young laid the foundation of his big fortune, Mr. Clark says, by utilising his great powers as a runner. He was thus able to get very rapidly between the different pool rooms, and so obtain better prices for the customers who had entrusted him with commissions. Mr. Clark himself used to be a fine athlete, and when quite a youth was well known in amateur athletic circles as a good hurdler and long-distance runner. He was a good 4.28 man for the mile not so very long ago.

The most exciting experience that has befallen Mr. Clark occurred one hot day at Pago Pago, in the Mediterranean. He got up at six o'clock one morning, and concluded to bathe from the ship's side. After he had been swimming about for awhile, there was a yell from the deck, and, with a dim feeling that something must be wrong, he made all haste aboard. When he reached the deck he was shown a school of sharks sleeping on the surface of the water a little distance away, and allowed that he had had a pretty close call.

Princess Pauline leaves London to-day to fulfil engagements in the United States. Serpentello, her business representative, accompanies her. Serpentello, or "Serp," as he is familiarly known to a large number of the profession, starts from Waterloo station this day at 10 a.m. He will join the fine s.s St. Paul at Southampton. Quite a large number of friends are expected at Waterloo Station to wish him bon voyage and a safe return.

Mr. Harry Leamar (late of the Cee Mee Trio) has opened a musical, dramatic, and variety agency, at 157, Strand. Mr. Leamar has had considerable experience on the Continent and in the British Isles, and possesses the energy and business nous that are so essential at the present day in the promotion of the interests of variety clients.

Mr. Charles Collette, after appearing with the greatest success as Micawber in the principal provincial cities, in Charles Cartwright's dramatised version of "David Copperfield"—Dan'l Peggotty, returns to London, to reappear on Monday at the London Pavilion, in his street patter monologue, Broke.

"La Milo," now performing at the Pavilion to crowded audiences, is in real life Miss Pansy Montague. She was born in Australia, and is the daughter of an English Army officer. She is descended from a well-known county family.

Messrs. C. St. John Denton and Rowlands are presenting this week at the Duchess Palace, Balham, quite a novel entertainment in the way of a children's singing and dancing scena, entitled The Punch and Judy Girl. This clever turn made its first appearance in London on Feb. 12 at the Tivoli, and is booked at all the principal halls. This shows that our much-maligned managers know a good turn when they see it.

The crowd of pretty girls who surround the King of Sahara in the new sketch at the Oxford are very smartly dressed in the opening scene in up-to-date frocks of faint and effective tints, one costume of deepest violet adding just the right finishing touch to the tout ensemble. It is hard to choose the prettiest dress when all are so charming, but perhaps a white satin, sequined with silver, and worn with a big white tulle hat with a handful of big pink roses under the brim is one of the most attractive, although it has a rival in a sky-blue chiffon gown, with tiny puff sleeves.

Another of the girls looks very handsome in cream-coloured soft silk, with handkerchief sleeves of écru lace, and a hat of a deeper shade, with bunches of cherries and foliage. A tall blonde is all in pink, sparkling and glistening from head to foot, an excellent contrast being found in a dress worn by a brunette—coffee-coloured lace, strips of brown velvet, and an elaborate design on skirt and bodice of flowers in old gold. A little white chiffon frock, worn by one of the principals, has dainty wreaths of small roses on the fluffy skirt and a soft folded satin belt, another of the leading ladies of the little company appearing in black and gold. Carnival costumes are the order of the night in the last scene of The King of Sahara, so the stage is thronged with follies, vivandières and dancing girls, perhaps the prettiest dress being a rainbow-coloured chiffon, worn with pink shoes and stockings.

Link, the latest simian wonder, was on view to his distinguished descendants on Friday at the Hotel Cecil, where he entertained a number of journalists to luncheon. He has attained the age of three and a half years, and has already visited Berlin and Paris, where his intelligence and savoir faire have created much curiosity and interest. He will be the principal novelty at the Hippodrome on Whitsun Monday.

During the journey to and from Epsom, in glorious weather, on Wednesday, the melodies that caught the ear everywhere were those of "In the shade of the old apple-tree" and "Put a little bit away for a rainy day," both popular numbers issued by the celebrated firm of Francis, Day, and Hunter.

Meier and Mora are rejoicing in a very gratifying success at the Empire, Johannesburg, with their new show, which introduces beautiful scenery, novel effects, and a remarkable musical dancing novelty.

Mr. John Leopold will produce next week at Manchester an entirely new and original sketch, entitled The Houseboat, by John Leopold and Wilfred Vaughan. The cast will be an exceptionally strong one, including the original Leopolds and a specially selected company of comedians.

John Lawson, who is appearing at the Bradford Empire, was agreeably surprised on Tuesday morning to receive a wire informing him that he was the father of a bonnie girl. Mrs. Lawson and the baby are progressing splendidly, and the "King's Minister" has received shoals of telegrams congratulating him. The event was announced in the Bradford papers on Tuesday evening, when Mr. Lawson had a fine reception from two crowded houses.

Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. have arranged to publish "Amelia Snow; or, The Jealous Coon," with which Miss Bessie Butt has been making such a success. The words are by A. E. S. Davis, and the music by H. E. Darewski, jun.

Mr. Reginald Payne is leaving the dramatic stage in order to enter the variety profession. Mr. Payne is admitted to be a "good singer of good songs," and as such artists are always welcome to the music-hall, his success seems to be assured.

Messrs. Gus Elen, Harry Tate, Hamilton Hall, and Charles Coborn are giving their services at Mr. G. H. Chirgwin's opening matinée at the Happy Valley, Southend-on-Sea, on Saturday next.

The "hit" of South Africa is undoubtedly Lawrence and Mellor's popular song, "I've built a bamboo bungalow for you," which has been sung by Miss Alice Lloyd at every performance both in Johannesburg and Cape Town, and has taken these towns by storm.

"Bertie's Birthday Party," a musical sketch written and arranged by R. F. Morrison and Barney M. Armstrong, is now billed for the third week at the Tivoli Theatre, Glasgow. Altogether there are thirty people taking part in the trifle. The cast includes Messrs. J. T. Macmillan, well-known in the provinces by his clever impersonation of Ebenezer Honeycombe in The Gay Parisienne, and Percival, Miss Lena Brunton, Little Barney, the Brothers Gardner, Mr. Jack Chambers, the Gaiety Sextette, &c.

Encouraged by the success of the above sketch, Mr. Armstrong will follow it by the production of Sandy and the Sultan, in which almost the same cast will take part. The scenery and dresses for the latter have cost close upon £1000, and it will be one of the biggest things ever seen on a variety stage. Mr. Armstrong intends giving the comedians plenty of chances for comedy. The two sketches are to be toured, and we may expect to see them in town before long.

Gratifying success attended the production at the Islington Empire on Friday, May 25, of Bertie's Adventure, written by Messrs. F. L. Webber and Stewart D. Wright. The company presenting the bright and amusing trifle—on which, by the way, the authors were highly complimented by the manager, Mr. Lyndon Greenwood—included Mr. Edward Morgan, as Brown, the waiter; Mr. A. T. Henden, as Harry Spoofem; Mr. Leslie Martin, as the Hon. Bertie; and Miss Cecile Rivers, as Mrs. Clara Spoofem.

Mr. J. Airlie Dix, the composer of "The Trumpeter," has been playing great havoc during the current week with the trout in Yorkshire.

Messrs. Lee and Arden have added still another place to their list of al-fresco enterprises in the West of Scotland, the Kilmarnock Town Council having granted them the use of Howard Park for their entertainments during the summer season.

Mr. Syd Cotterell and company, in the comedy success The Substitute, are proving a great draw in the country. The production is entirely void of anything bordering on vulgarity.

Mr. C. W. Poole's Myriorama has scored a decided success at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, this week. The pictures are quite up-to-date, and the variety portion of the programme is excellent. Undoubtedly the most popular turn is the clever troupe of dogs introduced by Miss Kitty Woodford, a charming little lady, who possesses a fine stage appearance. The animals go through a regular circus performance, representing ponies, donkeys, &c., whilst the doggy orchestra hugely delights the juvenile members of the audience as well as their elders.

Mr. Syd Bazley, the peculiar comedian, has been re-engaged by Mr. Lester Collingwood to play principal comedian in his next year's production of Blue Beard; and also by Mr. Harry Battersby for the season at his new al-fresco pavilion at Bilston, Staffs.

At the London meeting of the International Artists' Lodge in London, on Sunday, it was decided that the meeting to-morrow shall begin at six o'clock, in the hope of completing its business in such time as to allow members to attend the meeting of the Variety Artists' Federation. There was a discussion, without formal expression of opinion, on the amalgamation of Keith and Proctor. The liability of performers to income-tax was the subject of some comment. The president expressed the opinion that any grievance in respect of income-tax is personal, and cannot claim the assistance of the legal committee. In Bremen, the president remarked, four per cent. is deducted from artists' salaries in consideration of a licence to perform, which is much the same thing as taxing income. The Lodge has so far been unsuccessful in its endeavours to upset this impost.

A member drew attention to the re-engagement clause appearing in the contracts of the Empire, London, which he said was a little vague in respect of the date. An artist might conceivably be requisitioned for the Empire when he had arranged to appear elsewhere. The president thought the difficulty would be overcome by inserting the words "if disengaged." There was a long discussion as to the dilatoriness of some managers in the return of confirmations. It was held that contracts should be remitted to the artist by return of post. The secretary of the Variety Artists' Federation informed the meeting that his employers were taking legal advice with regard to the repudiation of contracts by the Coliseum.

Genuine versatility is none too common on either the variety or dramatic stage. Therefore the turn of Mr. Rex King, who, by accounts to hand of his performance, has demonstrated in the provinces his right to be called "the one-man programme," should soon be seen on the London variety stage. If perseverance in the upward climb to artistic perfection and considerable natural ability count for anything, this young and clever artist is bound shortly to make his way to the front.

Application was made on Saturday before Mr. Justice Phillimore for perpetual injunctions to restrain three music hall artists from breaking their contracts by performing within a radius of twenty miles of the Tivoli, Manchester. The artists were Jake Friedman, who is known as the "one-man opera"; Miss Lilian Doreen, a ballad vocalist; and Miss Ada Martine, a comedienne. Interim injunctions had been obtained previously, and his lordship now granted perpetual injunctions with costs.

Dr. Walford Bodie, who has now fully recovered from his severe indisposition, opened on Monday night at the Royal Hippodrome, Liverpool, both houses being packed to the doors, over 8,000 paying for admission. He had a great ovation, being cheered again and again on making his appearance. He introduced a large number of his cures treated by him on previous visits, one being the son of Police-constable Chesters, 94, D Division, who was cured by him last February after being discharged from two of the leading hospitals. He wore double irons, which he has now presented to the Doctor.

On Monday he publicly refuted some reflections that had been cast upon his cures by a London detective in a court of law, and stated that he had written to the Home Secretary on the matter, as well as to the judge before whom the case was heard, and to a local Member of Parliament. He denied the truth of the detective's statement, and offered to give a handsome sum to the hospitals if it could be found other than false.

England has long lacked a seaside attraction such as is possessed by America in the form of Coney Island, and it will be interesting to note whether the blank will be filled by Mrs. M. Barrasford, until recently manageress of the Lyceum, who has now taken possession of her new property, "The Devil's Dyke," near Brighton, where it is intended to erect a small garden city. This year, however, numerous entertainments have been organised, and the first of these will take place on Whitsun Monday. A café chantant has been erected, where pastoral plays and variety entertainments will be held. Three military bands will be in attendance all day; a series of Old English sports and pastimes will occupy the attention of visitors; and a "go-as-you-please" race from the Brighton Hippodrome to the Dyke is causing much local excitement, the competitors for the silver cup being extremely numerous. The variety programme includes the names of Les Fedoras and Mlle. Sylvia du Barry.

Mr. Arthur Bright, who manages four of Mr. Montague's pierrot companies, opened with one of his troupes on Saturday last, and achieved such an enormous and instantaneous hit with two of the Monte Carlo Publishing Co.'s "Sixpenny Successes," viz., Mr. J. F. Lambe's "Widow Doolin" and Messrs. Lawrence and Mellor's "Bamboo Bungalow," that he has sent the Berners-street firm a most gratifying letter, in the course of which he states that during the thirteen or fourteen seasons he has worked outdoor entertainments, he cannot call to mind any songs that have caught on so enormously the first time of being introduced as these two have done.

The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. last week accepted from Mr. J. F. Lambe a charming new number, entitled "My Queen of Old Samara," which Miss Lil Hawthorne has arranged to "feature" at an early date. The same delightful artist is shortly producing Mr. H. K. Hamilton Field's quaint coon song, "That's your cactus over there," published by the same energetic firm at an early date.

Mr. Harry Nation's London concert party opens to-day (Saturday) at Mitchell's Athletic Grounds, Herne Bay. An extremely ingenious throwaway has been devised by Mr. Nation, and executed by Willsons, of Leicester, and not only Herne Bay visitors but the inhabitants of surrounding districts have not been permitted to escape or forget the fact of the existence of the merry crowd.

The Gardner-Brown vaudeville companies' popular variety combinations touring the East have won such favour recently that their operations will be considerably extended. They have a five years' reputation, and some of their engagements with artists originally for a few months have run into years. Particulars of salaries, &c., may be obtained by writing to the Manager, the Gardner-Brown Vaudeville Companies, care of Messrs. Soundy and Co., agents, Bombay.

Hercat, the humourist and illusionist, has produced at the Lyceum this week, with much success, a sketch entitled His House in Disorder.—Mr. Geo. Collins, the quaint comedian, returns on Monday to the Palace, Belfast, after only nine weeks' absence, and opens in London on Monday, June 11, for a fortnight.—Mr. Frank Coyle has this week produced a song entitled "The Two Flags," a comic descriptive ditty, by that well-known writer Mr. Albert Hall.

The Stanford Quartette and Concert Party (under the direction of Mr. Lloyd Stanford) start their summer tour to-day (Saturday), at Devonshire Park, Eastbourne, where they have been specially engaged by Mr. Standen Triggs to appear in the Floral Hall as his special Whitsuntide attraction, thus making their third visit to Eastbourne since February last.

The 465th meeting of the committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association was held on Tuesday, when Mr. Joe O'Gorman occupied the chair. Messrs. Harry Blake, Charles Coborn, Frank Gerald, Fred Herbert, Michael Nolan, Geo. Preston, Cliff Ryland, C. D. Stuart (secretary), and Douglas White (hon. treasurer) were also present. The minutes of the previous meeting having been passed, questions arising out of them were dealt with. Correspondence regarding the case in which a member alleged that a complaint addressed to the committee had been suppressed, was submitted in proof that the matter had been duly dealt with by the executive then in office, and the secretary's explanation was accepted by the present meeting as thoroughly satisfactory.

A letter was read informing the committee of the decease, some time since, of Mr. H. Bennett Baily, the hon. medical officer for Streatham, and his name was ordered to be removed from the list. Mr. Jabez Barber, of the Poplar Inn, Ilkeston, was appointed agent for the Association in that town. The hon. treasurer's financial statement, showing that the amount standing to the Association's credit was £1,179 1s. 6d., was read and passed. The secretary's statement for the week was read, the additions to the roll of membership being forty-nine, the receipts £48 6s., and the expenditure £11 6s. 1d. The question regarding the institution of an office in Liverpool again came up for discussion, and it was agreed that it was a matter that should be left for the annual general meeting.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE SURREY.

On Monday evening was produced here a new one act dramatic episode, by Percival H. T. Sykes, entitled

"THE LAST OF THE FOPS."

Colonel Fobes .....MR. CHARLES FROME
Captain C. Georges .....MR. ERNEST LAYTON
William Macky .....MR. FRANK CLINTON
Major Frank Perry .....MR. CHARLES HENDIN
Lord Bertie Furgeson .....MR. PERCY MURRAY
Lady Biddy .....MISS ADA MURRAY
Hanah .....MISS MAY RIGHT
Lady Rose White .....MISS LENA PENROSE

The story opens in the garden of Lady Biddy's mansion on the afternoon of a reception given by her ladyship in honour of Lord Bertie Furgeson, who has been appointed to carry out a most important diplomatic mission, and who is to receive his despatches that afternoon from the hands of the Cabinet Minister's daughter, Lady Rose White. Lord Bertie has the reputation of being a vain and affected fop; but his intimate friends know that under the thin veneer of the dandy lie all the latent strength and courage of a high-bred English gentleman. Captain Georges, an unscrupulous officer, being hard up, and closely pressed by creditors, has accepted a secret commission from the Turkish Government to secure a copy of the despatches to be entrusted to Lord Bertie. As a reward for his treachery he is to receive £5,000. Captain Georges overhears Lord Bertie telling Major Perry that he is to receive the despatches that afternoon, and is determined to gain possession of them. Lady Biddy, in a quiet chat with her niece Lady Rose, hints that it is possible Lord Bertie will ask her to be his wife, and strongly advises her to accept him, but Lady Rose tells her aunt that she has an utter contempt for a "fop," whose dandified manners are the jest of Society, and discloses the fact that his lordship's friend, Major Perry, is her ideal of a man. When all the guests are assembled, Lady Rose lets her friends see that she prefers the attentions of the major to that of his friend; but Frank Perry is loyal to Lord Bertie, and sings his praises, recounting brave deeds of his that are only known to his intimates. After the reception Lord Bertie declares his love to Lady Rose, and begs her to marry him. She tells him that another has won her heart, and asks him to let them still be as before, "friends." She also takes from her bodice the despatches, and hands them to Lord Bertie. Captain Georges, who has been in hiding, comes forward, and demands them, remarking that he means to have the papers "by fair means or foul." Lord Bertie hands the documents back to Lady Rose. This incenses the captain, who, drawing a revolver, fires at Lord Bertie, and switching off the lights, rushes towards Lady Rose. Her screams bring in the guests, and when the lights are turned up Lord Bertie is found to be fatally wounded with the despatches firmly grasped in his hand. Lady Rose explains what has occurred, and is filled with remorse at her treatment of Lord Bertie, who drops dead at her feet.

In the title-rôle Mr. Percy Murray gives an admirable character-study of the dandy, Lord Bertie, and both in his love passages with Lady Rose, and his encounter with the traitor Captain Georges, is full of artistic resource and power. As my Lady Biddy Miss Ada Murray gives a delightful impersonation of an aristocratic dame, and endows the character with womanly gentleness and dignity. Miss Lena Penrose, in the rôle of Lady Rose, is charming, though a little lacking in feeling. As the peppery old Colonel Fobes, Mr. Charles Frome is remarkably good; Mr. Ernest Layton as the traitor Captain Georges is careful to invest the part with all the necessary villainy; Mr. Frank Clinton as the valet Macky has little to do, but does that little thoroughly and well; and the same may be said of Miss May Right as the maid Hanah. A special word of praise is due to Lady Margaret, who sang charmingly a verse of "Dear Heart" in the drawing-room scene. This scene also deserves the highest meed of praise, for rarely has a more elegant and complete set been seen on the variety stage. On the whole, The Last of the Fops, with its pretty incidental music, is a very vivid and interesting production.

In direct contrast to the above, Messrs. Tom Craven and Stephen Adeson, with a clever company, are provoking unlimited mirth in their miniature comedy, The Lady in Red. Briskly and amusingly played, Messrs. Craven and Adeson's untiring efforts are loyally supported by Miss Rita Tomkins as the angry wife, and Miss Marie Shields as her pugilistic sister. Almost on the same lines is the farcical episode Barmaids, admirably played by Miss Hulo Hodgson, Mr. Henry Lowther, and an energetic company. Fun and sentiment are illustrated in a most entertaining manner by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux in two films, "Mrs. Brown's Bad Luck" and "True to Her Trust." Time has dealt kindly with that evergreen versatile comedian, Mr. Charles Coborn. His typical character-sketches are most artistic, while his topical ditty, "Four fingers and a thumb," brings down the house. Reilly and Taylor, Dutch comedians; Frank Cumminger, whose sand and buck dancing is a revelation of hard work and skill; Mlle. Sylvesto, a pretty and graceful contortionist; and Larry Lewis, comedian, also contribute to the long and well-varied programme.

THE DUCHESS.

Admirers of the pretty Duchess at Balham are constant in their devotion, and Mr. Walter Gibbons may well regard the hall as among the most prosperous of his enterprises. Mr. George L. Wilson, the popular manager, has worked hard to maintain the prestige of what is manifestly the only place of amusement in the busy suburb, with the consequence that select audiences, representative of the best people in the district, are attracted. A flavour of novelty is given to the present week's bill by the inclusion in the programme of the Ten Loonies, whose description of insane instrumentalists is well borne out by their manipulation of all sorts of articles from which music may be extracted. Laughter as well as melody is made in their sketch entitled Dotty, the significance of the title becoming fully apparent. One performer does some clever tricks on a pianoforte, and all the members of the troupe give selections, very brief, but sufficient to show that they are talented musicians.

Eccentricity in the musical art is also displayed by Kloof and Ramsay, who play a banjo solo between them. The impedimenta of the tea-table is also brought into requisition, tunes being extracted from cups and saucers, and from the interior of a plum cake. The lady afterwards sings a pretty ballad, to which an obbligato is supplied by her companion, who uses his partner's picture hat for the purpose. The item is skilfully presented, and wins well-deserved appreciation. A pathetic turn is given to the programme by the appearance of the Blind Collier Boy, who is stated to have come from the coal-pit to the stage. He plays "Alice, where art thou?" on the Japanese fiddle, and a popular selection from Belphegor on the concertina, and is rewarded with the heartiest and most sympathetic cheers.

An animated scene is furnished by C. St. John Denton and Geo. Rowland's company, introducing the Punch and Judy Girls, and consisting of about a score of dainty maidens, who join blithely in song and dance. They are marshalled by an itinerant showman, who leaves his box to direct the entertainment presented by the juveniles. Two wee lassies supplement a duet about "Old Man Moon" with a little dance, in which some clever pirouetting is done; and another pretty mite sings of a "coon baby," and adds a clever little dance. The interlude is smartly executed, and gives evident pleasure. The Brothers Ashley create abundant amusement with their sketch, Next, Please, enacted in a barber's shop, the owner of which is indefatigable in his efforts to create mirth. There is a lively bout between a bully and a prize-fighter, in which the services of the ex-7st. 4lb. champion are engaged, and the way in which he administers "punishment" to his adversary, who is finally "knocked out," is quite exciting.

Dancing is the chief recommendation of Miss Alma Gray, an Australian young lady, who appears in the picturesque costume associated with the land of the kangaroo. She also sings remarkably well about "My little bush girl," and her dancing possesses a neatness and novelty which well-deserves the applause evoked. Mr. Walter Stanley cuts a comic figure as a little boy who yearns to get "as old as father," and later rouses enthusiasm by the clever verses attached to the refrain, "I'm glad I live in England," the grotesque steps with which he embellishes the song being well done. The all-embracing cinématograph has now taken hold of poular novels for illustration, that for this week being Dickens's famous story, "Oliver Twist," of which the most interesting portions are depicted. A feature of the exhibition has also been the representation on the Imperial Bioscope of the race for the Derby, which was announced to be presented on the very evening of the event. The Smythsons are seen in a comedy sketch, entitled Love Germs, which is provocative of considerable laughter; and the programme is also contributed to by Mr. Walter Clyde, tenor vocalist. Mr. B. Ross is the new acting-manager of the Duchess, the orchestra being carefully controlled by Mr. Chas. Longmaid.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

The shouts of laughter that rang through the house when Mr. Will Evans tumbled on to the stage on Monday evening served as a tribute to the popularity of that comedian in Walthamstow. He is in the best of spirits this week, and simply keeps his hearers in fits of laughter every moment he occupies the stage. After a lot of amusing "chaff" and song, he introduces the audience to that terrible forecast of "The 1910 Invasion," which simply makes people rock in their seats. It is but fair to add that Mr. Evans is really cleverly supported by his un-named "army." Mr. Arthur J. Barclay is always sure of a safe card when he plays Will Evans. Mr. Geo. French's troupe of acrobatic cyclists richly deserve the applause and the laughter that are awarded their clever and amusing act. The Brothers Bright make a great success in their graceful gymnastic performance, their exhibition of strength being only equalled by the elegance with which it is all accomplished. Mr. James Fawn is too old a public favourite to require repeated adulation, but his two songs, that of the policeman, "What would you do with me?" and "The Henpecked Jossers' Club," prove that his powers show no falling off. The Snow Family are loudly applauded for their grotesque skating, the exploits of at least three of their members being things to remember. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, with new films, still retains its place as one of the most popular features at this house. The principal place, both in artistic excellence and in actual time, is occupied by an entirely new "dramatic playlet," entitled Under the Seal, written by Mr. William Felton, and played by Miss Margaret Parker and her company. The "seal" in this case is that of the confessional, and, although many persons may object to the exhibition on the stage of the variety theatre of the most sacred symbols, there is little in this "playlet" that can reasonably offend the sensibilities of the most fastidious. The story is a strange combination of low-comedy and high-tragedy, and these two diametrically opposite ingredients are well displayed in the part of Bet, "a gutter brat," played by Miss Margaret Parker. This young lady has evidently in her the grit of which great actresses are made, and we should not be surprised if she came rapidly to the front. The alternating moods of tragedy and comedy are cleverly shown, and the audience watches with amusement the playfulness of he faithful servant girl, her boisterous, spirits, her nervous tension, and the pathos of her death scene. Miss Parker's success is undoubted. Mr. Herbert Harden is calm, dignified, sonorous, as the conscience-stricken priest, Father David; Mr. Morrice Seaton is strong and emphatic as the murderer; and Mr. E. J. Woolley is more than usually realistic as P.C. 147. The scene is laid in Father David's living-room, and is a well-arranged set. Under the Seal has been received with well-earned applause.

BARNARD'S, GREENWICH.

As is the rule at this popular hall, the programme is of the most liberal kind, both in quantity and quality, and the comfort of the visitor is well looked after by the courteous manager, Mr. Bert Dent. On the night of our visit the first item on the programme after the well-played overture was the turn of Mr. Percy Dalton, the clever young comedian and dancer, who was very warmly received. Next came Mr. George Scott, refined ballad vocalist and humorist, with a capital recitation, entitled "Chinese Labour," and an excellent song, "Something missing." Miss Frances Manners followed with two well-rendered numbers, entitled respectively, "Good old days," and "When the blue moon shines." Calvin Clarke's company appeared with success in their dramatic sketch, in three scenes, In London's Heart. Great credit is due to everyone concerned in this clever contribution. Miss Ivy Galland made a most successful appearance, and delighted all by her singing of "Kitty" and "Get away back home." She was followed by the Original Passmore Brothers, whose quaint style and smart patter caused much amusement in their entertainment known as Soldiers and their Maids. Next came Selman with a humorous rendering of "The Man in the Moon" and "Dreaming." The Moretons were responsible for much laughter in a well-acted trifle of farcical type, entitled The Downfall of Julia. Mabel Sinclair, the popular lady ventriloquist, gave a bright little entertainment, aided by her little coster boy; and last, but not least, among the artists appearing was the much-talked-of French comedienne, Eugene Fougère, who contributed some well-sung characteristically French songs. The evening's bill was brought to a successful close by the exhibition on Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope of some new and interesting pictures, including "The Race for the Derby."

RICHMOND THEATRE.

This charming little theatre has been filling well during the week, during which variety lovers have been able to witness quite an excellent programme. The Sisters May win considerable favour as vocalists and dancers, being especially expert exponents of the art of Terpsichore. A novel and refined turn is given by the Four Cecilias, clever instrumentalists, who are equally at home as violinists, pianists, or trombonists, the Faust selection being really admirably rendered. There is no lack of fun in Welda and Wynn's act. To note the former devouring confectionery with the appetite of a Gargantua is a most amusing experience; and their balancing "business" is also good, one of the twain getting a lot of fun out of the "shedding" of innumerable waistcoats.

The Players are responsible for the presentation of a new farcical sketch, entitled Touched Up, which has been most favourably received. This merry little skit further illustrates the vagaries of Cupid. Sir Charles is jealous of his wife, who is sitting for a portrait to an impecunious artist; but the hero of the palette is enamoured of the Baronet's daughter. The usual obstacles stand in the way; but in the end the painter wins the consent of his future mother-in-law to his marriage, and at the same time teaches the jealous Baronet a lesson in love-making while that unfortunate gentleman is filling the rôle of a lay figure posed on a gas stove! Of course, all ends happily, and there is a general explanation and wedding bells. Bob is admirably played by Mr. Fred Conyers; Mr. Lewis Sealey is sufficiently irascible as Sir Augustus Swearer; and Miss Rose Temple is a dainty Dolly. Quite charming, too, is the impersonation of Lady Swearer by Miss Violet Ellicott. The Melody Four sing in tune and harmonise quite sweetly, richly deserving the applause showered on them. Mr. Cunningham's "deputy" proved an acceptable one; and Harry Roxbury's company in The Prince of Monte Carlo provided a highly diverting item. This musical mélange is superbly mounted, the dresses by Morris Angel and Son being beautiful. Mr. Paul Knox's lyrics are graceful, and the music is tuneful. The honours of the production fall to Mr. Jack Nightingale, who, as a bibulous, babbling member "of the force," keeps the house in a state of hilarious merriment. Lady Carr is capably enacted, and the rôle of the adventuress is also cleverly sustained. Vernon's bioscope is also an attraction. Norfolk Megone's orchestra contributes a capital selection from A Princess of Kensington.

AN ABANDONED SPECTACLE.

A proposed grand spectacle, entitled Balaclava, was the cause of an action against the London Coliseum, Ltd., on Monday. The plaintiffs are professionally known as the "Maxadelers," and are Mr. Harry Bruce, Mr. Eric Clarke, and Miss Ivy Alberto. In addition to the famous charge of the Light Brigade, there was to be a hand-to-hand sword fight between a beautiful English woman and a burly Cossack. As adjuncts to the stirring scene, it was proposed to put on the stage one hundred soldiers, twelve galloping horses, and four field guns, besides mortars and bombs.

This was the proposal the Maxadelers put before Mr. Oswald Stoll, managing-director of the Coliseum, the spectacle to be adapted from a play in the possession of the plaintiff, Mr. Harry Bruce, entitled The Two Hussars. The following letter had been written to Mr. Stoll:—

DEAR SIR,—Permit me to bring to your notice the great military spectacle Balaclava, of which we hold the entire rights. This production should be of great interest to you, being, as it is, an incident of the Crimean War, and allowing scope for the employment of any number of supernumeries, the third and last scene depicting the Charge of the Light Brigade, a most realistic battle scene, with real horses, and containing one of the finest sword fights ever attempted on the stage. This last scene has always aroused the audience to a great pitch of enthusiasm when done on a small scale, and we feel sure that, with your resources, it would prove a sensation that would be the talk of London in a week. We should be pleased to call upon you at your convenience to discuss the matter more fully, and submit you sketches of the striking tableaux of the spectacle. Hoping for the favour of a reply, yours truly, MAXADELERS.

The plaintiffs, after hearing from Mr. Stoll, said they proceeded to make models, &c., on which they expended £1,500. When everything was put into trim, however, the defendant company said the "proposal was impossible." The plaintiffs now sued for damages for breach of an alleged contract, or, alternatively, for remuneration for work done. The latter was put down at £1,500, and, in addition, £400 was claimed for the invention of the spectacle.

The defendants denied that there was any contract, or that the work was done at their request.

After hearing some evidence for the plaintiffs, his lordship held that there was no evidence of a promise to pay for any work done, and finally judgment was entered for the defendants, with costs.

THE LATE JOHN DEE HUMPHREYS.

The letter from Mr. Arthur Reeve, published in our columns recently, draws attention to the necessity for helping Mrs. Humphreys and her family. We strongly commend this most deserving case to the generosity of the showman world.

The many friends of the deceased, who was one of the founders of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, will, we are confident, now that they know the uregent necessity of the case, respond with readiness to this appeal.

During the whole course of a laborious and honourable career John Dee Humphreys was ever ready to assist his brother showmen. His open-handed generosity and unfailing kindness endeared him to a wide circle of friends and comrades in the circus and show world.

The object of the fund is to enable the widow and family to maintain their home until such time as the children are able to earn an income sufficient for that purpose.

ROSARIO GUERRERO, the famous Spanish dancer, has returned to the Palace Theatre, and in the pantomime called The Daughter of the Mountain, in which she makes her reappearance with Philippe Dufarre as a bandit chief, is as graceful and fascinating as ever.

AT the Royal, Oldham, on Monday, Mr. Dottridge intends presenting a new turn, viz., Harwood's Juveniles in a scena, The Children's Christmas Night, of which great things are anticipated.

A CORRESPONDENT writes, apropos to the Coliseum, as follows:—"It is certain that there is ample value in the land and buildings to cover all the liabilities disclosed by the directors' last report. The land, over an acre in extent, was secured on very favourable terms, the actual cost being under 4s. 2d. per square foot ground rent. Land in Shaftesbury-avenue was recently let by public auction at over 7s. per square foot, and in Aldwych 9s. per square foot was offered—the land in both instances being required for places of public entertainment. A site adjoining Trafalgar-square should be as valuable for a place of entertainment as one near the Law Courts. On this hypothesis the Coliseum site, as vacant land, would realise sufficient to pay everybody in full."

"THE KING OF SAHARA."

Burlesque Sketch, Book by Joe Peterman, Music by Mark Strong, Lyrics by W. Sullivan, Additional Numbers by Harry Wellmon, Produced at the Oxford, on Monday, May 28.

Count Nobandy .....MR. EDWARD LEWIS
Lord Denham .....MR. ERNEST LEICESTER
Hermann Zimmerman .....MR. LAURI DE FRECE
Millicent Chetwynd .....MISS LULU VALLI
Phyllis Durrant .....MISS GLADYS WARD
Isie Ikestein .....MR. JOE PETERMAN

It seems Mr. Joe Peterman's mission in life—always for a consideration, bien entendu—to present himself on the stage as a Jew of the cunning, and, in a sense, amusing type, and, after scraping up a few crude notions of ancient pantomime and traditional musical comedy, to weave round himself the semblance of a plot. He then attaches thereto songs and choruses, and calls the mixture a burlesque sketch. The best thing about The King of Sahara, for which Mr. Peterman claims the chief responsibility, is the chorus, which includes number of attractive and tastefully-dressed young ladies—among them the Eight Boulevard Girls, who look exceedingly handsome in the costumes specially designed by Jack Harrison, of Leicester-square. There are two special numbers by Harry Wellmon—"William Henry," sung by Miss Lulu Valli, a bright, pleasing, and refined musical comedy actress, and "Dreams," introduced by Mr. Jack Donald into the second scene. The melody of the latter will be better appreciated when matters go smoother than they did on Monday evening. The central idea of the sketch is to burlesque M. Lebandy, who figured in Paris a year or so since as the Emperor of the Sahara. In the production he is known as Count Nobaudy, and buys from Phyllis Durrant, an adventuress, through the agency of Messrs. Ikestein and Zimmerman, for the trifling consideration of a quarter of a million, the Sahara Desert, it being suggested that the remaining portion of Africa belongs to the Jews. Flattered naturally at the idea of becoming an absolute ruler over a trackless waste, the Count starts for his kingdom, and appoints Ikestein his General-in-Chief, the post of Admiral of the Fleet being given to Zimmerman. They charter a vessel to take the Count to his kingdom, and are shipwrecked off the coast of Africa, where a timely rescue is effected by Lord Denham, who takes the entire party in his yacht to Monte Carlo, on condition that the King will relinquish his claim to the hand of his (Denham's) fiancée, Miss Chetwynd. Phyllis, unable to obtain money from Ikestein, threatens to give the show away to the Count, but is checkmated by the wily Jew, who wriggles out of the situation, and the curtain falls, leaving the Count perfectly satisfied that, although he has not become the King, he has certainly seen life. There is humour of a kind in the discussion of the terms of an agreement between the shady financiers and the Count, and a further attempt to force laughter by the introduction of a game of poker, with the downy Hebrew partners in the rôles of card-sharpers working some stale pantomime business. Mr. Edward Lewis, a comedian who has had much provincial experience in leading parts, does all that is possible with the lines of the Count, and is resourceful in humorous business; but he has to make bricks without straw. Mr. Ernest Leicester, who has done excellent work both at the Surrey and with Mr. George Alexander at the St. James's, is absolutely wasted on such a part as Lord Denham. Mr. Lauri de Frece has decided ability as a comedian, and will no doubt work up the part of Zimmerman. Miss Gladys Ward is fascinating and effective as the adventuress; and of Miss Lulu Valli we have already spoken. Mr. Peterman has the trick of caricaturing the Jew that became popular in the drama of thirty years ago. Personally, we have no objection to any Israelitish actor presenting his own race in a contemptible light; but we are glad it is not done by a Gentile. The King of Sahara must be worked up considerably if it is to have a run. The performance on Monday owed much to the stage-management of Mr. George Womack and the musical direction of Mr. W. Burgess. Mr. Ernest Jones is responsible for some capital scenery.

To the variety portion of the programme, Mr. Fred Earle makes an early—no pun intended—contribution, and the reception given to him has all the cordiality that is meted out to old favourites. At the other end of the programme is Mr. T. E. Dunville, who is called "the funny man" on the programme. To justify such a description, Mr. Dunville must get a more humorous number than his song and patter concerning a museum guide. Miss Emmeline Orford and Mr. Edwin Brett present with well-deserved success their excellently-written and cleverly-conceived duologue, The Two Lovebirds; Miss Frances Kapstowne has a song of the farmyard, in which she introduces imitations of animals; the Sisters Wingrove, indifferently made-up, indulge in an old-fashioned style of duet which is not likely to advance their reputation: Mr. Ernest Shand scores his customary success in "Bachelors" and "What curious weather we're having"; the Poluskis have excellent reasons for being satisfied with their burlesque of the song and dance business; Mr. Harry Randall's down-trodden dame who has married a flute-player is as funny as ever; Clark and Hamilton are as popular as usual as the tramp pianist and the New York belle; and that bright and fascinating soubrette, Miss Rachel Lowe, who scored so many triumphs at this house as the slavey in the farcical sketch, A Private Séance, is now demonstrating her histrionic capabilities in a couple of bright and catchy numbers. Other popular contributors to the excellent programme engineered by Mr. Albert Gilmer are Mr. George Robey, Miss Winifred Hare, and Fraser and Haley.

MR. HORACE WHEATLEY IN BRISTOL.

Bristol Evening News, Sept. 18, '05: Horace Wheatley, the celebrated Irish comedian and dancer, has a budget of popular songs and some amusing patter, which kept people in a continuous roar while he was on the stage.

Evening Times, Sept. 18, '05: Horace Wheatley, an Irish comedian, is irresistible; his songs, patter, make-up, and accompaniments all contribute to this, and heartier laughter has not been heard for a good long time. His McIntyre's opera will take a lot of beating for the real mirth it excites. His step-dancing, in neatness and style, is an eye-opener, and the gallery, which can judge, gives a decided verdict in his favour.

Evening Echo, Sept., '05: Horace Wheatley, the celebrated comedian and dancer, the original McIntyre, is always certain of a hearty welcome wherever he goes. His Irish songs and patter are as good and as fresh as ever.

FANNY ROBINA, Billie Bint, and Harry Revell's great combination company, at the Lyceum Theatre, Crewe, has been meeting with great success, and it is a long time since such a talented company has visited the house.

MISS MAY EDOUIN and Mr. Fred Edwards, who for some years past have been performing A Bachelor's Dream with great success in England, America, and the Colonies, have purchased a new piece, La Bella Chiquin, by Frank Rogers. It is Miss Edouin's intention to shortly perform single turns, but she will, however, appear at all times in the same halls as Mr. Edwards, who has engaged for the title-rôle of La Bella Chiquin a well-known West-End actress.

THE HIPPODROME.

One may easily "hae his doots" about the correctness of Robbie Burns's dictum that Nature "Her prentice hand she tried on man, And then she made the lassés O!" when one is face to face with such fine specimens of manhood as the Three Olympiers, who came to the Hippodrome on Monday with a statuary entertainment. They pose in the nude, and their artistic realisations of bronze groups are admirable. They are fine, powerful, muscular young fellows, and their exhibition is both novel and interesting. The groups which have been chosen and represented precisely as prescribed and executed by the greatest sculptors of ancient and modern times are realised most perfectly, the illusion being aided by a secret process whereby the naked bodies of the performers are coated with a preparation of bronze. On the curtain rising a second curtain of royal purple, embroidered with gold, is revealed, forming a background to the Olympiers, who pose on a massive-looking gilt plinth. The subjects realised by the "living bronzes" are mostly classical. Among the finest of the studies are "The Messenger of Victory from Marathon"—a swift runner bearing the news to the city of Athens, ten miles away, of the great victory of Miltiades over the Persian hosts—in which the solitary figure is the perfection of alertness and grace; and "The Fighting Brothers," by Socco. The latter was "encored," if we may use that much-abused term—a similar fate being in store for the "Atlas Group," after E. Wenk, and "A Battle Scene." Considerable enthusiasm was aroused by the final group, "A la Patrie," a beautiful and a stirring realisation of the sentiment expressed in the sentence, "Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori." Other groups included, "Mucio Scævola," after the antique; "The Spring," by Heuer; "The Iron Age," after Lançon; and "Ajax with the body of Patroclus," after the antique. The training of the young athletes must have been long and tedious, for even the strongest muscles could not be made to preserve such iron rigidity in a few weeks. This rigidity greatly enhances the effect, as the figures look not merely as though they were coated with bronze, but as if actually cast from it. The illusion, indeed, is perfect.

A very remarkable performance of its kind, and one that is a novelty to London, is the paper manipulation, or, rather, paper tearing, of Morton and Elliott, who, while they are duetting in the much-hackneyed "Alice, where art thou?" produce remarkable and fantastic pyramids of paper, as well as beautiful "open work" designs, resembling patterns of the richest lace curtains. Such exquisite creations, secured by such apparently simple means, are certainly entitled to the enthusiastic applause which greets them nightly. Staley's transformation act has been seen before in London, and the lightning change from a cooper's workshop, with harmonious "tub thumpers" in working attire, to a fashionable modern drawing-room graced by a couple of musical gentlemen in faultless evening dress and a lady dancer, is one of those things that "no fellow can understand," as Lord Dundreary would say. Just as quick is the change back from the salon to the workshop. The musical selections are decidedly good; but something more modern than the "Miserere" scene from Il Trovatore might be chosen by the violinist of the party. Every musical combination selects it. Alexandre and Hughes seem to be chartered libertines in the matter of jest, and their colloquies with Mr. Otho Twigg, the ring master—a capital "feeder," are heartily enjoyed. When not joking the pair play extremely well on mandolines and guitars. Lavater Lee has become quite indispensable at the Hippodrome, and revives recollections of the best traditions of arenic clowning. The jesters of an earlier period were trained in every form of "ring craft," and one easily discovers that Mr. Lee is not only a capital humorist, but a fine acrobat. His act with his performing donkey also adds to the attractiveness of his stay. O'Gust is a French clown with a capital series of animal imitations; and Spessardy's educated bears are gentle, harmless creatures, who readily obey their trainer, and cause considerable laughter by their good-humoured readiness to do tricks for which nature has scarcely fitted them.

Inaudi, the marvellous calculator, can discover by mental process the square root of four places of figures, and gives on the instant the day of the week of dates given by the audience. Nicety of calculation, wonderful delicacy of balance, and marvellous manipulation are shown by Paul Cinquevalli in his juggling performance with every conceivable kind of object. There is only one Cinquevalli, and he is as brilliant and as perfect and as graceful as ever. Die Obersteirer Tyrolean Troupe bring the freshness of their native Alps across the footlights, and delight us with the music of the merry Swiss boy. The perfection of athletic prowess and gymnastic grace is found in varying degrees in the revolving globe act of the Goltz Trio, the equestrian acrobatism of Les Bastiens, the horizontal bar act of McPhee and Hill, and the tumbling show of the Trapnells. The Leslie Brothers combine music and fun very happily in their well-conceived, clever, and eccentric act. The Flood, with its wonderful storm and deluge, is a spectacle that can be enjoyed during the hottest summer day, the atmosphere of the arena being rendered delightfully cool by the marvellous realisation of the "bursting of the tarn."

MISS VESTA TILLEY IN NEW YORK.

Miss Vesta Tilley is repeating her former triumphs, and is attracting huge audiences, comprising the best society people in New York, at every performance at which she appears. Miss Tilley is not appearing at the Sunday night performances, Mr. Percy G. Williams announcing that he makes this exception in Miss Tilley's engagement, owing to the number of songs she is compelled by her admirers to sing at each performance. At the Colonial, where Miss Tilley made her first appearance, the entire house was sold out for the two weeks she was billed to appear before she opened her engagement, and, as Mr. Williams increased the prices of admission during Miss Tilley's stay, owing to the very large salary he is paying her, the record for this house is safe in Miss Tilley's keeping, notwithstanding the fact that she plays only six nights in the week. Again, at the Orpheum, one of the largest vaudeville houses in New York, the entire house is sold out for every performance at increased prices, and this is the only house playing to capacity in greater New York during the present hot spell, with the glass registering 90deg. Miss Tilley plays the Alhambra, New York, for one week, May 28, and a farewell week at the Colonial, June 4, sailing for England per SS. Celtic, June 15. Negotiations were opened with Moss' Empires, Ltd., for a postponement of the dates held by Miss Tilley with this firm to allow her to remain a further thirty weeks in America, Messrs. B. F. Keith, Kohe and Castle, the Orpheum Circut, and Mr. P. G. Williams, offering her $2,500 (£500) per week for thirty weeks; but Mr. Stoll cabled his regret that he could not postpone Miss Tilley's engagements in England. Miss Tilley will return to American in 1907 to fulfil a brief engagement with Mr. Williams, at a salary working out at $10 (£2) per minute for every minute she occupies the stage, and again in 1908, to play thirty weeks with the combined managers.

MR. ALFRED APPLEYARD (the well-known Terrier), who has for so longed helped the profession in their legal troubles, has changed his address from Chancery-lane to that of Messrs. J. B. Roberts and Co., solicitors, of 312, Regent-street, W.

THE HEPWIX FILMS.

MESSRS. HEPWORTH'S PRIVATE VIEW.

A private view of some of the most celebrated Hepwix Films were given by the Hopworth Manufacturing Co., Ltd., early on Wednesday morning, in the firm's exhibiting room, at 15, Cecil-court, Charing Cross-road, W.C. The assemblage of spectators was a very small one, but, withal, a very select one, and if the opinions that were expressed as to the excellence of the pictures in every respect could be taken as an indication of their future popularity, then the success of these latest series is assured. Those who were not able to accept Messrs. Hepworth's invitation for Tuesday night may be glad to know that a similar exhibition will be given this afternoon at Cecil-court, after the usual theatre matinées.

A couple of striking new sets of pictures deal with the stories of "Dick Turpin's Ride to York" and "The Babes in the Wood." The former film is 1,000ft. long. The picture opens at the Jack Falstaff, Kilburn, the famous hostelry from which Dick Turpin started on his wonderful ride. Dick, with his friend Tom King, is seated at a table drinking, and, when finished, they go inside to settle the account. The landlord, anxious to secure the big reward which has been offered for Dick's capture, betrays him, and a terrific struggle ensues, in which Tom King is badly hurt, and Dick, after a hand-to-hand fight, manages to make his escape on his favourite horse, Black Bess. He is followed by the attorney, chief constable, and doctor on horseback, and a hot chase commences. In one village he unfastens the latticed window of a house by standing on his horse, enters a bedroom, and demands toll from the lips of a young lady, while with his pistol he subdues the irate mother, who gladly seeks protection beneath the bedclothes. The chase gets hotter and hotter as his pursuers ride up to change horses, and Dick escapes from the back of the inn while the man is parleying with his enemies. Dick meets an old woman just past the gallows where her son hangs, and is requested by her to bear a package to Sir Luke. Then he proceeds on his way as fast as his steed can take him. He stops the York coach, which is passing along the road, and demands to know where he can find Sir Luke, and, after obtaining the desired information, he rides on. Dick Turpin and horse are seen at the end of their journey to struggle on, both hard spent, the poor animal almost dropping as Dick delivers his precious packet to Sir Luke.

The film which gives the story of "The Babes in the Wood" is an exceptionally clear and vivid one, the various scenes having been, as far as possible, based on the beautiful pictures by Caldicott. The moonlight scene—the last of all—is particularly effective. Then we have an episode of the Derby, both tragedy and comedy being well represented. "The Professor's Dream" is one of the most elaborate productions ever staged for the cinématograph. A student of osteology is discovered eagerly examining a number of bones which have just been drawn up from some excavations. He finds the matter so engrossingly interesting that he insists upon being immediately lowered into the earth himself. Overcome with the intoxicating joy of scientific research, he falls into a deep sleep, in which he dreams of the original owners of the bones, meets with weird and uncouth monsters—dinosaurs, diplodocci, ichthyosauri, and other ungainly monsters whom it would puzzle any paleontologist to classify. The pictures are extremely amusing and cleverly conceived.

"Rescued by Rover" is a film with which many of us are already familiar, and here it may be of interest to say that the gentleman and the lady and their little daughter and faithful collie dog are all members of Mr. Hepworth's family. These scenes need no recommendation at this time. The Festiniog Railway is the subject of another series of fine views. The Festiniog is the pioneer of all light railways. The photographs in this case were taken from the window of one of the rear carriages, and we are introduced to some most wonderful scenery as the rolling stock runs round sharp curves, along narrow viaducts, and skirts deep precipices. "What the Curate really did" and "Alice in Wonderland" are also artistic cinématographic works. Altogether, to use a common phrase, the Hepworth Manufacturing Company have an exceedingly fine "show."

MISS LOUISA PEACH IN "PEGGY AND THE CURATE."

A sketch which is this week amusing visitors to the Cambridge Music Hall is that entitled Peggy and the Curate, presented by Miss Louisa Peach, supported in able fashion by Mr. Wellesley Draper and Mr. Conrad Clerke. The story can be told briefly. One Mr. Chudleigh and his daughter Peggy are about to be visited by a curate, whose friendship they feel they do not wish to cultivate. So they prepare a strange reception for him. He duly arrives, and is much startled by being saluted by a kiss from Peggy. Then the father appears on the scene, attired as a kind of Blue Beard, with rather vicious tendencies; in short, the curate feels that his life is in imminent danger, and, like a wise man, makes for the door. But Peggy frustrates the carrying out of that intention. She forces him upon a seat, on which she has previously placed a pin; she snatches his hat, and crumples it up and flings it on the floor; and she brandishes a murderous-looking dagger and invites the curate to personal combat. All this while the fun is fast and furious, but everything ends well when it is found out that the girl and her father have played their tricks upon the wrong curate, and then their affection and consideration for him is boundless. Miss Louisa Peach is extremely vivacious and lively in the rôle of Peggy, and gives evidence of considerable ability as a burlesque actress. Mr. Wellesley Draper treats us to an exceedingly laughable picture of an absurdly meek-and-mild curate, and the rôle is cleverly and skilfully handled. Mr. Conrad Clerke portrays, in commendable style, the character of the father, and in the earlier portion of the sketch furnishes a very interesting and lifelike study of an irritable old parent.

MESSRS. JOSEPH WILLIAMS have acquired the sole rights for Great Britain and the Colonies of the new French dance, "La Kraquette," composed by Justin Clerice, which is at present the rage of Paris. The well-known firm is also about to publish a march which was accepted by King Alfonso. It is composed by Mrs. Louisa Goffrie, of West Hampstead, and was performed on Thursday at the Royal marriage festivities.

FUNERAL OF MR. J. B. ELLIOTT.

On Sunday, amidst signs of deep sorrow and much respect, the mortal remains of Mr. James Bedford Elliott, of whose career we gave a sketch in our last week's issue, were interred at Middlesbrough. The funeral of the father of the world-renowned cycle troupe and musicians was from the house of deceased's eldest brother, Mr. Ralph Elliott, of 42, St. Paul's-road, Middlesbrough. The first part of the funeral service was conducted at St. Paul's Church by the Rev. J. W. E. Walker, B.A., Vicar of the parish. The following artists, who were fulfilling engagements in the district, acted as bearers: Griff, Arthur and Frank Haytor, Ted Cowen, Tom Hughes, James Elvis, James Caselli, and Baron Davis. Among those present were the family of deceased; Mr. Ralph Elliott (brother) and family, Mr. Joseph Elliott (brother) and family, Mrs. B. Robson (sister) and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bedford Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Rand, Miss K. Ferguson, Mrs. J. Conning, Mr. J. W. Thompson, Mr. Tom Thompson, Mr. A. Winterbottom (Chief Constable), Councillor R. Everton, Councillor J. E. Johnson, Messrs. J. F. Rhodes, A. Aydon, Jos. Hicks, A. Stonehouse, R. Rudd, T. Gill, Wm. Tonks, and others. Managers and proprietors were represented by Messrs. C. Rembges, of the Empire, Middlesbrough; T. Griffiths, of the Oxford, Middlesbrough; W. Batty, of the Grand Theatre, Stockton; W. Ainsworth, of the Hippodrome, Stockton; Harry Burns, of the Empress Theatre, Hartlepool; Wm. Tudor, proprietor of the Circus, Blyth; W. Greenfield, conductor of the Empire, Middlesbrough; and S. Sangster, of the New Bioscope Empire, Middlesbrough. Miss Minnie Cunningham and other lady artists, with Griff, the Brothers Haytor, Ted Cowan, Tom Hughes, Jas. Elvis, and Jas. Caselli represented the profession. A profusion of lovely wreaths ornamented the coffin, and an open landau laden with beautiful floral tributes, many of them designed as musical instruments, followed the hearse. Nine of them came from the family of the deceased. Others were sent by Mr. and Mrs. R. Elliott and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliott and family, Mr. and Mrs. B. Robson and family, Mr. D. J. Clarke, proprietor of the Argyle Theatre, Birkenhead; Mr. W. C. Horner, proprietor of the Empire, Burnley; Mr. Albert Bushell, manager of the Gaiety, Birmingham; Messrs. Bolam and Bacon, lessees, Metropole, Gateshead; Mrs. E. P. Veitch and Mr. C. Algie, of the Circus, Carlisle; Mr. and Mrs. B. Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. Temperley, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Potter and family, Pete Bishop and Ada Recardo, Mr. Tom Thompson, Mr. J. H. Thompson, Mr. J. Charnley, a few friends from Hartlepool, members of the orchestra of the Empire, Middlesbrough, members of the staff at the Empire, Middlesbrough, artists at the Empire and Oxford, Middlesbrough, and Wm. Berry and Co., of Bradford.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—There has recently appeared in the Press a report of a case heard at the Clerkenwell Sessions on the 22nd ult. During the trial a certain Detective Ratcliffe explained that the prisoner, Ernest Miller, had been in the employment of our client, Dr. Walford Bodie; that our client went on music hall stages and pretended to cure crippled people; and that the prisoner was one of the people employed to deceive the audiences by pretending to be cured. Our client instructs us to say that he has no recollection of the prisoner, Ernest Miller, and that he has never attempted to deceive the public by any bogus case, but, on the contrary, he has cured many cases, of which he has kept a record, and he is prepared to submit to anyone so desiring hundreds of unsolicited testimonials from rich and poor certifying to the good he has done. As the statements made by Detective Ratcliffe have been widely published, and are calculated to do our client much injury, we think it only right that, pending investigation by ourselves as to the identity of the prisoner, Ernest Miller, and an explanation by Detective Ratcliffe, for which we have written, the same publicity should be given to our client's denial as to the serious allegations themselves.—Your obedient servants,

J. R. ROBERTS & CO.,
Solicitors for Dr. Bodie.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

NEW YORK, MAY 23.—The Embarrassment of Riches, a comedy in three acts, by Louis Kaufman Auspacher, in which certain phases of life on the "East side" are reproduced with photographic accuracy, has been well received at Wallack's Theatre. The cast includes Miss Charlotte Walker, Mr. Bruce McRae, Mr. Stanley Darke, and Mr. John Bunny, who has made the hit of the piece as Ted Phelan, a typical Bowery politician.

"MISTAKES WILL HAPPEN," a farce-comedy in three acts, by Grant Stewart, now running at the Garrick Theatre, deals with the trials of a secretly wedded actor and actress, whose marriage is discovered by the manager of the Morality Theatre, whose contracts forbid matrimony. Summarily discharged, Tom Genowin, the actor, with little money and a rejected play, has to face poverty and a dressmaker's bill for several hundred dollars, incurred by his wife, Dorothy Mayland. Hunter-Chase, the wealthy owner of the boarding-house where the couple are staying, becomes infatuated with Dorothy, who seizes the opportunity to try to sell her husband's play to him. Meanwhile, Mrs. Hunter-Chase has engaged Tom Genowin to coach her in his play. Each couple, unknown to the other, plans for a rehearsal in the carriage-house, where Linda Kurz, the boarding-house "slavey," has gone to call upon the coachman. In trying to avoid each other the couples hide in the loft, behind horse blankets, in a handy coach, and in the oat bin, but are finally discovered. In the last act the complications are straightened out, and Hunter-Chase agrees to "star" Tom Genowin in his own play. Miss Edna Aug appears as the "slavey," who reminds everybody that she "iss Cherman and not Dutch, for there iss a difference," and is very amusing. Mr. Charles Harbury as Hunter-Chase, Mr. Tom Dickson as Tom Genowin, and Miss Rose Eytinge as the boarding-house mistress are very successful in their respective rôles.

"BROWN, OF HARVARD," the reigning attraction at the Princess Theatre, is a lively and interesting play, dealing with college life at Harvard. Brown is a high-principled young fellow, who strives to keep a weak youth in the straight and narrow path, and secretly helps another student, who is poor, to obtain his education. In the eyes of the latter, however, Brown is not a benefactor, but the villain who has wronged his sister, Brown sacrificing himself in order to screen the real culprit, who ultimately confesses and makes reparation. The various characters are cleverly drawn, and the excitement that prevails during an international boat-race is depicted in a realistic and stirring manner. The play was written by Miss Rida Johnson Young, and is her first effort. Mr. Henry Woodruff, a popular favourite, has scored a decided success in the title-rôle.

"THE PRINCESS BEGGAR," a comic opera in two acts, has been well received "on the road." The book is by Edward Paulton and the music by Alfred G. Robyn. The first act is laid in the throne-room of King Otto's palace, and the second at a hermitage on the Island of Ferns. Miss Paula Edwardes as Elaine, a girl of the woods, has scored a personal success in the new opera.

CHAT WITH MLLE. RENEE.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER).

"The Greatest Ocarina Player in the World."

Such is the position which Mlle. Renée, who has been recently delighting Pavilion audiences with her refined drawing-room entertainment, seems justly enough to hold. And the position, let it be said, has not been won in a day, or a week, or even a year. Miss Renée has been known to the stage for ten years, though, as a single turn, her connection with the halls is comparatively recent. She is the daughter of the well-known musician, Virto, and began her musical career at the age of seven years. Her first appearance was made at the Empire Theatre, Sheffield, then quite a recently-opened establishment, ten years ago. At that time she assisted her father in his act, accompanying him on the pianoforte to a clarionet solo. Since then she has appeared in conjunction with her father at all the principal variety theatres in Great Britain, with the exception of the period she spent at school in London and Paris. Mlle. Renée is a native of New York City, and came to this country at the age of two.

The engagement which is, perhaps, most vividly impressed upon the young artist's memory is one which took her and her father to Australia, under Mr. Harry Rickards' management. This was in 1899, the tour lasting for six months, and a highly-successful and enjoyable one she tells us it was. The little party arrived in Sydney Harbour at twelve o'clock one day, and opened at the matinée performance at the Tivoli the same afternoon—a smart piece of work. In the evening the hall was packed, many of her fellow-passengers taking seats. She recollects, too, that on that occasion she was presented with two of the largest bouquets she has ever received. Curiously enough, on the Monday following the Saturday which terminated their engagement at the Sydney Tivoli, the house was destroyed by fire. From that town they went on to Melbourne, where, at the Bijou Theatre, she and her father performed for nine weeks, this being followed by a fortnight at the Cremorne Gardens, Perth. At Sydney, by the way, where she stayed for thirteen weeks, her performance was witnessed and admired by Earl Beauchamp, the Governor of New South Wales. Of Australia and of Australian audiences Mlle. Renée speaks in the highest praise. She thinks the country is simply delightful. The only things that worried her were the mosquitoes and flying beetles, and if these creatures could only see themselves as others see them, and realise what a nuisance they are, perhaps they would tumble off the earth, or cease breeding, and then Australia would have to be re-named Paradise.

But the lady has other agreeable recollections. Some eight years ago, when she was of course much smaller than she is now, she was appearing at Birmingham, Mr. W. Welsh, the then Mayor of Douglas, I.O.M., happened to be seated in the stalls, and was so delighted with the child's masterful fingering on the pianoforte that he sent half-a-sovereign round to her. That piece of gold was not spent in buying chocolates, nor even a pinafore, nor an ostrich feather. No, it was carefully mounted and preserved, and anyone who wishes to see this very material recognition of latent talent can do so at the present time. And at Leicester, shortly afterwards, she was the recipient of a gold medal.

"My father," says Mlle. Renée proudly, "is the greatest post-horn player that ever lived." So you see there is no professional jealousy between the two. And Mistress Renée should know, for has she not accompanied him on the concertina, the pianoforte, the ocarina, and the bugle? And, in addition to these instruments, the young lady herself is an expert executant on the saxophone, the cornet, and the post-horn.

Which is the most difficult to play? "Well," answers the interviewee, "I experience the hardest work with the cornet. Of course, the blowing is good for the lungs, and I have never suffered from chest troubles. In fact, I think cornet exercise is an admirable health preserver."

Mlle. Renée, who made her début as a single turn at the Metropolitan Music Hall a few months ago, plays, among other compositions, Mascagni's "Intermezzo" and Sullivan's "Lost Chord" on the concertina; and lighter music, such as Leslie Stuart's works, on the saxophone; while for the ocarina polkas have been specially written for her.

The subject of this interview has a great admiration and affection for the rural parts of England, and she and her mother, who travel together, take an interest in places and buildings of historic interest. Miss Renée says she would like to have a theatre in the country; but it is absolutely imperative that the theatre be prettily situated, surrounded by green fields—a forest preferable—beautiful foliage, dainty rivulets, and picturesque glades. Why not? Why not——

Under a spreading chestnut tree
The ocarina plays.
The player blows a melody——

Ah! but then the birds would go on strike, and the yokels wouldn't work! And, furthermore, Our Own Commissioner is not a poet.

IT is doubtful whether, since the days when "The Bogey Man" drew nearly all London to the Mohawk Minstrels' place of entertainment at Islington, such a song on similar lines has been written, and one calculated to arouse as much interest, as the one just acquired by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter, and entitled "Hush, little girl." It is by A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott.

THE BILLING OF GUS ELEN.

The action of Mr. Gus Elen against the London Music Hall (Limited) and Mr. Charles Hector for damages for libel, which occupied the attention of Mr. Justice Grantham and a special jury for a couple of days, was decided on Thursday in favour of the famous coster comedian.

Mr. McCall, K.C., and Mr. Hugh Fraser (instructed by Messrs. Gibbs, White, and Strong) appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Duke, K.C., and Mr. Whately (instructed by Messrs. Amery, Parkes, and Co.) represented the defendants.

It was contended that, following County Court proceedings in which Mr. Elen secured damages for wrongful dismissal against the defendants respecting an engagement at the London, his name, instead of being "starred" on Collins's bills, appeared in an insignificant position in small type. It was contended that this was done to repay him for the success of his action in the County Court, and that Mr. Elen's professional reputation had suffered accordingly. The various sections of the music-hall world were well represented in court.

Mr. Elen, in the course of further examination, said that, following his action to recover damages against the defendants, on September 18 last, he began an engagement at Collins's. At first his name was properly displayed on the bills, but on Saturday, September 23, he saw a bill which had been printed for the ensuing week. On that bill Mr. Bert Gilbert's name was at the top, and his own was in very small type. "It might have been the price of admission from the size of it," added Mr. Elen. He went to Mr. Leslie, the defendant's assistant manager at Collins's, and asked what was the meaning of billing him in that manner. The manager went outside and had a look at the bill, remarking that it must be a printer's error. Plaintiff quite thought it would have been put right, but it was allowed to remain.

Questioned as to various artists, including Happy Fanny Fields, whose name appeared in larger type than his own, Mr. Elen said that Happy Fanny Fields was a prominent artist. He did not know what her salary would be.

Is she more prominent than you are?—I would not like to boast of myself. His salary at the time was £20 a week; but, of course, he was at liberty to appear at other houses and increase it. On the bill for the week beginning October 9 there was a very slight alteration, his name being in somewhat larger type. When he appeared at Collins's in April, 1906, his name was properly starred.

Mr. McCall said that bill was now produced to show, by comparison, what ought to be done.

Mr. Duke: If you managed our business.

Mr. McCall: If you managed your own business properly. (Laughter.)

Mr. Duke: Do they always put the best names at the top of the bill?—Not always.

There is no obligation upon them to bill you at all, is there?—They are not bound to, but it is the custom.

Mr. Justice Grantham remarked that in some cases as many as half a dozen counsel were engaged, but the names of some of them appeared very small. (Laughter.)

Mr. Duke: Yes, my lord, and I have often seen the names of counsel and interesting cases left out altogether. Why, I do not know. (Laughter.)

Mr. Duke produced a bill for the week commencing September 18—after the County Court proceedings—to show that the defendants had not been actuated by malice. The bill was headed "A very attractive programme," and Mr. Gus Elen's name appeared in large type at the top.

"Very nice," assented the plaintiff, amid laughter.

Do you really intend to suggest they were billing you improperly out of spite? By the second week the local public had had a week of your entertainment.—Yes, but they were not displeased with it. They wanted it just as much the second week as the first.

Was it not the fact that Mr. George Gray could not appear, and that Mr. Gilbert appeared in his place?—Probably it was because of the disgraceful way they billed him. (Laughter.) The damage done by such bills was that managers all over the country saw them, and said to themselves, "Gus Elen is coming down."

Percy Murray is a star?—I never heard of him.

Mr. Duke (reading from one of "Collins's" bills): "Special and expensive return engagement of Percy Murray and powerful company in the beautiful sketch, The Last Temptation. (Laughter.) It would be very damaging to Mr. Murray to hear that you said you had not heard of him?—I do not wish to say anything detrimental to him, but I have never heard of him. There were a great many such names he had passed over—they must have been printed too small. (Loud laughter.)

Mr. Duke: You are feeling more at home in the witness-box?—I would rather be on the stage. (Laughter.)

Mr. Justice Grantham: You must not grumble at Mr. Duke's opportunity. This is his stage, you know. (Laughter.)

The first of a string of music-hall celebrities who had been waiting to give evidence in support of Mr. Gus Elen's case to enter the box was Mr. T. E. Dunville, whose dry humour convulsed the court with laughter.

"Are you a music-hall comedian?" formally asked Mr. McCall.

Mr. Dunville: Alleged, sir. I have been accused of it. (Laughter.)

Mr. McCall: I didn't catch what he said.

Mr. Duke: He is somewhat nervous. (Laughter.)

Continuing, Mr. Dunville said he would expect to find a name like that of Mr. Gus Elen starred on a bill. The publication of his name in the way complained of would do him a great deal of injury.

Do they star you in the bill?—Occasionally.

Are you what is called a star?—I could not tell you. I think I am a little too earthly. (Laughter.)

I may call you a star without offence?—You may if you like.

You and Mr. Gus Elen together would be——

Mr. Justice Grantham: They would make a constellation. (Laughter.)

Witness: I should say we could make anything. (Laughter.)

If you were billed together, which would take the top place?—I could not say. They would bill us alike, I suppose.

You leave it to the music-hall manager, who thinks he can manage his own business better than you can?—He thinks. (Laughter.)

It is a pity a music-hall manager should think?—I think so. (Laughter.)

He ought to leave it to the artist, and it would run better?—Better for us. (Laughter.)

They always star you, I suppose?—Not always.

What do you do when they don't?—I kick up a row about it. (Laughter.)

How many times have you done so?—Once—up to now—at the Canterbury.

Mr. Duke (reading a bill): "T. E. Dunville," in small green type. What do you think could induce these people to commit such an outrage as that? (Laughter.) Had you any quarrel with them?—No.

Well, there you are, in that poster?—There I am not, it appears to me. I can hardly see my name. I hired a telescope to see it myself. (Laughter.)

You have not brought a county-court action against them?—Not yet. It is warming. (Laughter.)

Mr. Bert Gilbert said he appeared at Collins's on Sept. 25 last for a week. His name appeared at the top of the bill, Mr. Gus Elen's being in very small type. He considered that that was calculated to injure the plaintiff's reputation.

Mr. George Chirgwin, asked how many years' experience he had had, replied, "All my life."

Mr. Justice Grantham: You are something like a lady, then. You do not like to state your age. (Laughter.)

Witness said he had had over forty years' experience. The publication of Mr. Elen's name in the way complained of would injure him in his profession.

Mr. Harry Randall also was briefly examined, expressing similar views.

Mr. Justice Grantham: That will do, thank you. Sorry we have not had a performance from you. (Laughter.)

Mr. Whately, in opening the defendants' case, said the charge against his clients was most serious. He contended that it was idle to say that the publication of the bill in question had injured the plaintiff in any way.

Mr. William Henry Burney, one of the directors of the London Music Hall, said he gave no orders that Mr. Elen's name was to be put in an inferior position on the bill. He left the matter in Mr. Hector's hands. There was no foundation for the suggestion that he wished to injure the plaintiff. They tried to arrange a fresh programme every week and to put forward fresh attractions if possible. Twenty pounds per week was not a remarkable salary on the music-hall stage—many artists received more. There was no custom as to "starring" an artist unless he had a contract which entitled him to be starred.

Besides Mr. Burney, Mr. Charles Hector (manager of "Collins's" and the London Music Hall at the time the bills in question were issued) and other gentlemen prominent in the management of music-halls gave evidence in support of the contention that no injury had been done Mr. Elen, and that managers have the right to exercise their own discretion as to who should be "starred."

In summing up, Mr. Justice Grantham held that there was a custom which gave the music-hall artist the right to have his name printed on music-hall bills in certain type. It had been held, not only by him, but by the Court of Appeal, that it was a libel to print the name of such a performer in a different type and position to that to which the artist was entitled.

After a short deliberation, the jury returned a verdict for Mr. Gus Elen, assessing the damages at £35. Judgment was entered accordingly.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

THE CANTERBURY.

The Theatres and Music Halls Committee reported as follows:—The Council on Nov. 24, 1905, granted a licence for music and dancing to Mr. George Adney Payne for the Canterbury Music Hall, Westminster Bridge-road, subject to an undertaking that certain approved proposals with regard to the exits, or such alterations as might be determined to be necessary by an arbitrator appointed under Section 11 of the Metropolis Management and Building Acts Amendment Act, 1878, should be executed without delay, and that until the necessary works had been completed the number of persons admitted to the balcony and gallery should be limited to 500 in each part. The reasons which made it necessary to endorse such an undertaking on the licence were dealt with very fully in the report which was submitted on Nov. 24, 1905. This undertaking has not been signed by Mr. Payne, nor has the work required by the Council been begun, and we think therefore that a notice under Section 11 referred to, embodying the requirements of the Council which have not been complied with, should be served on the owner of the premises. On the service of this notice, the owner can apply for an arbitrator to be appointed by H.M. First Commissioner of Works to determine whether the Council's requirements are reasonable or not. The arbitrator's decision in such a case is final, and in the event of the requirements not being upheld, the Council will be relieved of any responsibility for the safety of the public, so far as it may be affected thereby. On the other hand, in view of the fact that a sealed notice with regard to the premises was served by the Metropolitan Board of Works in 1883, and having regard to the decision of Mr. Justice Channell in the case of the St. James's Hall Company v. the London County Council, the owner may be able to obtain an injunction to restrain the Council from acting on the notice. In such an event, however, the question whether the requirements deemed necessary by the Council in the interests of public safety were reasonable or not would not be affected, and the Council, when sitting in its capacity of licensing authority, would have to seriously consider whether it could take the responsibility of granting a licence for a building which it did not consider reasonably safe in the event of fire or panic. Until the Council has served a notice under the Act of 1878, it cannot be said to have used its structural powers to the fullest extent, or to have given the owner an opportunity of having an independent opinion as to the necessity for the Council's requirements. The Committee therefore recommended that a notice under Section 11 of the Metropolis Management and Building Acts Amendment Act, 1878, be prepared by the solicitor, containing the requirements with regard to the premises known as the Canterbury Music Hall, Westminster Bridge-road. These requirements included the following: That all wood, linings, ceilings, partitions, &c., be removed from all parts of the music hall, and that wherever wood construction is exposed by so doing, plaster on metal lathing be substituted therefor; that means of escape be provided from the prompt side fly to the satisfaction of the Council; that additional exit accommodation be provided from all parts of the music hall to more nearly approximate to the standard now adopted by the Council; that the two lowest flights of the gallery stairs on the prompt side be reconstructed to the satisfaction of the Council; that all gas brackets be raised out of the headway; that the gangways and the spaces between the seating of the area be re-arranged in accordance with the regulations of the Council of July, 1901; that all gas taps, exit notices, and automatic fastenings be made to comply with the Council's regulations.

That such notice do specify three months as the time within which the works are to be commenced, and six months as the time within which they are to be completed.

SHAFTESBURY THEATRE.

The Committee reported that they had had before them a drawing submitted by Mr. A. Blomfield Jackson, showing how it is proposed to comply with a requirement made by the Council for the provision of increased headway over the steps from the amphitheatre seating to the corridor at the Shaftesbury Theatre, and recommended that Mr. Jackson be informed that the Council has no objection to the arrangements shown on the drawing submitted by him.

Agreed to.

AN APPEAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—My late friend and partner, Mr. James Clarence, who passed away on Sunday, April 20, left a widow and two children in need of assistance.

Any subscription to this deserving case will be gratefully acknowledged by Mrs. Clarence, 3, Adventure-place, Hanley, Staffs. Trusting that the many friends of "Poor Jim" will give what little assistance they can.—Yours faithfully,

JOE BELL.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

The very full report we were able to give last week of the proceedings of the Private Bills Committee of the House of Commons dealing with the Middlesex County Bill must have been of great interest to our showmen readers. There are, however, several points of great importance that we were not able to deal with last week, for the very good reason that the final revision of the clause in the Bill that the showmen objected to was not completed until Friday afternoon.

The discussion of the clause, apart from the agreement between the Showmen's Guild and the County Council, opened up many points of serious consideration for showmen. To begin with, it is gratifying to notice the entirely different standing allowed to showmen now compared with their position ten years ago. As recently as eight years back neither the Home Office nor the Local Government Board would consider the trade claims of travelling showmen as being separate and apart from the interests of travelling gipsies. All this is now changed, and the work of the past ten years has been to build up a series of precedents by the Parliamentary action of the Guild, and these precedents are recognised by both the Home Office and the Local Government Board as governing all possible legislation.

It is extremely interesting to find the officials of the Home Office and the L.G.B. calling attention of the Private Bills Committee to former decisions affecting the interests of showmen. It came out in the course of the discussion of the Middlesex County Bill that the Home Secretary for several years past had refused to sanction drastic by-laws against van and tent dwellers, because the showmen had met such proposals in Private Bills with successful opposition, and the Home Office refused to grant sanction to by-law proposals that had been thrown out by the Private Bills Committee.

This altered mind of the Home Office is seen in the fact that prior to 1903 no fewer than ten local authorities in the county of Middlesex had obtained sanction to extremely drastic and oppressive by-laws submitted by them for approval to the Home Secretary.

It was used as an argument by the Counsel acting for the County Council that the additional powers their Bill sought to obtain had been already granted by the Home Office to ten local bodies within the county area.

The answer of the Home Office official was clear and conclusive. He said "that the Home Secretary had refused all such applications made to him for several years past; in fact, ever since they had been opposed by the organised showmen."

It appears to be quite a settled policy now of both the Home Office and the Local Government Board to oppose all such drastic regulations as those submitted by the Middlesex County Council, on the broad humanitarian principle that even the poor gipsy has a certain right to live out his own life, and to claim the protection of the law afforded to every British subject.

This, of course, is entirely separate and apart from the admittedly unanswerable case of the travelling showman. To quote the words of the chairman of the Committee, "even the poor gipsy has a right to live, and is, however strange it may seem to some people, not only a fellow-creature, but also a fellow-subject of the King."

It did one good to hear a pronouncement of such even-handed justice in the high places of authority, but it must never be forgotten that the entirely altered frame of mind and the condition of public opinion is owing to the unceasing work of the Showmen's Guild.

For sixteen years past this work of instructing and guiding public opinion along right lines has been carried on by the Guild executive officials, and the altogether satisfactory results of the discussion in the Committee Room in the House of Commons is owing to the consistent and persistent manner in which the work of educating public opinion has been carried on.

Even the poor gipsy is not now without friends, for the proposals of the Middlesex County Council, as affecting gipsy encampments, have been considerably modified, and instead of being practically prohibitory, have been made humane and reasonable, whilst taking every care for public health.

If the proposals of the County Council had been carried through as originally introduced, it would have been practically impossible for the poor gipsy to set up his tent or to peddle his wares in the county of Middlesex. This, upon broadly humanitarian grounds, is altogether satisfactory, but our object is to emphasise the fact that but for the eminently successful Parliamentary work of the showmen this protection and consideration for the gipsy would not have been afforded. Of course, it is not our purpose either to minimise the danger to public health or to extenuate the free foraging proclivities of the worst kind of gipsies; we recognise that these are matters well within the purview of Local Government.

We do object to by-laws being passed for the purpose of securing public health when endangered by insanitary gipsy encampments being used by local bodies to drive out showmen and to stop local fairs within their borders.

We have already alluded to the fact that, before the work of opposing these regulations was undertaken by the Showmen's Guild, ten local authorities within the county of Middlesex had obtained by-laws of a drastic and prohibitory nature against gipsies, and we are told by local showmen that in every one of these areas the by-laws have been used to prevent their business being carried on, and to stop local fairs. The injustice of this is manifest, and the great misfortune is that, having once obtained these powers, it is practically impossible to get them rescinded.

The result is that in ten of the districts in the county of Middlesex the old bad law still remains, but in the rest of the county the new conditions will be the law under which shows, roundabouts, and stalls trading at fairs will be exempt from the restrictions sought to be imposed upon gipsy and squatter encampments.

Of course, the most important advantage obtained by showmen in their opposition to the Middlesex County Council Bill is the embodiment in an Act of Parliament of an exemption clause to the effect that the penalties imposed by the Act and intended to apply to gipsies shall not apply to any showman, roundabout proprietor, or stallholder, and, further, that no landowner letting ground for a fair or for private show business is to be subject to the penalties imposed by the Act.

There is, however, another very great advantage, and one that in our opinion marks the beginning of the better mind of Parliament towards the show business, and that is that in the amended clause the word "annoyance" is struck out and the word "disturbance" is coupled with "injury," so that in any action taken under the Act injury as well as disturbance must be proved by the complainants.

The striking out of the word "annoyance" as a penal offence is a tremendous step in advance. The chairman of the Committee very wisely remarked that "annoyance" was a very illusory and misleading word, and ought not to be made subject to special penalties. The very sight of a van or a tent might be an "annoyance" to some fastidious person, but he did not think that such person ought to have the power to penalise people simply and only because he felt annoyed; he was strongly of opinion that injury to public health ought to be the only reason for putting the by-law into operation.

PRINCIPAL agricultural shows and cattle fairs for June:—Edinburgh, Darlington, Driffield, St. Ives (Hunts.), and Sleaford, on the 4th; Huntingdon, Nottingham, Alford, Melton Mowbray, Newark, Thurles, on the 5th; Shrewsbury, Kettering, Clonmel, East Ilsey, Leek (Staffs.), and Royston, on the 6th; Ipswich and Ripon, on the 7th; Derby, on the 8th; Stow Bridge, on the 9th; Ingham (near Stalham) and Oakham, on the 11th; Stow Green, Bromsgrove, and Portsmouth, on the 12th; Appleby, Morpeth, Drogheda, Whittlesea, Redruth, Scotstown, Brentwood, and Leicester, on the 13th; Chester and St. Neots, on the 14th; Richmond (Surrey), on the 15th; Bradford, Stamford, and Boroughbridge (Yorks.), on the 18th; Northampton, on the 19th; Harleston and Maidstone, on the 20th; Horncastle and Aldborough, on the 21st; Macclesfield, on the 22nd; Farnham (Surrey), on the 23rd; Cambridge (Butt's Green), Halifax, and Rugby, on the 25th; Boughton Green (Northants) and Spalding, on the 26th; Blandford and Clones, on the 28th; and Yeovil, on the 29th.

THE fairs ahead for next week are:—Amersham, Appleby, Biggleswade, Birkenhead, Blockley, Brierfield, Cartmel, Castleford Feast, Cheltenham, Clevedon, Cockermouth, Coltishall, Dalton-in-Furness, Doncaster, Evesham, Flyford, Garston, Great Harwood, Helston, Hinckley, Horbury Fair, Jarrow-on-Tyne, Kenilworth, Lichfield, Malvern, Morecambe, Nantwich, New Brighton, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Newmarket, Normanton Feast, Northampton, Norwich, Oundle, Oulton Feast, Portsmouth, Preston, Reigate, Richmond (Surrey), Rushden, Ryde, Salford (Trinity Market), Southport, South Shields, Hampstead Heath, Wormwood Scrubs, Blackheath, and Wanstead Flats, Stafford, St. Ives (Hunts.), Taunton, Thornaby, Torksey, Tunbridge Wells, York Fair, Alford, Bognor, Camborne (Cornwall), Cambourne, Fakenham, Halesworth, Hitchin, Leighton Buzzard, Long Milford, Longton, Melton Mowbray, Methley Feast, Penrith, Sheffield Summer Fair, Askham-in-Furness, Barnard Castle, Barrow-in-Furness, Bedworth, Bolton, Broadway (Worcester), Broughton-in-Furness, Chislehurst, Truro, Workington, Adwalton Feast, Bacup, Bingham, Birmingham, Buckingham, Ely, Southrapps, Tiverton, Ulverstone, Chipping Camden, Deptford, Derby, Haslingden, Ashford (Derby), Brackenfield, Grimesthorpe, Kendal, Keswick, Mickleton, Prescot, Richmond (Yorks.), Snowshill, and Wooley.

IN Wales we have Flint, Mold, Newport (Mon.), Denbigh, Cardiff, Merthyr Tydvil, Llandovery, and Treorchy.

FOLLOWING the fair at Hereford, there was a capital gathering of fair-ground novelties at Pembridge Fair. The principal roundabout concerns, consisting of gondolas, galloping horses, and steam horses, were exhibited by the Studts, Hill and Sons, and Strickland. Baker's well-known circus and Colborne's cinématograph theatre were the shows. There were the usual large variety of fair-ground novelties, throwing games, swings, rifle saloons, pannum and toy stalls.

AT Craven Arms, for the fair on May 25, were Mander's menagerie, Chipperfield's circus, and the annexe, Chipperfield's cinématograph. Wright's fine art gallery, Buckley's exhibition, Manders' boxers and athletes, and Manders' novelty booth. The machine list included Marshall Hill's gondola set, Mrs. Shepherd's switchback, Herbert's steam horses and steam swings, Gottheimer's galloping horses, steam yachts, and big boats, Marshall's steam ships in the air, Taylor's and Dobson's steam swings, Hill's big boats, and park swings and high fliers by Humphries, Taylor, and Dobson. The shooting concerns, in great variety, were provided by Messrs. Wright, Herbert, Turner, Dobson, and Taylor. Throwing games, cokersheets, and varieties, by Messrs. Cartwright, Dobson, Herbert, Taylor, and Humphries

THE enterprising Tom Norman is booming his remarkable troupe of Dahomey warriors. He has opened at the Marseilles Exhibition with a troupe of these African braves, and good business is confidently anticipated.

WITH another section of the Dahomey warriors, under the management of Mr. B. T. Burnett, successful business is being done at the Lecture Hall, High-street, Deptford.

WEST'S EXHIBITION of Animated Pictures, illustrating scenes in the life of our Army and our Navy, both at home and abroad, is attracting large audiences to the Theatre Royal and Opera House, Merthyr Tydfil, this week. The pictures are both instructive and amusing, and have been much appreciated.

ON Friday, May 25, John Sanger and Sons', Ltd., circus visited Bath, but inclement weather greatly interfered with its usual success. The outdoor procession had to be abandoned on account of the rain.

LLANELLY GREAT FAIR was held at the end of last week, and, despite the bad weather, was well attended. The array of shows and stall-holders, &c., was greater than ever. Messrs. H. Studt and Son had, in addition to their great Venetian gondolas and gallopers, their new machine, the motor-cars, which created quite a sensation. Haggar and Sons' electric bioscope was, as usual, to the front, and a very fine front it is, too. Wadbrook's electrograph, with its strong outside parade and Miss Russell's charming songs, is most successful. Baker's Circus, Prince Samonda's Temple of Mystery, and Testo's Marionettes and Cinematograph, a very interesting exhibition, complete the list of shows. North's, Boswell's, Day's, Evens', Jones', Danter's, and numerous other shooters, cokernut shies, and mollies filled up the field completely.

WE regret to learn that Mr. H. Studt, sen., has been, and is still, very ill, but is, we are told, on the road to recovery. We wish him a speedy restoration to his usual health.

SEDGWICK'S Great American Menagerie has paid a very successful visit to the Recreation Ground, Redditch. Some excellent performances were given by Alphonzo, a daring lion tamer, who entered a cage containing the untamable forest-bred lion Spitfire; Lorenzo and the educated lions; Aralgo, with educated bears and wolves; Rosina, with performing Siberian wolves, and serpentine dance in a cage of lions; and a performing elephant and tug-of-war contest, elephant v. forty local men.

AT Bromsgrove Sedgwick's American Menagerie is giving high-class performances.

MR. SAMUEL SHEPHERD, with his Newmarket galloping horses and grand orchestrion, park swings, shooting saloons, and cokernut gardens, are among the attractions at the Priory Field, Studley, this week.

AT Alvechurch, Birmingham, this week, are Herbert's roundabouts, park swings, bottle battery, cokernut sheels, &c.

STORIES OF SHOWMAN LIFE.

A SECRET WITNESS.

(Copyright.)

The story of Peter Piper, and the strategem by which he outwitted the burglars at Cardiff, recalls the story of a yet more remarkable dwarf, Ivan Yanowski. To the student of the ingenious and marvellous, Yanowski is better known as the living agent who supplied the brains to the celebrated automaton, the Mechanical Chessman.

The automaton chessman was for many years an inscrutable mystery, perplexing the greatest mechanical experts and astounding mathematicians and astute chess-players by the superhuman skill he displayed even when matched against the best brains of Europe. This wonderful figure was exhibited in all the great capitals—London, Paris, Berlin, Budapesth, Vienna, and St. Petersburg—and all alike went mad over the inscrutable mystery of this supernatural figure.

Of course it was not until after the death of the remarkable dwarf Ivan Yanowski that the secret of the motive power of the automaton leaked out, and when the reason for secrecy no longer existed, Professor Ventimore, the clever showman exhibitor of the doll, told many deeply-interesting stories of the wonderful ability and brain power of the dwarf Ivan.

Ventimore explained how he came into possession of the wonderful doll. "I was," he says, "at the celebrated gingerbread fair at Christmas-time in Paris exhibiting my troupe of life-size marionettes, and was doing fairly good business, when one day I received a mysteriously worded note, asking me to call upon a M. Yanowski, of the Rue St. Honore, to examine a mechanical doll which the writer of the letter had invented.

"I went to the place indicated, but instead of M. Yanowski I was received by a dear old lady, who introduced herself to me as the mother of the inventor of the doll; furthermore, she said that the inventor wished me to examine the automaton and test its powers to the full, and then to submit to her any proposals of a business nature I might have with regard to the hire of the machine."

As all the world knows, the machine was a figure nearly life-size on a pedestal, and before it just a little raised was placed a chessboard with a complete set of chessmen.

Chess had always been a favourite pastime of mine, and although not an expert player, I knew enough of the game to thoroughly test the mechanical possibilities of the figure. I was more than astounded. All my showman instincts were aroused, and forgetting all about my concern on the fairground, I stayed for many hours, and thoroughly examined the figure and the pedestal.

Then came the curious part of the matter, as a first preliminary to the engagement of the marvellous doll, I had to bind myself by a most solemn oath to keep inviolate the secret of its mechanism, which, as a matter of business, would have to be told to me. This of course I very readily undertook to do, and the most amazing development of all was when Madame Yanowski, screening the pedestal for a few minutes, withdrew the screen, and there, in front of the automaton, I saw the extraordinary freak of nature Ivan Yanowski, the brains and living motive-power of the mechanical chessman.

Ventimore, in that interesting brochure, "A Cosmopolitan Showman," tells the story of his wonderful tour through Europe with the automaton chessman, and more than once alludes to the extremely narrow escapes that the dwarf had in the eminently difficult work of keeping his existence a secret from all the world except his mother and Ventimore, the exhibitor.

The most remarkable of these adventures, and one that nearly led to the discovery of the dwarf, occurred in Vienna. They were exhibiting in the great hall of the Reich Platz, and were doing phenomenal business. So great was the curiosity of the crowd and so unscrupulous the methods of some of the investigators of the mystery, that Ventimore had to employ four of the city police to guard the cabinet containing the figure on its way to and from the hotel, to which after each performance the mysterious box and its exhibitor had to be conveyed.

Now, it chanced at the time there was great political ferment in the Austrian capital. A Prince of the Royal House had caused great anxiety to his Royal parents by certain escapades of an extremely dangerous though not political character. The racial difficulty in the Austrian Empire, the problem of reconciling the German, the Magyar, and the Czech, was even greater then than it is to-day. A consequence of this was that the political groups then hotly at war with one another, were ever ready to combine to throw opprobrium upon a member of the Royal House.

Prince Casper, the Royal youth in question, had fallen in love with a remarkably beautiful and charming lady, but unfortunately the lady was not of noble birth, hence the complications that led up to the grim tragedy of which Ivan the dwarf was the silent witness.

It had come to the knowledge of one of the extremist groups of politicians that the secret rendezvous of the Royal Prince and the lady of his ardent affections, was the very hotel in which Ventimore had taken up his residence. Ventimore's suite of rooms, four in number, adjoined the apartments of the Royal favourite and the so-called spare-room of the showman suite (the one that in reality domiciled the dwarf) was next door to the room occupied by the mysterious and charming lady.

Here, in fact, were two mysteries, the dwarf in one room, a mystery to all the world except his mother and the showman, and in the next room the beautiful lady who had won the heart of a Royal Prince, and was lying perdu, supposed to be only known to and accessible by her Royal lover. It was under these conditions as regards its scenario that the tragedy developed itself.

The dwarf's only chance of recreation was in the lonely watches of the night, and, amongst other things, Yanowski was a great reader; all the papers of the day had to be sent in for his perusal. He was also well in touch with the political thought of Europe, and took a keen interest in the struggle of the people for political freedom.

Without suspecting the intrigue of the Royal Prince and his beautiful inamorata next door, he had read of the grave condition of affairs at the Austrian capital, and was therefore able to give an intelligent appreciation to the eminently serious problem in which he played so great a part. In the first place, his suspicions were aroused by the use made of his room by the conspirators, who evidently knew that the apartment was supposed to be a mere boxroom for the showman's fit-up. To this chamber the conspirators came to perfect their schemes for the abduction of the Prince. This daring idea was to hold the favourite son of the King as hostage until their demands for political power were granted.

Here was the dwarf's dilemma. Unless Ventimore came to his room, and also came in the absence of the plotters, he was powerless. Time was evidently of the very essence of the scheme. They had made sure of Ventimore's absence (as he soon gathered from their conversation), and they also intended to wait in that room until the moment for the carrying out of their plans.

There he was, cribbed, cabined, and confined in the pedestal. How could he get word to the Prince or to the lady to warn them?

"Well," said Ivan, "I can do one thing. I can watch them, and fix their features so clearly upon my brain that I shall be able to picture the whole scene"

Carefully were the plans laid for the abduction.

"What of the woman?" said one of the conspirators.

There was a dead pause, and no one ventured a reply, save a significant observation from the leader, "We cannot allow a witness."

Then, to the immense relief of the dwarf, the word was given: "To the balcony; the Prince may be here in a moment."

As soon as the room was empty, out of his hiding-place came Ivan.

"What am I to do? How can I warn the Prince, and yet remain unseen?"

That was a tangle that even the quick brain of the great Yanowski could not unravel.

"I must act, but what am I to do?"

Then inspiration for the emergency came to him. He rushed to the writing-table, and hastily wrote these words:—"Prince, fly for your life, nay, for the sake of the lady you love, stay not, but fly. A plot against you by determined men.—A SILENT WITNESS."

This the dwarf, risking chance discovery, took and slipped carefully under the door of the next room. Back again into his own room, the dwarf set to work, and drew from memory a sketch of the scene he had witnessed—the plotters in conference. Each face was distinctly and cleverly drawn, so lifelike that, with its aid, identification of the conspirators would be quite easy. This he placed within the automaton, and for a few brief minutes, his clear mind all alert and ready for coming events, he waited.

"At last, at last," he murmured, as he heard the rapid step of the young Prince on the corridor. "I do hope he will not fail to see the warning note at his feet as he enters the room."

Two minutes of fateful silence, then the dwarf heard ominous sounds in the next room, a woman's voice in earnest entreaty—"Go, dear Casper, at once. It is a warning from a friend; take it."

"No," cried the young Prince, "let the cowards come. I am warned, that is enough, I am ready."

Then the conspirators made their rush, and with that the next step in the dwarf's counterplot. He rushed to the near end of the corridor, where the fire alarm bell was hung, and, seizing the rope, gave it tongue, and sped back again to his own room, only just in time to escape discovery.

Up the stairs came a crowd of the servants, and so quick was their advent that the conspirators had to fly, without taking with them their prize, the body of the young Prince, stricken down after heroic effort in the struggle with the overwhelming numbers against him.

It was a terrible sight that the horrified servants beheld in that ill-fated room. The unfortunate lady, in her brave effort to help and shield her Royal lover, had evidently provoked the fiendish rage of the conspirators. There her body lay, bearing the marks of the fierce struggle—done to death for the sake of the man she loved.

The police, in order to save a Royal scandal, quickly and secretly removed the Royal Prince to his own residence, where his wounds, of a somewhat serious nature, were attended to. This having been done, the police, acting under instructions from the King himself, proceeded to invent a sufficiently plausible reason to account for the tragedy at the hotel. In the careful examination of the room, undertaken by the police, the mysterious message penned by the dwarf was found, and this considerably amazed the authorities.

In the meanwhile, Ventimore had heard the whole story from the dwarf, and, urged by the brave little man to make some effort to bring the conspirators to justice, he took the sketch made by Ivan to the Chief of the Police, and, as the occasion was of sufficient moment to warrant the secret of the automaton being divulged, told the story as the dwarf had told it to him. With this clue to the mystery, the police were speedily upon the track of the conspirators, and the brave little dwarf had the satisfaction of knowing that the punishment their crime deserved was sternly meted out to them.

Ventimore, the showman, persuaded by the Chief Commissioner of Police, took the wonderful automaton, and, of course, its hidden brains, to the Royal Palace, and Ivan the dwarf was not only complimented by both King and Queen for his daring and original scheme to warn the young Prince of impending danger, but he had the further satisfaction of receiving the warm thanks of the Prince himself.

Of the further adventures of this remarkable freak I may have more to say; but as regards this episode the only thing that remains to be said is that one of the treasures that the dwarf preserved was a star set in brilliants, presented to him by the Queen Mother for his heroism in the terrible events centred round the tragedy of which he was the silent witness.

THE LATE JOHN DEE HUMPHREYS.

The letter from Mr. Arthur Reeve, published in our columns recently draws attention to the necessity for helping Mrs. Humphreys and her family. We strongly commend this most deserving case to the generosity of the showman world.

The many friends of the deceased, who was one of the founders of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, will, we are confident, now that they know the urgent necessity of the case, respond with readiness to this appeal.

During the whole course of a laborious and honourable career John Dee Humphreys was ever ready to assist his brother showmen. His open-handed generosity and unfailing kindness endeared him to a wide circle of friends and comrades in the circus and show world.

The object of the fund is to enable the widow and family to maintain their home until such time as the children are able to earn an income sufficient for that purpose.

WANTED, Artists in all Lines. Immediate Vacancies for smart young Soubrettes with voices, Ballad Vocalists, Single Comedy Musical Acts, Small Sketch Parties (two or three persons, with répertoire of at least Four Original Sketches), and good Drawing Novelties. Wanted, First-class Pianist; must be sight-reader, transposer, and arranger. Also competent Bioscope Operator, lime and electric. Terms:—Nine months' engagement, fares paid out and home, hotel and travelling paid, salaries therefore absolutely net. Salaries (or part) paid weekly by bankers in England if desired. Full salaries paid during voyage out and home. To leave London about September. Apply, lowest net salaries, photos., bill matter, and all particulars, to MANAGER, The Gardner-Brown Vaudeville Companies, c/o Messrs. Soundy and Co., Ltd., Agents, Bombay, India. Notice.—The Gardner-Brown Vaudeville Companies are a sound and firmly established concern, with 6 years' excellent reputation and success. As a specimen of our treatment of artists and their appreciation thereof, read the following, which speaks for itself:—Sisters Romaine, duettists and speciality dancers, engaged for eight months, will complete three years in July. Leo Montague, quaint comedian, came out on three months' engagement, made three re-engagements extending over a period of eighteen months, and re-engaged for still another year. George Gulliver, first engagement three months, second engagement one year. Other instances too numerous to mention. The Gardner-Brown Vaudeville Companies provide exceptional opportunities for young artists with talent who are unable, owing to the crowded state of the Profession at home, to get an opening in England. Make a reputation abroad, and managers will then be glad to offer you engagements at home.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual again makes its welcome appearance. I say welcome because, as a work of theatrical reference, it is always handy to have in the house—or office. In this connection I am glad to note that the lists of play-productions for the past year are given in better type and altogether in a much clearer manner. As of yore, there are sundry stories in prose and verse. The best of these include "Stage Superstitions," by Charles Warner; "Boy Bob at Sea," a poem by Louie Freear; "The Last Muster," a weird tragic military story, by Mr. Joseph Wilson, who has been a soldier himself; and "Nellie Bligh's Notices," a capital theatrical story, by Mr. Frank Desprez.—Referee, Jan. 28, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual (1s.) is, of course, issued by our premier theatrical journal, which, under the literary supervision of Mr. T. P. O'Connor, has recently improved an already strong position. The Annual is better than ever, and includes, besides details of all plays produced in London, the provinces, Paris, and Berlin, lists of all theatres and music halls in the United Kingdom, &c., many stories and sketches by and portraits of actors and actresses. It is a remarkable shillingsworth; useful and interesting to all playgoers and members of the profession alike.—Sunday Sun, Jan. 21, '06.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
EARLY TRAINS.
The Railway Companies are moving with the Times, and are despatching many morning trains earlier than hitherto. This will enable subscribers and advertisers in the provincial towns to get copies of "The Era" in time for the breakfast table. Advertisers are requested to forward their advertisements in time to reach the office on Thursday.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows:—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.

SIXPENNY SUCCESSES." CHAMPION "SONG-PLACERS" OF THE WORLD!

THIS SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.

17, Park Avenue, Dundee, May 28, 1906.

Dear Sirs,—Kindly excuse delay in answering you, but have been very busy. I received the songs you sent me all right.

Very pleased to say we opened out one of our Pierrot places Saturday last, and I made a very great success with "Bamboo Bungalow" and "Widow Doolin." I have worked outdoor entertainments for the last thirteen or fourteen seasons, but I cannot call to mind any songs that have caught on so enormously the first time of being introduced as these two have. During the evening's entertainment the great crowd of people insisted on breaking in with the choruses between the other items, and at the close everybody went walking away either singing or whistling "Bamboo Bungalow" or "Widow Doolin." I and other members of the company will be also introducing many other of your publications, but we cannot sing them all at once. Shall be pleased at any time to receive further publications from you, and we shall also be sending for 6d. Pops. in a day or two, as soon as we get our other places opened out. Faithfully yours,

(Signed) ARTHUR BRIGHT,

Manager for Mr. Montague, Dundee Pierrots, Kinfauns Castle (Steamboat) Pierrots, Perth Pierrots, Stonehaven Pierrots.

THE RAJAH'S CASKET. Code Word: "BREVETER."

The Rajah's Casket is very closely guarded, but a wizard manages to disappear with it. The Rajah summons another wizard, who, after showing a vision of the casket being taken through the air on the back of a dragon, leads the Rajah through the country and over the mountains to a cave where it has been carried. The Rajah here witnesses a series of beautiful scenes, the stalactites being transformed into gorgeously-dressed women who dance before him, and while they are dancing many beautiful changes are made in the colours of their dresses. The Rajah is so pleased at the recovery of the casket that he presents each of the dancers with a string of pearls. About 560ft.

A DETECTIVE'S TOUR ROUND THE WORLD.

The flight in disguise. The detective just misses the train. At the Suez Canal. Scenes on the banks. A narrow escape. Bankrupt drugs the detective's drink. False arrest of the detective. A festival in Calcutta. Brilliant procession of elephants &c. Bombay Pagoda. Close pursuit and another narrow escape on horseback. Chased on an elephant. In an opium-smokers' den. Visions of the bankrupt and his pursuer. In Yokohama. Missed by a hair's breadth. Flight to America. The detective is foiled again through getting mixed up with a procession of citizens advocating the election of President Roosevelt. The detective is captured by redskins, bound to a tree, and badly wounded. Rescue by the bankrupt. Pursuer and pursued are now close friends. The bankrupt saves the detective's life, and the latter tears up his warrant. Leaving New York. A friend in need. An unexpected partnership. About 1150ft.
The Subject, £28 15s. 0d.

APARTMENTS TO LET.

Lady and gentleman in search of apartments. The rival landladies. The right house at last. Viewing the rooms. Gentleman has the tail of his coat torn off by the door of Room No. 1. His wife will not listen to his tale of woe, but rushes him on, as she seems charmed with the apartments. A lovely outlook from the second room, but quite spoilt by a rug and flower-pot falling on old gentleman's silk hat. Examining the chimneys. A fall of soot. Encounter with the paperhanger. A seat in the paste. An involuntary shower-bath. Old gentleman, taking a last look out, falls out of window, but is luckily saved by a cart which is standing underneath. The couple are not so pleased with the rooms as they were, and walk off without further word to the landlady. About 230ft. The Subject, £5 15s. 0d.

THE TARGET.

The boy and the rifle. A shot at the candle. The willing helper. Breaking an egg with disastrous results to the boy underneath. A paper target is now made and pasted, and laid on a seat while the pot of paste is put away. Old gentleman sits on seat, and the target sticks to the seat of his trousers. Bending down to do a bit of gardening, he gives a full view of the target, and a boy scores a bull's-eye on it. Capture and punishment of the wrong scorer. About 164ft.
The Subject, £4 2s. 0d.

THE FIANCE'S BOUQUET.

A porter is hired to carry a bouquet, but on the way to his destination he unfortunately drops the bouquet in the road, where it is run over and quite spoilt. Wondering what he can do, his eye lights on a leg of pork, which strikes him as being the same shape as the bouquet. He steals this, with the assistance of a friend, and together they cover the pork with a few flowers, tie it up in paper, and duly present it at the lady's house. The pleasure of the lady and her father quickly changes to anger when they discover the make-up of the bouquet, and the poor lover has an unpleasant time. About 200ft.

No. 1049. THE KIDNAPPED CHILD.

A little girl bowling her hoop along is stopped by a man and woman of very rough appearance, and questioned as to where she lives. She points to a nice house just where they are all standing. The pair clear off, and the child goes on with her innocent play, little dreaming of the wicked designs her wretched questioners have in mind.

A very youthful farmer is seen to hastily come down the street, burdened with a huge package under his arm, just as the little child comes running in. After the usual greetings have passed between the happy family, the package is opened under the eyes of the little maid, who, with evident delight, seizes upon the contents—a lovely doll almost as big as herself. The mother, with that usual indulgence for an only child, in putting her to bed, allows her to have "dolly" with her.

The youngster is seen to fondle her treasure, and ultimately, unable to rest, gets out of bed, putting the doll in, and, after tucking it up, leaves the room, just as her mother had done to her so often. As the little girl departs, the window is thrown open, and the man who had stopped the child in the street enters the room. He approaches the bed, wraps what he supposes to be the child quickly up in the bed-clothes, and, going to the window, passes the bundle to the woman, who is outside on a ladder. She is first to discover that it is only a doll, and, in her rage, smashes it against the side of the ladder, and pitches her confederate into the dustbin.

The little girl, who had evidently gone down to fetch mamma to look at her "dear dolly," returns to find her treasure gone, and runs to her mother's side and cries bitterly with grief. The parent, suspecting somewhat of the truth of the matter, goes to the window, and realising what a narrow escape her dear one had, kisses her again and again in joy and thankfulness.

The conspirators, on the appearance of "a man in blue," tear off down the street, with the policeman following closely on their heels.

No. 1055. AN EPISODE OF THE DERBY.

A happy party drive to the Derby, mother, father, and their only child, a young and attractive girl. Arriving on the field the parents leave their child in the trap, with strict instructions not to move, but seeing her parents go off on a round of pleasure she leaves her safe position and runs to see what fun she can obtain, beside backing her favourite for the race. She gets her racing card, a full view of which with the number is given. As she runs along she is met by an old gipsy woman who is anxious to tell her fortune. The girl, only too delighted to listen, is led away by the woman to her caravan, where with the aid of a confederate she is forced to go in, change her clothes, and come out in rags and tatters. A young lad standing by is roughly pushed away by the man, who is seen to threaten the girl. He walks off, leaving her outside the caravan, where she is watched by his accomplices. The lad goes to the captive, and, looking round anxiously, offers his assistance to the almost despairing girl. At last with happy thought she produces her betting ticket and gives it to him, and he rushes off quickly with it to the Bookie. The parents meanwhile have been anxiously searching for their child after discovering the empty trap. They tear about the rings asking anyone and everyone for information, and going up to one of the Bookmakers they are just in time to meet the friendly youth who has brought the girl's ticket with all explanations. The frantic father and mother rush off after him to the caravan, and find their daughter being roughly handled by boys who are laughing and jeering at her.
